Chap. 29. On the 3d of June, 1778, a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Gray and Dana, of the House, and Mr. Josiah Stone, of the Council, was appointed "to consider of the laws restraining the sale of goods at vendue, and report what is proper to be done thereon." No report by this committee has been discovered, but on the 9th of October — the act of 1777-78, chapter 22, for reviving the act to prevent the selling of goods at public vendue, having expired, by its own limitation, on the 14th of September—a committee of the House, consisting of Messrs. Ward, Gorham and Parker, was appointed "to consider the expediency of suppressing vendues, and, if they think it expedient, to bring in a bill for that purpose."

On the 20th of January, 1779, a bill with the title of this chapter, and containing all its provisions except sections 2 and 3, and the clause in the fourth and fifth lines of section 1 prohibiting sales amounting to sales by auction (which clause was substituted for the words "excepting vessels with their appurtenances, and houses and lands," in the original draught) was read a first time.

This bill seems to have been reported by a committee consisting of Messrs. Gray, Sullivan, Barrell, Goodman and Wales, appointed January 9th, to bring in a bill "more effectually to prevent forestalling and regrating, and for suppressing vendues."

On the 21st, this bill was read a second time, and recommitted,—probably to be amended in the particulars above named,—and, on the 27th, it was passed to be enacted.

Chap. 30. As early as Dec. 4, 1775, a petition from the plantation of "Gardinerstown," praying to be incorporated into a township by the name of Hancock, was read in the House, and committed to Messrs. Thompson, Pettingale and Gates. Neither this petition nor a report of the committee above named has been found; but the next Assembly passed a resolve (June 20, 1776) empowering the committee of Gardinerstown "to act in their capacity, in all cases whatsoever, as though said town was incorporated."

On the 25th of February, 1778, the following petition was read, in the House, and committed to Messrs. Tobey, Woodbury and Snow: —

"To the Honorable Council and House of Reprisentatives of the State of Massachusetts-Bay

The Petition of a Number of the Freeholders and others Inhabitant of the Plantation now called Gerdinerston in the County of Lincoln within the State afore-Said, humbly sheweth,

That there is now more then fifty Families Settled within the Said Plantation called Gerdinerston who in their present Setuation Labour under many Difficultics, and are desirous of enjoying the Priviledges that will arise to them by being incorporated into a Town,

Your Petitioners therefore pray that they may be incorporated into a Town by the following Bounds. Viz. Beginning upon Kennebeck River at the North Line of the Town of Pownalborough, and to run an East South East Course on Said North Line five miles from Said River; from thence to run Northerly about Seven miles more or less to the South Easterly Corner of the Town of Hallowill; from thence to run west North West on the South Line of the Town of Hallowill to Said Kennebeck River, and across the River on said Line, and also running from Said River a west North west Course on the Said South Line of Hallowill, five miles on the west Side of Said Kennebeck River, from thence to run Southerly, a Course as that it may Strick the Southwesterly Corner of the North Line of the Town of Bowdoinham, and from thence to run an East South East Course, on the Said North Line of Bowdoinham to Said Kennebeck River, from thence up the River on the west Side to Lott Nº. 10 belonging to Willm Bowdoin Esqr Hirs then acros the River to the Bounds first mentioned; and that they may be invested with all the Powers Privilidges and Immunities which the Inhabitants of any of the Towns within this State respectively do or by Law ought to enjoy. and whereas a Tax has lately been laid upon the Inhabitants of Said Plantation, which your Petitioners humbly conceive is more than their just Proportion and which they are unable at present to pay; and have no proper officers in Said Plantation to assess or collect the Same; neither have they any authorcty to choose any; they therefore Pray that your Honurs would take the Same into Consideration, and abate Such a part thereof as to your Honurs Shall See meet, and your Pitioners as in Duty bound Shall ever pray &c.

On the 5th of March, the committee last named reported that the prayer of the above petition be so far granted as that they have leave to bring in a bill for the purpose set forth in the petition. Nothing further, however, seems to have been done in this business by the petitioners or the Legislature until the 12th of January, 1779, when a bill for incorporating Gardinerstown was read, in the House, a first time. The name proposed for the town, in this bill, was "Randolph," and the boundaries given therein differed from those in the act, in the following particulars; viz., beginning after the word "River" in the seventh line of the first section of the act, the description of the territory proceeded thus: — "and across the River on Said line, and also running from Said River, a west north west course, on Said South line of Hallowell, five miles, on the west Side of Said Kennebeck River from thence to run Southerly to the Northwesterly corner of the Town of Bowdoinham, and from thence, to run an East South East course on Said North line of Bowdoinham to Said Kennebeck River, from thence, up the River on the west side, to lott Nº 10, belonging to the heirs of Willm Bowdoin Esqr then across the River to the bounds first mentioned." — Ibid.

The last three sections of the act, and the preamble to section 3, were not in this bill, which had its two subsequent readings on the 13th and 15th, respectively, and on the latter day it was passed to be engrossed and sent up to the Council, for concurrence. On the 23d, the Council passed it, in concurrence, to be engrossed, "as taken into a new draft."

This new draught was in the form of the present chapter, and, on the 29th, the House concurred in this vote of the Council, and on the 4th of February the bill was passed to be enacted.

Chap. 31. The result of the conference of committees of the New-England states and the state of New York, which was held at Springfield July 30, 1777, was a recommendation to the several legislatures to repeal all clauses of acts for preventing monopoly and oppression so far as they related to establishing the market price of commodities (see note to 1777–78, chap. 6, ante). Although public opinion in Massachusetts was divided on the question of the expediency of attempting to establish a schedule of prices by act of the Legislature, the prevailing sentiment coincided with this result of the Springfield convention, and the Assembly went no further than to make the provision for relief of the families of non-commissioned officers and privates, in the state quota of soldiers in the Continental Army, which is embodied in the resolves of October 10th, of that year.

The prices of all commodities continuing to increase as the currency depreciated, the Continental Congress, by the following resolve, attempted to apply on a larger scale the remedy which the New-England states and New York had found ineffectual, both in their domestic trade and in their commercial intercourse: —

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislatures, or in their recess to the executive powers, of the respective states of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay, Rhode-Island and Providence plantations, Connecticut, New-York, New-Jersey, Pennsylvania and Delaware, respectively, to appoint commissioners to convene at New-Haven in Connecticut, on the 15th day of January next; and to the states of Virginia, Maryland and North-Carolina, respectively, to appoint commissioners to convene at Fredericksburgh in Virginia, on the said 15th day of January; and to the states of South-Carolina and Georgia, respectively, to appoint commissioners to convene at Charlestown on the 15th day of February next; in order to regulate and ascertain the price of labour, manufactures, internal produce, and commodities imported from foreign parts, military stores excepted; and also to regulate the charges of inn-holders: and that on the report of the commissioners, each of the respective legislatures enact suitable laws, as well for enforcing the observance of such of the regulations as they shall ratify, and enabling such innholders to obtain the necessary supplies, as to authorise the purchasing commissaries for the army or any other person whom the legislatures may think proper, to take from any engrossers, forestallers or other person possessed of a larger quantity of any such commodities or provisions than shall be competent for the private annual consumption of their families, and who shall refuse to sell the surplus at the prices to be ascertained as aforesaid, paying only such price for the same." — Journals of Congress: Nov. 22, 1777.

Notwithstanding the experience of Massachusetts, these resolves of the Continental Congress were duly considered by a joint committee of the Assembly, appointed for that purpose on the 8th of January, 1778, and consisting of Messrs. Gray, Wetmore and Sumner, of the House, and Spooner and Hopkins, of the Council. This committee the next day reported, as their opinion, that "three gentlemen be now appointed by this court, to meet in convention at New Haven, agreeable to said resolution of Congress, and that they be instructed by this court when chosen," which report was adopted, and Messrs. Thomas Cushing, Robert Treat Paine and John Pickering were chosen by the joint vote of both branches. On the 10th, Mr. Pickering having resigned the office, Mr. Elisha Porter was chosen in his stead. Meanwhile Messrs. Davis and Greenough, of the House, and Benjamin Greenleaf, of the Council, were appointed a committee to prepare a draught of instructions to the commissioners, which was reported on the 12th, and accepted by the Council; but the House nonconcurring, this draught was ordered to be recommitted, and the committee was enlarged by the addition of Messrs. Washburn and Wood, from the House, and Walter Spooner and Daniel Davis, from the Council. Col. Leonard was also appointed by the House, in the place of Caleb Davis who was absent.

The committee thus reconstituted reported, on the same day, that they had "carefully revised the draft of instructions accompanying this order, and, being unanimously of the opinion they cannot alter them for the better, take leave to present them without any alteration." This draught was, therefore, adopted, and a vote was passed requesting the president of the Council "to sign three fair copies of the same in the name of the General Assembly." The following are the instructions thus prepared: —

"To The Hon^{ble} Thomas Cushing Robert Treat Paine & Elisha Porter Esquires —
Gentlemen

Reposing special Trust & Confidence in your Wisdom Prudence & Fidelity, We have in pursuance of a Resolve of the Hon^{ble} Continental Congress passd the 22^{d} of Nov^{r} last appointed you Commissioners, And do accordingly authorise you or any two of you to meet the Commissioners from the States of New Hampshire Rhode Island & Providence Plantations, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania & Delaware, at New Haven on the 15th day of this Instant January, and with them or a majority of them deliberate upon and devise the most prudent & effectual measures possible for the promoting those valuable purposes mentiond by the Hon^{ble} Congress and which not only they but all good men most earnestly desire, namely, that our Army may be furnishd with sutable cloathing & other Necessaries, and have the satisfaction of feeling that full Justice is done to them & their families, from whence we may hope for the most happy Consequences — That all Monopolisers, Oppressors, Sharpers, Forestallers & Extortioners may be discountenanced & suppress'd, that so it may no longer be in their power to distress the Public or destroy a great part of the Individuals that compose it — And you will carefully attend to everything that may have a Tendency to promote the Wellfare & happiness of the whole & of every part of the Community, which from the nature of your Appointment is proper for your Consideration — You will make return of your doings as soon as it can be done with Conveniency." — Mass. Archives, vol. 142, p. 123.

The commissioners from Massachusetts reported to the Assembly, on the 9th of February, in the form of a journal of the doings of the commissioners from all the states mentioned except Delaware, which was not represented. This journal shows that the commissioners from New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, and Connecticut, assembled on the day appointed, and continued their meetings, by adjournment, until the 20th, when, being joined by all the commissioners from Massachusetts, and a quorum of the delegates from New York and New Jersey, they proceeded to business, and chose Thomas Cushing, president, and Henry Daggett of New Haven, secretary, and, after filing their credentials, that they adjourned to the 21st, when they were joined by the commissioners from Pennsylvania. On the 22d, they resolved that in determining all questions, the votes should be taken by states — each state giving one vote. On the 23d, the question "whether this convention will take measures for regulating the price of labor, &c., in pursuance of a resolution of Congress of the 22d of November last" was decided in the affirmative. On the 28th, Roger Sherman, Robert Treat Paine, Nathaniel Peabody and Benjamin Huntington were appointed a committee "to draw up a report of the doings of the convention," and the next day Thomas Cushing, William Denning and John Cleves Simmes were appointed a committee "to draught a letter to the Hon. Continental Congress, relative to the proceedings of this convention." On the 30th, the draught of the report was presented and discussed, "paragraph by paragraph," and approved by the convention.

The report which follows the minutes of proceedings in this journal begins with a long preamble in which the commissioners say that they have met "in pursuance of the requisition of Congress, and while attending to the injunctions of their commissions they have not been insensible of the principles upon which an opposition to the regulation of prices, by law, is founded"; that it is evident that those principles had been "fully considered by the Grand Council of America, that they viewed the reducing the quantity of circulating medium, by stopping the currency of the bills of the particular states, and supporting future expenses by taxation and loaning, as the essential remedy and as what, in time, must work the desired effect, * * * but that our present exigencies require an immediate reduction of prices, which, though by those who are actuated by no better principle than contracted self love, may be considered as infringing the principles of trade and liberty, is nevertheless a salutary measure in connection with the others, and practised by all the states." The report concluded with the following resolves: —

A draught of a letter to Congress was also reported and approved, and ordered to be signed by the president of the convention, as follows: —

"New Haven, Janʸ 30 1778

Sir The Commissioners appointed,by the several States of New Hampshire, Massachusetts Bay, Rhode Island, & Providence plantations Connecticut, New York, New Jersey & Pensylvania in pursuance of a resolution of the Honˡ Congress of the 22ᵈ of Novemʳ last have convened at New Haven in Connecticut and proceeded upon the Business assigned them of regulating the price of Labour &c We now enclose a Copy of our proceedings, the Congress must be sensible that it is almost impossible to fix the price of Labour Produce & foreign Commodities in such a manner as to give satisfaction to the many persons interested, hence must arise great jealousies, disputes and Contentions, and there will be great danger that the end & design of such a measure will be frustrated unless the other measures recommended by Congress are adopted we are therefore sincerely Glad that Congress have accompanied the resolution above referred to, with sundry others which if complied with must produce the happiest Effects particularly that Congress have thought it necessary that the Quantity of money in Circulation should be reduced & for this purpose have recommended to the United States to effect this salutary & necessary measure by Taxation by refraining from any further Emissions of Bills of Credit & by calling in by Loan or Taxes & cancelling the paper money they have already emitted, Permit us to express our Sentiments upon this occasion that unless these three last Measures are strictly complied with & Vigorously carried into Execution the regulation of the prices of Labour produce & marchandize will be fruitless, it will be to no purpose, in short it will be impossible to carry it into execution no truth being more evident, as the Congress justly observes, than that where the quantity of money of any denomination exceeds what is usefull for a medium of commerce, its comparative Value must be proportionably reduced, consequently the price of Goods must proportionably rise, & in Case Government under such circumstances and when the Medium of Trade is in such a fluctuating situation should, without taking any other measures to give stability to the medium, fix the prices of Goods, the People would Justly complain, as in effect it would be obliging them to sell their produce & Merchandize for less than the real Value, Our proceedings therefore in regulating Prices are founded on a full dependance that the other measures aforesaid will be immediately complied with by the several States & we beg leave to submit it to the Consideration of Congress whether it will not be necessary for this purpose to renew & enforce their recommendations to the United states to exert themselves immediately to stop the currency of all the paper bills emitted by them respectively & which are not upon interest & to redeem them by giving treasurers notes upon Interest & by Taxes, to refrain from making any further Emissions & by Taxation to reduce the quantity of Continental Bills as fast as possible — We beg leave to observe that in the Course of our deliberations we have found ourselves under the necessity of deviating from the Letter of the fth resolve of Congress of the 22ᵈ of Novʳ last by excepting out of the regulation Certain articles of foreign produce, Our reasons are as follows —

The Charge & risk of importing them is so great, various, & uncertain, as to render it very difficult to fix their prices & tho' it appeared to Congress that Military stores only should be excepted, yet many of those articles we have excepted being absolutely necessary for the Army, such indeed as the Army cannotˢ possibly do without, and as some few others of them are so necessary for the good people of these States, that in order the better to reconcile them to the regulations we have recommended we thought it indispensably necessary that every encouragement should be given & every impediment to the importation of them removed & we hope it will meet with your approbation —

Permit us to mention that the Convention have been informed of some abuses in the departments of the Commissary Quarter Master & Forage Masters, many deputies being despersed throughout the Country, It has been suggested that they are idly interfering with each other in purchases, One bidding on the other, & by no means so industrious and careful in securing and saving from waste the articles purchased as they ought to be —

Before we conclude we beg leave to mention that the public have never yet been notified when the Continental Bills are to be redeemed, except the two first emissions, their being at an uncertainty about this matter has been complained of as having a tendency to lessen the Credit of the bills, whereas if they were to be ascertained when they were to be redeemed, especialy if it was at a short Period it would give them a confidence in the money and greatly tend to establish its Currency — In the name & by order of the Convention — I am Your most Obedᵗ Humˡᵉ Servᵗ,

THOMAS CUSHING Presᵗ.

The Honˡᵉ Henry Laurens Esqʳ" — Ibid., p. 72.

The state of Delaware, which had not been represented in this convention, was notified of its doings by a copy of the proceedings which was ordered to be sent to the speaker of the house of representatives of that state, together with a letter from the president of the convention from which the following is an extract: —

"The Commissioners have directed me to transmit you a Copy of their proceedings which I now enclose they have omitted to regulate the prices of Labour &c in your State but doubt not from your zealous attachment to the Common Cause that similar measures will be immediately adopted by you — I am with sentiment of respect Sʳ your most Humˡ Servᵗ." — Ibid., p. 77.

From the time the journal or report was brought down to the House, until the 5th of March, when it was referred to a joint committee of the whole Assembly, the consideration of it was many times assigned to a particular time and as often postponed. On the 6th of March, a memorial was received from "Isaac Smith and a number of others, merchants in the town of Boston and other places, praying, that before the court proceeds to pass any law to establish the prices of any kind of goods imported from abroad, they be heard by their committees on the floor of the House" — and referred to the committee of the whole; and on the 7th, this committee reported "that it is expedient to appoint a committee to bring in a bill for regulating the prices for labor, produce, &c., &c., &c." This report was assigned to the 10th, for consideration, when it was accepted, and a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Stone, Lovell, Wadsworth, Singletary and Thomas, of the House, and Thomas Cushing and Joseph Palmer, of the Council, was appointed to bring in a bill accordingly.

A report by this committee was prevented by the prorogation of the General Court on the 13th, by reason of the prevalence of the small-pox in Boston.

The subject was renewed on the second day of the next session (which began at Roxbury, April 1, 1778), by the reading, in the House, of the following memorial: —

"To the Hon^{ble} Council & House of Representatives for the State of Massachusetts Bay in General Court assembled—

The Memorial of the Inhabitants of the town of Boston, Humbly sheweth—

That their distresses are great, on account of the very exorbitant price of every necessary of life from the Country; that altho' the charge of raising the produce of the Land, is but a little greater on any account than heretofore, nor so great with respect to the principal article labour, if we advert to the general Custom the farmer has been in, of paying one bushel of Corn for a days Work whereas now the nominal sum is 18/. LM^{y}, yet three pecks of corn will pay it; & altho' the blessing of Heaven has produced an unusual abundance yet they are pain'd to observe, they are Obliged to give eight times as much for their provisions, as they formerly were, & considering the sacrifice they have made, of their trade & substance to the general good but which can easily be proved to have opperated Hitherto intirely for the good of the land holder, they are constrained to say this cruel conduct is without a parallel in the history of Mankind, —

Your Memorialists would by no means extend this at large to the Country indiscriminately as there are some instances of brotherly kindness happy for this Town, were they more common.

Your Memorialists are sure their uncommon sufferings, are greatly increased by the more than brutal Conduct of those Wretches within a few miles of this Capital known in the Odious Character of Forestallers, who lost to the feelings of humanity, purchase from those at a distance & retail it out to these unhappy distrest Inhabitants at a price suiting to their unfeeling hearts, & many of them add insult to their Extortion.—

Your Memorialists apprehensive 'twill be impossible for them to submit unless a stop is put to so merciless & destructive a practice, Pray your Honours that an effectual Law may be enacted against this Species of Wretches & the Town thereby receive some alleviation to their particular distress. —

In behalf of the Town—

This memorial was forthwith committed to Messrs. Sumner, Wales and Hancock, "to consider the matter at large."

On the 4th, the House assigned the next Tuesday morning (the 7th), for choosing "a committee to bring in a bill for regulating the prices of labor, manufactures, internal produce and commodities imported from foreign parts," when the subject was postponed to the 10th, at which time the House passed an order for the appointment of a joint committee for this purpose, consisting of Messrs. Peck, Ely, Crane, Lovell and Guild, of the House, with such as the Council should join; but the Council nonconcurred in the order. On the 11th, a committee of conference was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Peck, Bliss, Goodman, Hosmer and Wetmore, of the House, and Powell, Ward, Fisher, White and Austin, of the Council.

The House passed an order, on the same day, for the appointment of a joint committee to bring in a bill "for regulating the price of labor, &c.," in which the Council concurred, with an amendment, inserting after the word "regulating," the following: "and stipulating the prices at which all such articles and stores necessary for the supply of the officers and soldiers belonging to the Continental regiments, raised in this state, shall be delivered and sold to said officers and soldiers in camp" instead of the words in the order. This proposed amendment was rejected by the House, whereupon the two branches voted to adhere to their former votes, respectively. The vote of the Council signifying its nonconcurrence with the vote of the House rejecting the amendment was communicated to the House, on the 17th, by message.

On the 23d, a bill "to regulate the prices of labor, produce, manufactures and commodities within this state," was read a first time, in the House, and on the next day it was read a second time and referred to a joint committee consisting of Messrs. Bliss, Goodman and Stone, of the House, and Oliver Prescott and Abraham Fuller, of the Council. The report of this committee being read in the Council and sent down on the same day (the 24th), was read in the House, and accepted, as follows: —

"The Com^{tee} of both Houses upon the regulating Bill have Considered the same and are of the opinion that as the measure hath been Recommended by the Hon^{le} Congress and adopted by Some other of the united States, it is most prudent for this State to Comply with the Same, and that the Bill Should take place on the 10th of June next.

The Council thereupon nonconcurred, and voted that the report be recommitted, in which vote the House concurred, and the committee again reported, on the 25th, as follows: —

"The Committee of both Houses appointed to consider of a Regulating Bill have attended that Service and after deliberating upon the matter are humbly of Opinion that as the people in General are so devided in their sentiments upon this subject, that it will be impracticable to carry such an Act into Execution, & are apprehensive if it should be attempted would at present be attended with the most fatal Consequence beg leave therefore to report the annexed draft of a Letter to Congress giving the reasons that prevailed with the Assembly to refrain from passing such an Act and further Report that a Copy of the same should be transmitted to the several States who sent Commissioners to New-Haven in January last— OLIVER PRESCOTT pr_ Order." — Ibid., p. 297.

This report having been accepted in the Council, with the following order thereon; viz., "Ordered that the President of the Council be and he hereby is desired to sign said letter and transmit the same to the Honorable President of the Congress," was sent down to the House, together with the original draught of the letter referred to. The House now assigned the afternoon of the 25th, for the consideration of this report, when, after debate, they voted that a letter be sent to Congress, "agreeable to said report," and thereupon committed the report to Messrs. Stone, Partridge and Perry, for the purpose of having it amended. On the 27th, this committee reported, and thereupon the vote of the Council ordering the letter to be signed and transmitted was concurred in, by the House, "as taken into a new draught." In this vote of the House the Council concurred, and the letter was adopted in the following form, and transmitted to Henry Laurens, President of the Congress: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay Roxbury Apr_ 27th 1778

Sr_ The Genl_ Assembly of this State in pursuance of a Resolution of Congress of yr 22d of Novr last appointed Commissioners to meet those which might be appointed by the States of New-Hamshire Rhoad-Island Connecticutt New York New-Jersies Pensilvania & Delaware at Newhaven on ye 15th of January last for yr purpose of devising ye most prudent & effectual measures for promoting those valuable purposes mentioned in sd_ Resolve of Congress. the Commissioners met accordingly & Reported that it was expedient yt Laws should be made Regulating the prices of Labour produce &c and their proceedings have been laid before this Assembly who were much divided in their Sentiments with Respect to the measures; many apprehending (from a Recent & unhappy experiment of a Regulating Act) that ye carrying such an Act into execution was impracticable. however upon mature Deliberation (as it was Recommended by Congress) a Vote was obtained appointing a Commtee to prepare a Bill for that purpose, but before the Commtee Could prepare & Report it, the small pox broke out in Boston and this Court obliged suddenly to rise. — the Consideration of this matter has been Reassumed yr present session & a Bill reported; tho, the Assembly were not less divided than before, it is Still urged that if a Regulating Act should be attempted yt the effect would be so far from aiding ye other measures proposed by Congress for giving Stability & value to the Contin_ Bills that it would render those measures fruitless, for the possessors of goods would thereby be induced to part with them on no terms but those of Barter, & thereby the Circulation of the Bills being obstructed they would become (in a great measure) useless in the Hands of the needy Possessor who, having nothing else wherewith to purchase ye necessaries of Life, would at last in a private manner offer any sum which he might suppose would tempt the possessor to part with his Corn &c which the buyer needs; & further that these Objections are not built on mere Speculation but upon unfortunate experiment

Should the mode pointed out by Congress for Reducing the Quantity of circulating money be punctually comply,d with in the several States (which we presume it will) it is conceived it will have a happy tendency to give Stability to yr Currency & to Reduce ye prices of Articles both of Produce & merchandize —

This Government has (agreeable to ye Spirit of the Resolves of Congress) put a final Stop to the Currency of all ye Bills emitted by this State small Change under a Dollar only excepted. & being fully apprised of ye bad Consequences which would accrue by any further emissions of money have levied a Tax of £300,000 L. M.y upon ye People to be paid into the Treasury by yr first Day of January 1778 & have since levied another tax of about £250,000 L. M. to be paid in by the first of June next & are determined to to support the War by taxation as far as the Abilities of the People will admit. these measures have already had some happy effect by lowering the price of imports, & had not the Troops of the Convention been Quartered in this State, it is presumed the price of our produce would have been reduced proportionably upon the whole this Assembly & the people at Large were so much Divided on this Question — the fixing ye price of produce Labour &c so as to give Satisfaction to the various parts of this state was so very Difficult. — but above all the Danger of Obstructing the Circulation of the money, and thereby reducing its value to such a Degree as greatly to affect the common Cause, was so exceeding great — & fearing least the evils which we feel should be increased instead of being removed by the measure, we have upon a full discussion & consideration of the Subject thot_ proper to suspend passing such an Act for yr present, & inform Congress of the motives which influenced us so to do accordingly we have candidly & Justly Related in few words the mode of our Proceedings, & the principle motives which have influenced us to suspend passing the Bill, which we submit to the Consideration of Congress & hope that if it should be their oppinion that our Objections are not sufficient to suspend passing such An Act that they will take the earliest opportunity to give us the information which will be immediately attended to by the Genl Assembly." — Ibid., p. 305.

On the same day that the above letter was adopted, the "consideration of the bill for regulating prices was referred to the next session of the General Court."

Early in the next session the following letter, which had been received from Governor Trumbull of Connecticut, was read in the Council and sent down to the House: —

"Hartford May 19th 1778 —

Sir As it is of the utmost Importance in the great Contest in which we are engaged, that Unanimity and harmony should subsist and be maintained, and a Similarity of measures be pursued, by the respective States: It is with great Anxiety and concern we hear that your State, with any other, have hitherto declined acceeding to those necessary and salutary measures reported by the Convention at New Haven, in compliance with, and pursuance of a Resolution of Congress, recommending the same: And tho' many Objections and difficulties lie in the way, and much delicacy seemed to attend; yet Considering it was the United voice of these States, that pointed out the Expediency, Utility and Necessity of the Measure: and being the only means that could be devised, for giving an immediate Check to the rapid depreciation and Extortion, which like a Deluge, seemed to threaten us with immediate Ruin, unless restrained by some Sovereign Act, untill the more effectual and Radical, but slower remedies of Taxation &c. could be applied, felt and perceived; which when effected, and the Tide once changed, the Regulating System, having thus answered the end designed, would of course fall to the ground, as a useless Machine — Impress'd with these Ideas, this State were induced to comply fully with the Measures Recommended, confiding in our Sister-States, that they would do the same, and not break that Union, and interupt that Harmony, on which our safety so much depends. And tho' no State is perhaps more affected in it's Relative Interest, by the Regulation, than this, As the Army have drawn, and still continue to draw their chief supplies, especially of the Meat kind from hence: yet every partial View has been obliged to give way to the Voice of the Convention, the Voice of Congress, and the general Good.

Pensylvania, New-Jersey and New-York, we understand, have adopted the Measures, and are determined to inforce them; with whom we shall fully co-operate: and had the Eastern States done the same, we cannot but Immagine we should have seen e'er this, very happy effects therefrom. But your neglecting it, has thrown us into great embarressments, and proves very Injurious to those States that have come into the Measure, and must eventually tend to Ruin and defeat the whole. We must beg Leave therefore, to call your immediate attention to this Important Object, and to request your determination thereon, that we might be enabled to take such further Measures as may be found Requisite. At the same time we cannot but flatter ourselves, from your former Readiness to Join in such Measures as have heretofore been tho't necessary for the general Good, that you will cheerfully co-operate with us, in this most salutary and important Plan —

I am with esteem and regard (in behalf of the Assembly of the State of Connecticut)
Your Honors most Obedient Humⁱ Servᵗ. JONᵀᴴ TRUMBULL

Hon: Jere; Powel Esqʳ. ". — Ibid., vol. 199, p. 159.

On the 4th of June, the above letter, having been sent down from the Council at the request of the House, an order was introduced in the House for the appointment of a joint committee to prepare an answer thereto and Messrs. Lowell and Greenough, of the House, and, the next day, Daniel Hopkins, of the Council, were chosen as that committee, and on the 6th, the following draught was submitted by them and accepted: —

"June 5, 1778. Letter to His Excellency Governor Trumbull, in Answer to one received from him in behalf of the Assembly of the State of Connecticut; June Sixth Seventeen hundred and Seventy Eight.

Sir, This State acknowledge the honor done them by your Excellency's Letter of the Nineteenth of May last, accompanied by so respectable a Committee. At the last Session of the General Assembly of this State a Letter was written to Congress, in which the Difficulties that occurred to us, in our attempt to form a regulating Bill, were stated; a Copy of which Letter was ordered to be sent immediately to your State. By some Accident, this Copy was not forwarded until a few days before the arrival of your Committee. As we have therein given the reasons of Our delaying to pass an Act stating the price of Labour, &c. we must beg leave to refer you to that Letter.

However, other Causes have occurred to induce us to delay this measure at present— We have Advice that Congress have reassumed the Consideration of the matter, and a Committee have recommended a suspension of those Acts in the Northern States. We have also information from the Purchasing Commissary of the Continental Army, that if the measure is continued he cannot possibly supply Provisions for the Troops, and that great and immediate ill effects must take place.

We Wish always to concur with our Sister-States in measures for the Public Good; and we have the highest opinion of the friendship of the State of Connecticut, and of their zeal in adopting measures for that Good. We hope our exercising, on this Subject, the right of Debate, and considering of the Report of Our Committee as open to rejection as well as Acceptation, will have no tendency to interrupt this friendship, or destroy a Union which must ever give weight and importance, as well as Comfort to these States. The power of Consideration, on this Subject, must be entirely taken away from us, if the contrary Construction be admitted. For we are told the Committees, when met, held themselves restricted, by their Commissions, from discussing the expediency of such a Bill, and supposed they had a right only to frame one; Restrictions very different from what we had in contemplation when we appointed our Commissioners.

We have not, however, come to a final determination on this matter. We have only deferred the consideration of it, untill we receive an answer from Congress to our Letter; at which time we propose again to resume it, and conclude the Business. I am, with esteem and regard (in behalf of the Assembly of the State of Massachusetts-Bay)—

Your Excellency's humble Servᵗ.

His Excellency Jonᵃ. Trumbull, Esqʳ. JERᴴ. POWELL, President—

In the House of Representatives. Read and Accepted — And the President of the Honble Council is hereby requested to sign the above Letter in the name and behalf of this Assembly. In Council Read and Concurred. Consented to by Fifteen of the Council." — Council Records, vol. XXXVIII., p. 542.

Meanwhile (June 3), the House voted "that the propriety and expediency of an act for regulating the necessaries of life and articles of merchandise be considered" the next Monday, at which time the secretary was "directed to lay on the table the recommendation of Congress, to the several states, on the subject of a regulating act, as also the commission of the gentlemen who repaired to New Haven, on the part of this government, and their report," which was done, accordingly. The House then cut short their debate on the expediency of passing a regulating act, by the following order: —

"June 4, 1778. Ordered, That the further Consideration thereof be referr'd until an Answer may be received from Congress to the Letter sent them by the last General Court." — House Journal, p. 16.

While the Assembly was thus occupied, Congress was expressing its agreement with the views of Massachusetts in the following preamble and resolve: —

"Whereas by a change of circumstances in the commerce of these states, the regulation of prices lately recommended by Congress may be unnecessary; and the measure not being yet adopted by all the states; therefore Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislatures of the several states that have adopted it, to suspend or repeal their laws made for that purpose." — Journals of Congress: June 4, 1778.

Thus ended the last scheme to fix and regulate prices by legislative intervention, in Massachusetts. Those of her citizens who had faith in the efficacy of combinations to prevent the increase of prices, or, in other words, to check the depreciation of the currency, assembled in town meeting or convention, and adopted schedules of prices to which they bound themselves to adhere by mutual pledges, and passed resolutions for the coercion of others. Some account of these combinations is given in the note to 1779–80, chapter 13, post.

Congress, however, still continued to regard this kind of legislation with favor, and November 19, 1779, recommended a general convention of the states to be held at Philadelphia, to adopt a uniform system of prices to be enforced by more stringent measures.

The fixing a standard list of prices having been thus disposed of, another subject, which had engaged the attention of Congress; namely, that of preventing the engrossing and forestalling of provisions necessary for the subsistence of the army, was taken up by the Assembly.

An embargo had been laid by Congress on the 8th of June, upon the exportation of wheat, flour, rye, Indian corn, rice, bread, beef, pork, bacon, live-stock and other provisions, to be in force from the 10th of June to the 15th of November. On the 2d of October, this embargo was continued, and stringent regulations were recommended to the authorities of the several states for its enforcement until the last day of January, 1779, or "until such time as Congress shall give notice to the respective states that sufficient supplies have been obtained for the operations of the army and for the French squadron." At the same time, the following preamble and resolve were passed: —

"Whereas the scantiness of crops of wheat & other grain in the States of New York, New Jersey, Pensylvania, Delaware, Maryland & Virginia, & the wicked arts of speculators, forestallers, & engrossers, who infest every quarter of the country & are industriously purchasing up grain & flour at the most exorbitant prices, render it impracticable to obtain timely & sufficient supplies for the operations of the army & navy, unless the most vigorous measures are without delay adopted to restrain practices so destructive of the public weal:

Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the legislative or where vested with sufficient power to the executive authorities of the States above mentioned, to authorise & direct any civil magistrate within their respective jurisdictions on an information given by the commissary or quarter master general, or by the deputy commissary or quarter master general of the respective districts of any extraordinary quantity of grain or flour being purchased & in the possession of individuals, forthwith to issue his warrant impowering the informant to seize the same for the public use paying for the same such price as may to the respective legislatures appear proper to prevent the practice of engrossing those articles in future, not exceeding six dollars per hundred for flour, & in proportion for grain which may be found in the hands of engrossers. * * * * * *

Resolved, That it be farther recommended to the legislatures of the several States to pass laws for the seizure & forfeiture of all grain & flour purchased up or engrossed, with such exceptions & under such limitations & restrictions as they may think most expedient." — Mass. Archives, vol. 220, p. 152.

The foregoing resolves were transmitted to the President of the Council of Massachusetts, together with the following letter: —

"In Committee of Congress } Circular.

Philadelphia 11th November 1778.

Sir The great & increasing difficulties in the Quarter Master & Commissary Generals departments, have induced Congress to adopt the Resolution, of which we have the Honor to enclose you a Copy. Among the measures immediately necessary, for placing these matters on a proper Foundation, is the acquiring knowledge of the proper Resources of these States.— The Articles of Consumption which we would most particularly be informed of, are Flour, Wheat, Rye, Barley, Oats, Corn & Rice, Beef, Pork, working Oxen & Horses, Cyder & Vinegar. The Ignorance & the Interests of mankind, oppose so strongly our wishes in this respect, that after every Effort & every prudent Precaution, our Information will perhaps be of far less importance than could be wished. It is however our Duty to aim at it, and we have no reason to doubt your Excellency's Concurrence in the steps necessary to attain what we have in view: especially when it is considered, how readily your own Good sense will dictate, the impracticability of continuing the war, at least of continuing it to advantage, while we remain supremely ignorant of the Supplies our Country is capable of affording.—We have to entreat that your Excellency, from your knowledge of the Productions of the several parts of your State, would appoint some proper Persons, in whose Industry & Secrecy you can confide, to make proper Lists through the districts you shall severally allot to them, of the Quantity & number, of such of the Articles above named, as are produced in it, which may probably be over & above the necessary consumption of the Inhabitants, And also as nearly as possible, the Quantity &c which they consume over & above their own Production, or of what they do not produce. We hope that these Lists may be transmitted to us with all convenient Speed, to the End that proper arrangements may immediately be made for the ensueing Campaign. Upon transmitting an Account of the Expences which may accrue in this Business, they shall immediately be paid. You will perceive Sir, that every precaution should be taken to prevent this Object from transpiring, least as on many former Occasions, the devoted Adherents of Lucre, should make a gain of the Public Distresses— We are respectfully

Governor of Massachusets

The Council in their message to the House, on the 6th of January, 1779, called attention to the foregoing letter, and submitted for their consideration the question whether or not the holders of provisions "should not be obliged to part with them to the public at a reasonable price."

The portion of the message which relates to the foregoing letter was referred, January 8th, to a committee consisting of Messrs. Phillips, Dawes, Sumner, Lovell and Cranch. On the next day, a committee was appointed, as mentioned in the note to the foregoing chapter, to bring in a bill "more effectually to prevent forestalling and regrating, and for suppressing vendues," and to this committee, on the 12th, was referred the consideration of the circular letter above named. This last-named committee appear to have divided their report, for, on the 14th, a bill "against monopolizing, ingrossing, forestalling and regrating" was read a first time, in the House, and on the next day it was read a second time, and recommitted. It appears to have emerged from this committee in the form of the present chapter, and several assignments were made for its consideration, from the 21st to the 25th, when it had its third reading and was passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. In the Council the bill was read a first time, on the 26th, and on the 3d of February, it was read a second time, and passed to be engrossed, in concurrence, with four amendments, by which the word "rye," in the eighth line of the first section, and the whole of the eighth section, were inserted, and the words "as by this act is provided," in the twenty-third line of the first section, substituted for "aforesaid." The first clause of the ninth section was also included in these proposed amendments, but varying from the clause as it stands in the act, in respect to the disposition of the fines therein mentioned, which were to go to the public treasury. On the 4th, the House concurred in all the amendments except the last, by which the present form of the first clause of section nine was proposed as a substitute. On the 5th, the Council concurred with the amendment thus proposed, and offered the last clause of section nine as an additional amendment, which was accepted by the House, and on the 8th, the bill was passed to be enacted:—

"State of Massts Bay } In the House of Representatives Febr 8th 1779

In his History of Massachusetts, Bradford says, referring to this chapter, a law was "passed on the subject; but there were many of her [Massachusetts] citizens, who considered it their interest to disregard the law; and there was remissness in the officers, whose duty it was to see it observed, which favoured the violations of a salutary law with impunity. The General Assembly, however, were very desirous to prevent the evil, and to save the poorer classes of people from oppression. They directed the law to be published, and to be read at the annual town meetings." — Vol. II., pp. 172-173.

The foregoing petition was read, in the House, January 25, 1779, and committed to Messrs. Ingalls, Gorham, and Bacon of Stockbridge, who were "directed to examine the laws respecting catching fish in the river Parker." On the 29th, this committee reported that Major Parks, one of the petitioners, "have leave to bring in a bill for regulating the catching of fish" at Westfield, which report was accepted, and, on the 1st of February, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, and thereafter passed through its subsequent stages to engrossment on the 5th. The Council concurred in the engrossment, on the 6th, and on the 8th, the bill was passed, by both branches, to be enacted.

At the next session, the following petition or remonstrance was received: —

"To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts-Bay in Gen^l Court assembled.

The Petition and Remonstrance of the Town of West-Springfield in Town Meeting regularly assembled Humbly sheweth, That the Inhabitants of this Town have for more than 100 Years past occupied a Fishery in a small River called Agawam, which for many Years was almost the only place in this Town where Shad were caught; the Manner of our taking the Fish has been chiefly with Seans or Nets, no Wares have been allowed to be erected for that Purpose except one on a small Branch of the s^d River on the Falls where it is said the Indians had from Time immemorial occupied one for that Purpose, but has for some Years past been but little improved by them or us. The Fishery carried on in this River chiefly in the Month of May is highly valued by most of the Inhabitants of this Town & as much Care has been taken to prevent any needless Waste or Destruction of them as has been exercised by any Town in this State. We are too sensible of the Importance of encouraging their Increase to allow of any needless Obstruction of them in their Passage as far up the River as Nature will permit them to go. And may it please your Honors we humbly conceive that if the same Prudence & good Oeconomy had been exercised by a Neighbouring Town (whose Representatives we are informed have procured an Act of Court to abridge our fishing in s^d River) both they & we might yet have enjoyed them in much greater Plenty.

It is, may it please your Honors, with no small Degree of Surprize we receive the Information of a Bill being passed in Court to cut us off from a Privilege which has been enjoyed by the good People of this Town from the first settling of the Country and which Prohibition can answer no salutary End. We are very sorry that we have Occasion to inform your Honors that your Credulity has been exceedingly imposed upon by a notorious Misrepresentation of Facts, such as these, That the Shad, Salmon &c. used formerly to go up the Rivers and Brooks into some large Ponds, and there breed in abundance & that tis owing to the Interception they meet with in W^t Springfield that they do not still go into them. We challenge the Town of Westfield & all the World besides to bring any credible Evidence of any One of any of those Sorts of Fish that ever went up into those Ponds or was ever seen there neither can any Sort of Fish pass up the River beyond the Town of Westfield; We readily own that Salmon frequently went up the River till a few Years ago, since which Time, the Channel at the Mouth of Agawam River is so filled up with Sand that there are few or none come into it; we know of none that have been seen in the River for some Years past which doubless is owing to that Cause and to no Other.

The Length of the River from the Mouth to the Head of the Falls, in which Space we are prohibited fishing is between four, & five Miles, in which extent there are but three or four places commonly used for Fisheries, which Places have been occupied in that Business for the most of the Time since the Town was settled by the English without any Persons attempting to abridge us of our just & natural Privilege, untill a few Years ago the Representative for the Town of Westfield made some attempts of that Nature in the Gen^l Court; but the Court not judging it just & reasonable, the Matter subsided. As to the Alewives we have heard, although we much doubt its being fact, that they have sometimes formerly gone up the Brooks into the Ponds above mentiond, (but the Town of W^t Springfield have done nothing to hinder them) and we are entirely willing they should do so still, for we make no Account of taking them, the Mashes of our Nets being made too large to take them so that our Neighbors in the Town of Westfield have no Reason to complain on that Account; we wish they may breed abundanty in those Ponds;

May it please your Honors the Town of West Springfield constantly profess and ever have approved themselves to be as sincere Friends to the Cause of Liberty as any Town in this State; have perhaps exerted themselves with as much Constancy & Steadiness as any one Town on the Continent, have been always ready to sacrifice their private Interest to the Public Wellfare whenever they have had a Call to it.

But may it please your Hon^rs they were never sagacious enough to see that the public Interest could be promoted by taking the just & natural Privileges from one Town & giving them to another, which is evidently the Case with respect to the Fishery taken from West Springfield & given to Westfield, of which your Hons we are well assured will be abundantly satisfied if you will be pleased to suspend the Act afores^d for the present, & appoint an impartial, judicious Committee, to come & view the Situation of Things and mak proper Enquiry into all the Circumstances of the Affair, & make Report of Facts to your Honours.

May it please your Honors our Eyes are upon you as our Fathers, Guardians, and Protectors of our Rights; And we sincerely request your H nours to take this Affair again under your wise Consideration and give us Rilief from the Grievance brought upon us by the cruel avarice of those who seem willing to Sacrifice Peace, Justice & everything valuable either in Public, or social Life to their own private Emolument.

And your Petitioners as in Duty bound, shall ever pray—

On the 21st of April, this remonstrance was committed to Messrs. Goodman, Hastings and Sexton, who reported a resolve * which was passed as follows: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay

In the House of Representatives April 27 1779. on the Petition of the Inhabitants of the Town of West Springfield in the County of Hampshire Praying for the Suspension of an Act Passed the last Session of the General Court Relative to the Fishery in Agawam River Also, that a Committee may be Appointed to Repair to Said West Springfield to View their Situation Relative to Said Fishery &c.

Therefore Resolved that Capt Elijah Hunt Noah Goodman Esq & Capt Timothy Clark be a Committee to Repair to Said Town of West Springfield at the cost & Charge of S^d Town to View their Situation Relative to the Fishery in Agawam River and Report what is proper to be done thereon on the third wednesday of the first Session of the next General Court and that the Act Afore Said be Suspended in the mean time.—

In Council April 28^th. 1779 Read & Concurred JOHN AVERY D Sec^y

Consented to" — [Signed by fifteen of the Council]. — Ibid., p. 156.

The committee appointed by this resolve having made no report as directed, a similar resolve † was passed on the third of April, the next year, in which Jonathan Hastings, Jonathan Hale and Timothy Clark were, in like manner, appointed a committee to visit West Springfield and to make return, at the May session of the Assembly of 1780. The act was also suspended in the mean time.

No evidence has been discovered that the committee above named attended to the duty required of them by the resolve appointing them. A similar resolve ‡ was passed, May 8, 1781, by which Noah Goodman, Elijah Hunt, and Jonathan Judd, junior, were appointed a committee for the same purpose, and to make return of their doings to the General Court on the first Wednesday of the next session, and again the operation of this chapter was suspended, in the mean time.

A careful search of the records and files has revealed nothing to show that this last-appointed committee was not as remiss as its predecessors, or that any further action was had by the Legislature upon the subject of this chapter until the passage of the act of June 27th, 1786.

Chap. 33. The following petition appears to have been presented to the General Court in the fourth session of 1776–77, but it could not be found on the files of the House when the subject came up for consideration at a later date: —

"To the Hon^ble the Council for the State of the Massachusetts Bay,—And the Hon^ble House of Representatives in Generall Court Assembled—

May it Please your Honors—

The Petition of a Number of the Inhabitants on Kennebeck River & others in the County of Lincoln.— Humbly Sheweth—

The following petition was read, in the House, January 27, 1779, and committed to Messrs. Batchelder, Anthony and Leonard: —

"To the Honble the Council, & the Honble House of Representatives for the State of Massachusetts Bay, in General Court Assembled.— May it Please your Honors—

The Petition of Nathl. Thwing Esqr. & others Inhabitants upon the River Kennebeck, in the County of Lincoln Humbly Shew— That in April A D 1777 A Petition signed by a considerable number of the Inhabitants of said County living upon sd. river Kennebeck & Towns adjacent, was presented to this Honble Court setting forth that the Trade from sd River Kennebeck was likely to increase very much to foreign parts, and Praying that a Port might be established in sd Kennebeck & an Officer appointed for the Purpose of Entering & clearing Vessells agreable to Law—& whereas your Petitioners are informed by Samuel Freeman Esqr the Clerk of this Honble house, that the sd Petition cannot be found on the files of the House. Your Petitioners therefore humbly Pray, that the Affair may be taken up notwithstanding the said Petition cannot be found, and that the Inhabitants of said Kennebeck & Towns adjacent may be indulged in their request as their Petition set forth the vast inconvenience it would be to them to be obliged to go to Boothbay to Enter & clear their Vessells. Your Petitioners therefore humbly Pray that your Honors would take the matter into your wise consideration and grant them that reliefe in the Premises which your Honors in your great Wisdom shall think fit.—and as in duty bound shall ever pray &c—

On the 29th, the committee above named made a report which has not been discovered, whereupon the petition was recommitted, and the committee was directed to bring in a bill for the purpose mentioned in the petition. Accordingly, the bill of this chapter was read, in the House, a first time, February 6th, a second time, on the 8th; and, on the 9th, it was passed to be enacted.

Chap. 34. By the following entries it appears that nearly six years prior to the enactment of this chapter, the petitioners had applied to the General Court for similar legislation: —

"June 1, 1773. A Petition of John Adams and others—Setting forth— That they live in the northwest corner of the Town of Great Barrington and are therein greatly incommoded with respect to privileges in Town matters by reason of their great distance from the center of the Town and the badness of the Road thereto—That they live much nearer to the Town of Alford, to which there is a very good Road, and where they can be well accommodated with Town privileges. And praying that they, with their Estates, may be set off to Alford there to do duty and receive privilege.

In the House of Representatives. The foregoing Petition read and thereupon Ordered that the Petitioners notify the Towns of Great Barrington and Alford by serving the respective Clerks of said Towns with an attested Copy of said Petition and this order to shew cause on the second Wednesday of the next Session of this Court why the prayer of the same Petition should not be granted. In Council, Read and Concurred." — Council Records, vol. XXX., p. 14.

"Jan. 29, 1774. A Petition of John Adams and others Inhabitants of the northwest corner of the Town of Great Barrington—Praying that they with their Estates may be set off to the Town of Alford—as entered the first day of June last.

In Council. Read again and Ordered that this Petition be revived, and that the Petitioners notify the Towns of Great Barrington and Alford by serving the respective Clerks of said Towns with an attested Copy of said Petition and this Order to shew cause on the second Wednesday of the next Session of the General Court why the prayer of the same Petition should not be granted. In the House of Representatives, Read and Concurred." — Ibid., p. 136.

"June 16, 1774. A Petition of John Adams and others of Great Barrington—Praying to be set off to the Town of Alford—as entered the first day of June 1773—

In Council, Read again together with the Answer of Great Barrington and Ordered that Samuel Phillips Esqr with such as the honble House shall join be a Committee to take the same into consideration and report. Sent down for Concurrence." — Ibid., p. 328.

Neither the original petition, nor the answer of Great Barrington, referred to, in the above entries has been discovered, nor has any subsequent action of the Legislature; which is probably accounted for by the sudden dissolution of the Assembly in June, 1774, and the transfer of the custody of the public records and files, caused by the political disturbances which followed that event.

In 1778 the petitioners renewed their application as follows: —

"To the Honble the Council and House of Representatives of Massachusetts-Bay.

The humble Petition of John Adams Jr and others, the Subscribers, Inhabitants of that Part of Great Barrington, which lies at the north west Corner, thereof, shews,

That your Petitioners are subjected to great and grevious Burdens and Disadvantages by Reason of their being Inhabitants of said Town, — that they live Six Miles at the least from the Court House in the same Town, the Usual Place of holding Town Meetings and transacting other publick Busyness, — that it is not more than one mile and an half, from the usual Place, of transacting publick Busyness, in the Town of Alford, to the dwelling House of the most distant Petitioner that they are in Situation detached from the other Inhabitants of said Town, that the late Mark Hopkins, Esq. Colo. of the first Regiment of Malitia in the County, — sensible of the Inconveniences aforesaid, did annex your Petitioners to the Company of Malitia belonging to said Alford, whereby the natural Connection of your said Petitioners with said Alford is rendered permanant and lasting, — wherefore your Petitioners, humbly pray that the following Tract of Land, only including your Petitioners Farms, viz: begining at the north west Corner of said Great Barrington, thence runing eastward in the north Line of said Great Barrington, to the Top of long pond Mountain so called, thence runing southward on the Top of said Mountain, to the east Line of the Farm of Ehud Hopkins, thence runing as the several Lines of said Farm run so as to include the same to the north west Corner of the same, and from thence to the said north west Corner of said Great Barrington. — may be sett off from sd. Great Barrington & annexed to sd. Alford. or that your Honors would be pleased to Appoint a Committee to report to your Honors such Facts as you may desire to be informed of or otherwise direct and Order in the Premises as to your Honors shall appear just — and as in duty bound shall pray.

NATHAL SPERRY

This petition was read, in the House, June 15th, and committed to Messrs. Bacon, Fitch and Lewis, and the next day a resolve* was passed requiring notice to be served upon the inhabitants of Great Barrington, returnable on the second Monday of the September session, that they might appear and shew cause against the petition. The next proceeding of the General Court upon this petition was the passage of the following order: —

"In Council Janv 29th 1779 Read & Ordered That John Pitts Esqr with such as the Hon'ble House shall appoint be a Committee to take into Consideration the Petition of John Adams & others, Inhabitants of the Town of Great Barrington, to hear the Parties & report what may be proper to be done thereon

Sent down for Concurrence JOHN AVERY D Secy

In the House of Representatives Jany 29. 1779 Read & concurrd, & Coll Thurston & General Titcomb are join'd — JOHN PICKERING Spkr." — Ibid., p. 370.

On the day the above order was passed, the petitioners were heard, as also the town of Great Barrington, which objected to the prayer of the petition for the reasons set forth in the following copy of the record of a meeting of the inhabitants of that town: —

"At a Meeting of the Inhabitants of the Town of Great Barring Legaly called, & held on the 31st Day of August AD 1778.

Voted that this Town will make answer to the petition of John Adams &c. praying, to be set off from said Great Barrington with their estates & annexed to Alford — And voted that the following reasons be given to the great & general Court, why the prayer of said petition should not be granted, viz

1. Because the petitioners have mistated the matter, when they say, in their petition, 'That they Live six miles at the Least from the Court house in the same Town — when not one of them Live more than six Miles from said Court house, & others not more than four miles —

2. Because this Town is so small at present, that there are not at this time & probably never will be more inhabitants, than will be necessary to perform Town duties, such as supporting ministers, Schools &c.

3. Because this Town is now destitute of a settled Minister, & one third part of the publick taxes in this Town is paid by professed members of the Church of England, Should therefore the prayer of the petition be granted, This Town, now but barely able to settle & support a Gospel Minister, would be rendered still more unable, to heave preaching & ordinances of the Gospel reestablished amongst us —

4. Because a number of the other Inhabitants of this Town, are so situated, that they might with equal propriety, petition your honors, to be set off from this, & annexed to some other Towns —

5. Because this Town being Long since Incorporated, and by Law subject to the duties above mentioned, — It seems to this Town, peculiarly hard, to be taken off by pieces, & those peices made into Towns, or annexed towns, already made — The Greater parts of the Towns of Alford & Lee, were parts of this Town, when first incorporated —

6. Because some years since, the present petitioners, (with some others) to be set off from this Town, & incorporated into a Town or district, & this Town being notify'd to make answer to the same, attended accordingly — The consequence was, — The petition was dismissed —

* Printed resolves of the May session, 1778, chapter LXXIV.

We beg Leave further to observe, that we cannot conceive any Connection betwixt the Late Col. Hopkins's annexing the petitioners the Company of Militia in Alford, & their being set off to Alford. We can give another, & we trust a better reason for Col. Hopkins's conduct in that affair, viz That there was not a number of men in Alford, sufficient to form a Company & therefore set off from this Town, a number sufficient to complete a Captain's Command.

We would also observe that some of the Inhabitants of this Town included in Alford Company are not petioners; but opposed to the petition — Nor can we apprehend that the Conduct of Col. Hopkins in the premises, has 'rendered the natural connections of the petitioners & Alford, permenant & Lasting' as the petitioners suggest, It being a matter subject to alteration any day." — Ibid., p. 371.

As the result of this hearing, the following resolve * was passed: —

"State of Massachusetts In Council Janʸ 29 1779

On the Petition of John Adams & others praying for reasons set forth in their Petition that they and the Tracts of Land belonging to them in the Town of Great Barrington may be set off from said Town & annexed to the Town of Alford.

Resolved that the Prayer of the Petition be granted & that the said John Adams & others the within Petitioners and their Lands as described in said Petition be & hereby are set off from the aforesaid Town of Great Barrington and annexed to the Town of Alford, & that they have leave to bring in a Bill accordingly

In accordance with this resolve, the bill of the present chapter was reported to the Council, where, on the 8th, it was passed to be engrossed, and sent down for concurrence. In the House it was immediately read a first time, and on the 9th, it was read a second time. On the 10th, it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, and on the 11th, it was passed to be enacted, by both branches.

Chap. 35. On the 7th of January, 1779, Messrs. Partridge, Cranch and Wood were appointed a committee of the House, "to consider what provision is necessary to be made to enable the treasurer to pay out the money he has received on the sale of this-state-lottery tickets, and to pay off the prizes drawn in said lottery, and report," and, on the 11th, Messrs. Parks, Choate and Thaxter, were appointed a committee "to devise ways and means for supplying the treasury with money to pay the soldiers the gratuity offered them by a resolve of the first of May last." Both the resolves providing for the above measures; namely, offering a gratuity to the soldiers, and establishing a lottery, are given in full in the note to chapter 5, ante.

On the 12th, the former of the above-named committees reported a resolve which, on that day, was passed by the House, and sent up for concurrence, but returned on the next day, in response to a message from the House, and a committee, consisting of Messrs. Sullivan, Crane and Prescott was thereupon appointed by the House to bring in a bill "for raising a fund to redeem the notes ordered to be issued for paying off the prizes of this state's lottery." On the 20th, a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Brown and Johnson, of the House, and Jedidiah Preble, of the Council, was appointed "to consider what is further necessary to be done to enable the treasurer to pay the gratuity promised to the soldiers by the resolve of the first of May 1778."

Of these two committees, the latter reported a resolve † on the 21st, and, on the 6th of February, a bill reported by the former committee, and bearing the title of this chapter, was read a first time, in the House. This bill had its subsequent readings and was passed to be engrossed, in the House, on the 8th, and was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, by the Council, on the 9th, and on the 11th, it was passed to be enacted, by both branches.

Chap. 36. M. Gérard, minister plenipotentiary of France, having addressed the president of Congress, on the subject of the great need of masts and spars in the enemy's navy, Congress passed the following preamble and resolve: —

"In Congress Decʳ 29, 1778 The president informed Congress that the minister of France had requested him to communicate the following information to Congress, namely That the minister was assured by good intelligence that the enemy's fleet at Rhode island were greatly distressed for want of masts and spars; that a mast had been taken from a merchantman of 600 tons and put into a man of war of the line; that others of their ships of war had been rigged with jury masts and that they had little prospect of a supply from Halifax or any other of their ports: That there were in Newhampshire a number of masts fit for ships of the line ready to be exported from thence to Sᵗ Domingo: That the enemy had been advised of this & were preparing to intercept them That in his opinion it would be of great consequence to prevent the enemy from obtaining such an important supply and therefore he proposed that the masts should be sunk during the winter and as an inducement thereto he would himself pay the expence of sinking & raising them & also the interest of whatever sums might have been expended in procuring the said masts, until the next spring whereupon —

Resolved That it be most earnestly recommended to the states of Massachusetts bay & Newhampshire to take the most effectual measures to prevent any masts or spars from being exported from or laden on board any ships or vesse[ls‡] within the ports of the said states Extract from the minutes CHAˢ THOMSON Secʸ." — Mass. Archives, vol. 221, p. 154; also printed in Secret Journals of Congress, vol. I., p. 98.

* Printed resolves, chapter C. † Ibid., chapter LXIV. ‡ Manuscript mutilated.

This resolve was communicated to the Council in a letter from John Jay, president of the Congress, and was brought down to the House January 13, 1779, and read; whereupon a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Batchelder, Phillips of Andover, and Sullivan of the House, and Thomas Cushing and Nathan Cushing, of the Council — who were joined on the 14th — was appointed to consider the same and report. Mr. Jay's letter is as follows: —

"Philadelphia 29th Decr 1778

Gentlemen On perusing the enclosed Act of Congress—passed this Day, you will find it to contain a Recommendation which they deem to be of great Importance.

The patriotic Exertions of Massachusets Bay in the Course of this great Cause and Conflict, saves me the necessity of pressing your attention to a measure, evidently calculated to distress the Enemy and advance the Interest of the united States—

I have the Honor to be Gentlemen with great Respect your most obedient and h'ble Servt
JOHN JAY—

The Hon'ble The Council of Massachusets Bay." — Ibid., vol. 200, p. 280.

The Council had broached the same subject to the House, in a message at the beginning of the session (Jan. 6, 1779), as follows: —

"Masts are an Article the Enemy must be in extream want of, they will therefore be very Vigilant and assiduous in their endeavors to take as many of them as they Possibly Can, it is of Importance therefore that we should use every measure in our Power to prevent their falling into their hands, and now we have mentioned this Article we cannot forbear recommending it to your Consideration whether it will not be necessary to to take some effectual measures for Preserving Pine Trees of certain Dimensions, suitable for Masts for large Vessells, from being cut down and disposed of at the pleasure of every one; Our Sea Coasts, our Trade & Navigation do now & will in future require a consider able Naval Force for their Protection. The Preservation of such Pine Trees as are suitable for Masts is object of great Importance to this as well as the other United States, not only considered as a Measure necessary for our Protection, but as Masts are an Article with which we may carry on a Trade with our Allies much to their Gratification, as well as greatly to our own Advantage." — Ibid., vol. 158, p. 131.

This was probably suggested by a circular letter from M. Gérard confidentially commu nicated by the Sieur De Valnais, French consul at Boston, offering a premium for the capture or destruction of vessels loaded with masts or spars for the enemy. The following is a copy of the contemporaneous translation of this letter: —

"The Minister plenipotentiary of France promises and engages to pay or cause to be paid a premium of Twelve thousand Continental Dollars to every Vessel that shall take or destroy a Vessel of the enemy loaded with Masts or Spars destined for the ports of Hallifax, Newport or New York from the date of these presents to the first day of the Month of April next. The said sum of twelve thousand Dollars shall be paid in Philadelphia the moment the Captor shall produce to the Minister the legal proof of the Capture or destruction of the Vessel loaded with Masts and Spars for the ports afsd.

The Congress having been pleased to approve this measure, the Minister Plenipotentiary entreats them to address the present declaration to the States they shall judge proper, recommending it to them to make the same known to the Captains and privateers of their respective ports, avoiding nevertheless to give such public Notice as may serve to put the enemy on their gaurd and induce them to send their Vessels under convoy—

(LS) Philadelphia 14th Decem 1778

Signed GERARD." — Ibid., vol. 200, p. 257.

On the 4th of February, in the Council, a bill was read a first time, with the following title: "An Act to prevent the exportation of masts of certain dimensions, suitable for the masting of ships of war." This bill had its second reading and was passed to be engrossed and sent down for concurrence on the afternoon of the same day, when it had its first reading in the House, and on the 8th, was read a second time and committed to Messrs. Sumner, Crane and Ward. On the 12th, the bill not having been further acted upon by the House, was sent up to the Council, at their request. On the 15th, the Council sent down to the House, the bill of this chapter, which had been passed to be engrossed in that branch. It was immediately read a first time in the House, a second time, on the 16th, and on the 17th, it was passed in concurrence to be engrossed, with an amendment changing the diameter of the prohibited masts or spars mentioned in the fourth line of the first section from twelve inches, to fifteen inches. The Council, on the same day, concurred in the bill as thus amended, and on the 19th, it was passed to be enacted by both branches.

While this bill was pending the following joint order was passed: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In Council Febry 12th 1779.

Ordered that the Naval Officer of the Port of Boston be and hereby is directed not to clear out any Vessell from the said Port that has taken on Board as Cargo any Masts, Spars or Naval Stores untill he has reported to the Council the Name of the Vessell and of the Person who comands her, and the Destination of said Vessell, And that he cause a Search to be made of all Vessells about sailing from this Harbor and for the Clearance of which Application shall be made, in Order to discover whether such Vessells have on Board any Masts, Spars, or Naval Stores, and in Case he shall find any of the Articles aforementioned on Board he is not to clear them out untill he has made Report to the Council and has received their Orders thereupon

The following petition for exemption from the operation of the foregoing resolve, and the report which accompanied it, of the naval officer for the port of Boston, were read in the Council, Feb. 15th, and forthwith referred to a joint committee, consisting of Benjamin Austin, of the Council, and Messrs. Crane and Barrell, of the House: —

"To the Honb. The Council & House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts-bay, in General Court assembled.

The Petition of James Swan, in behalf of himself, Capt Job Prince & others, owners of the Ship Leighton Humbly Shews

That your petitioners have fitted, at a very great expence the said Ship Leighton, Commanded by Capt Edward Davis, with a load of spars & Lumber the produce of this State, bound to the West Indies for a load of Molasses, and other necessaries for the Consumption of the people. That the said ship, was mann'd & ready to go to Sea three months ago, when all her people left her and engag'd in the public Service on board a Continental frigate, which has detain'd her in port ever since at a great additional expence. That she is now ready to proceed on her Voyage: but the Naval officer for this Port refuses clearing her out; alledging a resolve of the General assembly to that effect.

Your petitioners to unload this ship must be at an Expence of Two thousand pounds; and answer no good purpose then: For as they presume the resolve never was meant to include small spars under nineteen inches, so it never can effect this ship: not one stick on board of her being more than the size mention'd.—They are therefore embolden'd to say, that should they be so unfortunate as have her captur'd by the Enemie, there is not one Mast or Spar of the whole Cargoe, which can assist a Man of War. And should she be still detain'd here, the owner must at least be damag'd Six thousand pounds.—

They therefore—Humbly beseech the Honol Council & House of Representatives, to pass a resolve ordering the Naval officer to clear the said Ship Leighton from this port; taking an affidavit of the Master that there are none above nineteen inches on board: and as in duty bound shall ever pray.

Boston 13' Febr 1779. JAMS SWAN." — Ibid., p. 150.

"To the Honorable Council State Massa Bay May it please your Honours.

In Obedience to a Resolve* of the Hon Genl Assembly of this State dated.12 Instant. The Naval Officer for the Port of Boston begs leave to report to your Honors, that the Ship Leighton Edward Davis Commander bound for Hispaniola; has on board according to his own Representation Seventeen Masts, twelve Booms of the dimensions hereto annexed, likewise three hundred Spars, which Ship is loaded & a Search would be difficult & very expensive—Also that Capt Davis Hatch in the Sloop Polly bound for Kennebeck, has on board thirty nine barrells Naval Stores, & will sail in a day or two. the Naval Officer begs Your Honors directions respecting the Clearances for the above-mention'd Vessells, as soon as is convenient to the Honorable Board—

Port Boston February 13. 1779. NAT BARBER N offr." — Ibid., p. 156.

On the 17th, John Pitts was appointed on the above-named committee in place of Austin, who was absent, and on the 18th, the committee reported to the Council a resolve refusing permission for the vessel to sail until the masts and spars on board — the former being seventeen in number, and from fifteen to twenty inches in diameter, and the latter, twelve in number, and from fifty to sixty-five feet in length — "are taken out; the necessary expense of which unloading and lading said ship, shall be defrayed by this state, and charged to the continent." This resolve was not accepted; whereupon an order was passed by the Council, permitting the naval officer to grant a clearance of the ship, notwithstanding the former order. The House then concurred in the resolve,† "as taken into a new draught," as follows: —

"On the Petition of James Swan in behalf of himself & others, owners of the Ship Leighton praying she may have liberty to sail on her Voyage to the West Indies, for reasons set forth in said Petition—

Resolved that the prayer of said Petition be granted & that the Naval Officer for the Port of Boston be and he hereby is permitted to clear out the Ship Leighton, any former Order of Court to the contrary, notwithstanding." — Ibid., p. 153.

On the 19th, the Council concurred in this resolve.

Chap. 37. A case of the kind to which the provisions of this chapter were applicable, is described in the preamble to the following resolve,‡ passed on the petition of Elizabeth Welsh, a daughter of the testator, who prayed to be put in possession of such of the real and personal estate devised and bequeathed to her as had not been disposed of, or carried away, by the executor, a loyalist refugee: —

"The Comtee appointed on the Petition of Elizabeth Welsh report the following Resolve

On the 28th of January, 1779, a bill, entitled "An Act for the relief of joint partners in trust, office or interest," was read, a first time, in the Council, and assigned to Feb. 2d, for a second reading. This bill, after reciting that "divers persons have departed this state, some of whom are prohibited returning hither again without leave of the General Court, whose absence may be prejudicial to those who are connected with them in office, trust, interest or estate, unless some remedy be made in that behalf," proceeded to enact that the person or persons remaining in this state having a joint interest with any such absentee, in any right of action either in their own names, or as executors or administrators, or in trust, which must, by law, be brought or defended in the names of all the parties in interest, may prosecute or defend such action in the same manner as if the absent parties were naturally dead. This bill seems to have been superseded by the present chapter.

Chap. 38. The following petition, which led to the passage of this chapter, sufficiently sets forth the constitution of the body which framed it: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay— } To the Honble the Council and the Honble House of Representatives in General Court Assembled—

Pittsfield Augt. 26th 1778,

We the subscribers Delegates from the several Towns in the County of Berkshire, chosen & appointed for the Special purpose of Petitioning the Great and Genl Court to call a special convention of Delegates from each Town in this State, for the purpose of forming a Bill of rights & a Constitution or form of Government— Humbly shew—

That your Memorialists have from the time of the Stamp Act to this present Day, manifested a constant and uniform Abhorrence and Detestation (not only in Sentiment but overt Actions) of all the Unconstitutional Measures taken by the British Parliament to tax, depauperate and Subjugate these now United and Independent States of America—

That they can Vie with any County in this State not only in Voluntarily appearing in Arms upon the least notice, when their Brethren in Distress needed their Assistance as at the Massacre at Lexington, the Fight at Bunkers Hill &c &c But also in filling up their Quotas of Men from time to time, demanded either by this State or the Commanding Officer in these Parts: altho' our Situation has been such, as might have justified the Genl Court had they called upon Us for no such supplies, over and above wch our Zeal in the Common Cause has carried Us beyond our Ability in the frequent Excursions against the Common Enemy, as in the Battle of Bennington, in assisting Colo Brown in the Capture of so many Hundreds at the Carrying place at Tyconderoga, in the quelling the Tories at divers times in a Neighbouring State, wch otherwise, might have suffered amazingly, and in instances of the like Nature too many to enumerate—

Notwithstanding this Our Fidelity to the State and our exertions for the Common Cauze. We have by designing and disaffected Men been represented as a Mobbish, Ungovernable refractory, licentious and dissolute People, by means whereof have been threatned with Dismemberment, more especially, as we conceive, on Account of our not admitting the Course of common Law—

It is true we were the first County that put a Stop to Courts, and were soon followed by many others, Nay in effect by the whole State — And we are not certain but that it might have been as well (if not better) had they continued so, rather than to have Law dealt out by piece meal as it is this Day, without any Foundation to support it, for We doubt not we should before this time have had a Bill of rights, and a Constitution wch are the only things, We at this time are empowered to pray for—And We do now with the greatest Deference Petition your Honors, that you would issue your Precepts to all the Towns and places within this State (called upon to pay public Taxes) requiring them to choose Delegates to set as soon as may be in some suitable place to form a Bill of Rights and a Constitution for this State, without which We shall retain the aforesd. Character, if grounded upon the Non-admission Law, as abundantly appears to Us this Day by the Yeas and Nays, brought in from the respective Towns We represent, taken in Town Meeting, especially called for that purpose, there being four fifths of the Inhabitants of sd County against supporting the Courts of Law, untill a Constitution be formed and Accepted by the people—

If this our request is rejected We shall endeavour by addressing the first Committee of Safety &c in this State & others, that there be a State Convention formed for the purpose aforesaid—And if this Honble Court are for dismembering there are other States, which have Constitutions who will We doubt not, as bad as we are, gladly receive Us; And We shall to the utmost of our Ability support and defend authority and Law as we should wth greater Cheerfulness in this State to which We belong was there any proper Foundation for it—

We are with all Submission your Honors youngest Child and are determined to the utmost of our Power to protect and secure our just Inheritance, and hope our parent, will graciously concur and assist by granting this our request.

And as in Duty bound will ever pray—

The committee thus appointed, met at the time designated in the resolve, and conferred with representatives from the principal towns of Berkshire, assembled in convention. The delegates from the town of Pittsfield presented to the committee the following letter, or statement of views, which they had prepared and which had been subsequently signed by delegates from other towns in the same county: —

"To The Honble Committee from the General Court of Massachusetts Bay now convened at Pittsfield —

Mr. Chairman, Sr

We whose Names are underwriten indulging some Apprehensions of the Importance of Civil & religious Liberty, the destructive Nature of Tyranny & lawless power, & the absolute necessity of legal Government, to prevent Anarchy & Confusion; have taken this method to indulge our own Feelings & Sentiments respecting the important matters that have for some Time been the Subject of debate in this present Meeting—Political Disquisitions, if managed with Decency, Moderation & Candor are a good preservative against Ignorance & Servility & such a state of perfect Quietude as would endanger the Rights of Mankind united in the Bands of Society. We wish to preserve this Character in what we have now to offer in the Defence of our Constituents in opposing, in times past, the executive Courts of Justice in this County.

We wish with the least Delay to come to the Merits of the cause, & shall now proceed to make those observations on the Nature of Government which are necessary to bring into view the Apprehensions we indulge respecting the present Condition of this state, whether we have a fundamental Constitution or not; & how far we have Government duly organized & how far not: In free States the people are to be considered as the fountain of power. And the social Tie as founded in Compact. The people at large are endowed with alienable & unalienable Rights. Those which are unalienable, are those which belong to Conscience respecting the worship of God & the practice of the Christian Religion, & that of being determined or governed by the Majority in the Institution or formation of Government. The alienable are those which may be delegated for the Common good, or those which are for the common good to be parted with. It is of the unalienable Rights, particularly that of being determined or governed by the Majority in the Institution or formation of Government of which something further is necessary to be considered at this Time. That the Majority should be governed by the Minority in the first Institution of Government is not only contrary to the common apprehensions of Mankind in general, but it contradicts the common Law of Justice & benevolence.

Mankind being in a state of nature equal, the larger Number (Cæteris paribus) is of more worth than the lesser, & the common happiness is to be preferred to that of Individuals. When Men form the social Compact, for the Majority to consent to be governed by the Minority is down right popery in politicks, as submission to him who claims Infallibility, & of being the only Judge of Right & rong, is popery in Religion. In all free Governments duly organized there is an essential Distinction to be observed between the fundamental Constitution, & Legislation. The fundamental Constitution is the Basis & ground work of Legislation, & asscertains the Rights Franchises, Immunities & Liberties of the people, Howr* & how often officers Civil & military shall be elected by the people, & circumscribing and defining the powers of the Rulers, & so affoarding a sacred Barrier against Tyranny & Despotism. This in antient & corrupt Kingdoms when they have woke out of Slavery to some happy dawnings of Liberty, has been called a Bill of Rights, Magna Charta &c. which must be considered as imperfect Emblems of the Securities of the present grand period. Legislators stand on this foundation, & enact Laws agreeably to it. They cannot give Life to the Constitution: it is the approbation of the Majority of the people at large that gives Life & being to it. This is the foundation of Legislation that is agreeable to true Liberty, it is above the whole Legislature of a free state, it being the foundation upon which the Legislature stands. A Representative Body may form but cannot impose said Constitution upon a free people. The giving Existence to the fundamental Constitution of a free state is a Trust that cannot be delegated. For any rational person to give his vote for another person to aid and assist in forming said Constitution with a view of imposing it on the people without reserving to himself a Right of Inspection Approbation rejection or Amendment, imports, if not impiety, yet real popery in politicks. We could bring many Vouchers for this Doctrine sufficient for our present purpose is the following Extract from a Noted Writer. in answer to that assertion of another respectable writer that 'The bare Idea of a State without a power some where vested to alter every part of its Laws is the height of political Absurdity.'† He remarks upon it, 'A position, which I apprehend, ought to be, in some Measure limited & explained. For if it refers to those particular Regulations, which take place in Consequence of Immemorial Custom, or are enacted by positive Statue, & at the same Time, are subordinate to the fundamental Constitution from which the Legislature itself derives its Authority; it is admitted to be within the power or Trust vested in the Legislature to alter these, pro, Re nata, as the good of Society may require. But this power or Authority of the Legislature to make Alterations cannot be supposed to extend to the Infringement of those essentials Rights & previleges, which are reserved to the Members of a free state at large, as their undoubted Birthright & unalienable property. I say, in every free State there are some Liberties & previleges, which the Society has not given out of their own Hands to their Governors, not even to the Legislature: & to suppose the contrary would be the height of political absurdity; for it is saying that a state is free & not free at the same Time; or which is the same thing, that its Members are possessed of Liberties, of all which they may be divested at the will of the Legislature; that is, they enjoy them during pleasure, but can claim no property in them

In a word nothing is more certain than that Government in the general nature of it is a Trust in behalf of the people. And there cannot be a Maxim, in my opinion, more ill grounded, than that there must be an arbitrary power lodged somewhere in every Government. If this were true, the different kinds of Government in the world would be more alike, & on a level, than they are generally supposed to be. In our own Government in particular, tho' no one thinks with more respect of the powers which the Constitution hath vested in every branch of the Legislature; yet I must be excused in saying what is strictly true, that the whole Legislature is so far from having an absolute power, that it hath not power in several Cases that might be mentioned. For instance, their Authority does not extend to making the house of Commons perpetual, or giving that house a power to fill up their own vacancies: the house of Commons being the representatives of all the Commons of England & in that Capassity only a branch of the Legislature; & if they concur in destroying the foundation on which they themselves stand; & if they annihilate the Rights of their Constituents & claim a share in the Legislature upon any other footing than that upon which the Constitution hath given it to them; they subvert the very Trust under which alone they act, & thereby forfeit all their Authority. In short they cannot dispence with any of those essential Rights of the people which it ought to be the great object of Government as it is of our Constitution in particular to preserve.'—

These reasonings tend abundantly to evince, that the whole Legislature of any state is insufficient to give Life to the fundamental Constitution of such state, it being the foundation on which they themselves stand & from which alone the Legislature derives its Authority—

May it be considered, further, that to suppose the Representative Body capable of forming & imposing this Compact or Constitution without the Inspection & Approbation Rejection or Amendment of the people at large would involve in it the greatest Absurdity. This would make them greater than the people who send them, this supposes them their own Creators.formers of the foundation upon which they themselves stand. This imports uncontroulable Dominion over their Constituents for what should hinder them from making such a Constitution as invests them & their successors in office with unlimited Authority, if it be admitted that the Representatives are the people as to forming & imposing the fundamental Constitution of the state upon them without their Approbation & perhaps in opposition to their united sense—In this the very essence of true Liberty consists, viz in every free state the Constitution is adopted by the Majority.

It is needful to be observed that we are not to Judge of true Liberty by other Nations of the Earth, darkness has overspread the Earth, Tyranny Triumps thro' the world. The Day light of Liberty, only begins to dawn upon these Ends of the Earth. To measure the freedom, the Rights & previleges of the American Empire by those enjoyed by other Nations would be folly

It is now both easy & natural to apply these reasonings to the present State of Massachusetts Bay. We think it undeniably follows from the preceeding Reasonings that the Compact in this state is not yet formed: when did the Majority of the people at large assent to such Constitution, & what is it? if the Majority of the people of this state have adopted any such fundamental Constitution it is unknown to us & we shall submit to it as we always mean to be governed by the Majority —

Nor will any of those consequences follow on this supposition, that we have no Law, or that the Hon^ble^ Council & House of Representatives are Usurpers & Tyrants. Far from it. We consider our case as very Extraordinary. We do not consider this state in all Respects as in a state of Nature tho' destitute of such fundamental Constitution. When the powers of Government were totally dissolved in this state, we esteemed the State Congress as a necessary & useful body of Men suited to our Exigencies & sufficiently authorized to levy Taxes, raise an Army & do what was necessary for our common defence & it is S^r^ in this Light that we view our present Hon^ble^ Court & for these and other reasons have inculcated a careful Adherence to their orders. Time will not permit to argue this Matter any longer, for your Honors patience must have been tryed already. These have been some of the reasons we have indulged, & Sentiments we have cultivated respecting Constitution, & for these Reasons we have been looking forward towards a new Constitution—But we must further add

That a fear of being finally deprived of a Constitution & of being thrown into confusion & divisions by delaying the formation of a new Constitution, has caused our Constituents so early & invariably to oppose the executive Courts— We have feared, we now realize those fears, that upon our submission we shall sink down into a dead Calm & never transmit to posterity a single Right nor leave them the least Knowledge of so fair an Inheritance, as we may now convey to them.—

We & our Constituents have also indulged some fears respecting some of the particular persons appointed for our Rulers least in the future Execution of Law they should execute their own private Resentments, we are willing to hope the best—

We have been ready to consider some of them as indulging an unnatural temper in vilifying & reproaching their own County but we hope they will do better for the future,

& that we shall do better, & we wish to give them our confidence.— We are determined to cultivate a spirit of meekness forbearance & Love & to study the Things that shall make for peace & order.

It has appeared to us & those we are appointed to represent that in an early opposition to the executive Courts, such opposition would become general thro' the state, which in our opinion would bring on a new Constitution without Delay. Our hope of which is now very much weakened, & such are the Dissentions of this state that we are now ready to fear we shall never obtain any other than what is called our present Constitution our Apprehensions of which have been already explained—

It is with Gratitude we reflect on the Appointment of this Honble Committee by the General Court for the purpose of peace Reconciliation & order thro' this County, & their impartial & faithful Execution of their Commission. We are persuaded by the Temper & Moderation exhibited that they will not embibe any prejudices against this County, by what they have seen & heard, & that they will make a Just Representation of our state to the General Court. —

To evince to your Honors our Love of peace Reconciliation & legal Government, & that we have been actuated not by personal Prejudices or Motives of Ambition, notwithstanding the powerful Reasons we have had for a Suspension of the Executive Courts we are willing to forego our own opinions & if it shall be thought best by our Constituents to submit to the establishment of the Executive Courts in this County —

SAML NILES Pr Order."—Ibid, p. 452.

This report was immediately referred to a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Sullivan, Sumner and Partridge, of the House, and Spooner and Simpson, of the Council, who were ordered to consider the same and report.

On the fifth of February, the following report by the committee last appointed, was read in the Council: —

"The Committee who were appointed to take into Consideration the within report have attended that service and beg leave to report that they have heard the members of the General Court who belong to the County of Berkshire upon the subject and are of opinion that it is necessary to pass an act of Pardon & Indemnification to all Riots routs & all assaults Batteries False imprisonment and Trespasses against the Person of a Subject Committed and done within the County of Berkshire before the passing such Act—and also for suspending the right of bringing of personal actions for Trespasses against property in said County A for a certain and Limitted time or till the Court shall otherwise order B and that it is necessary for the peace and good order of the County of Berkshire that there should be Justices of the Inferiour Court of Common pleas there appointed—and Justices for the Court of general Sessions of the peace and that they be directed to hold their Respective Courts as by Law appointed—and further that there be an Act passed for holding a Superiour Court of Judicature in said County annually, all which is Submitted— WALTER SPOONER by Order."—Ibid., p. 453.

This report was accepted by the Council, with an amendment by which the words from A to B were stricken out, and the words "which may have been committed in consequence of the order, resolve or vote either of any legal town meeting, selectmen, or committee of inspection, correspondence, &c., unless leave shall be first had and obtained of the General Court" inserted in their stead.

The House concurred in this vote of acceptance, on the 6th, and a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Sullivan, and Brown of Pittsfield, of the House, and Robert Treat Paine, of the Council, was thereupon appointed, "to bring in a bill or bills for the purposes therein mentioned." On the same day, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the Council, but it did not reach its second reading until the 23d, when it was passed to be engrossed and sent down for concurrence, and read a first time in the House. It was read a second time, in the House, on the 24th, and a third time, on the 25th, when it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with an amendment by which the words, "at a meeting of the inhabitants thereof," in the fifth and sixth lines of the third section, were substituted for the words "legal meeting." The Council concurred in this amendment, on the same day, and on the 26th, it was passed to be enacted by both branches.

Chap. 39. The act of Dec. 7, 1776, as has already been observed in the note to that chapter,* was the last act passed in Massachusetts before the Constitution for the emission of bills of public credit except for the purpose of exchange for bills previously issued, and from that date the policy of this state to raise money solely by loans, and the revenue, which was mainly derived from direct taxes, was firmly established. Therefore, not only such of the resolves of Congress of Jan. 14, 1777, as were designed to prevent counterfeiting and depreciation of the Continental bills, had been anticipated by Massachusetts in the provision made for those purposes by the act of April 13, 1776 (1775–76, chapter 18 †), but some others of those resolves, given in full, below, were but an invitation to the state legislatures to apply the Massachusetts policy, respecting the absorption of her local paper currency, to the redemption and extinction of the Continental currency. The resolves referred to are as follows:—

"That it be recommended to the legislatures of the several states to pass resolutions that they will make provision for drawing in and sinking their respective quotas of the bills emitted by Congress at the several periods fixed, or that shall be fixed by Congress:

That it be recommended to the legislatures of the several states to raise by taxation in the course of the current year, and remit to the treasury, such sums of money as they shall think will be most proper in the present situation of the inhabitants; which sums shall be carried to their credit, and accounted for in the settlement of their proportion of the public expences and debts, for which the United States are jointly bound."—Journals of Congress: Jan. 14, 1777.

"(Circular) Baltimore Janʸ 15th 1777.

Gentlemen—In Obedience to the Commands of Congress, I do myself the Honour of transmitting the enclosed Resolves; to which I am to request your Attention, as well as your Compliance therewith.

The Depreciation of the Continental Currency having been for some Time past a most growing Evil, it became absolutely necessary to provide some Remedy against it. With this View, and in Hopes of establishing the Credit of it, the Congress have adopted and recommended to the several States, such Measures, as if properly and vigorously executed, will most undoubtedly be attended with Success.

I hope the Dispatches, which I forwarded by three Expresses on the 25th & 30th Decem. & 10th Janʸ have been duly recieved.

I have the Honour to be, with very great Respect,
Gentlemen,
Your most obed. hble Ser.

{ Honble Assembly of the State of Massachussetts Bay.—

Mass. Archives, vol. 196, p. 134.

The advances already made by Massachusetts to the United States, exceeded the amount of the first instalment called for by the above resolve. Therefore the committee appointed to consider the resolves and letter reported as follows: "* * * * * * *

That the Recommendations for the several Legislatures to prepare for sinking their several Quotas of the Bills emitted by Congress—as also to raise by Taxation, in the Course of the present year and remit to the Treasury such Sums of Money as they shall think proper in the present Situation of the Inhabitants, to be carried to their Credit & accounted in future Settlement of their Proportions—are fully answered by this State, by the necessary constant and large Sums they are continually in Advance to the Continent—and that should the future Demands for Supplies on this State in some Degree abate—the first Payment into the Continental Treasury being yᵉ last Day of November 1779—there will be Time sufficient to raise Monies for that Purpose—and as, beside the large † Vide, ibid., chapter 44. The resolve relating to depreciation is printed in the supplementary note, 1776–77, p. 725, ante.

Sums this State is now in Advance, the People are already taxed as heavy as their Circumstances will permit—your Committee are of Opinion there can be no further Sums required at present of them— TRISTRAM DALTON per Order." — Ibid., vol. 137, p. 126.

The Continental bills of credit continuing to depreciate, Congress sought to remedy this evil, and possibly to restore their value, by establishing a sinking-fund for their redemption; and as the issues of May 20, 1777, and April 11, 1778, of $5,000,000 each, had been extensively counterfeited by "our enemies at New York," they were ordered to be called in before June 1st, 1779, and destroyed, as part of the $15,000,000 of the currency, which was to constitute the first year's instalment of the sinking-fund, under the following resolve: —

"Whereas these United States, unprovided with revenues and not heretofore in a condition to raise them, have in the course of the present war, repeatedly been under the necessity of emitting bills of credit, for the redemption of which the faith of these United States has been solemnly pledged, and the credit of which their honour and safety, as well as justice, is highly concerned to support and establish; and whereas to that end it is essentially necessary to ascertain the periods of their redemption, and seasonably to establish funds which in due time, without distressing the people, shall make adequate provision for the same: and whereas, in appointing the payments for the said fund, it is expedient that an extra sum be called for the current year, both on account of the present ease of paying it and to reduce the surplus in circulation; therefore,

Resolved, That these United States be called on to pay in their respective quotas of fifteen millions of dollars for the year 1779, and of six millions of dollars annually for eighteen years from and after the year 1779, as a fund for sinking the emissions and loans of these United States to the 31st day of December, 1778, inclusive." — Journals of Congress: Jan. 2, 1779.

The Legislature of Massachusetts, although its members were not generally convinced that the above expedient of Congress would avail without the aid of other provisions for establishing the credit of the Continental currency, promptly took into consideration the expediency of raising, by taxation, the sum of $2,000,000, the "quota" required of this state to the first instalment of the sinking-fund. On the 6th of January, which was before information had been received of the action of Congress, the Council had already sent to the House a message containing the following passage: "The state of the currency is such as renders it absolutely necessary for us to afford Congress every assistance in our power to support the credit of it. The only effectual method we can at present think of, is the drawing of it in, and sinking of it, by taxation; for the less quantity you have in circulation, the more valuable." The message also contained an earnest recommendation for a new state valuation, as a basis for the next tax. On the 27th of January, it was voted, "by a large majority," that the sum to be raised by this tax be nine hundred thousand pounds, and Messrs. Sumner, Cranch, Sexton, May and Phelps were appointed a committee to bring in a bill for this purpose, and "were directed to insert therein, a clause enabling towns to raise more than their proportion, if they choose so to do; and another to ease such towns as may, by the valuation now adjusting, appear to be overtaxed, and another directing constables and collectors to pay into the treasury the same money they shall receive for taxes." It was then ordered, "that the taxes to be laid on the several towns be in proportion to the last tax act."

On the next day, the above-named committee was ordered "to assess what is due from the several towns for their representatives' pay to the last of May, 1778;" and it was also voted that the tax as ordered to be levied above, be for three times the amount (£305,662, 14*s.* 3*d.*) levied by the tax act of 1777–78, chapter 13, "the vote of yesterday notwithstanding."

On the 29th, the committee was ordered "to bring in a clause for allowing, out of the sums to be assessed on the respective towns, the bounties due to them for engaging men into the public service."

On the first day of February, Brigadier Titcomb was substituted on the committee, for Mr. Phelps, who was absent, and another vote was passed, by 42 out of 82 members of the House, that the sum to be levied by this tax, be "four times the sum assessed by the last tax bill,"* which would make the total £1,018,875, 7*s.* 8*d.* On the 15th, a draught of a tax bill was reported, and read a first time, for raising £1,014,422, 7*s.* 8*d.* for defraying the public charges, and the further sum of £12,383, 16*s.* 9*d.* paid the representatives in 1778; making a total of £1,026,803, 4*s.* 5*d.* An inspection of the bill shows that, as originally drawn, the above sums were £1,018,875, 9*s.* 8*d.* (or four times the amount of the previous tax) and £12,822, 16*s.* 9*d.* respectively, making a total of £1,031,698, 4*s.* 5*d.* The bill was now recommitted, and debated and read again, on the 18th, and again recommitted. It was read a third time on the 23d, and once more recommitted. On the same day, after further debate, it was committed to Messrs. Phillips of Andover, Hosmer, Crane, Locke and Thurston; and on the 24th, was passed to be engrossed, with the same title under which it was first reported, but with an amendment by which were inserted the first proviso in section two, and all after the word "community" in the forty-first line of that section; also the whole of sections 3 and 11, and the first ten words of section 4. By the same amendment, several clauses and paragraphs were stricken out.

The bill was now sent to the Council, for concurrence. On the 26th, in reply to a message from the House, the Council informed the House that the Board had not passed upon the bill. On the 27th, the following communication passed between the two branches: —

"Feb. 27, 1779. Mr. Partridge came up with a Message from the House to propose two Amendments in the Tax-Bill, viz^t. to dele Hoosuck and insert Adams, and to insert two of the Boston News Papers, viz^t. the Continental Journal and Boston Gazette.

Samuel Niles Esq^r. went down with a Message to the House to inform them, that the Board agreed to the foregoing Proposal of the Honb^le House."—Council Records, vol. XXXIX., p. 151.

The latter of these amendments had been proposed in a resolve, dated Oct. 14, 1778, probably reported by a committee appointed two days previous "to revise that clause in the tax act which directs how the unimproved lands belonging to non-resident proprietors shall be sold in case of failure of paying the taxes laid thereon, and report what is proper to be done;" and also to consider the petition of Edward Green and others, non-resident proprietors, "setting forth the injurious operation of the tax act," &c. This resolve was ordered to subside, and no further action by this committee has been discovered.

The resolve of Congress, of January 2d, had been communicated in a letter, dated the 10th, from John Jay, President of the Congress. This letter was brought down to the House on the 26th, and on the 3d of February, a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Barrell, Phillips of Boston, Brown of Pittsfield, and Thurston, of the House, and Thomas Cushing, Robert Treat Paine and Oliver Prescott, of the Council, was appointed "to consider in what way application shall be made to Congress respecting the state of the officers and privates of the army," and several other matters.

This committee reported the draughts of two letters; one to the president of the Congress, and the other to the delegates in Congress, from Massachusetts. The purport of both of these letters, in relation to the subject of the depreciation of the currency, can be gathered from the extract given in the note to 1779-80, chapter 29, post.

The draught of these letters having been brought down to the House on the 11th, with an amendment to one of them, proposed by the Council, they were accepted, as amended, and it was voted, in concurrence, that the president of the Council sign them "in the name and behalf of the General Court." The amendment referred to provided for striking out part of the letter to the delegates, including the following passage:—

"The state of our currency is truly alarming. We perceive Congress, by their resolutions of the 2d of January last, depend solely upon taxation to raise the value of our paper currency. We doubt the efficacy of the measure. It has been frequently and justly observed that whenever the paper currency is multiplied beyond what was competent for the purposes of a circulating medium, it would naturally lower in its value. Experience has taught us the truth of this observation. The question then is, whether taxation alone will reduce the surplus in circulation so speedily as is necessary to answer this valuable purpose. Cannot some other method be adopted by Congress, to coöperate with this of taxation, that will speedily and effectually accomplish this desirable end? Is it not well worth the attention of Congress to consider whether it will not be expedient, in order to reduce the quantity of money in circulation, speedily, to borrow a considerable sum of money of the bill-holders and give them loan-office certificates, bearing an interest of six per cent per annum, payable in France, Spain or Holland, of whom they might borrow a sum sufficient punctually to pay the interest of the sum they might borrow of the bill-holders? And to induce either of the Estates before mentioned to lend the money wanted, they might direct the several United States to impose duties upon articles of superfluity to such an amount, as, among them all, would be sufficient to pay the interest of the money borrowed of the European states above mentioned, and mortgage the same to them for their security. Would not such a measure as this create in the people here and in Europe such a confidence in Congress, as that the American funds would be held in higher esteem than any funds in Europe, and when they considered we were a young and growing people, and that every year rendered us more able to pay the debts we had contracted, would not people be sollicitous to interest themselves in the American funds? And when once this confidence in Congress took place, and was firmly established, might not the greatest improvements be made from it? Would it not enable the Congress, in a variety of ways that might be mentioned, easily and advantageously to redeem their paper money, and without public inconvenience or private distress to cancel the whole of their debt, and that at no very distant period? These observations you will, whenever the subject of finance is before them, submit to the consideration of Congress. The public safety requires that the value of our paper money should be raised as fast as possible. The faith of the United States has been solemnly pledged for the redemption of their bills of credit. The presumption is that this was to be done within a reasonable time. The honor, the justice of the continent is concerned to do it with all possible expedition, and therefore every probable method that can be devised ought immediately to be adopted to effect it."

On the 9th of April, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Hutchinson, Vose and Barrell, was appointed by the House, "to consider the last tax act, and report a bill or resolve making such explanations and amendments as they may think necessary." On the 12th, this committee reported the following resolve:*—

"State of Mass Bay } In the House of Representatives April, 12. 1779

Whereas it was intended by the General Court at the time of passing the last act ordering a tax to be assessed on the Inhabitants of this State, that said tax should be paid into the Treasury in any bills of credit emitted by Congress as well those ordered by Congress by their Resolution of the second of January last to be taken out of circulation, as others, and no provision therefor being made in said Act. It is therefore

And when any such Collector or Constable shall deliver any Money which he has collected on said tax among which are any bills of said Emissions to be paid into the Treasury, he shall send therewith a certificate of his having taken the aforesaid Oath before some Justice of the peace & that he has deliver'd the bills to a certain person therein named to diliver to the Treasurer—And the Person therein named shall take the following Oath Viz.

You A. B. do solemnly swear that the Bills of credit now by you produced are the same bills which you received of C. D. Collector, or Constable, (as the case may be) of and which are referred to in the Certificate of the oath by him taken & now by you produced so help you God

Provided that nothing in this Resolve shall extend or be construed to extend to enable the Treasurer to receive of any Constable or Collector or other person in behalf of such Constable or Collector any bills of either of the emissions ordered to be taken out of circulation as aforesaid in discharge of said Tax unless the same shall be brought into the Treasury on or before the twenty eighth day of May next—

On the 27th of May, Messrs. Durfee, Paine and Rawson were appointed a committee "to consider the situation of gentlemen who have brought money to the treasury from constables or collectors who have not adhered strictly to the resolve requiring an oath respecting the emissions of May, 1777 and April, 1778." On the same day this committee reported the following resolve * which was passed: — "

"In the house of Representatives May 27 1779

Whereas it is represented that there are divers Constables & Collectors who have sent Bills of Credit of the Emissions taken out of Circulation to the Treasurer of this State in discharge of the Taxes collected by them for the last Tax orderd to be assessed on the Inhabitants of this State, but have not sent therewith a Certificate as directed by a Resolve of the General Court of April 12 1779 the same not having come to their knowledge, for want of which the Treasurer is not authorized to receive them, whereby great damage may accrue—

Therefore Resolved, That the Treasurer of this State, be and he hereby is impower'd & Directed to receive into the Treasury on or before the 29th day of May Current Bills of Credit of the Emissions taken out of Circulation sent by Collectors & Constables in discharge of the Taxes collected by them—provided the Persons bringing and offering the same to the Treasurer do take the following Oath viz.

You A B do solemnly swear that the Bills of Credit now offerd by you are the same Bills which you received of C D Constable or Collector of Taxes for the Town of ——— for the present Year and that he deliver'd them to you as the Bills receiv'd by him in payment of the Taxes by him collected on the last Tax & to be deliverd by you to the Treasurer of this State on account of the same—So help you God

Provided also—That nothing in this Resolve shall extend or be construed to extend to enable the Treasurer to receive any of the said Bills according to this Resolve unless the same shall be offer'd to him in pursuance thereof on or before the said 29th Day of May—

The foregoing petition was read in the House, February first, and committed to Messrs. Thatcher, Blaney and Frazier, who reported the following resolve, which appears not to have been concurred in by the Council, and hence the figures in the original bill inserted agreeably to this resolve were subsequently cancelled, and the printed act made to agree with the bill as thus altered: —

A petition from Southwick praying for relief from certain taxes was ordered to be dismissed February 11th; and, on a petition by the selectmen of Dartmouth,* praying that the losses of the inhabitants, occasioned by the depredations of the enemy, Sept. 5, 1778, might be made up to them by an abatement of their taxes, a resolve was reported Feb. 27, 1779, granting the town £400, to be apportioned by the selectmen among the sufferers. This report was ordered "to lie until the next session." On the first day of March the following resolve† was passed superseding the necessity of further action on the reported resolve:—

"To the Honourable Council and House of Representatives of the State of the Massachusetts Bay now Seting at Boston

We your Humble Petitioners Beg Leave to represent to your Honours the True State of affairs Relative to the Town of Murrayfield's Raising their Quota's of Men in the Present War, and their Willingness always to obey all Orders and Resolves of the General Court of this State and the Honourable Continental Congress Persuant to which in the Year 1777 The Honourable General Court of this State resolved that every Town in this State Should raise for the Continental Service every Seventh Man, which in this Town Amounted to fourteen Men—Accordingly the Town by a Large Hire Emediately procured the Men Some for Three Years and Some Engaged During the War; Soon after which upon the Continental Armys not being filled up There came a Resolve from the Honourable Continental Congress that if any two Men would Hire a Man for the Continental Service more Than Their Proportional Part of Every Seventh Man they should be freed from future Draughts, upon this Encouragment from Congress that we Should be favoured in future

* Printed in full in the note to 1777–78, chapter 29; p. 862, ante.
† Printed resolves of the January session, chapter CCLXXII. ‡ Ibid., chapter XIII.

Draughts a Number of the Inhabitants in this Town (Though unable to Spare the Money) Joined Togeather and Hired five Men more Than our Quota into the Continental Service Supposing they would Answer for the Town when called upon afterwards Accordingly in the Year 1778 This Town was Called upon by the Honourable General Court of this State for two Men to go for Eight Months, and Three Men for Nine Months to Joine the Continental Army in Order to have it Compleated; the Town being called togeather in order to get the Men Agreable to Orders from the General Court They Judging it no More than Reasonable that we Should have Some Allowance made us for those Men that we had in the Continental Service more than our Proportion, and had Given them a Large Hire Therefore relying on the Justice of the Cause the Town Thought it no more than Honest an Right Not to Draught any Men for the Nine Months Service to Joine the Continental Army, but to make return of Three of Those Men that we had already in the Continental Service more than our Quota, not Doubting but that the Honourable General Court would as Soon as they Saw the Return Allow the Men to Stand Good and Answer for the Town: Though to our Disappointment we find the Town of Murrayfield Fined Three Hundred Pounds for the Neglect of those Three Men, which we Viewed were in Actual Service for the Town and no other, and are Still in the Service. Therefore your Humble Petitioners pray that the Honourable Councell and House of Representatives would Take into their Wise Consideration the Poverty of the Town, the Services we have done in the War more than our Proportion, Especially in the Continental Service as we have in a great Measure Exhausted our Selves of Money to Hire So many Men into the Service. Therefore we pray that Your Honours would Take These Things into your Wise Consideration and be Pleased to Take off our Fine as Your Honours in your Wisdom Shall Judge Best, and as in Duty Bound Your Petitions Shall ever Pray—

"To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives of the state of the Massachusetts Bay — The Petition of the Inhabitants of the Town of Manchester —

Your Petitioners begg Leave humbly to Say — We Think our selves hardly treated — in having a fine of two Hundred pounds Requir'd of us — as we take it — For not Complying with an order of Court upon April 20 1778: by which the Town was ordered to Send Five men to Serve in the Continental Army for Nine Months. — For we assure your Honours that we took Unwearied Pains in Endeavours to obtain the five; But Yet Could procure no more than three. — But though we would have furnished the five, we yet think that, If other Towns had furnished the Seventh part of their Numbers — First Called for, the three we furnished would Have been our full Proportion, for when the Continental Army was formed, Twenty Nine were a Seventh Part of our Numbers: and that Number we Compleated to a Man: and all of them, Saving two, are still in the Field.

We also think our selves hardly treated, in that so Large a Proportion has been Demanded of us by a late act of the Court — for Apportioning and Assessing a Sum & sums of Mony for Defraying publicke Charges, and satisfying Representatives for the Expences of their travell, And their attandance in the General Court, in the Year 1778. For, we begg Leave to Certifie you, that, Since we Furnished men for the Continental Army, our Numbers have been so Diminished, by Deaths — Captivities And Removals out of town, that we are now, at Home, But about half so many, as we were then. — Besides, several of those that have left the town were some of our more wealthey members of society. And the Proportion Demanded of us, according to our Valuation-Return, is about the fifteenth Part of the Interest of the whole town. And our Internal Charges amount to more then our External. We have great Numbers of Poor to relieve, Tho' but a Small town, yet we have four Score widows in it, and far more Fatherless Children. Our trade & Commerce is but very inconsiderable. And Demands made for the Necessaries of Life, of which we are almost universally Purchasers, are high to astonishment, and Continually rising. — In short. There are many among us, who, we think, Cant be rationally thought able, at present, to Do any thing more towards Defraying publick Charges. And others of us see not how we shall be able to do more than Provide Necessaries for our families, and releive the Distresses of the poor, widows & fatherless; if so much.

We therefore pray your Honours will please to take our Case into Consideration, and take off the fine, And abate, at Least, a part of the Sum Lately Requird of us — as our Proportion for Defraying the Publick Charges, &c. And we shall, as in Duty bound, Ever Pray &c. —

P S We Begg Leave to add, as a Farther Plea, that we have been, from the First, Zealous in the Common Cause, and have Vigorously exerted our selves in endeavours to help in the Deliverance of our Dear Country. — AARON LEE, ELEAZER CRAFT, JOHN ALLEN JUNR } A Committee of The Town A fore Said."—Ibid., vol. 185, p. 112.

On the 8th of April, the following return having been made of service of notice under the foregoing resolve, the petition was referred to a joint committee, consisting of Josiah Stone, of the Council, and Messrs. Sumner and Brooks of the House, "to hear the parties, and report what may be proper to be done thereon:" —

On the 9th of April, the committee above named reported "that the prayer of the petition be granted, and leave given to bring in a bill for incorporating said lands into a town," which was accepted, and on the 10th, the bill of this chapter was read a first time in the House. On the 13th, the bill was passed to be engrossed, sent up to the Council, for concurrence, and there concurred in; and on the 14th, it was passed to be enacted.

Within a few days after this chapter had been enacted, the Legislature was applied to by Asaph White, agent for the town of Charlemont, for its repeal. White's petition, which was read in the House April 19, 1779, has not been found, but it appears that the prayer of the petitioner was, that this act "may be repealed or altered." The petition was immediately referred to a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Brooks and Pynchon, of the House, and Baker, of the Council, "to consider the same and report what may be proper to be done." On the 20th, this committee reported a resolve * ordering notice of the petition to be served on the inhabitants of Buckland, to appear, on the second Wednesday of the next session of the General Court, to show cause why the prayer thereof should not be granted.

Before the subject again came up in the Assembly the inhabitants of Charlemont met and voted as follows: —

"At a Legal meeting of the freeholders & other Inhabitants of Charlemont held at the Meeting house in Said town on thirsday the 27th of May 1779 —

Voted that, that part of the town Called the hill, be set off, upon condition that they can have green & Walkers land annexed, and that it remain upon the same footing with regard to Mr Leavitt, as the other parts of the Town 'till the difficulties that now subsist between Mr Leavitt & the town, are Settled: the lines to run As follows Viz, begining at the north line of the town Runing South, upon the west line of Wilders range of lots through Kinakems and Baldins farms, thence runing East, taking in Asahl Thayers and Mr Leavitts farms. From Mr Leavitts Southeast corner, to the top of Walnut hill, where the town line Crosses it, —

Voted that the Hill, Shall have their proportion of the Meeting-house, and publick lands, in proportion to the quantity of Lands, set off.

On the 3d of June a joint committee, consisting of Artemas Ward, of the Council, and Messrs. Hunt and Nichols, of the House, was appointed "to consider the petition of Asaph White agent for the town of Charlemont, hear the parties who are present, and report what may be proper to be done thereon." On the 4th another petition by "the inhabitants of the north-east quarter of Charlemont," praying to be incorporated with the lands described in the petition and "Green and Walker's farm, into a town by ourselves," was read in the House and referred to the same committee, and on the same day, by a concurrent vote, Asaph White had leave to withdraw his petition as agent for the town of Charlemont, in accordance with the report to that effect, of the committee above named; but on the petition of the inhabitants of the north-east part of the town the committee reported a recommendation that Charlemont be not divided, but that Green and Walker's Grant be annexed, and submitted a resolve † ordering notice to the proprietors of Green and Walker's Grant; to appear and show cause on the second Wednesday of the "next sitting" of the Assembly.

At the next session (Sept 15), the above-named petition was read, in the Council, and referred to a joint committee, consisting of John Pitts, of that board, and Messrs. Metcalf of Dedham, and Singletary, of the House, who were instructed "to hear the parties who are present, and report what may be proper to be done thereon." At the same session, also, a petition from the inhabitants of a "tract of land called The Ten Thousand Acres, alias Myrifield, formerly purchased of this government," was presented and referred to a committee. These petitioners prayed the Assembly to take effectual measures for the settlement of a tract of land ("called Green's and Walker's farms, lying contiguous and most convenient, and what was proposed to make up the township by the Court's committee in the time of sale of the said Ten Thousand Acres") "with wholesome inhabitants," and to "annex and incorporate the same, with the said Ten Thousand Acres, into a township, or any such part thereof" as to the Assembly should seem fit. This petition was referred, on the 8th of September, to a committee consisting of Messrs. Stickney, Perry and Gerrish.

By this time, the project of repealing this chapter seems to have been wholly abandoned, and the Assembly directed its attention to the subject of uniting the unincorporated lands above described with the north-easterly part of Charlemont. The committee appointed, as above, upon the petition of the inhabitants of this part of Charlemont, reported favorably on the 17th of September. Their report was read in the Council, and ordered to be sent down, but no action appears to have been taken thereon by the House until November 20th, when the report was committed to Messrs. Grow and Sparhawk.

Asaph White now appeared as the agent of the inhabitants of the north-east part of Charlemont, and presented a petition praying that said inhabitants, and their lands, might be set off from Charlemont and incorporated, with Green and Walker's farm into a separate town. This petition was referred, November 24th, to Messrs. Choate, Davis of Oxford, and Thurston. The result of this reference was a resolve,* passed November 26th, appointing a joint committee "to repair to Charlemont and view the situation of the same, and also the farm adjoining, abovesaid, and also the plantation of Myrifield, if they require it (who have also petitioned this Court that all or part of said Green and Walker's farm with said plantation, may be erected into a town)", and after due notice and hearing to report what they think proper to be done, "on the third Wednesday of the next sitting of this Court."

On the 4th of May, 1780, the report of this committee was read in the Council, and an order was passed referring the consideration thereof to the next sitting of the General Court.

The report recommended that two tiers of lots, containing 200 rods in breadth, "lying on the west end of Green and Walker's land, be annexed unto the plantation called Myrifield and incorporated with it into a town," and that the remainder of Green and Walker's Grant "be annexed to and incorporated with the north-easterly part of Charlemont," according to the bounds set forth in the report, and that bills be brought in accordingly. The committee expressed the opinion that such division is just and reasonable and that the portions would, respectively, "accommodate a sufficient number of inhabitants to make three good towns," but considering the existing situation of the inhabitants of Charlemont, that "it is not expedient at this time to divide the town," as abovesaid, for reasons which they give at length; and to save the town of Charlemont further expense in relation to this matter, they recommended that their report, so far as it respects the division of that town, "be kept upon the files of the House until the æra shall arrive when the Honorable General Court shall see fit to divide them."

Chap. 41. On the 8th of January, 1779, Judge Sullivan, Mr. Angier and Mr. Gray were appointed by the House, a committee "to revise the acts enabling towns to raise money for carrying on the present war, and report what additions, alterations or explanations are necessary to be made." On the 11th of February, another committee, consisting of Messrs. Phillips of Andover, Stickney and Sumner, was appointed "to revise the act enabling towns to raise money, and report what further power is necessary to be given them."

Although the duties required of these committees are not described in precisely the same language, they would seem to be substantially identical. No report by either committee has been found, but the bill of this chapter, which appears to have been considerably altered and amended (probably in committee), and which was read in the House a first time on the 23d of February, is probably the result of the labors of one or both of these committees. This bill was read a second time on the 24th, and was passed to be engrossed on the 25th, and on that day sent up to the Council, for concurrence. On the 27th, the Council concurred, but the Assembly was adjourned on the first of March, after the House had voted to refer the consideration of the bill to the next session.

On the 14th of April, the consideration of the bill was again resumed, in the House, and it was passed to be enacted by both branches.

While the bill of this act was pending, a petition was presented by Moses Hayden and thirty-seven others, inhabitants of the town of Conway. The original of this petition has not been discovered, but it appears by the minutes of the Council that it related to "a tax laid upon said town." This petition, which was read in the Council February first, was referred to a joint committee, consisting of Nathan Cushing, of the Council, and Messrs. Baker and Lyman of the House, who reported, February 2d, by way of resolve,† an order of notice to the town of Conway to appear, on the second Wednesday of the next sitting of the General Court, to show cause against the petition. On the 16th of April, this committee reported, "That before a final determination is had on the said petition, and the answer of the said town, it is necessary that an act should be passed in addition to, or explanation of, the several acts for enabling towns to raise money for carrying on the present war." This report was not accepted by the Council, who ordered that the petition be dismissed, which was concurred in by the House.

Chap. 12. On the 25th of January, 1779, the House appointed Messrs. Page, Cranch, Barrell, Wales and Partridge, a committee "to enquire into the state of the treasury, to devise means for supplying the same, and report to the House as soon as may be." This committee was changed on the 29th, by the substitution of Col. Hutchinson for Mr. Cranch, who was excused, and, on the 10th of February, by the substitution of Mr. Lowell and Mr Phillips of Andover, for Messrs. Partridge and Hutchinson, who were absent.

On the day last named the committee reported, and their report was recommitted. They reported again on the 15th, and their report, which has not been found, was accepted. On the 8th of April, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, and proceeded thereafter, regularly, to enactment six days later.

Chap. 43. "Apr. 7, 1779. Mr. Avery, Deputy-Secretary, came into the House with a Message from t' e Honorable Major Part of the Council, which he read and delivered to the Speaker, as follows, viz.

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives, * * * * *

And we would submit it to your Consideration whether instead of employing the armed Vessels belonging to this State in long Cruizes after Prizes, it would not have been vastly more for the Advantage and Profit of this State to have had them improved in cruizing upon this Coast for the Protection of our Trade and the Defence of our Harbours upon the Sea Coasts, which have been left in such an unguarded and defenceless Situation that where we have taken one Vessel from the Enemy, their small Privateers out of New-York have taken ten from us; in short, they have of late, from our unguarded Situation, been emboldened freely to cruize about in our Bay, and have taken a Number of our Vessels just as they were entering into or going out of our Ports.

This is become a Matter of a very serious Nature and demands your closest Attention, more especially at this Time, for as the Enemy's Army is considerably diminished, and they are not in Force to meet us in the Field, it is highly probable they will exert every Nerve to distress us by making Depredations upon our Trade and upon our Sea Coasts.

"Apr. 9, 1779. The Committee on the Message from the Honorable Council brought in a Report as follows, viz. * * * * *

Read and the House accepted the the same, excepting the fourth Article, which was ordered to be recommitted." — Ibid., p. 169.

A further report by this committee was read in the House on the 12th, and accepted, and Mr. Gray brought in a resolve in accordance therewith by order of the House. This resolve was sent up to the Council, for concurrence, but before any action had been had thereon by the Board, it was recalled by a message from the House, who thereupon appointed Messrs. Gray, Davis and Greenough a committee to "bring in a bill for the purposes therein mentioned, and make provision in the bill, for a supply of the treasury therefor." On the next day the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, and proceeded through the subsequent stages on the 14th, 16th and 19th, when it was passed to be enacted by both branches.

The foregoing petition was read in the House, Feb. 22, 1779, and committed to Messrs, Kollock, Stow and Lyman, who, on the same day, reported a resolve,* which was passed, ordering notice to be served on the town of Warwick, to appear and show cause on the second Wednesday of the next session of the General Court. With the petition was filed a copy of the vote of the town, dated Dec. 28, 1778, for adding the income of "the ministry right" to the fund raised by the petitioners.

On the 14th of April, the notice having been served agreeably to order, the following memorial (in two parts, each of the same tenor but with different signers) was presented, asking for a division of the income of the proceeds of the sale of the ministry lands among such religious societies as might thereafter be formed in Warwick, the town to hold the property in trust for that purpose, paying the income to the society or societies actually existing for the time being:

The petition was referred, on the same day, to a joint committee, consisting of Josiah Stone, of the Council, and Messrs. Stow, and Brown of Framingham, of the House, "to hear the parties and report what may be proper to be done thereon." On the 15th the committee reported,—

"That lieve be given to Bring in a Bill Impowering s^d Town to make Sail of the Lands mentioned in their Said petio^n for the purposes of Supporting the Gospel, & Incorporating them into a Society as in s^d Petition is Set fourth: Saveing to Such of the Freeholders of s^d Town as may hereafter be Imbody into or with a reguler Church haveing a Protestant Learned Minister Settled among them; in that Case Such Inhabitants to have their proportionable part of the Interest of the money raised by the Sail, of s^d Lands according to their State Tax." — Ibid., p. 482.

This report was read in the Council, accepted, and sent down for concurrence. The House concurred, with an amendment to insert the word "gospel" between "learned" and "minister," in the report, to which, on the next day, the Council agreed. On the 19th, after two readings, the Council passed the bill of this chapter, to be engrossed, under the title of "An act to incorporate the committee of the church and congregation in the town of Warwick, with corporate powers for certain purposes therein mentioned," and sent it down for concurrence. On the 20th, the House concurred, with two amendments of the title, by which the words "with corporate powers," and "therein mentioned," were stricken out; to this the Council agreed, and the bill was passed to be enacted, the same day.

Chap. 45. On the 14th of April, 1779, the House, by special assignment, considered "the expediency of continuing the vendue act," and thereupon a vote for repealing that act passed in the negative, and the bill of this chapter was read a first time. On the next day, the bill was read again, and on the 16th, it was read a third time, passed to be engrossed, and sent up to the Council, for concurrence, where it was amended by substituting "public auction," for "vendue," in the preamble, and "auction," for "vendue," in the third line of the act; in which amendments the House concurred, the same day, and, on the 23d, the bill was passed to be enacted, by both branches.

Chap. 47. On the 25th of January, 1779, a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Brown of Pittsfield, Bacon of Stockbridge, and Crane, of the House, and Walter Spooner and Nathan Cushing, of the Council, was appointed to take into consideration, among other things, the act for establishing an oath of fidelity and allegiance, and to consider the situation of persons who had been committed under that act. The report of this committee was read and accepted in the Council, but on the 28th, the House refused to concur. The matter seems to have rested here until April 17th, when a joint committee, consisting of Oliver Prescott and Eleazer Brooks, of the Council, and Messrs. Hastings, Shiverick and Tyler, of the House, was appointed "to consider the expediency of extending the time for the officers of the militia to take the oath of fidelity and allegiance, and make report." This committee reported the bill of this chapter which, on the 21st, having been read twice, in the Council, was there passed to be engrossed, and sent down to the House, for concurrence. In the House, the bill was read on the 23d, and again on the 24th. On the 27th, it was read a third time, and passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with amendments striking out the word "and," after "military," in the third line of the preamble, and the words "or affirmation," after the word "oath," in the first and fifth lines of the first section, and in the third and fifth lines of the second section. The Council concurred in these amendments, and, on the 30th, the bill was passed to be enacted by both branches.

Chap. 48. Immediately after the evacuation of Boston by the British forces the subject of confiscating the estates of such persons as had aided the enemy began to be considered by the General Court, and on the 19th of March, 1776, the House passed an order appointing Messrs. Sullivan, Hawley, Cushing, Partridge and Batcheldor of Beverly, "with such as the honorable Board shall join," a committee to bring in a bill for that purpose.

By the House Journal, it appears that this order was sent up to the Council, for concurrence, but no record of its reception by the Council has been discovered. On the 8th of April, the House appointed another committee for the same purpose, consisting of Messrs. Hawley, Sullivan and Story; but no further action upon the subject, in either branch, has been found, until the proceedings relative to the passage of this chapter, were introduced.

Undoubtedly the desire not to appear, to the sister colonies, precipitate in their movement towards revolution, restrained the Assembly of Massachusetts from adopting measures at variance with the common-law rights of even those citizens who had shown their hostility by fleeing the country or by abandoning their homes, for protection in the enemy's camp. The Assembly, therefore, at first proceeded no further in respect to controlling the estates of refugees, than was necessary to prevent loss and waste, and to provide for satisfying the claims of creditors. The plan pursued was, substantially, that previously adopted by the provincial congress, and described in the note to 1776–77, chapter 38, ante. Upon the evacuation of Boston, the Assembly was constrained to devise more systematic measures for securing the valuable real and personal estates, in that town, abandoned by those who had sailed in the enemy's fleet to Halifax (or who had previously left the country) than the loosely defined and practically irresponsible superintendence with which the selectmen and committees of correspondence had been invested by the provincial congress. Accordingly, they passed the resolve of March 25, 1776*, by which a committee was appointed to inventory and secure the estates of the refugees from Boston.

Following this resolve, came the resolve of April 3d, which conferred upon the committee appointed to inventory and secure the refugees' estates, full power to examine persons suspected of holding or concealing, any portion of the same, and to take and hold the same against any civil process issued since April 19, 1775, subject to the future order of the Assembly.

The House passed a resolve, on the 9th of April, 1776, extending to all the towns in the colony the provisions with regard to inventorying the estates of persons inimical to the liberties of the people, and requiring the several committees of correspondence, safety and inspection throughout the colony, aided by the justices of the peace in the respective counties, to prepare and return to the General Court, at its next session, lists of the names of such persons, together with the charges against them, and evidence to support the same.

The Council, however, seems not to have concurred in this resolve; and the resolve that was passed by the House April 19th, and by the Council April 23d, appears to have been adopted as a substitute.

From this time onward, until the passage of chapter 38 of the acts of the year 1776–77, the progress of measures for the security, management and disposal of the estates of refugees is shown in the note to that chapter, pp. 710 and 711, ante. The purpose of the last-named chapter was to give to the judiciary, in certain cases, the oversight of the management of the estates of refugees. Accordingly, the several judges of probate were thereby empowered to appoint agents to regularly manage such estates, in the nature of administrations upon the estates of persons deceased — the Superior Court being authorized to hear appeals, and to grant licenses for the sale of the real estate, when the personal estate should be insufficient for the payment of creditors, as in the case of executors and administrators. Chapter 22 of the acts of the present year enlarged the jurisdiction conferred upon the judges of probate by the above-named chapter 38, but neither of these acts provided for an absolute confiscation of the proceeds of the estates, which were to be paid into the state treasury, and receipted for by the treasurer.

It will be noticed that the legislative proceedings against the royalists, gradually branched into two classes; one directed against their persons, and the other against their estates.

On the 16th of January, 1778, Congress having passed the following resolve on the 27th of November previous, —

"Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the several states, as soon as may be, to confiscate and make sale of all the real and personal estate therein of such of their inhabitants and other persons who have forfeited the same and the right to the protection of their respective states; and to invest the money arising from the sales in continental loan-office certificates, to be appropriated in such manner as the respective states shall hereafter direct,"

— a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Niles, Orne, Jackson, Coffin and Crane, of the House, and Jeremiah Powell, William Sever, Artemas Ward and Timothy Danielson, of the Council, was appointed to take this resolve into consideration.

This committee was changed, on the 24th, by the substitution of Messrs. Sartell, Davis and Hunter of the House, for Messrs. Orne, Coffin and Crane, and on the 29th, this committee reported, in the Council, a resolve to refer the subject "to the next sitting of the General Court;" but in the vote of the Council accepting this report the House refused to concur. On the 31st, the House passed an order appointing Messrs. Clap, Sumner, Noyes, Hyde and Stone a committee "to bring in a bill for confiscating and making sale of all the real and personal estate of such of the inhabitants and other persons of this state who have forfeited the same, agreeable to a resolution of Congress, of the 22d* of November, 1777." On the fifth of February, Messrs. Sewall, Singletary, Metcalf and Niles were added to this committee; and on the 23d, a bill, entitled "An Act for confiscation of the estates of several persons therein mentioned who have joined themselves to the enemies of the United States of America," was read a first time, in the House, and the committee reporting this bill were ordered "to report a list of the names of persons whose estates are to be confiscated."

The General Court was prorogued, on the 13th of March, without further action upon this bill, nor has there been discovered any action upon it during the next session and the first session of the next Assembly, except the following entry in the House Journal: —

"Apr. 25, 1778. The House assigned the second Wednesday of the next Session for the Consideration of the Bill for confiscating the Estates of Absentees." — P. 249.

In the second session of the next Assembly, a bill with the same title was read a first time, September 14th, and a second time, on the 29th. It was "considered" on that and the two days next following. On the first of October the House ordered that Messrs. Angier, Davis, Sumner, Washburn and Gray "be a committee to bring in a clause determining that debts due to individuals, shall be paid out of the estates; also one making provision for recovery of debts due to persons whose estates are to be confiscated, and another making provision for their wives and families." The consideration of the bill was then resumed, and a vote that the House resolve itself into a committee of the whole, to consider the general principles of the bill, was voted down; whereupon it was ordered "that the committee appointed to bring in a clause respecting the debts due from those persons whose estates are to be confiscated, bring in a clause for apportioning the proceeds of said estates to the relief of those who have suffered by the depredations of the enemy." The House then assigned the 7th, for a third reading of the bill, at which time it was read, accordingly, and the House reconsidered its vote for making provision for the wives of absentees. On the 8th, the House passed the bill, to be engrossed, by the votes of 63 out of 90 members present, and sent it up to the Council, for concurrence, where it was read a first time on the next day, and assigned for a second reading one day later. It was not, however, read a second time, in the Council, until the 13th, after which it was referred to Messrs. Sever, Ward and Dana, of the Council, to take it "into consideration, and to bring it into a new draught, and report at the next session of the General Court." On the 14th, General Hancock came up from the House with a message to inquire whether the Council had passed upon the bill "confiscating the estates of some notorious offenders who have left this state and fled to the enemy," whereupon a message was returned informing the House of the last vote in Council upon the bill.

A committee of conference was now appointed, consisting of Messrs. Hancock, Singletary, Davis, Freeman and Kollock, of the House, and Ward, Spooner, Thomas Cushing, Gill and Edwards, of the Council. This was on the 14th, and the next day Messrs. Crane and Wood were appointed on the committee, in place of Gen. Hancock, who was excused, and Mr. Davis, who was absent. On the 16th, the General Court was adjourned to Jan. 6, 1779, without having made further progress with the bill. A resolve † was passed, however, on the 15th, directing the agents appointed on absentees' estates to lay before the General Assembly, at their next session, an account of said estates whether real or personal, and that in the mean time no real estates be sold for payment of debts.

A clear draught of the bill, at this stage, is on file, in the handwriting of a clerk in the secretary's department, bearing memoranda of the proceedings thereon, in the House and Council, on the 8th and 9th of October, 1778. It provides for the absolute confiscation (in conformity to the "usage of all nations") of all the personal property and of all lands, tenements and hereditaments, within this state, which seventy-eight persons therein named, and, by force of the act, convicted of endeavoring the ruin of, and making war against, the people of the United States, possessed upon the nineteenth day of April, 1775, or at any time since; and declared said estates "forfeited to this state," and that they "shall be deemed, vested and adjudged in the real and actual possession of this state, without further inquiry, adjudication or determination hereafter to be had." The bill provided for the payment, out of the confiscated property, of "all debts justly due to any subject of the united American states," and directed that the estates should be sold, and the proceeds of the sale "placed in the Continental treasury, and loan-office certificates taken therefor," payable to the state treasurer, to be appropriated for the relief of such inhabitants of the state as had suffered from the devastations of the enemy, and also for the relief of the wives and children of "such soldiers as have fallen in defence of their country."

The following are the persons named in the bill, all of whom, except Thomas Goldthwait, being included in the act (chapter 24, ante) "to prevent the return of certain persons," &c., which was passed on the last day of this session: —

On the 13th of January, this bill was sent down to the House upon request, and the next day it was referred to a joint committee, consisting of Messrs Sullivan, Phillips of Boston, Singletary, Hancock and Angier, of the House, and Ward, Spooner, Dana and Nathan Cushing, of the Council. Nothing further relative to this committee or its doings has been discovered, except that from a memorandum endorsed on the bill (by which it is shown to have been the same bill which the House had passed to be engrossed, on the 8th of October), it appears that the Council appointed their members of the joint committee on the 15th; and, from an entry in the House Journal, it further appears that, on the 5th of February, Mr. Crane was chosen to that committee "in the room of Gen. Hancock, excused."

On the 9th of February, the House appointed Messrs. Sullivan, Davis of Boston, and Prescott a committee "to bring in a bill for confiscating the estates of certain persons inimical to this and the other states of America." On the 11th, a bill, entitled "An Act for the confiscation of the estates of sundry persons who have been guilty of the offences therein mentioned," appears, by the House Journal, to have been "read a second time and ordered to lie," although no previous mention of this bill occurs in the journal or elsewhere. The House members of the joint committee for bringing in a bill, were now enjoined to sit, and a message was sent to the Council, requesting them to give a similar direction to the members of their Board, upon the committee, and at the same time Messrs. Brown, Hosmer and Washburn were put upon the committee, in the room of Messrs. Sullivan and Sumner, who were absent, and Mr. Phillips of Boston, who was excused. The Assembly was adjourned on the first of March, without making further progress with the bill.

The next session began on the seventh of April; and on the 21st, a bill was read a first time, entitled "An Act for confiscation and sale at public auction of the estates of several persons, therein mentioned, who have joined themselves to the enemies of the United States of America." On the next day it was read again, by assignment, "and recommitted for amendments." The bill had already been changed in the title by striking out the words "at public auction," and it had, doubtless, been amended in other particulars which cannot so easily be ascertained. The names of forty-eight persons are included in this bill, twenty-seven of whom are in the act. The names of Samuel Quincy and Samuel Fitch, which appear in the act, do not appear in the bill or any memorandum of amendment thereto, and were probably ordered to be inserted before the bill was passed to be engrossed.

This bill followed the previous one in respect to confiscation, but provided for the immediate sale of the confiscated estates at public auction, after notice advertised, by committees named and appointed, in the bill, for four districts, embracing, collectively, all the counties in the state. The bill also made provision for the relief and support, in certain cases, of the wives and families of the refugees whose estates should have been confiscated.

On the 23d, this bill was read a third time, passed to be engrossed by 62 votes out of 82, and sent up for concurrence. It was read, a first time, in the Council, on the 24th, and the 26th was assigned for the second reading, which, however, was not had until the 28th, when the bill was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed "as taken into a new draught." This new draught was in the form in which it was finally passed to be enacted, with the addition, in section two, of the words "were," before "entitled," and "of," after "possessed," in the twenty-second line.

The bill was now sent down to the House, together with the new draught, whereupon the House ordered a message to be sent to the Council, proposing a conference of both branches, to which the Council agreed, and the conference was accordingly held on the 29th — Artemas Ward presiding — in the representatives room, where seats were assigned for the accommodation of the Council. Upon another message from the House, this conference was renewed, on the same day; after which, the House proceeded to the consideration of the bill as newly drawn, and passed the same, with the amendments above noted, and sent it up for concurrence. On the 30th, the Council concurred in this vote of the House, and, on the same day, the bill was passed to be enacted, by both branches.

On the first of May, 1779, a committee previously "appointed to consider of some means for supplying the treasury, reported a resolve for selling the estates of certain persons therein named which have been already confiscated to the use of the state." This resolve was passed in the House, and sent up for concurrence, whereupon the Council voted that it be referred to the next sitting of the General Court. These proceedings all took place on the same day, but the vote of the Council had not been communicated to the House, and on the 3d, a message of inquiry was sent to the Council, and thereupon the resolve was sent down and a committee of conference chosen thereon, consisting of Messrs. Partridge and Davis of Boston, on the part of the House, and Walter Spooner and Francis Dana, of the Council, who reported the same in a new draught, which, on that day, was accepted and passed (chapter CXXXIV. of the printed resolves). The resolve provided for the sale of the estates lying in Milton, Dorchester, Roxbury and Boston, of the late Governors Hutchinson and Bernard, and of Sir William Pepperrell, Joshua Loring and Nathaniel Hatch.

On the 23d of June, 1779, a resolve (chapter CLXV. of the printed resolves of the May session) was passed, appointing one person in each county to ascertain what real estate was subject to confiscation under this and the next chapter, to make out lists of said estates, and to return these lists to the secretary's office.

On the 23d of September another resolve was passed for the immediate sale of the confiscated estates of the persons, named in this chapter, whose estates were not ordered to be sold in the resolve of May 3, 1779, with the exception of the estate of Samuel Fitch. Sir William Pepperrell's name was included in both resolves. By this resolve, which constitutes chapter LXX. of the printed resolves, committees were appointed in the several counties to sell the confiscated estates and give deeds thereof, and to return the proceeds of the said sales to the state treasury; and on the 20th of November, a resolve was passed (chapter LII. of the printed resolves) directing the treasurer to pay out these moneys in discharge of any warrant which may be drawn upon him for defraying the public expenses.

Many other resolves were passed during this and the following year suspending sales, and making other disposition of the confiscated estates in special cases; thus, by the resolve of May 20, 1779 (chapter XIV. of the printed resolves), the sale of Sir William Pepperrell's mansion-house was suspended until the further order of the General Court, it being occupied by Major General Heath; by the resolve of May 31st (chapter XVII.), the lands, in Brookline, of Governor Bernard, and, in Braintree, of Governor Hutchinson, were ordered to be sold — they not having been included in the former order of sale; by the resolve of September 9th (chapter V.), so much of the lands, in Worcester County, of John Murray, were ordered to be sold, as would raise the sum of £69. 3*s*. 9*d*. to discharge an obligation from Murray to Isaac Stone; by the resolve of September 24th (chapter LXXIII.), partition was ordered to be made of the lands, in Beverly, of Abijah Willard, and they were ordered to remain subject to an existing mortgage; by the resolve of October 4th (chapter CXLIV.), the committees appointed to sell the confiscated estates, were authorized to use their discretion as to the manner of giving the notice required to be printed in the newspapers of Essex County, no such papers being then published; by the resolve of December 2d (chapter CXXXII. of the November session), Lemuel Kollock was allowed £200 wherewith to defray the expenses of prosecuting trespassers on the estate of William Browne; by the resolve of December 24th (chapter XL. of the December session), the committee appointed to sell confiscated estates in Middlesex County, were allowed their account of the proceeds of the estates which they had sold, and compensation was allowed to them; by the resolve of March 25, 1780 (chapter LXIX. of the March session), the judge of probate for Suffolk County was authorized and directed to fix a competent allowance for the support of the widow Mary Craddock, out of the estates of her sons-in-law, Robert Auchmuty and Thomas Brinley; by the resolve of March 29th (chapter XCVII.), the sale of the estate of Peter Oliver was suspended, upon the petition of the children of Joshua Spooner, late of Brookfield, who held a mortgage on said estate, and the agent of the estate was ordered to lease it; by another resolve of the same day (chapter XCVIII.), the committee appointed to sell the estate of Daniel Leonard were allowed their account of the proceeds of said sale, and compensation was granted to them; by the resolve of March 31st (chapter CVII.), upon the representation of the committee for selling confiscated estates in Worcester County, expressing doubts as to the method of their proceedings, they were directed to receive the price of all estates sold by them provided it be paid to them on or before April 20th, and to give deeds accordingly; also giving other directions in special cases; by the resolve of April 19th (chapter CCIII.), the committee for Suffolk County were ordered to suspend the sale of confiscated estates until the farther order of the General Court, and the agents on the estates lately belonging to Henry Hulton, Richard Lechmere and Samuel Quincy were directed to lease the same agreeably to former orders; and the committee of sequestration were ordered to take care of such part of the estate lately belonging to Harrison Gray as remained unsold; by the resolve of April 21st (chapter CCXVII.), the committee appointed to sell confiscated estates in Essex County, were ordered to lease, for one year, such part of the estate lately belonging to William Browne, as remained unsold; by the resolve of May 5th (chapter CCCXV.), the committee to sell confiscated estates in Middlesex County, or the major part of them, were authorized to give deeds to James Prescott, of certain woodland he had formerly purchased of Thomas Flucker, but of which he had received no deed; by the resolve of September 9th (chapter V. of the September session, 1780), James Williams was appointed to exercise the power conferred on the committee of correspondence of the town of Taunton, Jan. 31, 1778, to superintend the cutting of wood and digging of ore, for the state furnace at Bridgewater, on lands formerly belonging to John Borland, deceased, and empowering Hugh Orr to take wood, for the same purpose, from the land in Bridgewater formerly belonging to Josiah Edson—Capt. Nathan Mitchell to take an account of the same, to be returned by him to the Board of War.

For other proceedings relating to the confiscation and sale of estates of absentees see note to chapter 49, post: also, 1776-77, chapter 38, and note, ante.

Chap. 49. On the 20th of April, 1779, the House ordered "That Col. Freeman, Mr. Davis of Boston, and Mr. Gorham be a committee to bring in a bill for the immediate confiscation and sale of the estates of such absentees as are the most inimical to these states." On the following day the Council sent down, for concurrence, a bill with the title of this chapter, which had been twice read, and passed to be engrossed, by the Board. This was immediately read a first time, in the House, "and ordered to lie." It was read again on the 22d, by special assignment, and, on the 24th, "after debate on the several paragraphs," it was ordered to "be committed to Col. Freeman, Gen. Hancock and Mr. Davis of Boston, to prepare a providing clause respecting the persons named in the bill for confiscating estates, passed yesterday." On the 26th, this bill was read a third time, and passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with amendments, by the votes "of 42 out of 50," and the bill was sent to the Council for concurrence. The amendments proposed were three in number. The first amendment added to the first section the following clause, after the word "states" in the twenty-ninth line: —

"Unless it shall clearly appear to the jury, upon trial, by substantial evidence, that such person (against whom no other crime described in this act shall be alleged and proved than his or her leaving the place of his or her residence and going to some place within the dominions of the King of Great Britain or in possession of his forces) was induced by real necessity to leave the place of his or her residence as aforesaid, and that before the Declaration of Independence; and that he or she hath during his or her absence acted a part evidently friendly to this country, as far as he or she was able, and hath not aided, assisted or comforted the enemy aforesaid."

The second amendment added to a proviso which was inserted in the bill, between sections 5 and 6, a clause limiting the authority of the justices of the inferior courts of common pleas to continue causes entered in those courts under this act. The whole of this proviso was stricken out by the amendment adopted May 1st, and hereunder printed in full. The third amendment added the following to the eleventh section: —

"Provided, nevertheless, that nothing in this act shall be construed to extend to the persons or estates of Thomas Hutchinson, late of Boston, in the county of Suffolk, Esq., late governor of this state, Sir Francis Bernard, late resident in the said Boston, Baronet, formerly governor of this state, Thomas Oliver, late of Cambridge, in the county of Middlesex, Esq., and late lieut.-governor of this state, Harrison Gray, Foster Hutchinson, John Erving, jun., Sir William Pepperrell, George Erving, James Boutineau and Thomas Flucker, late of Boston, in the county of Suffolk, Esquires, Joshua Loring, late of Roxbury, in said county, Esq., Nathaniel Hatch, late of Dorchester, in said county, Esq; William Browne, late of Salem, in the county of Essex, Esq.; Richard Lechmere, late of Cambridge, in the county of Middlesex, Esq.; Peter Oliver, late of Middleborough, Josiah Edson, late of Bridgewater, Nathaniel Ray Thomas, late of Marshfield, in the county of Plymouth, Esquires; Timothy Ruggles, late of Hardwick, John Murray, late of Rutland, Abijah Willard, late of Lancaster, in the county of Worcester, Esquires; Daniel Leonard, late of Taunton, in the county of Bristol, Esq.; William Burch, Henry Hulton, Charles Paxton, Benjamin Hallowell, Richard Clarke and Benjamin Faneuil, jun., late of Boston, in the county of Suffolk, Esquires; John Coffin, distiller, Edward Foster, blacksmith, Silvester Gardiner, physician, Joseph Goldthwait, Esq., Frederick William Geyer, merchant, James Murray, Esq., and John Vassall, Esq., late of Boston, in the county of Suffolk; David Phips, late of Cambridge, Esq., Henry Barnes, late of Marlborough, merchant, in the county of Middlesex; Nathaniel Dickinson, late of Deerfield, in the county of Hampshire, gentleman; David Ingersoll, late of Great Barrington in the county of Berkshire, Esq.; Cornelius White, mariner, Pelham Winslow, Esq., late of Plymouth, in the county of Plymouth; Thomas Gilbert, late of Freetown, in the county of Bristol, Esq; Israel Tilden, late of Marshfield, in the county of Plymouth, housewright; Thomas Beaman, late of Petersham, in the county of Worcester, gentleman; Charles Callahan, late of Pownalborough, in the county of Lincoln, mariner; Joshua Loring, jun., late of Dorchester, in the county of Suffolk, Esq.; Robert Auchmuty, late of Roxbury, in the county of Suffolk, Esq.; Jonathan Sewall, late of Cambridge, in the county of Middlesex, Esq., and Samuel Waterhouse, late of Boston in the county of Suffolk, — whose inimical conduct hath been so notorious as to admit of no doubt thereof, and whose estates are confiscated by a law of this state, passed this present session, entitled 'An Act for confiscation and sale of the estates of certain persons therein mentioned'; anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding."

The vote of the House and the proposed amendments were read, in the Council, on the 28th, and after voting a nonconcurrence therein the Council, in turn, proposed three other amendments; one of which substituted the words "exhibit to the justices," in the third line of section 4, for "file in the clerk's office," as it was originally expressed; another inserted all after the word "escheated," in the eleventh line of section 4, to "suit," inclusive, in the fourth line of section 5, in place of the following clause in the bill:—

"And shall cause an attested copy thereof to be left at the mansion-house on the premises demanded, or, in case there be no mansion-house thereon, shall cause the same to be posted up in some public place in the town, district or plantation wherein such estate lies, and in which the person charged as aforesaid had his usual place of abode (if within this state), and shall also cause the same to be published in any one of the Boston newspapers, for three weeks successively, thirty days, at least, before the first day of the sitting of the court to which such complaint shall be made; and the court, upon motion of the said attorney-general or such other person as he shall appoint as aforesaid, shall enter upon their docket and records such suit and complaint."

The third amendment struck out, between sections 7 and 8, the following section which is retained in the bill: —

"And it is further enacted by the authority aforesaid, that the recovery of all personal estate by this act forfeited, and not now in the possession of this government, shall be in the same way and manner as is herein provided for real estate, saving that instead of judgment being given for the article claimed as forfeited it shall be given for such sum in debt or damages, according as the jury shall find; and execution shall issue in behalf of the government and people, in form prescribed by law in other cases."

The bill, with these amendments, was then sent down to the House, for concurrence, which was voted on the next day.

By the journal of the House this bill appears to have been there passed to be enacted April 30th, but by the so called General Court Records, and the original minutes of the Council from which they were compiled, it appears that the following amendment, referred to above, was not adopted by either branch until May first, on which day the bill was passed to be enacted by, and signed by a quorum of, the Council: —

"May 1, 1779. Thomas Cushing Esq^r went down with a Message to the Honble House to propose an Amendment in an Act for Confiscating the Estates of certain Persons commonly called Absentees, viz^t to dele a Clause in said Act, viz^t 'Provided nevertheless, and Be it Enacted &c. that the Justices of the Inferior Court of Common Pleas, when such Complaint shall be made and where such Suit shall be brought, shall continue the Action to the next Court and if no person then appears either in their own right or in the part and behalf of the Person accused to defend the Suit, the Justices at such next Court may further continue the Action if they see cause.' The Substance of said Clause, in the opinion of the Board, having been taken up in a preceeding Paragraph; if agreeable to the Honble House.

M^r Partridge came up with a Message from the Honble House to inform the Board, that they agreed to the proposed amendment referred to in the foregoing Message." — Council Records, vol. XXXIX., p. 235.

For proceedings relative to the disposition of the confiscated estates of the absentees prior and subsequent to the passage of this act, see the note to chapter 38 of the year 1776–77, and chapter 48 of this year.

Complaints against the persons and estates of absentees were filed by the attorney-general as required by this chapter; and he was still further urged to this duty by the following resolve: —*

"State of Massachusetts-Bay In the House of Representatives Sep^t 27 1779

Chap. 50. The inhabitants of the territory set off, by this act, from Cambridge, afterwards incorporated as the town of Brighton, and now a part of Boston, erected a meeting-house for religious worship as early as 1744. Previous to this they had had preaching in the winter season in a house built for a dwelling-house, and even after their meeting-house was erected, although preaching was constantly maintained there, no minister was regularly installed over the society until 1784, when the Rev. John Foster was settled there, the church continuing to be a part of the parent church in Cambridge until the year 1783. Before the passage of this chapter preaching was maintained in this territory by the joint contribution of the inhabitants there, and the first parish in Cambridge; but after the meeting-house was built, the inhabitants being determined to have the exclusive services of a settled preacher, the subject of a separation from the first parish began to be agitated. On the 11th of June, 1747, a petition of some of the inhabitants on the south side of the river Charles, "setting forth their difficulties in attending the public worship at the precinct meeting-house, and praying to be made a separate precinct," was read in the House of Representatives, and the first parish was thereupon notified, by order of the Assembly, to appear a week later to show cause, if any they had, against the prayer of the petitioners. Objection being made, the General Court dismissed this petition. The same disposition was made of a similar petition by Benjamin Dana, and others, a committee chosen by the inhabitants of the south part of the town, which was read March 2, 1748. On this last petition, notice was ordered as on the former petition, and a commitee was appointed to report what was proper to be done, upon whose report a joint committee was appointed, consisting of Samuel Watts and Ezekiel Cheever, of the Council, and Messrs. Foster,

* Printed resolves, chapter XCII.

Hall and Miller, of the House, "to repair to the lands petitioned for, hear the parties concerned, if they desire to be heard, consider the circumstances of the petitioners," "and report, at the next sitting, what they judge proper for the Court to do on this petition." On the 22d of November, the report of the committee last named, having been made and voted upon in Council, the consideration of both the vote and report was referred to the next sitting of the Court, "the petitioners to be exempted from all parish fees to the first precinct, in the mean time."

The prospect of a compliance with the prayer of the petitioners induced the first parish in Cambridge, by William Brattle and others, a committee chosen for that purpose, to pray the General Court to refrain from setting off the inhabitants of the south part of the parish, "unless the Court shall see meet to add to the said first parish a number of families belonging to Charlestown and Watertown who have, for divers years, attended the public worship with them." Notice on this petition was ordered to be served upon the towns of Charlestown and Watertown to show cause, on the first Thursday of the next sitting of the Assembly, "why James Miller and others, of Charlestown, and Stephen Stearns and others, of Watertown, who are mentioned in said petition, should not be set off, with their estates now in their occupations, to the first precinct in Cambridge." Similar notice was also ordered to be served on Miller and Stearns. On the first day of February, 1748-49, the further consideration of the report of the committee on the petition of the inhabitants of the south part of Cambridge was also referred to the first Thursday of the next sitting of the Assembly, and it was ordered "that, in the mean time, the petitioners be subjected to the taxes of the first parish in Cambridge, the vote of this Court * * * notwithstanding." Both of these petitions were eventually dismissed.

In December, 1753, both these projects were renewed. A petition, by the first parish, to be enlarged by additions from Charlestown and Watertown was read, in the Council, December 8th, and a petition by Nathaniel Cunningham and others, a committee of the inhabitants on the south side of Charles River, was read, in the House, on the 17th. Notice was ordered on the former of these petitions, returnable on the 26th, and on the latter, Jan. 2, 1754.

On the 4th of January, the petitions were read and considered, together with answers to the former, by the town of Charlestown, and by Thomas Goddard and others, inhabitants of the part of Charlestown which the petitioners desired to have annexed to Cambridge, and answers to the latter, by the first parish, and by Caleb Dana and others, inhabitants of the south side of Charles River; whereupon an order was passed on each petition, appointing Silvanus Bourn and Eleazer Porter, of the Council, and Messrs. Bradford, White and Spurr, of the House, a committee "to hear the parties, and, if need be, to repair to the lands petitioned for, view the same, and make report to this Court, as soon as may be, what they judge proper to be done thereon." This committee was changed, on the 7th, by the substitution of Joseph Pynchon and Benjamin Lincoln, of the Council, for Messrs. Bourn and Porter, excused.

The committee reported, April 17, 1754, on the petition to have a part of Watertown, with the inhabitants thereon, annexed to the first parish, that the prayer of the petition be granted, which was accordingly done, on the 18th, by order of the Assembly; and on the 23d, another order was passed adjusting the proportion of town, county, and province taxes which had been assessed on the inhabitants of the territory set off from Watertown. The committee also reported that the petition for the annexation of a part of the territory and inhabitants of Charlestown, and also the petition from the south side of Charles River, be dismissed. The former report was agreed to, and the petition was dismissed accordingly. The latter report was accepted by a vote of the Council, when it was sent down for concurrence; whereupon the House passed an order that the petition and report be referred to the next May session of the General Court, for further consideration; but as no record of any further proceedings upon the petition or this vote of the House has been discovered, it is probable that the matter was intentionally dropped at this stage and that the report of the committee was virtually accepted.

On the 15th of June, 1758, Thomas Sparhawk and others, inhabitants of Cambridge south of Charles River, presented a petition to the General Court, praying to be set off from the old parish, and enabled to settle and support a minister among themselves. Two years before, the inhabitants of the first parish had built a meeting-house, for the cost of which, and for other parish purposes, the petitioners were assessed a proportionate sum, while for preaching in their own meeting-house, which was maintained at the joint expense of the inhabitants there and the first parish, the contribution of the latter was inconsiderable — amounting to but £10 or £11, per annum.

Notice of this petition having been served upon the first parish, returnable on the second Tuesday of the next (October) session, and the respondents having appeared and made answer, a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Dwight, White and Ruggles, of the House, and the Lieutenant-Governor (Hutchinson) and Stephen Sewall, of the Council, was appointed Jan. 5, 1759, "to consider the petition and answer, hear the parties, and report what they judge proper for this Court to do thereon." This committee reported on the 9th, whereupon notice of the pendency of the petition and answer was ordered to be served on the town of Charlestown, and on the inhabitants of said town "who have usually attended public worship, in the first parish in the town of Cambridge," to appear and show cause, on the second Thursday of the next sitting of the Assembly, "why the prayer of the answer of the town of Cambridge should not be granted."

On the 12th of April, 1759, Sparhawk's petition was read again, in Council, together with the answer of the town of Charlestown and also of the inhabitants of that town "more immediately concerned," and the subject was referred to the second Wednesday of the May session of 1759. At the same time Sparhawk and his associates presented another petition, praying to be freed from a tax of £100 laid upon them as their share o the expense of building the new meeting-house on the north side of the river, "and from other charges that have arisen, or may arise, upon account of said house."

On the 19th of June, 1759, the petition last mentioned was read, together with the answer of the first parish in Cambridge, and these, as well as the former petition of Sparhawk, and the accompanying papers, were referred to a joint committee, consisting of Lieut.-Governor Hutchinson and Stephen Sewall, of the Council, and the Speaker (Samuel White), and Messrs. Dwight and Turner, of the House, to take them under consideration, "and make report at the next sitting of this Court, what they shall judge proper for this Court to do in said affair." This committee reported, March 28, 1760, that they had fully considered the subject, and that it appeared to them "that the very great difficulties which attend the petitioners make it necessary that they should be separated from the first parish in Cambridge; and, inasmuch as the said petitioners are not sufficient for a parish," the committee expressed the opinion that the petitioners, "together with all the other inhabitants and all the lands in said town of Cambridge lying and being to the south of Charles River, be erected into a distinct and separate precinct or parish, with all the privileges and immunities which precincts or parishes by law do or may enjoy." The committee also recommended the annexation of a part of the territory and inhabitants of Charlestown to the first parish in Cambridge, to compensate for the loss by this division, and that the inhabitants of the new precinct be exempted from all contributions towards building the new meeting-house in the old parish, except what they had promised by voluntary subscription.

The consideration of this report was referred by the Assembly to the first Friday of the next session, and, in the mean time, the same committee was "directed to repair to Charlestown and view the lands which they have proposed should be annexed to Cambridge first parish and to ascertain the boundary line proposed;" and it was ordered "that all proceedings with regard to the levying any taxes on the inhabitants of Cambridge on the south side of Charles River, be stayed in the mean time."

On the 10th of June the above committee was changed by the substitution of John Cushing and Benjamin Lincoln, of the Council, for the Lieutenant-Governor and Judge Sewall; and, on the 17th of April, 1761, the committee made their report, which was read, in the Council, and accepted by a vote in which the House nonconcurred. The report was then recommitted for further consideration, and, on the next day, was again submitted and accepted and the following order was passed thereon: —

"Ordered That the Inhabitants of Charlestown with their Lands included within the Lines following be and hereby are annexed to the first Precinct in Cambridge viz^t^ The Salt Water Creek that runs between the late Lieut^t^ Governor Phips's Farm, and the Farm late of James Miller deceased up to the Bridge called Ballards Bridge, and from thence to the North westerly Corner of the Land belonging to John Codman and his wife, and from thence across the Country Road and the Land of James Pearce to the East end of the middle Lane so called, and from thence up along middle lane Hill until it comes to the Westerly end thereof, and from thence to the Stone Powder house, and the same Course to Medford Lane, and upon all other parts upon Medford and Cambridge Lines unless they shall within two Months give security to the Treasurer in the First Parish in said Cambridge for the annual payment of their equal proportion of the Charges arising in said Parish for the support of the public Worship of God there, so long as they attend the said Worship and until the further Order of this Court. And that all the Lands belonging to any Inhabitants of said first Precinct included within any of the Bounds aforesaid be for the future taxed to the support of the Ministry in said first Parish until this Court shall otherwise order.

And it is further ordered that the Petitioners who live on the South side of said River together with such of the aforesaid Inhabitants of Charlestown as have not Pews in the New Meeting house in said Parish be excused paying any part of the charges already incurred by the Parish in building the said House, and that the Committee of those who congregate on the South side of said River from time to time draw out of the Treasury of said first Parish the sum of Fifty two pounds lawful Money yearly and every year for the support of preaching in the said Meeting house on the South side of said River until this Court shall otherwise Order.

In the House of Representatives Read and Concurred

Consented to by the Governor." — Council Records, vol. XXIII., p. 749.

This settlement of the difficulties between the inhabitants of Cambridge on the south side of the Charles, and their brethren of the first parish, was acquiesced in by the former for some thirteen years, when they renewed their efforts for procuring a separation by presenting to the General Court, the following petition: —

"To his Excellency Thomas Hutchinson Esq^r^, Governor in chief in and over his Majesty's Province of the Masachusetts Bay in New-england; The Honourable his Majesty's Council, & the house of Representatives, now convened & setting in the Town of Boston, This 26^th^ day of january 1774.

The Petition, of the Inhabitants of the first Parrish in Cambridge, living on the south side of the river, humbly sheweth, that your Petitioners, have for a long time laboured under many disadvantages and great inconveniencies, in not having a Gospel Minister setled with them, which gives them occasion to intreat, that you will take into consisderation, their Situation, State and Circumstances; and that your Excellency and Honours may have a true knowledge thereof, We beg leave to inform you, that about forty years past the Gospel was first preached amongst us; it being impracticable, when the tides were high, and the snow and ice lodged on the coasway, leading to the Town of Cambridge, to pass and repass, (being then few in number to what we are now,) we purchased an house to meet in for bublick worship, and in about ten years after, at our own expence, built an house for that purpose; & about the year 60, we applyed to the then General Assembly, that they would take our unhappy Situation into their cosideration; and relieve us, in such manner, as they should see best; but the town of Cambridge making considerable opposition to our proceedings, the general Assembly saw fit to decline acting upon it, and giving us relief in the way we are now seeking it; but ordered that £52 per annum be paid out of the Parish Rate, for the support of preaching on the south side of the River; and annexed part of Charlestown and Watertown to the first parish of Cambridge; but we finding that sum not sufficient to the support of an ordain'd minister, have for more than thirty Years been without; and also have been put to much difficulty to get an ordained minister to Baptize our children, and have never had the ordinance of the Lord's supper administered amongst us, and we apprehend that many of our children that are arrived to Man's estate have never seen that ordinance administred and notwithstanding we have a most worthy Minister Doctr Appleton, on the other side of the River, yet his great age, and his often indisposition, prevents him, (as he has signified in his Letter to us,) from affording us that advice and instruction, he otherwise willingly would, and which he is sensible that we often stand in need of, for many times, when our friends are upon their death beds, they have no Minister, either to pray with them, or afford them any advice, or instruction, in their dying moments — We are also deprived of having A discreet Minister, to set any example before, and instruct our Children in the knowledge that is necessary to eteranal salvation; and while we remain in this unsetled state, we discourage many sober families, from setling with us — For these and many other weighty reasons, that may be offered, we intreat your Excellency & honours, that you will authorise us to settle a gospel minister amongst us; and also order that the whole society be taxed for the support of the two Ministers to be paid out of the parrish treasury; but if that shall not be thought most for the benefit of the Parish, then, we pray, that the inhabitants, together with all the Lands on the south side of the River, may be sat off, (as the River runs,) as far as the Bridge, as a distinct Parrish or Presinct; and your Petitioners, as in duty bound shall ever pray. —

} a Commite In behalf of the society on the South side of the River." — Mass. Archives, vol. 14, p. 710.

On the 22d of February, 1774, notice of this petition was ordered to be served on the first parish in Cambridge, thirty days, at least, before the next session of the General Court, that they may appear on the first Tuesday of that session, and show cause "why the prayer of said petition, in one or the other instance, should not be granted." Before the return day, Governor Gage suddenly adjourned the General Court to Salem, and this petition does not appear to have been considered during the remaining days of that short but eventful session.

Three years subsequent to the reorganization of the Legislature, and after the most pressing public business had been despatched, the inhabitants of the southerly part of Cambridge again applied to the Assembly in the following petition: —

"To the Honorable the Council, and Representatives of the State of the Massachusets Bay now Sitting in Boston this 16th of September 1778

The petition of the Inhabitants of the first parish in Cambridge Liveing on the South side of Charles River, Humbly Sheweth, that your petitioners have for a long time laboured under many disadvantages and great inconveneinces in not having a Gospel Minister settled with them, which gives them Ocasion to intreat that you will take into your consideration their Situation & Circumstances, and that your honors may have a true knoledge thereof; We beg leave to inform you, that about fifty Years past the Gospel was first preached amongst us, it being impractable when the Tides were high & the Snow & Ice lodged on the Causeway leading to the town of Cambridge to pass & repass; being then few in Number to what we are now, We purchased a house to meet in for publick Worship: And in about ten years after, at our own expence built a House for that purpose, and about the Year 1760, We applied to the then General Assembly that they would take our unhappy Situation into their consideration and releive us in such a manner as should seam best, But the town of Cambridge makeing considerable opposition to us, the General Assembly saw fit to decline acting apon it, but Ordered that fifty two pounds per Annum be paid out of the parish Rate for the support of preaching on the south side of the River and anexed part of Charleston, and Watertown to the first parish of Cambridge, but we finding that sum not sufficient to the support of an Ordained Minister, have, for more then thirty nine Years been without, and at this time as the preachers ask us together with their keeping is three hundred per Year at least, and said 52£ pays but about 1/6th of it Which over plush is paid by about one half of us by Subscription: And we have allso been put to much difficulty to get an Ordained Minister to Baptize our Children, and have never had the Ordinance of the Lords Supper Administred amoungst us, and we apprehend, that many of our Children that are arived to mans estate have never seen that Ordinance adminestred; This is so malancoly a case that perhaps a paraial is not to be found in this State; And notwithstanding we have a most worthy Minister Doct Appleton on the other Side of the River, Yet, his great Age and often Infirmitys prevents him (as he has signified to us by his Letter) from affording us that advice & Instretion he otherwise willingly would, and which he, & we, are sensable we often stand in need of, for many times when our friends are apon their Death Beds they have no Minister either to pray with them, or, afford them any advice or Instruction in their dying moments as som of our people live four miles from Doct Appletons dwelling & Meeting house — We are allso deprived of haveing a discreet Minister to set any Example before, and instruct us & our Children in the way that is necesary to Eternal Salvation; And while we continue in this unsetled state we discourage many Sober famalys from settling amongst us — For those & many other weighty reasons that may be offered, We, Intreat your Honors that you will Autharize us to Settle a Gospel Minister amongst us, And allso order that the whole Society be Taxed for the support of two Ministers to be paid out of the parish Treasury, But if that shall not be thought most for the benefit of the parish, Then we pray, that, the Inhabitants togather with all the Lands on the South side of the River may be set off as the River runs as a distinct parish or precinct, And would add, by Nature the River seems to make a proper Division. —

We allso request, that your Honors will Order us when you set us off a just proportion of any Donations that have heretofore bin given towards the Support of the Ministry in Cambridge. —

That whereas Several other Persons inhabiting the Southerly Part of the Said Parish, have a Petition now depending before your Honours praying that thay may be formed into a distinct Parish, and that all the Lands on the South Side of Charls River may be made Part of the same, we the subscribers pray your Honours Still to continue us with our Estates to the old Parish, Shuld you in your wisdom See fit to grant the Prayer of Said Petitioners in part, for the Reasons following. —

That we and our families have always congregated with the old Parish, that we have been at our full Proportion of the Tax theree in building the meeting House, and that we nave good Seats in the same, — That the Roads leading to the Said meeting house are remarkably good; wheras Shuld we be obliged to assemble with Said Petitioners, we Should have bad Roads and to some of us the Distance would be a third more and that the said Petitioners have not any Seats in their Meeting House, Shuld we be incorporated with them into a distinct Parish, for our accomidation, and that when a like Petition was formerly before the General Court, on an Application from our Fathers a Large Committee of both Houses was appointed to view the Ground and hear what might be offered for or against Said Petition who after a full hearing reported to the Hon,[ble] Court that the same Shuld be dismised —

The first parish also returned the following answer: —

"The Committe appointed by the first Parish, in the Town of Cambridge, to make answer to a petition preferred to the great and general Court by the Inhabitants of said Parish living on the south Side Charles River, (which we think would have been better expressed, by a number of the Inhabitants &c: As we are convinced that there are several Families on that Side against the petition) praying that your Honors will authorize them to settle a Gospel Minister among them, and also order that the whole Society (by which we suppose they mean, the parish) be taxed for the Support of two Ministers, to be paid out of the Parish Treasury, or otherwise that all the Lands on the south Side the River may be set off as the River runs, as a distinct parish or Precinct, and then add, that by nature the River seems to make a proper Division, and pray that your Honors would order them a just proportion of any Donations, that have heretofore been given towards the Support of the Ministry in Cambridge &c—

Beg leave to observe to your Honors by way of Answer, and the first thing we shall take notice of in the petition is, an Assertion that for more than thirty Years they have been without an ordained Minister, which mode of expression we do not fully comprehend, why they fix it at thirty odd Years, and not at the Incorporation of the Town, or why it may with propriety be said, they have no gospel Minister when they are of the same parish with us, on the north Side the River, & Intitled to all parish Privileges in common with us: Another difficulty complained of is, that they have no Ordained Minister to baptize their Children, and have never had the Ordinance of the Lords Supper administred among them. We apprehend no great Difficulty in occasionally coming three or at most not more than four Miles, when a number of Families north of the River have to travel more than half that distance every Sabbath to attend publick Worship, by reason of the Meeting-house being placed so near the River in complisance to them, when neither they, nor their Estates, were subjected to any Tax incured by building said Meeting-house, excepting those that usually congregate with us: We agree with our Brethren on that Side, that it is a very malancholy case indeed, that their Children have arrived to mans Estate, and never seen the Ordinances administred, when they acknowledge they have a most worthy minister within three or four Miles; And if they are deprived of private Advice and Instruction from our Reverend pasture, by reason of his great age and often Infirmities, Are we not under the same Disadvantages in common with them? We on the north Side of the River being so impoverished in the Course of the present War, that we are unable to support one Minister in a decent Manner, much less to contribute largely to the Support of another, which must be the case if your Honors should see fit to grant the prayer of the first part of their petition; They have annually drawn as much Money from the Parish Treasury as the Amount of their parish Tax for near twenty Years last past and in some Instances more; Although not satisfied therewith. And whereas several persons of property whose personal Estates paid very considerably to the Support of the Gospel, are removed from among us, as well as our Charlestown Neighbours annexed to us, as mention'd in said petition, are greatly diminished both in numbers and personal Estates And by nature we are deprived of the Advantage arising from trade by our Situation lying between two capital Roads having less Land to improve than most parishes in this State if improved, whereas there are two or three Hundred Acres unimproved, some part taken up in Forts or Redoubts, and others being unfenced lying contiguous thereto, the Fences having repeatedly been distroyed, in the course of the present War. And with respect to the other part of their petition (viz) being set off to the River where they say nature has formed a proper Division. Beg leave to observe, that we should be highly gratified in complying with their Request, if comprized within the Bounds of Reason and Justice, that is if they would be content with the Inhabitants who usually assemble on that side, and the Lands owned by them, But that they should be desirous to oblige a number of Families to pay Taxes for the Support of the Gospel, where they do not congregate, and where it would it * nery inconvenient for them, (the difficulty of the Tides Snow and Ice as mentioned in said petition notwithstanding) is to us very extraordinary but much more so, that they should even wish to Count in about three Hundred Acres of the Best Lands in the parish owned by the Inhabitants north of said River, to inable them to support the gospel amongst them, is what we trust your Honors never will do; Which would bring the line within less than a Quarter of a Mile of said Meeting-house, Especially as when we were about building said House a number of the principle Inhabitants on the South Side urged the improbability of their continuing to have preaching amongst them, and were instrumental in having said House erected so near said River. For these and many other Reasons, which might be adduced, we pray your Honors will in great Wisdom dismiss the petition, and not gratify them with our Intrest, to the Ruin of that part of the parish, north of Charles River—

The new draught was in the form of a resolve,* as follows: —

The bill of this chapter was accordingly read a first time, in the House, April 24th, and a second time on the 26th. On the 27th, the bill was passed to be engrossed, in the House, and sent up for concurrence, whereupon it was read a first time, in the Council, the same day, and on the 30th, it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with an amendment inserting the words "their heirs and assigns," after "Griggs," in the second line of the second section. The House refused to concur in this proposed amendment, and voted to adhere to their own vote. On the same day the Council voted to concur with the House, and the next day the bill was passed to be enacted.

An unsuccessful effort was made, the next year, to have this act amended, by additional legislation, as follows: —

"To the Honorable the Council and House of Representativs of the State of the Massachucetts Bay in Generall court assembled, the Memorial of John Gardner Samuel Sparhawke Joanna Gardner & Moses Griggs Inhabitants of the first Precinct of the Town of Cambridge, humbly Sheweth,—

That in the act of the General Court passed may 1st 1779 entitled an act for dividing and setting off the southerly Part of the first Precinct in the Town of Cambridge, in the County of middlesex, into a separate Precinct, by the Name of the South Precinct it is expressly provided, that your memorialists and their present Estates, Shall be exempted from all ministerial Taxes to Said South Precinct, so long as thay shall live and reside within the same, or untill thay, or either of them shall give their Names into the Secretaries office of the State desiring that thay with their Estates may be considered as Part of Said South Precinct, then & in that case, thay with their Estates, shall be considered as Part of Said South Precinct and do Duty and receive Priviliges accordingly,

That by the last recited Passage your memorialists, as well as the first Precinct in Cambridge estem themselves and their Estats as properly belonging to and Part of the first Precinct in Cambridge, notwithstanding their local Situation, and entirely disconnected with the South Precinct untill thay shall give in their Names into the Secratary's office, signifying their Desire to be annexed to the said South Precinct,

That the first Precinct in Cambridge putting the Same Construction on the afore recited Passage, have taxed your memorialists and their Estats in all Precinct assessments, those for raising Soldiers as well as others,—

That the South Precinct, putting a differant Construction on the Said Passage, have in Two instances taxed your memorialists and their Estats to raise money to recruit Soldiers for the army, Tho we and our Estates weare at the same time taxed by the first Precinct, for the same purpose,

To prevent aney like double Taxation in future and every other Inconvenience that may arise to us from such different Construction of the afore cited Pascage your memorialists humbly pray that your Honours by an act in addition to the act aforsad would declare your memorialists and their Estats lying in Cambridge on the South Side of Charles River, to be of the first Precinct in Said Town, and that you would also free them and Proviso.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Subjects of any kingdom in amity with the United States may claim a right of appeals from the judgment of the superior court, to Congress.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or other place, within this state, that are taxed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all the male polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns or other places next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town or place, including negroes and molattoes (and such of them as are under the government of a master or mistress, to be taxed to the said master or mistress, respectively, in the same manner as minors and apprentices are taxed), at ten pounds; and to assess the remainder of the sum set to each town (after deducting the amount of the sums assessed to the polls as aforesaid) on the inhabitants of said town or place as aforesaid, according to the just value of the whole real estate by each inhabitant of such town or place, respectively, possessed in his own right, or in the right of others, lying within said town or place, improved or not improved; and on the non-resident possessors of real estate, lying within said town or place, in their own right, or in the right of others, improved or not improved: saving all agreements between landlords and tenants, and where no agreement is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax; and also on the inhabitants of such town or place, according to the proportion of the amount and just value of their whole personal estate, including money at interest more than they pay interest for, debts due to them, not on interest, more than they are indebted, monies of all kinds in hand, and also the amount of the just value of all goods, wares and merchandize, stock in trade, vessels of all sorts, with their stores, appurtenances and appendages, plate, horses, oxen, and cattle of all sorts and ages, sheep, swine, grain of all sorts, and all kinds of produce of the land, and all other property whatsoever (excepting houshold furniture, wearing apparel, farming utensils and the tools of mechanicks), on the second day of August next; and the current price of the real and personal estate on the said second day of August before mentioned, in the currency of these United States, shall be considered as the just value of the same: and on the amount of their income from any profession, faculty, handicraft, trade or employment; and also on the amount of all incomes and profits gained by trading by sea and on shore, and by means of advantages arising from the war, and the necessities of the community, — and in considering the incomes and profits last mentioned, the assessors are to have special regard to the way and manner in which the same have been made, as well as the quantum thereof, and to assess them at such rate, as they on their oaths, shall judge to be just and reasonable: provided, they do not in any case assess such incomes and profits at more than five times the sum of the same amount in other kind of estate: and the treasurer in his said warrant, shall likewise require the assessors to make a fair list of said assessments, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for real estate, and how much for personal estate, as aforesaid; and if as guardian, or for any estate in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and the list or lists so perfected, and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collector or collectors, constable or constables, of any such town or place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collector or collectors, constable or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the fifteenth day of September next.

[Sect. 3.] And the treasurer for the time being, on the receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector or collectors, constable or constables, of such town or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of the respective sums assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collections, and issue their accounts of the whole, at or before the first day of January next.

Provided, nevertheless,—

[Sect. 4.] That the following persons; viz., the president, fellows, professors, tutors, librarian and students of Harvard College, who have their usual residence there, and settled ministers of the gospel, and grammar-school masters, are not to be assessed for their polls or their estates, unless their real estate be not under their actual management and improvement, or not in the parishes where they are settled; and also all persons who have the management and improvement of the estate of Harvard College, are not to be assessed for the same; and if there are any persons who, through age, infirmity or poverty, are unable to pay as others towards the public charges, or any widows or orphans, who, depending on the interest of their money for subsistence, are, by the state of the currency, so reduced as that in the judgment of the assessors they ought to be relieved in their taxes; in any such case the assessors may exempt their polls or estates, or abate part of what they are set at, as they on their oaths shall think just and equitable.

[Sect. 5.] And the justices in their sessions, in their respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns, and other places in such county, in proportion to this tax; and the assessors in each town in this state are also directed, in making a town or county tax or assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule. And where no person appears to discharge the taxes on non-resident proprietors' unimproved land, to the collector, he shall publish, in two of the Boston newspapers; viz., the "Boston Gazette" and "Continental Journal," three weeks successively, the names of all such proprietors, where they are known, with the sum of the taxes assessed on their lands, respectively, and where they are not known, he shall, in the same manner, publish the sum of the taxes on the several rights or divisions, and, in each case, shall post the same in some public place in the town where the said land lays, for the term of one month; and if no person shall appear thereupon to discharge said taxes, then the constable or collector shall proceed to sell at public sale, to the highest bidder, so much only of said unimproved land as will be sufficient to discharge said taxes and intervening charges, having first given notice of the intended sale thereof, and the time and place where it will be made, in the same manner as is hereinbefore directed for giving notice to the proprietors of their taxes; and shall have power to adjourn, from day to day, if necessary, to compleat the sale, not to exceed three days, and shall give and execute a deed thereof to the purchaser, expressing therein the cause of such sale, and saving to the aforesaid proprietor or proprietors, the right of redemption of any lands so sold, at any time within three years from the time of sale; and the same shall be reconvey'd to him or them on paying, within three years, as aforesaid, the sum such lands sold for, and twelve per cent annual interest on said sum, together with all intervening charges thereon.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 6.] That the several officers and soldiers that may be in the army on the second day of August aforesaid, shall be considered as resident in the several towns and places to which they belonged at the time of engaging in the army, their absence notwithstanding; and the assessors of the several towns and other places in this state, shall consider such officers and soldiers as resident in such town or place, and shall tax them accordingly: provided, that such as are engaged in the Continental Army for the term of three years, or during the war, be, and they hereby are, exempted from their poll tax.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That the assessors of each town or other place, respectively, in convenient time before making the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in any town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some public place or places in such town or other place, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to make and bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and of all the real and personal estate they are possessed of on the second day of August next, — viz., houses, lands, and all real estate, whether improved or not improved, — to the assessors of the town or place where such houses, lands and other real estates lay; distinguishing those in the management and possession of some other person, as also a list of all their personal estate, including money at interest more than they pay interest for, debts due, not on interest, more than they are indebted, and of monies of all kinds, in hand; and also the amount of the just value of all goods, wares and merchandize, stock in trade, plate, horses, oxen, cattle of all sorts and ages, sheep, swine, grain of all sorts, and all kind of produce of the lands, and of all other property whatsoever (excepting houshold furniture, wearing apparel, farming utensils and the tools of mechanicks), on the said second day of August, according to the current price of such real and personal estate in the currency of the United States, on the said second day of August; and also of the amount of their income from any profession, faculty, handicraft, trade or employment, and of the amount of all incomes and profits gained by trading by sea or on shore, and by means of advantages arising from the war, and the necessities of the community; all which they are to render to the assessors, on oath, if required. And if any person or persons shall, upon such notice given, neglect or refuse to give in to the assessors the list of their polls and rateable estate, according to the description thereof before given, which they were possessed of on the said second day of August, or shall bring in a list which the assessors are, in their judgment, convinced is a false one, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors, and they are hereby directed, to assess such person or persons, according to the best judgment and estimation they can form of the real and personal estate of the said person, according to the description before given. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estates as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting or refusing shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment laid on him or them.

[SECT. 8.] And if the assessors are not, in their judgment, convinced of any falshood in the list, to them presented, of the polls and real and personal estate, such list shall be a rule of that person's proportion to the tax, who presented the same, which the assessors may not exceed.

[Sect. 9.] That nothing in this act shall be construed to extend so as to require any assessors to assess any person for any estate, real or personal, in his possession (absentees' estates excepted), that is the property of the United States, or any of them. [Passed June 28.

[SECT. 8.] That there be and there is hereby granted a tax of eight millions of pounds, to be levied on the polls and estates, within this state; one million of which to be paid into the treasury, on or before the twentieth day of December, in each of the years of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-one, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-two, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-three, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-four, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-five, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-six, [and] one thousand seven hundred and eighty-seven; each of the said millions to be levied according to such rules and in such proportions as shall be agreed upon and ordered by the general court or assembly, at their sessions in June in each of the years aforesaid, respectively; and the sums so granted shall be applied for the redemption of the aforesaid notes, which shall be issued by virtue of this act; and if any part of the said tax should remain after redeeming such notes, the remainder shall be applied to defrey the necessary expences of government.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 10.] And the treasurer of this state is hereby [i][e]mpowered and directed, some time in the month of August in every such year, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or other incorporated place within this state, or to some suitable person or persons in such place or places therein as are not incorporated, requiring them to assess the polls and estates within their several towns and other places, for their respective parts and

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or other place, within this state, that are taxed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set[t] upon such town or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all the male polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns or other places next adjo[y][i]ning to them, belonging to no other town or place, including negroes and mollat[t]oes (and such of them as are under the government of a master or mistress, to be taxed to [the] said master or mistress, respectively, in the same manner as minors and apprentices are taxed), at ten pounds; and to assess the remainder of the sum set to each town (after deducting the amount of the sums assessed to the polls as aforesaid) on the inhabitants of said town or place as aforesaid, according to the just value of the whole real estate by each inhabitant of such town or place, respectively, possessed in his own right, or in the right of others, lying within said town or place, improved or not improved; and on the non-resident possessors of real estate, lying within said town or place, in their own right, or in the right[s] of others, improved or not improved: saving all agreement[s] between landlords and tenants, and where no agreement is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax; and also on the inhabitants of such town or place, according to the proportion of the amount and just value of their whole personal estate, including money at interest more than they pay interest for, debts due to them, not on interest, more than they are indebted, monies of all kind[s] in hand, and also the amount of the just value of all goods, wares and merchandize, stock in trade, vessel[l]s of all sorts, with their stores, appurtenances and appendages, plate, horses, oxen, and cattle of all sorts and ages, sheep, swine, and grain of all sorts, and all kind of produce of the land, and all other property whatsoever (excepting hous[e]hold furniture, wearing apparel, farming utensils, and the tools of mechanicks), on the first day of December instant; and the current price of the real and personal estate on the said first day of December before mentioned in the currency of these United States, shall be considered as the just value of the same; and on the amount of their income from any profession, faculty, handicraft, trade or employment; and also on the amount of all incomes and profits gained by trading by sea and on shore, and by means of advantages arising from the war, and the necessities of the community; and in considering the incomes and profits last mentioned, the assessors are to have special regard to the way and manner in which the same have been made, as well as the quantum thereof, and to assess them at such rate as they on their oaths shall judge to be just and reasonable: provided, they do not in any case assess such incomes and profits at more than ten times the sum of the same amount in other kind of estate: and the treasurer in his said warrant shall likewise require the assessors to make a fair list of said assessments, setting forth, in distinct columns, against [each] [such] person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for real estate, and how much for personal estate as aforesaid; and if as [a] guardian or for any estate in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and shall also insert upon their rate-bills the number of acres of unimproved land which they have taxed to each of the non-resident proprietors of land within their respective towns, and also the value at which they have estimated the same; and the list or lists so perfected, and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collector or collectors, constable or constables, of any such town or place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collector or collectors, constable or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed unto himself, some time before the twentieth day of January next, and on failure thereof, each assessor so refusing or neglecting his duty herein, shall be subject to pay a fine of one hundred pounds, to be recovered by execution from the state treasurer for the time being, which fine shall be paid into the state treasury for defraying the public charges; and in case of neglect by the assessors, in making return as aforementioned, the treasurer of this state is hereby impowered and directed to send his executions accordingly, unless such assessors shall make it appear that their rate-bills were compleated, and delivered to the collectors before the said twentieth day of January next.

[SECT. 3.] And the treasurer for the time being, on the receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector or collectors, constable or constables, of such town or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of the respective sums assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collections, the one half part by the [twenty-eighth] [28th] day of February next, and the remaining half part thereof by the [first] [1st] day of April next, and to issue their accounts of the whole at or before the [first] [1st] day of April next.

[SECT. 4.] That the following persons; viz[t]., the president, fellows, professors, tutors, librarian and students of Harvard College, who have their usual residence there, and settled ministers of the gospel, and grammar-school masters, are not to be assessed for their poll[s] or their estates, unless their real estate be not under their actual management and improvement, or not in the parishes where they are settled; and also all persons who have the management and improvement of the estate of Harvard College, are not to be assessed for the same; and if there are any other persons who, through age, infirmity or poverty, are unable to pay as others towards the public charges, or any widows or orphans who, depending on the interest of their money for subsist[a][e]nce, are by the state of the currency so reduced as that, in the judgment of the assessors, they ought to be relieved in their taxes; in any such case the assessors may exempt their polls or estates, or abate any part of what they are set[t] at, as they on their oaths shall think just and equitable.

[SECT. 5.] And the justices in their sessions in their respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns and other places in such county in proportion to this tax, and the assessors in each town in this state are also directed, in making a town [or] [and] county tax or assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule. And where no person appears to discharge the taxes on non-resident proprietors' unimproved land, [and] to the collector[s], he shall publish [it] in two of the Boston newspapers; viz[t]., the "Continental Journal" and "Boston Gazette," three weeks successively, the names of all such proprietors, where they are known, with the sum of the taxes assessed on their lands, respectively, and also the time and place of sale; and where they are not known, he shall, in the same manner, publish the sum of the taxes on the several rights or divisions, and in each case shall post the same in some public place in the town where the said land[s] lays, for the term of one month; and if no person shall appear thereupon to discharge said taxes, then the constable or collector shall proceed to sell at public sale to the highest bidder so much only of said unimproved land[s] as will be sufficient to discharge said taxes and necessary intervening charges, having first given notice of the intended sale thereof, and the time and place where it will be made, and shall have power to adjourn from day to day, if necessary, to compleat the sale, not to exceed three days, and shall give and execute a deed to the purchaser, expressing therein the cause of such sale, and saving to the aforesaid proprietor or proprietors the right of redemption of any lands so sold, at any time within three years from the time of sale; and the same shall be conveyed to him or them on paying, within three years, as aforesaid, the sum such land sold for, and twelve per cent annual interest on said sum, together with all necessary intervening charges thereon.

Be it further enacted,

[Sect. 6.] That the several officers and soldiers that may be in the army on the first day of December inst[ant], shall be considered as resident in the several towns and places to which they belonged at the time of their engaging in the army, their absence notwithstanding; and the assessors of the several towns and other places in this state shall consider such officers and soldiers as resident in such town or place, and shall tax them accordingly; provided, that such as are engaged in the Continental Army for the term of three years, or during the war, be, and they hereby are, exempted from their poll tax.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 7.] That the assessors of each town or other place, respectively, in convenient time before [making] the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in any town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some public place or places in such town or other place, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to make and bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and of all their real and personal estate they are possessed of on the first day of December inst[ant], — viz[t]., houses, lands, and all real estate whether improved or not improved, — to the assessors of the town or place where such houses and lands and other real estates lay; distinguishing those in the management and possession of some other person, as also a list of all their personal estate, including money at interest more than they pay interest for, debts due, not on interest, more than they are indebted; and of monies of all kinds, in hand, and also the amount of the just value of all goods, wares and merchandize, stock in trade, plate, horses, oxen, cattle of all sorts and ages, sheep, swine, grain of all sorts, and all kind of produce of the lands, and of all other property whatsoever (excepting household furniture, wearing apparel, farming utensils, and the tools of mechanicks), on the said first day of December, according to the current price of such real and personal estate in the currency of the United States on the said first day of December; and also of the amount of their income from any profession, faculty, handcraft, trade or employment; and of the amount of all incomes and profits gained by trading by sea or on shore, and by means of advantages arising from the war, and the necessities of the community; all which they are to render to the assessors, on oath, if required; which oath the said assessors are hereby impowered to administer. And if any person or persons shall, upon such notice given, neglect or refuse to give in to the assessors the list of their polls and rateable estate, according to their description thereof before given, which they were possessed of on the said first of December, or shall bring in a list, which the assessors are, in their judgment, convinced is a false one, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors, and they are hereby directed, to assess such person or persons, according to the best judgment and estimation they can form of the real and personal estate of the said person, according to the description before given. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estates as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting or refusing shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment lay[e]'d on him or them.

[SECT. 8.] And if the assessors are not, in their judgment, convinced of any fals[e]hood in the list, to them presented, of the polls and real and personal estate, such list shall be a rule of that person's proportion to the tax who presented the same, which the assessors may not exceed.

[SECT. 9.] That nothing in this act shall be construed to extend so as to require any assessors to assess any person for [for] any estate, real or personal, in his possession (absentees' estate[s] excepted), that is the property of the United States, or any [them] of them.

Whereas there are, within this state, several tracts of unimproved land belonging to persons who have left the same and gone over to the enemy, and no provision has been made by the government of the same for the payment of the taxes, otherwise than by the sale of such lands, which may be [be] attended with great loss to the state; for the preventing of which, —

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 10.] That all constables and collectors of taxes be, and they hereby are, directed to stay the sale of all such lands until[l] a further order of this court [to] be taken thereon.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 11.] That the treasurer of this state be, and he hereby is, impowered and directed to allow or pay to such constables or collectors, the amount, in their respective lists, of the taxes on such unimproved lands on a certificate from the major part of the assessors who made such tax, being produced, setting forth the sum taxed in any list exhibited, on said unimproved lands, and to keep an account of all monies by him so allowed or paid.

And whereas doubts have arisen respecting the true intent and meaning of the word "inhabitant" in some former tax acts, —

Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 12.] That all male persons from sixteen years old and upwards, residing or usually doing business in any town within this state, shall be considered within the true intent and meaning of this act, and the assessors are directed to proceed to assess them for their trade and faculties, exercised there, and for their polls, if not taxed elsewhere.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 13.] That the treasurer of this state be, and he is hereby, directed to grant orders in favor of the selectmen or committee upon the collectors of this tax, to pay such accounts as may appear to be due to any town or plantation, that have complied with the several resolutions of the general court requiring the selectmen or committees to supply the soldiers' families, said accounts being examined and passed by the committee on accounts, and certificates produced from said committee that said account is due to said town, for supplies as aforesaid, and that the treasurer give his orders accordingly. [Passed December 7.

AN ACT FOR SUPPLYING THE TREASURY OF THIS STATE WITH A SUM OF MONEY, TO BE PAID IN BILLS OF THE CONTINENTAL CURRENCY, EQUAL IN VALUE TO THE SUM OF ONE HUNDRED AND FIFTY THOUSAND POUNDS STERLING MONEY OF GREAT BRITAIN, TO ENABLE THE TREASURER OF THIS STATE TO DISCHARGE ANY SUMS WHICH MAY BE BORROWED ON LOAN, IN EUROPE, IN BEHALF OF SAID STATE.

Whereas the general court of this state have ordered that a loan be negociated on the credit, and in behalf, and for the use, of this state, in Europe, to the amount of one hundred and fifty thousand pounds sterling; and whereas, it is necessary that suitable provision be made for discharging and repaying any sum or sums which may be so borrowed on loan, and also any interest that may arise on said loan, —

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same,

[Sect. 1.] That there be and hereby is granted a tax of a sum of money, to be paid in bills of the Continental currency, equal in value to the sum of one hundred and fifty thousand pounds, sterling money of Great Britain, according to the rate of exchange subsisting at the time of levying such tax, to be levied on the polls and estates within this state, according to such rules, and in such proportion on the several towns and places therein, as the general court of this state may hereafter order and direct, seasonably to discharge the sums which may be loaned as aforesaid, or any parts thereof, as the same may become due.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 2.] That if the general court shall neglect to make provision, one full year previous to the becoming due of any sum, and the interest arising thereon in consequence of the loan aforesaid, for discharge and payment of the sum so to become due, that then and in that case, the treasurer of this state for the time being, shall, and he is hereby authorised, impowered and directed, within two months after such neglect, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or other incorporated place within this state, and to some suitable person or persons in any place or places not incorporated, requiring them, respectively, to assess the polls and estates within their several towns and other places, for the respective sums so about to become payable as aforesaid, according to the rate of exchange as aforesaid, to be paid into the treasury six months after the date of the warrant requiring the same; and the sums ordered by such warrant to be levied on the several towns and places, respectively, shall be in proportion to the sums by them paid in the then last preceeding tax act; and the assessors, as also all persons assessed thereby, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to, all such rules and directions as shall have been given in said act.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 3.] That the treasurer of this state shall, and he is hereby authorized, impowered and directed, as soon as he shall receive any of the monies that may be collected by virtue of this act, to pay the same into the hands of the Board of War, or such other persons as the general assembly may appoint to receive the same, who are hereby impowered and directed immediately to vest the same in good bills of exchange, drawn upon persons in Europe, or otherways, for such articles as will best suit the markets there, and remit the same to Holland or France, and give directions for the neet proceeds of said bills or articles to be applied to the payment of the money, together with the interest thereon, that may be borrowed in Europe on account of this state, and to no other purpose whatever. ACTS

Passed at the Session begun and held at Boston, on the Ninth day of March, A. D. 1780.

AN ACT TO INDEMNIFY, AND SECURE FROM PROSECUTIONS IN LAW, PERSONS WHO, BY THEIR LAUDABLE EXERTIONS UNDER THE LATE GOVERNMENT OF THE KING OF GREAT BRITAIN, HAVE EXPOSED THEMSELVES TO ACTIONS OF DAM[M]AGE, AND OTHER PROSECUTIONS, IN CERTAIN CASES.

Preamble.

Whereas the administration of the late government of the king of Great Britain, within the late province of the Massachusetts Bay, became in the greatest degree oppressive and intol[l]erable, and the measures taken under pretence of legal government were manifestly calculated and designed for the destruction of the just rights and liberties of the people of the said province, insomuch as to render it highly necessary and justifiable that open opposition should be made to the said violent and destructive measures, and that persons should be seized, and property taken, and, in some instances, destroyed; and whereas divers[e] patriotic[k] and good men did then stand forth, and, at the utmost risque of their own persons and property, did stedfastly oppose the violent and destructive measures of the said government of the king of Great Britain, for which they are now threat[e]ned with, or actually have, actions of damages or other prosecutions commenced against them by evil and disaffected persons, —

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same,

All actions brought against committees of correspondence, etc., from and after the 1st day of January, 1766, and before the 4th day of July, 1776, declared null and void.

That all actions for dam[m]ages, and other prosecutions in law, that have been, or that may be hereafter commenced or brought forward, against any committee of correspondence, inspection and safety, or against any member or members of such committee, or any member of this state, or county, convention, or any person or persons acting under their or any of their advice or direction, for the taking or destroying any property, or apprehending and confining any person from and after the first day of January, Anno Domini one thousand seven hundred and sixty-six, and before the fourth day of July, Anno Domini one thousand seven hundred and seventy-six, be and hereby are declared null and void; and that no court of law within this state shall render judgment upon, or in anywise sustain, such actions or prosecutions; any law to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed April 10, 1780.

CHAPTER 36.

AN ACT MORE EFFECTUALLY PROVIDING FOR THE SECURITY, SUPPORT AND EXCHANGE OF PRISONERS OF WAR BROUGHT INTO THIS STATE; AND FOR REPEALING AN ACT INTITLED "AN ACT FOR SECURING AND MAKING PROVISION FOR THE SUPPORT OF PRISONERS WHO MAY BE TAKEN BY ANY AMERICAN ARMED VESSEL, AND BRO[UGH]'T INTO ANY PORT IN THIS STATE."

Preamble. 1776-77, chap. 35.

Whereas many inconveniences attend the present mode of securing, supporting and exchanging prisoners of war, being conducted by various directions and divers commissaries, independent of each other, —

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same,

All prisoners of war captured and brought into this state to be delivered to the commissary-general of prisoners of the United States, his deputy, etc.

[Sect. 1.] That all prisoners of war, whether captured by the army or navy of the United States, or armed ships or vessels of any of the United States, or by the subjects, troops, ships, or vessels of war, of this state, and brought into the same, or cast on shore by shipwreck on the coast thereof, shall be delivered into the care and custody of the commissary-general of prisoners of the United States, his deputy or assistant, or to the goaler of the county goal in which such prisoners may be landed or cast on shore (and said goaler is hereby required to receive and deliver, by order of authority, such prisoners, without fee or reward from the persons receiving or delivering, charges for support excepted; which charges are to be paid as is hereinafter expressed); and that all such prisoners, so brought in or cast on shore, including Indians, negroes and m[u][o]l[l]at[t]oes, be treated, in all respects, as prisoners of war to the United States; any law or resolve of this court to the contrary notwithstanding: provided, nevertheless, that when any prisoners brought into this state shall be found to have taken passage on board such vessels as may be captured or cast on shore as aforesaid, for the end of transacting private business, a list of the names of such passengers shall be returned by the masters or claimers of such captured or stranded vessel, to the council of this state, who are hereby authorized and [i][e]mpowered to admit them to their parole, or otherwise order as they shall judge proper, consistent with the public safety.

Commanders of all armed vessels, upon their arrival to make report, on oath, to the judge of the admiralty.

[SECT. 2.] That if a master or commander of any armed ship or vessel of war, belonging to this state or any of the subjects thereof, from necessity or otherwise, shall dismiss any prisoners at sea, he shall, on return into any of the ports or harbours of this state, make report thereof, on oath, to the judge of admiralty for the district in which he shall arrive, within twenty days thereafter, with his reasons for such dismission; and if such judge shall not be satisfied with the reasons assigned, or if it shall appear that the prisoners were discharged to avoid the trouble and expence of bringing them into port, and delivering them into custody, or in anywise unnecessarily, then the judge shall transmit an account thereof to the major part of the council of this state, who are hereby invested with power to examine into the reasons of such dismission; and if it shall appear to them thereon to have been improperly or unnecessarily made, they shall vacate the commission granted to such delinquent master or commander of any ship or vessel of war owned as aforesaid

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Jailers to transmit their account of charges to the commissary of prisoners.

And in case.

[SECT. 4.] That any goaler within this state, who may hereafter have custody of any prisoners of war by virtue of this act, shall transmit his copy of account of charges against the United States, for the support and maintenance of such prisoners, to the commissary-general aforesaid, or his nearest deputy, when they shall leave the goal for removal or exchange; and if said commissary or deputy neglect or refuse to pay the last-mentioned account, such goaler shall present said copy (with his declaration, on oath, of such neglect or refusal, that said account is just and true, and that he has received only so much, or no part thereof, as the case may be), to the major part of the council; which account, so far as they shall allow, shall be paid, upon their warrant, out of the treasury of this state, and be charged to the account of the United States; and that all prisoners of war, 'till the further order of Congress, be furnished with two-thirds of a soldier's ration of provision[s]; that sick and wounded, only, when travelling, be allowed carriages at public expence; that

CHAPTER 37.

AN ACT FOR FURTHER AUGMENTING CERTAIN FEES, ALLOWANCES AND PENALTIES, ESTABLISHED BY LAWS OF THIS STATE, AND FOR ENLARGING THE JURISDICTION OF JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.

WHEREAS the fees and allowances to civil officers and other persons, as now established by law, are found very unequal to their services and expences, — Preamble. 1779-80 chaps. 1, 23 and 28.

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same,

[SECT. 1.] That the several officers and persons, except as are hereinafter excepted, mentioned in an act made in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-eight, which act is contained from page one hundred fifty-one to page one hundred fifty-nine of the state laws, entitled "An Act for the repealing one part of a law of this state, made and passed in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-six, entitled 'An Act for the repealing one law of this colony, made and passed in the fourth year of the reign of William and Mary, king and queen, entitled "An Act for regulating the fees and allowances of the several officers and persons, within this colony, hereinafter mentioned,"'" be and hereby are allowed and [i][e]mpowered to demand and receive for their services, respectively, thirty-two times the fees and allowances set down therein; anything in said act, or in any law or resolve of court relating thereto, notwithstanding. Augmentation of fees. 1777-78, chap. 17

[SECT. 2.] That sheriffs, co[n][r]oners and constables shall receive for levying monies upon writ[t]s of execution, or warrants of distress, for the first one hundred pounds and under, ninepence on the pound; above that, and not exceeding two hundred pounds, sixpence on the pound; and on all sums above two hundred pounds, and not exceeding five hundred pounds, threepence on the pound; and on all sums above five hundred pounds, twopence on the pound, and no more. Proviso.

Provided, also,

[SECT. 3.] That the fees to be taken by the several naval officers through this state, shall be twenty times the fees mentioned in said act, and no more. Proviso.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 4.] That the fees to be taken in the maritime courts, shall be ten times the fees set down in a resolve of the general court, of the ninth of February, one thousand seven hundred seventy-nine.

And whereas the fines and penalties annexed to any offences by the laws of this state, or to be incurred by refusing to serve in any office, or do any duty required by law, do not answer the purposes for which they were intended, —

Be it therefore further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Fines and penalties annexed to any offences augmented to thirty-two for one.

[SECT. 5.] That all such fines and penalties annexed to any offences, or to be incurred, as aforesaid, by any laws of this state, whether known by the name of province, colony, or state, laws or resolves of court, made and enacted before the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-eight, shall be increased, and taken to be thirty-two times as much as in said acts or resolves they are called, and no more.

And whereas the fines and penalties annexed to certain offences mentioned in an act or law of this state, made and passed March, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-eight, entitled "An Act in addition to an act entitled 'An Act for forming and regulating the militia within the colony of Massachusetts Bay, in New England, and for repealing all the laws heretofore made for that purpose,'" do not answer the purposes for which they were intended, —

1777-78, chap. 24.

Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 6.] That all such fines and penalties annexed to any offences mentioned in the aforesaid additional militia act, shall be increased and taken to be thirty-two times as much as in said act they are called, and no more.

And whereas it is necessary that provision should be made to enlarge the jurisdiction of justices of the peace, who, by the laws of this state, cannot take cognizance of any of the offences or crimes aforesaid, or of debts, trespasses or other matters, exceeding sixteen times the value of forty shillings, whereby the course of justice may be greatly retarded, and great inconvenience and unnecessary expence may arise to many persons in recovering small debts and dam[m]ages,—

Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Justices empowered to take cognizance of offences and to impose penalties, and to give judgment where the fines do not exceed thirty-two times the value of forty shillings.

CHAPTER 40.

AN ACT MAKING PROVISION FOR CALLING IN, TO BE DESTROYED, THIS STATE'S QUOTA, ACCORDING TO THE PRESENT APPORTIONMENT, OF ALL THE PUBLIC BILLS OF CREDIT WHICH HAVE BEEN EMITTED BY CONGRESS; AND FOR MAKING AND EMITTING, ON THE CREDIT OF THIS STATE, OTHER BILLS OF CREDIT, NOT TO EXCEED THE SUM OF FOUR HUNDRED AND SIXTY THOUSAND POUNDS; AND FOR ESTABLISHING FUNDS SUFFICIENT TO SECURE THE REDEMPTION OF THE BILLS SO EMITTED, BY THE LAST DAY OF DECEMBER, ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND EIGHTY-SIX, AS RECOMMENDED BY A RESOLUTION OF CONGRESS, OF THE EIGHTEENTH OF MARCH, IN THE PRESENT YEAR, AND IN CONFORMITY THERETO; ALSO FOR PAYING, ANNUALLY, IN SPECIE, THE INTEREST ARISING ON NOTES WHICH HAVE BEEN ISSUED UPON THE CREDIT OF THE PROVINCE, COLONY, OR, NOW, STATE, OF MASSACHUSETTS BAY, PROMISING TO BE PAID IN GOLD OR SILVER.

Preamble.

WHEREAS the just and necessary war into which the United States of America have been driven, obliged the Congress to emit bills of credit before the several states were sufficiently organized to [i][e]nforce the collection of taxes, or funds could be established to support the credit of such bills, and before the powers of Europe were sufficiently convinced of the justice of their cause, or probable event of the controversy, to afford them aid or credit; by which means the bills so emitted having increased in quantity beyond the sum necessary for a circulating medium, and, wanting sufficient funds to rest on, for their redemption, have daily sunk in value; whereby it is necessary to reduce the quantity of said bills, and to establish and appropriate funds that shall ensure the punctual redemption of the bills which may be emitted on the credit of this state for the purpose of calling in and destroying this state's quota of the present paper medium in circulation; and whereas Congress, by their said resolution of the eighteenth day of March, have called upon the several states to make proper provision for the purposes aforesaid, —

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same,

Granting a tax of £5,600,000, over and above the like sum ordered to be levied the present session, for the purpose of drawing out of circulation this state's proportion of the present currency.

[SECT. 1.] That there be and hereby is granted a tax of five millions six hundred thousand pounds, lawful money, over and above the tax for a like sum ordered to be levied the present session (the said two taxes being sufficient to draw out of circulation this state's proportion of the present currency), to be levied on polls, and estates both real and personal, within this state, according to such rules, and in such proportion in the several towns and other places within this state, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by the general court or assembly of this state, on or before the twentieth day of September next, to be pa[ye][i]d into the treasury in the manner following; that is to say, two million eight hundred thousand pounds, part of the five millions six hundred thousand pounds aforesaid, on or before the twentieth day of December next, and the remaining two million eight hundred thousand pounds, being the other half of the five millions six hundred thousand pounds, on or before the twentieth day of March, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-one.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Towns' and other places' apportionment of the tax.

[SECT. 2.] That if the general court, on or before the twentieth day of September next, shall not agree and conclude upon an act apportioning the sum which by this act is engaged to be assessed and levied, that then and in such case each town and other place in this state shall pay, by a tax, to be levied on the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their limits, the same proportion of the said sum as the said towns and other places were taxed by the general court in the tax act then last preceeding.

State treasurer empowered to issue forth his warrants to the selectmen in each town, to assess, etc.

[SECT. 3.] And the treasurer of this state is hereby fully [i][e]mpowered and directed, some time in the month of September next, to issue and send forth his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town within this state, requiring them to assess the polls, and estates both real and personal, within their several towns, for their respective parts and proportions of the sum before directed and engaged to be assessed, to be paid into the treasury at the aforementioned times; and the assessors, and also persons assessed, shall observe, be governed by, and subject to, all such rules and directions as shall have been given in the then last pr[o][e]ceeding tax act.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

What shall be received in payment for taxes.

[SECT. 4.] That silver and gold, and also the new bills that may be issued by Congress on the funds of this state established for that purpose, shall be received, in payment of said taxes, at the rate of one dollar in specie, or of the new emission, in lieu of forty dollars of the bills now in circulation.

And in order to furnish a circulating medium in lieu of the bills so called in to be destroyed, —

Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

The sum to be emitted.

[SECT. 5.] That there be emitted on the funds hereinafter provided, and the faith of the United States as pledged by their resolution aforesaid, a sum not exceeding the sum of four hundred and sixty thousand pounds, in bills of [of] credit, bearing an annual interest of five per cent; and that the face of the bills to be emitted read as follows: —

Form of the bills.

The possessor of this bill shall be paid Spanish milled dollars, by the thirty-first day of December, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-six, with [the] interest, in like money, at the rate of five per cent per annum, by the state of Massachusetts Bay, according to an act of the legislature of the said state, of the , day of , one thousand seven hundred and eighty.

—and that there be an indorsement on each as follows: —

The form of the endorsement thereon.

— said indorsement to be signed by such commissioner as Congress shall appoint for that purpose.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Bills to be redeemed in specie, and interest paid.

[SECT. 6.] That the bills which may issue on this act, shall be redeemable in spe[i]c[i]e by the said thirty-first day of December, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-six; as also the interest thereof, paid at the redemption of the bills, or at the election of the holder, annually, according to the said resolution of Congress and the promis[s]es in the said bills; and said bills to be emitted shall be compleated no faster than in the proportion of one to twenty of the other bills brought in to be destroyed, and which shall be lodged for that purpose in the Continental loan-office in this state.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Commissioners to be appointed to number and sign the bills.

[SECT. 7.] That there shall be appointed, on the part of this state, six commissioners, any two of whom, and no more, together with the commissioner that is, or may be, appointed by Congress, shall compleat said bills by signing and numbering the same before the emission thereof.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

What proportion of said bills shall be received into the treasury.

[SECT. 8.] That as fast as said bills to be emitted shall be compleated, six[th]-tenths thereof in value shall be received into the treasury of this state, to be thence issued, from time to time, to support the war, or defray other charges of the state, as the general court, for the time being, may order and direct; the other four-tenths to be subject to the orders of Congress, and carried to the credit of this state.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 9.] That whenever interest on the bills to be emitted shall be paid prior to the time fixed for their redemption, such bills shall be thereupon exchanged for other bills of the like tenor, to bear date from the expiration of the year for which such interest is paid; and the commissioners on the part of this state, or any two of them, are hereby authori[s][z]ed to join with the commissioner of Congress in compleating such other bills for that purpose.

And in order to establish funds effectually to secure the punctual redemption of the bills to be emitted on the credit of this state, and for annually paying the interest of the notes aforesaid, —

Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Tax to be levied.

[SECT. 10.] That there be and hereby is granted a tax of seventy-two thousand pounds, annually, for seven years, including the present year, to be levied on the polls and estates within this state, according to such rules, and in such proportions on the several towns and other places therein, as shall be agreed upon and ordered by the general court for each of said seven years, at their several May sessions in those years, respectively, to be paid into the treasury of this state on or before the first day of November then next after; and sixty-six thousand pounds, part of every the said seventy-two thousand pounds, shall be appropriated to, and applied for, the redemption of the bills which may be emitted, on the credit of this state, pursuant to the resolution of Congress aforesaid; and the remaining six thousand pounds to pay the interest annually arising on the notes, owing from, or which have been issued by, this state, promis[s]ing to be paid in gold or silver. And the said taxes shall be paid only in the several species of gold and silver coins current in this state before the present war, and at the rates they then passed; or in uncoined silver, of sterling alloy, at six shillings and eightpence an ounce; or in uncoined gold, of like alloy, at five pounds one shilling and fourpence an ounce; or in good merchantable codfish, at twenty-four shillings per quintal; Indian corn, at four shillings per bushel; rye, at six shillings per bushel; wheat, at eight shillings p[e]r bushel; wheat flour, at twenty-four shillings per hundred weight, gross: beeswax, at one shilling and eightpence per pound; pork, at four pounds per barrel; beef, at two pounds eight shillings per barrel; potash, at forty pounds per t[u][o]n; pearlash, of the best quality, sixty pounds per t[u][o]n; hemp, at three pounds per hundred weight; refined bar-iron, at forty shillings per hundred weight; bloomery iron, at thirty shillings per hundred weight; flax, well dressed, tenpence per pound: provided, that all the aforesaid articles be good and merchantable, and of the produce or manufacture of this state; and that the rates and prices herein affixed shall be the rates and prices at which they shall be received only during the war; and that from and after the end of the war, and during the remainder of the term of years on which the taxes aforesaid are laid, the rates and prices at which the articles aforesaid shall be received in each year so remaining, shall be set by the respective general courts for those years, at the May session.

Be it enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same,

Commanding officers of militia companies, etc., to apprehend deserters from the Continental Army, and to command assistance to deliver such deserters, so apprehended, to some Continental officer, and commit them to jail:

[SECT. 1.] That the commanding officer of every militia company, and the committees of the several towns and plantations within this state, where no such commanding officer is, are hereby directed and [i][e]mpowered to apprehend all deserters from the Continental Army, that may reside or come within the limits of their respective companies and plantations (and to command the assistance of the militia, if necessary, for that purpose) and deliver him or them so apprehended, to some Continental officer, within the county, going to the Continental Army, or commit him or them to the common goal of the county, there to remain in close confinement till he or they can be sent to the company or companies, in the said army, they belong to.

— jailers directed to receive them, and fees to be paid out of the treasury.

[SECT. 2.] And the several goalers within this state are directed to receive them accordingly; whose fees therefor shall be paid out of the treasury of this state. And the person or persons apprehending and securing any deserters, as aforesaid, shall make return of his or their doings touching the same, with his or their reasonable charges, to the council of this state; and in case any deserters shall be committed to goal, and return thereof be made, as aforesaid, the council shall send them to their respective companies, in the said army, in the way and manner most advantageous to the state, and allow and pay out of the public treasury the reasonable expences of any commanding officer, committee, or any Continental officer, who shall apprehend or convey any deserter to goal, or to his company, as aforesaid, and charge the same to the account of such deserter or deserters, to be adjusted in a future settlement.

In case,

— expenses to be charged to said deserters.

And it is further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Commanding officers, etc., neglecting their duty,

[SECT. 3.] That if any commanding officer of a company, or committee within this state, shall neglect to perform the duty by this act enjoined, he or they shall, for every such neglect, severally, forfeit and pay a fine not exceeding fifteen hundred pounds nor less than five hundred pounds; one moiety thereof to be for the use of this state, the other moiety to him or them who shall prosecute for the same to final judgment, by action, information or indictment, before any court proper to try the same, in any county within this state where the said neglect may happen, or in the next adjoining county; and the state-attorney, and all others acting, or who may act, on behalf of this state, in the several counties within the same, are hereby directed to assist in the prosecution of all offences committed against this act.

— penalty.

State-attorney directed to prosecute all offences committed against this act.

And whereas many deserters may escape, on board the armed ships and other vessels sailing from this state, as seamen or otherwise, to the great injury of the land service; to prevent which, —

Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

A penalty for commanders of armed vessels to carry away deserters, knowing them to be such. 1779-80, chap. 9.

[SECT. 4.] That every commander of an armed ship or vessel, or other ship or vessel, that shall hereafter sail from any port or harbour of this state, who shall ship or convey away, on board his ship or vessel, any deserter or deserters from the Continental Army, knowing him to be such, and be convicted thereof, shall pay, for every deserter he shall be convicted of shipping or conveying away, as aforesaid, a fine not exceeding fifteen hundred pounds, nor less than five hundred pounds, to be recovered and enure as aforesaid; and all prizes, or shares of prizes, that otherwise might accrue to such deserter[s], shall be paid by the agent of such deserter or deserters, into the state treasury.

Commanders of armed vessels to file in the naval office a descriptive list of their men.

Penalty.

[SECT. 5.] And every commander of any arm[e]d vessel within this state shall, before he sails upon his cruise, make out, upon oath, and file in the naval office for the port he shall last sail from, within this state, upon his cruise, a descriptive list of all his officers, marines and mariners, belonging to his said vessel, for the said cruise, together with the shares and parts of shares they are respectively entitled to, upon pain of forfeiting a sum of money not exceeding fifteen hundred pounds, nor less than five hundred pounds; to be recovered as aforesaid, for the uses aforesaid.

Naval officer to transmit such lists to the council of this state.

[SECT. 6.] And the naval officer is hereby directed and enjoined to transmit the said list, immediately, to the council of this state, who are to take the same into consideration as soon as may be, and return the same to the said naval officer, certifying the deserters, if any there are, contained therein; and the several naval officers are directed to make out attested copies of such lists so returned, for any person requesting the same, for which he shall receive not more than three pounds.

Agents to be accountable for all shares, etc., delivered to deserters: —penalty.

[SECT. 7.] And if the agent of any officers, marines or mariners, belonging to any armed vessel as aforesaid, shall, at any time hereafter, pay, deliver or distribute any share or shares, or parts of a share, of any prize which shall hereafter be taken by any armed vessel, the commander of which is required by this act to make out such list, to any officer, marine or mariner who shall be certified by the council to be a deserter in manner aforesaid, such agent shall be accountable to the treasurer of this state, for the time being, for the share or shares, or parts of a share, so paid, delivered or distributed, and shall also forfeit a sum of money, not exceeding fifteen hundred pounds, nor less than five hundred pounds, to be recovered as aforesaid, for the uses aforesaid.

Commanding officers in the Continental Army to send descriptive lists of deserters into the secretary's office.

[SECT. 8.] And the several commanding officers of the respective regiments in the Continental Army, belonging to this state, are hereby required to send descriptive lists of the deserters from their several regiments, into the said secretary's office, for the purpose of detecting said deserters.

And whereas, it appears that many deserters from the aforesaid battalions are sensible of their folly and wickedness, in violating their faith and oaths, in dishonorably abandoning the cause of their country, by desertion, and would gladly be restored to the favour of their fellow citizens, by a speedy return to their several companies and regiments in the Continental Army, during the war, or a certain time over and above their several engagements, were it not for the apprehension of an ignominious punishment; therefore, to quiet the minds of such, and to prevent all appearance of excuse to any who shall dare to reject the pardon and indemnification in this act freely offered, —

Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, —

The council of this state directed to request the commander-in-chief of the army, to proclaim pardon to all deserters.

[SECT. 9.] That the council of this state be directed to write to the commander-in-chief of the said army, immediately, inclosing a copy of this act, and, in the name of the general assembly of Massachusetts Bay, requesting him to proclaim a pardon to all deserters from the Massachusetts line of the army, who shall, within three months after the publication of this act, return to their several companies, if on land, and, if at sea, within one month after their return, and serve during the present war, if so engaged, and if otherwise, shall serve nine months over and above the time for which he or they engaged.

In case.

[SECT. 10.] And in case the commander-in-chief shall offer pardon as aforesaid, such deserter[s] as shall take the benefit of the same shall be [i][e]ntitled to receive all bounties, gratuities and allowances for depreciation, offered or granted, or that are or may be due to the soldiers of the Continental Army, belonging to this state, for the time that he or they may have served, as tho'[ugh] he or they had never deserted; and all who shall neglect to avail themselves of the benefits thereof, shall be considered as having forfeited their right to the liberties and privileges of a free citizen, and may be apprehended, by virtue of this act, any time hereafter, within the term of twenty years; and if apprehended after the expiration of the present war, and before the expiration of said twenty years, they shall be committed on board some ship in the service of this state, or into some fort or garrison belonging to the same, there to serve the term of ten years, as the commanding officer of the militia of this state shall direct.

And to the intent that no one who shall refuse the offer of pardon, and neglect to return to his duty, may escape the punishment due to his ag[g]ravated crime, —

Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 11.] That from and after the expiration of the time limited for the return of any deserter, in the pardon which may be proclaimed by the commander-in-chief, aforesaid, any male inhabitant of this state, who shall detect and apprehend any non-commissioned officer or soldier who hath deserted, or shall hereafter desert, from the army of the United States, and secure him in any of the public goals in this state (which he is hereby [i][e]mpowered to do, and each goaler is hereby required to receive and keep him in close custody until[l] called for by an officer of said army), or shall deliver him to any Continental or militia officer, or any committeeman, so that the said deserter may be returned to the corps to which he belongs, shall, for every deserter so taken up and secured, receive, out of the public treasury of this state, the sum of thirty pounds, on his producing a certificate thereof to the council of this state, from any of the officers or committeemen aforesaid, with a d[i][e]scription of the person or persons so taken up, and also the regiment and company to which he belongs.

And whereas many of the men who have been inlisted, or detached from the militia, to reinforce the Continental Army, and serve for the term of nine months, have deserted before they have joined the said army, or before the time of service for which they engaged was expired; therefore, —

Be it [further] enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 12.] That such persons shall be considered as included within the true meaning of this act, to all intents and purposes, and in the same manner as those deserters who were inlisted for three years or during the war, excepting only that they shall not be held to serve a longer time than that for which they were [e][i]nlisted or detached, and shall not be [i][e]ntitled to have the depreciation of the money made good, in the manner provided by this act for those who were inlisted for three years or during the war.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 13.] That any person who shall employ for more than forty-eight hours, or who shall conceal or secrete, any deserter from the Continental Army, knowing him to be such, and be convicted thereof, shall forfeit a sum of money not exceeding fifteen hundred pounds, nor less than five hundred pounds, to be recovered as aforesaid, for the uses aforesaid. Persons concealing prisoners for more than 48 hours: — penalty.

Provided, nevertheless, —

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 14.] That any person prosecuted for employing, concealing or secreting such deserter shall be deemed and taken to have known him to have been such deserter, unless he shall give in evidence, upon the trial, a certificate of some justice of the peace, or town clerk, within this state, or of some field officer of the militia thereof, bearing date previous to the time of such employing, concealing or secreting, and certifying that such justice, town clerk or field officer, hath good reason to believe that the person so employed, secreted or concealed (mentioning his name and describing his person), is not a deserter from the Continental Army. Proviso.

And, to the intent that no person shall be subjected to pay the penalties in this act provided, before the same shall be sufficiently published within this state, —

Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 15.] That this act shall not be of any force or effect until[l] twenty days after its publication. The time when this act shall be in force.

[Sect. 16.] This act shall be printed in handbills; and the secretary of this state is hereby directed to send a sufficient number of copies of them to the several brigadiers or commanding officers of the several brigades in this state, who are hereby directed, without delay, to send one copy to the commanding officer of each company in their respective brigades; and where no such officer is, to the committees of the several towns and plantations, who are also directed to cause the same to be read to their several corp[e]s, as soon as may be; and also one copy to each officer commanding any battalion or corp[e]s of this state's quota of the Continental Army. [Passed May 5, 1780.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or other place, within this state, that are taxed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all the male polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns or other place next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town or place, including negroes and molattoes (and such of them as are under the government of a master or mistress, to be taxed to the said master or mistress, respectively, in the same manner as minors and apprentices are taxed), at twenty pounds; and to assess the remainder of the sum set to each town (after deducting the amount of the sums assessed to the polls as aforesaid) on the inhabitants of said town or place as aforesaid, according to the just value of the whole real estate by each inhabitant of such town or place, respectively, possessed in his own right, or in the right of others, lying within said town or place, improved or not improved; and on the non-resident possessors of real estate, lying within said town or place, in their own right, or in the right of others, improved or not improved: saving all agreements between landlords and tenants, and where no agreement is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax; and also on the inhabitants of such town or place, according to the proportion of the amount and just value of their whole personal estate, including money at interest more than they pay interest for, debts due to them, not on interest, more than they are indebted, monies of all kind in hand, and also the amount of the just value of all goods, wares and merchandize, stock in trade, vessels of all sorts, with their stores, appurtenances and appendages, plate, horses, oxen, and cattle of all sorts and ages, sheep, swine, and grain of all sorts, and all kind of produce of the land, and all other property whatsoever (excepting houshold furniture, wearing apparel, farming utensils and the tools of mechanicks), on the twentieth day of May, one thousand seven hundred and eighty; and the current price of the real and personal estate on the said twentieth day of May, before mentioned, in the currency of these United States, shall be considered as the just value of the same; and on the amount of their income from any profession, faculty, handicraft, trade or employment; and also on the amount of all incomes and profits gained by trading by sea and on shore, and by means of advantages arising from the war, and the necessities of the community, — and in considering the incomes and profits last mentioned, the assessors are to have special regard to the way and manner in which the same have been made, as well as the quantum thereof, and to assess them at such rate, as they on their oaths, shall judge to be just and reasonable: provided, they do not in any case assess such incomes and profits at more than ten times the sum of the same amount in other kind of estate: and the treasurer in his said warrant, shall likewise require the assessors to make a fair list of said assessments, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for real estate, and how much for personal estate, as aforesaid; and if as a guardian, or for any estate in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and shall also insert upon their rate-bills the number of acres of unimproved land which they have taxed to each of the non-resident proprietors of land within the respective towns, and also the value at which they have estimated the same: and the list or lists so perfected, and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collector or collectors, constable or constables, of any such town or place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collector or collectors, constable or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the first day of July next; and the collectors and constables shall specify in the receipts which shall be by them given, for any tax, on any such unimproved land, belonging to non-resident proprietors, the number of acres on which the tax is laid, and what proportion thereof is for state, what proportion for town, and what proportion for county, tax.

[SECT. 3.] And the treasurer for the time being, on the receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector or collectors, constable or constables, of such town or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of the respective sums assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collections to the treasurer, aforesaid, in manner following; that is to say, one moiety thereof on or before the fifteenth day of July next, and the remaining moiety thereof on or before the fifteenth day of September next.

[SECT. 4.] That the following persons; viz., the president, fellows, professors, tutors, librarian and students of Harvard College, who have their usual residence there, and settled ministers of the gospel, and grammer-school masters, are not to be assessed for their polls or their estates, unless their real estate be not under their actual management and improvement, or not in the towns where they are settled; and also all persons who have the management and improvement of the estate of Harvard College, are not to be assessed for the same; and if there are any other persons who, through age, infirmity or poverty, are unable to pay as others towards the public charges, or any widows or orphans, who, depending on the interest of their money for subsistence, are, by the state of the currency, so reduced as that in the judgment of the assessors they ought to be relieved in their taxes; in any such case the assessors may exempt their polls or estates, or abate any part of what they are set at, as they on their oaths shall think just and equitable.

[SECT. 5.] And the justices in their sessions, in their respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns, and other places in such county, in proportion to this tax; and the assessors in each town in this state are also directed, in making a town or county tax or assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule. And where no person appears to discharge the taxes on non-resident proprietors' unimproved land, to the collector, he shall publish, in Gill's "Continental Journal and Weekly Advertiser," and that only, three weeks successively, the names of all such proprietors, where they are known, with the sum of the taxes assessed on their lands, respectively, and also the time and place of sale; and where they are not known, he shall, in the same manner, publish the sum of the taxes on the several rights or divisions, together with the time and place of sale, and in each case shall post the same in some public place in the town where the said land lays, for the term of one month; and if no person shall appear thereupon to discharge said taxes, then the constable or collector shall proceed to sell at public sale, to the highest bidder, so much only of said unimproved land as will be sufficient to discharge said taxes and necessary intervening charges, and shall have power to adjourn, from day to day, if necessary, to compleat the sale, not to exceed three days, and shall give and execute a deed to the purchaser, expressing thereon the cause of such sale, and saving to the aforesaid proprietor or proprietors, the right of redemption of any lands so sold, at any time within three years from the time of sale; and the same shall be conveyed to him or them on paying, within three years, as aforesaid, the sum such land sold for, and twelve per cent annual interest on said sum, together with all necessary intervening charges thereon.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 6.] That no purchaser of such land shall cut down any trees or timber, or commit strip or waste thereon, until the three years, the time of redemption as aforesaid, shall expire.

Be it further enacted,

[Sect. 7.] That the several officers and soldiers that may be in the army on the 20th day of May, 1780, shall be considered as resident in the several towns and places to which they belonged at the time of their engaging in the army, their absence notwithstanding; and the assessors of the several towns and other places in this state, shall consider such officers and soldiers as resident in such town or place, and shall tax them accordingly: provided, that such as are engaged in the Continental Army for the term of three years, or during the war, be, and they hereby are, exempted from their poll tax.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 8.] That the assessors of each town or other place, respectively, in convenient time before making the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in any town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some public place or places in such town or other place, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to make and bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and of all their real and personal estates, lands and all real estate whether improved or not improved, — to the assessors of the town or place where such houses and lands and other real estates lay; distinguishing those in the management and possession of some other person, as also a list of all their personal estate, including money at interest more than they pay interest for, debts due, not on interest, more than they are indebted, and of monies of all kinds, in hand; and also the amount of the just value of all goods, wears and merchandize, stock in trade, plate, horses, oxen, cattle of all sorts and ages, sheep, swine, grain of all sorts, and all kind of produce of the lands, and of all other property whatsoever (excepting household furniture, wearing apparel, farming utensils and the tools of mechanicks), on the said 20th day of May, according to the current price of such real and personal estates in the currency of the United States, on the said 20th day of May; and also of the amount of their income from any profession, faculty, handicraft, trade or employment, and of the amount of all incomes and profits gained by trading by sea or on shore, and by means of advantages arising from the war, and the necessities of the community; all which they are to render to the assessors, on oath, if required; which oaths the said assessors are hereby impowered to administer. And if any person or persons shall, upon such notice given, neglect or refuse to give in to the assessors the list of their polls and rateable estates, according to their discription thereof before given, which they were possessed of on the 20th day of May, or shall bring in a list which the assessors are, in their judgment, convinced is a false one, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors, and they are hereby directed, to assess such person or persons, according to the best judgment and estimation they can form of the real and personal estate of the said person, according to the discription before given. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estates as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting or refusing shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment layed on him or them.

[SECT. 9.] And if the assessors are not, in their judgment, convinced of any falshood in the list, to them presented of the polls and real and personal estate, such list shall be a rule of that person's proportion to the tax who presented the same, which the assessors may not exceed.

[SECT. 10.] That nothing in this act shall be construed to extend so as to require any assessors to assess any person for any estate, real or personal, in his possession (absentees' estates excepted), that is the property of the United States, or any of them.

Whereas there are, within this state, several tracts of unimproved land belonging to persons who have left the same and gone over to the enemy, and no provision has been made by the government of the same for the payment of the taxes, otherwise than by the sale of such lands, which may be attended with great loss to the state; for the preventing of which, —

Be it enacted,

[SECT. 11.] That all constables and collectors of taxes be, and they hereby are, directed to stay the sale of all such lands until a further order of the general court be taken thereon.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 12.] That the treasurer of this state be, and he hereby is, impowered and directed to allow or pay to such constables or collectors, the amount, in their respective lists, of the taxes on such unimproved lands on a cirtificate from the major part of the assessors who made such tax, being produced, setting forth the sum taxed in any list exhibited, on said unimproved lands, and to keep an account of all monies by him so allowed or paid.

And whereas doubts have arisen respecting the true intent and meaning of the word "inhabitants" in some former tax acts, —

Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 13.] That all male persons from sixteen years old and upwards, residing or usually doing business in any town within this state, shall be considered within the true intent and meaning of this act, and the assessors are directed to proceed to assess them for their trade and faculties, exercised there, and also for their polls, if not taxed for their polls elsewhere.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 14.] That each town in this state, which shall appear, upon the settlement of the next valuation, to have paid more than their proportion since the settlement of the last valuation, shall be allowed what they have so overpaid, in the next tax, after the said next valuation is settled.

Provided, nevertheless, —

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 15.] That the collectors or constables be and hereby are authorised and impowered to receive one dollar in specie, or one dollar of the bills on interest, proposed to be emitted by an act passed the present session, for carrying into execution the resolve of Congress of the 18th of March, 1780, in lieu of forty dollars of the bills now in circulation; and the treasurer of this state shall receive of said constables or collectors, the specie or the new bills which may be emitted, at the rate aforesaid. [Passed May 5, 1780.

NOTES. — All the sessions of the General Court, this year, were held at Boston. The first session was prorogued on the thirtieth of June, to the eighth of September; and the second session was adjourned, on the ninth of October, to the tenth of November. The General Court continued in session from the day last named until the fourteenth of January, when it was again prorogued. Though this session was interrupted by an adjournment, from the seventh to the fourteenth of December, it is here treated as a continuous session, notwithstanding that the resolves after December fourteenth in the contemporaneous impression, are grouped and numbered in a distinct series, and under a new heading, and that, in the printed journal of the House, a new paging begins with the latter date, under a separate heading. The fourth session began March ninth, after a prorogation, and ended on the fifth of May, by prorogation to the seventeenth. On the twelfth of May, the Assembly was still further prorogued, by proclamation, to the thirtieth, when it was dissolved.

All the acts of this year were printed, except chapter 31, of which no printed copy has been discovered, and its secret purpose warrants the supposition that it was never sent to the printers. Chapter 30 was, like other tax acts, printed separately.

The engrossments of all these acts, except of chapters 12 and 49, are preserved. The following acts, only, are on parchment: chapters 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 8, 9, 20, 24, 25, 28, 31 and 36. The engrossed acts, except chapter 41, which was signed by fourteen councillors, and chapter 48, which was signed by twelve, bear the signatures of fifteen, or more, of the Council.

The following is the title of the only private act passed this year: —

"An Act for dissolving the Marriage of Philip Turner and Mercy Turner." — [Passed April 14, 1780.

Chap. 1. On the 15th of February, 1779, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Mitchell, Ely and White, was appointed by the House of Representatives "to consider the expediency of augmenting fines and penalties." This committee made a verbal report the day following, against the expediency of this measure, but their report was not accepted, and thereupon Messrs. Mitchell, Crane and Partridge were appointed a committee "to consider what penalties shall be augmented, and to bring in a bill accordingly."

On the 23d of February, a bill was reported entitled "An Act for augmenting the fines of constables and jurors," which was read twice and ordered to be recommitted, on the same day; and on the 26th, the further consideration of this bill was referred to the next session.

No further attempt to pass a separate act upon this subject has been discovered, but the object of the bill seems to have been accomplished by the present chapter. This was read a first time on the 10th of June, as reported by a committee, appointed on the 7th, consisting of Messrs. Pickering, Tudor, Gorham of Charlestown, Walley and Page. This committee was instructed "to revise the fee-bill, and report what further establishment is proper to be made for the several officers of government in this state."

The bill of this chapter was read a second time, on the 11th, and recommitted. On the 12th, it was read a third time, in the House, and ordered to be engrossed and sent up to the Council, where, on the same day, it was read a first time. On the 14th, the bill was read a second time, in the Council, and passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, and on the 16th, it was passed to be enacted by both branches.

Chap. 2. One of the ten tracts of land sold at public auction June 2, 1762, by a committee of the General Court, was the territory afterwards incorporated as Murrayfield and now chiefly included in the towns of Chester and Huntington. It was knocked down to William Williams, who relinquished his claim to John Chandler, John Murray, Abijah Willard and Timothy Paine. On the 3d of February, 1764, Paine and Chandler presented to the General Court a petition, which has not been preserved, but in which they represented that they were the purchasers of this tract of land; that upon viewing it they found it to be "very uneven and very mountainous," and "divided in three parts by three very rapid, rocky rivers, that about 7500 acres of the best of the land was taken up in former grants, besides which there is a pond of about 500 acres greatly detrimental to the purchase"; that to prevent trouble with nineteen actual settlers on the best portions of the territory they had granted to each of them one hundred acres, and that they had "been at great expense in making roads and bridges"; wherefore they prayed for a rebate of some part of the £1500 purchase-money for the payment of which they had given security to the province treasurer. Upon this petition a grant was made to the petitioners and their associates, of twelve hundred acres of the unappropriated lands of the province, in full satisfaction of their claims for an allowance.

On the 20th of February, 1770, the proprietors of Murrayfield met, according to notice, at a tavern in Lancaster, and voted to give to the settlers and inhabitants of Murrayfield the meeting-house which they had erected there (though it was not entirely finished) at their own expense, reserving six "pew-spots" to sundry of the proprietors, according to a plan submitted to the selectmen of the town with the vote aforesaid.

Such were the relations subsisting between the town and the proprietors, down to 1779, when the subject of bridging the Westfield River was brought to the attention of the Legislature, by the following petition: —

"To the Honourable Counsell and House of Representatives of the State of the Massachusetts Bay now Seting at Boston — We Your Humble Petitioners Beg leave to represent to your Honours the Importance and Necessity of a Bridge being built across Westfield River near the Mills in Norwich where two County Roads meet, as there is no Bridge across S^d^ River (which is very rapid and Violent) for near Twenty five Miles in Length, and as in that Length of Way There is a vast Deal of Travilling which is of Necessity to be made across S^d^ River especially by the People of Murrayfield in Order to Get out of Town Either to Northampton Westfield or into Connecticut, and Likewise as the County Road from Northampton to Blandford and so up into the County of Berkshire Crosses the River at S^d^ Place in Norwich & Likewise the County Road from Westfield up into Norwich & Worthington and from Thence into the State of Vermont Crosses the Same River & at the Same Place on which Roads There is Much Travilling to and from the State of Connecticut from the upper Towns and County & so from the State of Vermont as Well as from This State; and as this River and it's Branches are Soon raised by any Thing of a Freshet of Rain, which Renders the Crossing of Them very Dangerous and is a great Damage often to Perticular Persons as well as the Publick in General to be Stoped in their Business by the River's being unfoardable at Such Times, and as in the Year Domini 1764 There was Granted by the Honourable General Court of this State unto Timothy Pain Esq^r^ and others the Proprietors of Murrayfield Twelve Hundred Acres of Land Adjoining to N^o^ 5 for the Extraordinary Cost they the S^d^ Proprietors of Murrayfield said they had been at in Building Bridges across S^d^ River & its Branches and in Making Roads in Murrayfield as was represented by Them in a Petition to the General Court which is to be Seen on Record in the Secretary's Office, which Cost they the S^d^ Proprietors was never at, Neither did they ever Build a Bridge or was at any Cost in Building one or in making Roads Either Directly or Indirectly; as there was no Bridge ever Built across S^d^ River or its Branches in Norwich or Murrayfield, and as S^d^ Proprietor did Soon after they had Got S^d^ Town Incorporated Emediately raise the Price of their Lands to Such an Extravagant Price that hindered People from Buying in S^d^ Town and as a Number of the Proprietors of S^d^ Murrayfield have for a Number of Years Past been gon of to the Enimy so that People that would have been Glad to have purchased Them Farms in Town could not Buy because S^d^ Proprietors was not to be found which has been a great Hindrance to the Town's Settling; and the People that came first into Town were many of Them low & Poor in the World and always have had a great many Roads and of great Length to make and maintain in a New and rough Country which in a Great Measure was Occasioned by the Proprietors fixing Their Setling Lots in Every Part of The Town which Necessarily made more Roads in the Town to be made and keept in repair, which has keept the People Low and behindhand —

Therefore we Pray your Honours that Some Meathod may be Devised that a Bridge may be Built across S^d^ River and its Branches Either by S^d^ Grant of Land which the Proprietors got Granted Them for Services they never did, or out of their Estates, or any Other Way Your Honours in Your Wisdom Shall See most fit — and as in Duty Bound Your Petitioners Shall Ever Pray. —

Signed in the Name and behalf of the Town and by Order of the Select-Men of Murrayfield. DAVID SHEPARD T^n^ Clerk Murrayfield January 6^th^ 1779." — Mass. Files: Bills, 1779.

This petition was read in the House, January 19th, and referred to a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Goodman and Gray, of the House, and Baker, of the Council, "to consider the same and report." On the 22d, notice* of this petition was ordered to be served by leaving a copy thereof and of the order of notice thereon "with Timothy Paine, who is mentioned in said petition." Agreeably to the report of the committee the notice was made returnable "on the last Wednesday of February next, if the Court shall be then sitting; otherwise on the second Wednesday of the next session."

Although the Assembly was in session on the return day first mentioned in the order, nothing appears to have been done at that time besides the filing of the sworn certificate, and the answer of Timothy Paine, copies of which are given below: —

"Stephen Lyman of Murrayfield in the County of Hampshire Gentleman, Gideon Mathews Yeoman, & James Clark Gentleman, both of s^d^ Murrayfield, John Smith of West Hampton & William Milliar of Norwich in s^d^ County Yeoman Testify & say that in the year of our Lord 1762 the Proprietors of N^o^ 9 known by the name of Murrayfield proposed to admit Sixty Setlers to draw for Lots in s^d^ Township of a hundred acres each including those that had begun on s^d^ Lands before their purchase, that s^d^ Propritors allowed to draw for Lots, the number of those on the Land before the Proprietors purchase were nineteen persons, viz, Zebulon Fuller James Clark, John Webber, Thomas Kennedy, William Man, David Bolton, John Gilmore, Israel Rose, Moses Moss, Ebenezer Meachom William Miller, David Scott, Ebenezer Webber, Jonathan Hart Webber, William Kennedy Abraham Flemming, Moses Hale, James Bolton, David Gilmore Seven of the above men were allowed to hold a hundred acres where they had before began to Labour on the conditions of a bond as the other Settlers were under. Six of the above nineteen were allowed only to draw lots with the other Settlers promiscuously. The other Six were not allowed by s^d^ Proprietors the priviledge of drawing with other Settlers nor holding their Lands by their being on before their purchase.

* Printed resolves, chapter LXIX.

The condition of the bond s^d Proprietors required of the Settlers was to clear Seven acres fit for mowing or Plowing & build a house 24 feet long & 18 feet wide 7 feet Studd, within three years and to do the Sixtieth part of Settling a Minister, the Settler were under no obligation to do anything towards making roads or bridges, neither have s^d Proprietors laid out any cost to make roads or bridges in s^d Town since the Settlement of the Town. Only thirty one of the afores^d Sixty Settlers have had lots given to them by s^d Proprietors. Their is no Pond in s^d Township Excepting the Pond that is mostly in Green & Walkers Grants, according to the best of our judgement, the former grants are not better Lands than the Township is taken together

"State of the Massachusetts Bay } To the Hon^ble Council & House of Representatives in general } Court Assembled at Boston —

Timothy Paine of Worcester in the County of Worcester Esq^r humbly Shews.

That he has been serv'd with a Copy of a Petition of the Inhabitants of Murrayfeild in the County of Hampshire, praying that the Proprietors of s^d Town for the Reasons in s^d Petition mentioned may be subjected to build a Bridge over the rapid Westfeild River at the Mills in Norwich with an Order of this Hon^ble Court thereon, that so the s^d Proprietors may shew Cause, if any they have why the Prayer of s^d Petition shou'd not be granted —

That, the said Tim^o and the Heirs of the late Col^o Otis are the only Proprietors in this Country — The other Proprietors being Absentees and a Proprietors Meeting cou'd not be Called, for the Purpose of making Answer to s^d Petition: Therefore the s^d Tim^o as one of s^d Proprietors begs Leave that he may offer his Reasons why the Prayer of said Petition shou d not be granted —

The first Part of s^d Petition is taken up in shewing the Necessity of a Bridge across s^d River at the Place aforesaid, which Your Respondent does not pretend to deny — they then go on to say that there was granted Anno Domini 1764 — by the Gen^l Court of this State, Twelve hundred Acres of Land adjoining to N^o 5 to your Respondent & others the Proprietors of Murrayfeild for the Extraordinary Cost the Proprietors said they had been at in Builduing Bridges across s^d River & its Branches & in making Roads in Murrayfeild as was represented by them in a Petition to the Gen^l Court which is to be seen on Record in the Secretary's Office — Now Your Respondent absolutely denies that in said Petition to the Gen^l Court above refer'd to, they ever did say that they had built a single Bridge across s^d River, or ever made any roads in s^d Town, as the Inhabitants of s^d Murrayfeild have alledged in their Petition — And if there is any such Record in the Secretary's Office such Record must have been made by some Mistake — And Your Respondent is well satisfied the said Inhabitants, before they preferd said Petition Knew that such Entry in the Secretary's Office was a mistake, And Your Respondent several Years ago Informd John Kirkland Esq^r formerly of Murrayfeild now of that Part called Norwich thereof & shew'd him a Copy of the original Petition attested by the Secretary. And further told him that the Extract which he then had from the Secretary's Office, was a wrong Entry —

The Truth of the matter relative to s^d Petition on which the grant of s^d Twelve hundred Acres was made is as follows. In said Petition the said Proprietors of Murrayfeild among other Things gave the Court to be informed— That they purchased s^d Township in the Year 1762 of the Goverment. that upon Veiw of the same they found it to be very uneven & Mountainous — divided into three Parts by three very rapid Rocky Rivers — that the Banks of s^d River were steep and Rocky & almost impossible in many Places to pass from one Side of s^d River to the other — That about seven thousand five hundred Acres of the best of the Land and that which would have settled soonest were taken up in former Grants, — That before the Purchase of s^d Township there was about nineteen Settlements begun upon the best of the Land — that they had no Power to turn the Possessors away and if they had such Power, it wou'd be attended with great Trouble & Charge, and were obliged to give them one hundred Acres of Land each where they had begun to settle— That the only Place that could be found to lay the Town Plot was upon a very high Mountain which would always make it extreemly Difficult to get to it. And that by Reason of great Sums of Money s^d Propietors must necessarily be at in making Roads over Mountains & necessary Expensive Bridges, over the said Rivers and for other Reasons mentioned in s^d Petition — they pray'd that Part of the Consideration Money might be remitted or that the Grant of a Peice of Land near to or adjoining to said Township might be granted to them — thereupon the Court made the grant of said Twelve hundred Acres in the following Words —' viz^t — In the House of Representatives Feb^y 3^d 1764 Read & orderd that Twelve hundred Acres of the unappropriated Land of this Province be granted to the Petitioner & their Associates & that they present a Plan thereof to this Court within twelve Months from this Time for their Confirmation, which is in full Consideration for the Complaint made in the Petition' as by s^d Petition & order of Court appears — from all which it is plain the said Grant was not made for the Purpose of recompensing the said Proprietors the Extraordinary Costs they had been at for builduing Bridges &c As the Inhabitants in their Petition say —

Your Respondent begs leave further to inform this Court that by the Extraordinary

Exertions of the Proprietors after they purchased s[d] Township, The said Town settled much sooner than any other Township sold at the same Time, and that the original Township of Murrayfeild which now includes the Town of Norwich pays more Taxes than any other of the Eight Townships then Sold — Therefore the Suggestion of s[d] Inhabitants in saying that after the Incorporation of said Township the Proprietors did raise the Price of their Lands to such an Extravagant Pitch that hindred People from buying in s[d] Town is without any Foundation —

Your Respondent wou'd further observe that the Proprietors gave away one hundred Acres of Land to each Settler — and what the s[d] Proprietors have done to encourage the Settlement of s[d] Town-ship over & above what they were obliged to do by the Courts Resolve when the Township was purchas'd cost them much more than the the Value of s[d] Twelve hundred Acres of Land when granted The s[d] Proprietors built a Saw Mill & Grist Mill in s[d] Town, And a Meeting House 45 Feet long 40 feet Wide boarded & shingled the same, made the Doors & laid the lower Floor, which they granted to the Inhabitants, which they were under no obligation to do and was done after the Grant of the said Twelve hundred Acres of Land was made —

That all the Proprietors except one carried on Settlements equal with the other Inhabitants & some of them had the greatest Improvements of any in the Place — And their Improvements were taxed with other Inhabitants in s[d] Town & did their Parts in making Bridges & Roads — Yet the said Inhabitants say that the Proprietors have never been at any Cost in making Roads &c — That the Proprietors gave away besides the lotts for Settlement all the Lands that were necessary for Roads, that so the Inhabitants in future might not be at any Expence in purchasing Lands for Roads when necessary to be laid out —

And as to the Complaint that the Proprietors by laying out the settlers Lotts in every Part of the Town has been a great Damage to the Inhabitants as thereby they have had a great many Roads & of great Lenght to make and maintain in a new and rough Country —

Your Respondent woud observe that the Settlements were not scatterd all over the Township but the first Settlement was made cheifly in that part called Murrayfeild and in that Part they were Scatterd, which was designed for the Benefit of the Settlers if they had been settled all in a Cluster they wou'd not have had an Opportunity of Inlarging their Farms when they were able to purchase, as many of them have since done. And the Plan of Settlement in that way was very agreable to the original Settlers tho' now for Want of Something Better they mention it to the Court by way of Complaint —

Your Respondent further says. That the Twelve Hundred acres of Land granted the Proprietors lay without the bounds of any Town and at the Time the Grant was made was looked upon of little Value and according as Lands were sold at that Time not worth more than sufficient to Recompence the Proprietors for the other Complaints mentioned in their Petition on which s[d] Grant was founded exclusive of making Roads & Bridges —

Lastly That by the late Law for Taxing non Resident Proprietors Lands The Proprietors of Murrayfield have been Taxed in a Greater Proportion then any other New Town in the Neighbourhood of Murrayfield — and the Inhabitants of s[d] Town have had the Benefit of said Taxes and they can well afford to build Bridges & make Roads. and if the said Proprietors should be Subjected to Build s[d] Bridge, over and above, Paying s[d] Lands Taxes, and what they have already done for s[d] Town their Interest will be rendered of little Value The said Respond·nt therefore Prays that the said Petition may be dismissed and as in Duty bound Shall ever pray

Worcester Feb. 14 1779 TIM[O] PAINE." — Ibid.

On the 27th of April, an order, originating in the Council, was passed, appointing a joint committee, consisting of Timothy Danielson, of the Council, and Messrs. Wood and Harrington, of the House, to take the foregoing petition and answer into consideration, "hear the parties, and report what may be proper to be done thereon." On the 29th, this committee made the following report, which, on the same day, was read and accepted in the Council, and sent down to the House for concurrence; and four days later the House concurred in the vote of acceptance: —

"The Committee of Both Houses on the Petition of David Shepard in Behalf of the Town of Murryfield praying a Bridge may be built over Westfield River near the Mills in Norwich in the County of Hampshire Report that the Prayer of the Petition ought to be grand, and that Expence of Building said Bridge ought to be defrayed by the Original Proprietors of the s[d] Town of Murryfield viz Tim[o] Payne John Chandler John Murry and Abijah Willard Esq[rs] They having rec[d] a Grant of Twelve hundred acres of unappropriated Lands Then lying near the said Town of Murrifield, as a Compensation for Building Bridges in said Murryfield, and other Public Services which They never have done or performed, and that the Petitioners have Liberty to bring in a Bill for that Purpose at the next Sitting of the General Court All which is Submitted

In accordance with the above report, the bill of this chapter was introduced in the next Assembly. It was read a first time, in the House, June 14th, and a second time, on the 15th, when, "by a majority of 31 members out of 50," it was ordered to be read again the next day. On the 16th, it was read a third time, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence, and, on the 19th, was enacted by both branches and signed by fifteen members of the Council.

Chap. 3. Although there were actual settlers on the territory embraced within the limits of Mount Washington for nearly ninety years before the date of its incorporation, the history of this chapter requires only a reference to the efforts of the inhabitants to secure the privileges of a town, and to the legislative proceedings thereupon, and to some other proceedings of the General Court relative to granting lands and confirming titles to the proprietors.

The uncertainty of the boundary lines between this territory and the adjacent plantations in Massachusetts, and between Massachusetts and New York, the claims of the Indians to this territory, and the disputes among the actual settlers, some of whose titles were solely by occupancy, and others by purchase, not only made this region for many years the scene of contention and violence, sometimes proceeding even to bloodshed, but they have involved its history in intricate details which pertain more properly to the history of the Indian reservations, and of the settlement of the boundary-line of the province; subjects reserved for special consideration in the Appendix.

From 1752 to 1774, upon the petitions of settlers and other parties interested, committees were repeatedly chosen by the Legislature to sell the public lands lying west of Sheffield and Stockbridge. At first, these sales were ordered to be made in Boston, by public auction; but this method was soon abandoned, and, thereafter, committees appointed for the purpose were directed to repair to the place where the lands lay, and personally attend to their allotment and disposal. In these sales, the liberal policy was adopted of giving a preference to purchasers who were in actual possession. The reclaimed lands of these settlers were ordered to be appraised as wild land, without regard to improvements they had made thereon; but the sales of unimproved lands were open to all bidders, equally. In all these sales, the price required was reasonably low, and easy terms of payment were offered upon security given by the purchasers.

Early in 1755, active measures were taken by the Legislature to have the above territory laid out into townships, and the settlement thereof promoted by grants of land, on favorable terms, to actual settlers. On the 14th of April, a conflict occurred between some of these settlers and the agents of Robert Livingston of New York (who claimed title to some of the lands thus settled), in which William Race, a citizen of Massachusetts was killed. This led to prompt and energetic measures for settling the territory and ending all disputes as to the New York boundary-line. A joint committee of the Legislature submitted two reports on the 28th of April, the latter of which, signed by Thomas Hutchinson, one of its members, alleged that the "unhappy state of the people situate westward of Sheffield and Stockbridge, is very much owing to the caution used by this government, and its forbearance to make grants of land, and bringing forward the settlement of that part of the province," etc., and recommended the liberal policy afterwards pursued by the Legislature.

At this stage, however, proceedings were delayed by the failure of the General Court to effect a settlement with the Stockbridge Indians, to whom £1000, in New York currency, had been awarded by a legislative committee, in full for their interest in these lands, but the first instalment of which sum had been diverted to the raising of men for the expedition against Crown Point, notwithstanding it had been promised as an immediate payment. Before the province had finally satisfied this Indian claim, certain of the settlers secured from the Indians a release of their title to part of these lands, by deeds duly recorded. Among these were the settlers on Tauconnock (or Taconic) Mountain, incorporated by this chapter; but nearly seventeen years elapsed before the Legislature confirmed the Indian conveyances and released to the original purchasers, and their representatives, the title of the province. This was done June 14, 1774, upon the petition of Nathan Benjamin and others, who filed, with their petition, a plan of the territory.

This petition has not been discovered; but a plan, on parchment, remaining in the state archives,* is probably the plan referred to, notwithstanding the committee of the proprietors who, in May, 1779, prayed for incorporation, declared that it could not be found. It is not unlikely that the legislative committee of 1774 adopted this plan: their report is endorsed thereon, and it is hardly probable that, in the short time allowed them for completing their work, they would be at the needless trouble and expense of procuring a duplicate.

The following is the report of the committee last referred to, which consisted of Messrs. Hopkins and Ingersoll, of the House, and Timothy Woodbridge, of the Council, appointed February 16th, and directed to report at the next session of the General Court:—

"The Report of the Committee of the General Assembly of the Province of the Massachusetts Bay who on the 16th Day of February last upon the Petition of Nathan Benjamin were appointed to Repair to Tauconnock Mountain to make Enquiry, and determine what Persons originally purchased of the Indians the Lands in said Petition mentioned, who are the Heirs or assigns of those Purchasors, and who ought to be admitted the Grantees of said Lands, is as follows, viz.

The Hon^ble Timothy Woodbridge Esq^r being Sick and unable to attend said Business; by his Consent, and Advice We the subscribers on the Twelfth Day of April last Repaired to the House of said Nathan Benjamin on said Mountain, (having previously given publick suitable, and Seasonable Notice of said Time, and place of our meeting) where the People living upon, and claiming those Lands Assembled, And upon Enquiry and Examination we found there was little or no Uncertainty who ought to be admitted the Grantees of all the Lands, Except three, or four Lots. We heard all that the parties had to say respecting those Controverted Lots, and after duly attending to & Considering the whole Report as our Opinion That the Persons herein after named are the Original Purchasers of the aforesaid Lands the Heirs and assigns of those Purchasers, and ought to be admitted the Grantees of said Land, And that they Hold the several

"In the House of Representatives June 13th 1774

The plan filed with the foregoing report, seems to have been an enlargement of another from a survey purporting to have been made by "Samuel Trescott, surveyor," in November, 1771. Both plans are bound into the same volume.

At the same session in which the above grant was made, twenty-three of the grantees named in the committee's report, presented a petition praying for incorporation into a town or district. A bill was thereupon reported for incorporating this tract of land "into a town by the name of ." This bill, in which the territory was described by general boundaries, conferred upon the corporation all the powers, privileges and immunities of a town, without qualification or exception, and empowered David Ingersoll to call the first meeting of the inhabitants. It was passed, in the House, to be engrossed, June 15, and the Council concurred on the 17th; but the sudden dissolution of the Assembly on that eventful day prevented its enactment.

In 1776, another attempt was made to procure an act of incorporation. The petition, in this case, was signed by forty-three persons, twenty-one of whom appear in the committee's list of grantees. They represented that their lands, the boundaries of which were given in general terms, were situated upon a high mountain, separated from Egremont and Sheffield, the only adjoining towns, "by a long and steep precipice," and that the roads connecting them with said towns were "at all times extremely rugged, and at some seasons almost wholly impassable," so that they were debarred the enjoyment of many town privileges; and for these reasons, and because they had a sufficient population, they prayed that they might be incorporated into a town or district.

On the 29th of August this petition was referred to a committee of the House, consisting of Mr. Mayhew, Capt. Brown of Abington, and Doctor Whiting, who reported a bill, which was read September 2d, "for erecting the plantation called Tauconnuck Mountain" into a town — the name being omitted in the title. This bill was again read the next day, and ordered to lie. No further trace of this bill, nor any action upon it, has been discovered.

In the following spring, still another application was made to the Legislature, for an act of incorporation, in a petition by John King and thirty others, "in behalf of themselves and about forty-five families living on the Tockcanock Mountains lying west of Sheffield, in this state." Of these petitioners, twenty-one were among the grantees enumerated by the legislative committee of 1774. These petitioners alleged that they, with others, purchased the lands in question, of the natives, "some years since, by and with the consent and advice of a committee of the General Assembly," charged with the duty of settling some affairs relative to the lands west of Sheffield; that they had improved the lands, and built roads on to the mountain and from house to house; moreover, that they had, "for some years past, paid a province rate to support government," and raised their full quota of men for the army, and that they were willing to continue to do their "proportion both of men and money," in case they could be incorporated into a district or town with power to accomplish these objects, and to lay out and repair highways, "and also take proper care of some persons among us that are unfriendly to the United States of America." They concluded with a prayer that the General Court would therefor incorporate them into a town or district, "or otherwise relieve" them. The following postscript appears immediately after the signatures on the first leaf: "as we are on a Grat mounten we Desier your onors to giue us the Name of Mount washinton."

This petition was referred March 25, 1777, to a committee of the House, consisting of Messrs. Root, Pitts and Morse, which was subsequently changed, by substituting Messrs. Stratton and White, for Messrs. Root and Morse; but no further action upon this petition has been discovered in the state archives and records, nor in the journals of the House.

The next application for incorporation was the following petition, which was read in the House May 31, 1779, and committed to Mr. Nichols, Mr. Raymond and Major Pynchon: —

"To the Honorable the Councel and House of Representiues of the Great and General Court to be holden at Boston In the State of the Massechusets Bay on the last Wensday of May anno Domini 1779 —

The Petition of us the Subscribers a Committe of the Proprietors of the land on Tauconnock mountain In the County of Berkshire — Humbly sheweth —

} Committe of the proprieters on Taucannack mountain." — Mass. Files: Bills, 1779.

On the 12th of June the above petition was recommitted to Col. Ashley, Mr. Harrington and Mr. Perry, who, on the 14th, reported the bill of this chapter, with the name of the town not written in. On the 17th, the bill, with the name inserted, and with sundry amendments (the most important of which was the insertion at the end of the first section of all the words that follow the word "Sheffield," in the last line but one) was passed to be engrossed in the House, and, on the 19th, in the Council, and on the 21st, it was passed to be enacted.

A resolve* was passed in December following, for apportioning the taxes of Mt. Washington and Sheffield. This is given in the note to chapter 30, post.

The last legislative proceeding that has been noticed relative to the territory of Mt. Washington, before the adoption of the state Constitution, is the reference of the following petitions to a committee of the House, consisting of Mr. Austin, Mr Singletary and Col. Davis of Charlton. On the 19th of September, Mr. Henshaw was substituted for Col. Davis, on this committee, but no trace has been found of further action on these petitions, which are here printed on account of the interesting facts they disclose: —

"To The Honble the Council & House of Representatives of Massachusetts Bay.—

The Selectmen of Mount Washington humbly shew, on Behalf of said Town; that on the twenty first day of June in the year of our Lord seventeen hundred & seventy nine, by an Act of the great and General Court said Mount Washington was incorporated into a Town, having before been known by the name of Tauconnuck Mountain, upon the following Condition viz: that the original Proprietors of said 'Tauconnuck mountain shall pay what is due from them to this state agreeable to the Report of the Committee, the fifteenth of May one thousand, seven hundred & sixty six, with the Interest arising thereon at some future time, when the state shall call for the same.'

Your Petitioners beg Leave to represent to your Honors, that the original Proprietors of said Tauconnuck Mountain, did make a bona fide Purchase of the whole Land included within the Limits of said Mount Washington, of the aboriginal Natives, the then rightful & independent Lords & Proprietors of the Soil, that said Town is situated on a Hight and the Land in a State of Nature so charged with Wood & Timber, that considering its almost inaccessible situation the Labour necessary to bring it into a State of Cultivation would cost nearly as much as the Land could now be sold for, that the original Purchasers of the Natives did not nor do your Petitioners now conceive that under these Circumstances the Government could reasonably demand any thing of them to be quieted in the Possession of Land which they had made their own by an honest Purchase from those who were the sole Owners.— they therefore humbly pray that the Clause aforesaid in the Act aforesd. may be repealed.—

they also humbly pray that the Farm of Land now in the Occupation of Daniel Porter lying in a triangular Form & bounded west on the Line of the State of New York, south on the Oblong so called & east on said Mount Washington, may be adjoined & annexed to said Mount Washington.—

and as in duty bound shall pray.—

May 29. 1780.— ROBARD CAMPLL, JESE RAYS, ANDRAW HAXTON } Selectmen of Mt. Washington

To the Honble the Council & House of Representatives, of Massachusetts-Bay.

Daniel Porter humbly prays that the Farm of Land which he now lives on may be annexed to & incorporated with Mount Washington, agreably to the Petition of the selectmen of said Town dated this day.

and as in Duty bound shall pray.—

May 29. 1780.— DANIEL PORTER." —Mass. Archives, vol. 186, p. 213.

Chap. 4. The former of the following petitions was read in the House, April 30, 1779, and referred to Messrs. Gorham, Crane and Titcomb. On the next day, the latter petition was read and referred to the same committee, which was, at the same time, enlarged by the addition of Messrs. Wales and Dawes: —

"To the Honble the Council, & the Honble the House of Representatives, of the State of Massachusets Bay,

The Petition of the Subscribers, Proprietors of Boston Pier, or Long Wharf, & Other Inhabitants of the Town of Boston, Humbly Sheweth,

That the said Wharf hath been, &, it is still hoped, will be, a great Accommodation & publick Advantage to Trade & Navigation in general, & particularly to the American Navy, thô unprofitable to the Proprietors of it; & that in the Preservation thereof, the Town, the State, & the Continent are deeply interested.

That the Proprietors thereof have, within these few years been at an Expence of not less than £5000,—Sterling, built a most commodious Stone Head, having at it fifteen feet of Water at low Water; whereby they became very much involved in Debt. the greatest part of which remain stil unpaid —

That, immediately afterwards, the present cruel & unnatural War unhappily commenced, & in a manner put a Stop to the Income of said Wharf, & out of the power of the Proprietors, to keep it in Repair.

That by these means, & several late violent Storms, the said Wharf has suffered unspeakable Damage, & is now almost, & will soon be quite, rendered useless, & destroyed.

That the Proprietors, by reason of the great Cost of the Stone Head, & the Calamities before mentioned, are utterly unable, without considerable Assistance, to undertake the Repairs of said Wharf, & must unavoidably, thô with great Reluctance, as well for the Publick as themselves, stand still, & see the Ruin of it compleated

Your Petitioners would therefore humbly request your Honours, to grant such Benefit by a Lottery, as shall enable the Proprietors of said Wharf to put the same into Repair, & thereby save to the Publick the greatest Accommodation of the Sort anywhere known, or such other Relief, as to your Honours Wisdom & Justice shall seem meet, &, as in Duty bound, shall ever pray, &c

"To the Hoñ the Councill and House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay— in General Court assembled the Memorial and Petition of the subscribers Late and at present Inhabitants of the Town of Charlestown

Humbly shews — that said Town of Charlestown was setled in the infancy of this Country when the growth thereof and of sd Town was not foreseen by which means the Streets were not properly laid out being crooked and narrow and in some places so much so as to be very inconvenient and even dangerous to travellors especially in carriages, and no convenient or roomly square for the accomodation of Teams and carriages from the Country

The unhappy catastrophy which has befallen us in having our Buildings destroyed by the Ravages of our Enemy, affords an Opportunity to rectify the mistakes of our Ancestors, and to Lay out the Streets Lanes &c of said Town in a way more conducive to convenienc and health of the inhabitants as well as the accomodation of all Travelors coming into or passing through said Town. Your petitioners being very desirous the favourable opportunity that now presents for the accomplishment of so desirable a work should not be Lost and finding themselves by reason of their great losses unable to make good all the damage that will fall upon individuals in the prosecution of this measure Humbly pray your Honors to grant them the Benefit of a Lottery to raise a sum of money to be applied to the above purpose and your Petitioners as in duty bound will ever pray —

Upon the foregoing petitions the following resolve * was passed: —

* Printed resolves of the April session, chapter CXXI.

"State of Massachusetts Bay — In the House of Representatives May 1st 1779
Whereas James Russell Esq^r & others have petitioned this Court that a Lottery may be granted to raise a sum of Money to Amend and widen the streets in the Town of Charlestown, and M^r Benjamin Waldo and others have petitioned this Court for Liberty to raise a sum of money in the Like way and manner to repair the Long Wharf so called in the Town of Boston and as both requests appear well founded and reasonable Therfore Resolved that Lotteries be granted for both the above purposes to be for such sums and to be managed by such persons as the General Court of this State shall hereafter order neither of said Lotteries to commence till the present State Lottery shall be finished — Sent up for Concurrence. JOHN PICKERING Spk^r
In Council May 1^st 1779 Read & Concurred JOHN AVERY D Secy
Consented to" — [Signed by fifteen of the Council]. — Ibid., p. 243.

The subjects of the above petitions were again considered in the next Assembly, and, on the 22d of June, the House passed, and sent to the Council, for their concurrence, a resolve for carrying into effect the above resolve. The Council, however, had prepared, and passed to be engrossed, the bill of this chapter, which, on the same day, was sent down to the House, for concurrence; and, on the 23d, this bill was passed to be enacted, by both branches.

The schemes of these lotteries were published in the "Independent Chronicle and the Universal Advertiser," of Feb. 3, 1780.

Chap. 5. The bill of this chapter was read a first time in the House, June 11th, with the words "reviving and" omitted from the title, and "revived" omitted from the bill. On the 22d, Messrs. Paine, Prescott and Ward were appointed to revise the act which was revived by this bill, "and report what is proper to be done." They were also ordered to "consider and report what powers are proper to vest the honorable Council with, during the next recess of the General Court." On the next day the bill of this chapter was passed, in the House, to be engrossed, and was sent to the Council, for concurrence. On the same day the Council concurred in the passage to engrossment, and the bill was immediately enacted by both branches.

Chap. 6. The territory incorporated by this chapter included the fifth of the ten tracts of province lands sold by auction, June 2, 1762. This tract, known as "Number Five," was purchased by John Cummings, for £1800. The remainder of the township, being the north-eastern portion, and extending northerly from a point near the centre of the town, was a part of "Hatfield Equivalent" lands, granted to the town of Hatfield, June 13, 1743, in compensation for land set off from Hatfield to Deerfield, and it was laid out by order of the General Court, on the 28th of February, following.

Peter Harwood, as agent for the inhabitants of Number Five, presented a petition to the General Court, praying to be incorporated into a town, with the same privileges and immunities as the town of "Wetherington" [Worthington]. This petition was read April 6, 1771, and ordered to lie on the table; but was revived, in the next Assembly, and referred to a committee of the House, June 18, 1771, who reported, the next day, that notice thereof be served on the inhabitants of Hatfield, and on the non-resident proprietors of Number Five, returnable at the next sitting of the General Court. The petition alleged that about one-fifth of the township was exempt from town charges, and prayed for authority to tax these exempted lands for their proportion of the expense of settling a minister, building a meeting-house, making roads, etc. No further action upon this petition has been discovered.

On the 11th of January, 1773, there was read in the House the petition of "a number of the inhabitants" of Number Five, asking the Legislature for an act of incorporation which should include Hatfield Equivalent, and for a tax of one penny per acre, for three years, to be laid on the proprietors of lands in Number Five; and also, for the appointment of a committee, "to ascertain the bounds." This petition, which has not been found, was referred to a committee of the House, and, on the 28th, the petitioners had leave to withdraw.

The proprietors of the plantation, at a meeting held May 29, 1776, appointed Ebenezer Snell and Asa Hatch "a committee to apply to the Assembly to have the township incorporated." Accordingly, a petition for that purpose, signed by Snell, was read in the House, November 22d, and referred to a committee, who, on the 30th, reported that the prayer thereof be granted, and that the petitioner have leave to bring in a bill accordingly. Nothing further seems to have been done on this petition, which, in addition to the usual prayer for the grant of town privileges, asked that so much of the township as lay in the county of Berkshire may be annexed to Hampshire County, and for confirmation of certain acts and proceedings of the proprietors, touching taxes and assessments upon which lands had, in some instances, been sold in order to raise money for the making and necessary repairs of roads.

The next attempt to procure an act of incorporation for this territory, was the following petition: —

"State of the Massachusetts Bay } To the honorable the Council & the honble House of Representatives in General Court assembled in Octob^r 1778
Most humbly shew

The Proprietors of a Township of Land called Number five in the County of Hampshire — That your Petitioners for a Number of Years have been required to obey Laws which they could have no Influence in making & to pay Taxes set upon them by a legislative Body in whose Appointment they could have no Choice —

That it is impossible for all the Inhabitants of the said Township to be accommodated in one Town on Account of a Mountain which divides one part of s^d Township from the other — That the s^d^ Inhabitants have therefore mutually agreed & given their Consent that the Lands lying westerly of the following Line with the Inhabitants thereon shall be set off to Gageborough viz beginning at the eastermost Corner of the Town of Partridgefield & from thence running in a straight Course to the north East Corner of Lot Number thirteen in the second Division of Lots in s^d^ Township of Number five — That on the other part of the s^d^ Township viz. that which lies east of the above mentioned Line there are now settled between eighty & ninety Familys —

Your Petitioners therefore most humbly pray the honorable Court that the Lands lying Easterly of the Line above described with the Inhabitants thereon may be incorporated into a Town by the Name of Cumington & be vested with all the Powers Priviledges & Immunities which Towns in this State are by Law entitled to — and that the s^d^ Town so incorporated may be declared to be Part of the County of Hampshire & be confirmed as such —

And as in Duty bound shall pray

JARED SMITH in the Name & by Order of s^d^ Proprietors." — Mass. Archives, vol. 220, p. 105.

Accompanying this petition was the following copy from the proprietors' records: —

"At a meeting of the Proprietors of Township N^o^ 5 the 3^d^ day of Sept^r^ 1778 s^d^ Proprietors Voted that the West Part of s^d^ Township be Set of to Gageborough Begining at the South East Corner of Lot N^o^ 20 at Partridgefield Corner and Run a Strait Line to the north East Corner of Lot N^o^ 13 in the Second Devision — Attest WILLIAM WARD Prop^s^ Clerk." — Ibid., p. 104.

On the 9th of October, a petition from Gageborough, and a number of the inhabitants of plantation Number Five, praying that that part of the plantation which lies in the county of Berkshire may be annexed to Gageborough, was read, and referred to a committee of the House, and the above petition of Jared Smith was read in the House, on the 14th, and referred to another committee. On the fifteenth, the bill of this chapter was read three times, and the further consideration thereof was referred to the next session, by a vote of thirty-six to twenty-five. The House then passed a resolve* ordering notice of the petition of Jared Smith to be served on three of the principal inhabitants of Hatfield Equivalent fourteen days before the next sitting of the General Court. The bill was defeated, at this stage, probably through representations made by inhabitants of the plantation and of Hatfield Equivalent; for, at the next session of the Assembly, the following petitions, or remonstrances, were filed: —

"To the Hon^ble^ Counsel & House of Representitives Conveen^d^ at Boston in the County of Suffolk & State of Massachusetts Bay in New England

Upon the presentation of the above objections a resolve was prepared for appointing a committee to repair to the premises, at the charge of the proprietors, and to hear the parties, after due notice; and to report what is proper to be done thereon, at the next sitting of the General Court. This resolve does not appear to have been voted upon; but, on the 8th of February, the above remonstrances, the bill, and the vote of the proprietors, were referred to a committee of the House, consisting of "Gen. Farley, Col. Peck and Capt. Clark." No report by the above committee, and no further legislative action upon the subject, have been found in the records and files for that year; but on the 23d of June, 1779, the bill above mentioned was brought forward, and the date changed, in the heading, from 1778, to 1779; whereupon it had its three readings, was sent up for concurrence, and was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, all on that day.

Chap. 7. The Legislature having observed the futility of attempts to establish, by statute, a fixed schedule of prices of commodities while the currency was constantly fluctuating, it had become a settled policy, as shown in the note to 1778–79, chapter 30,* to entertain no bills expressly designed for that purpose unless in concert with other states, sufficient in number to give a promise of success. But the people were far from unanimous in their understanding of the natural laws of trade, by which the values of all mediums of exchange are determined; and of the delegates from Massachusetts in the Continental Congress, who voted on the question, three out of four declared in favor of further postponing the consideration of a measure reported by the committee on finance, and which was intended to remove all restrictions on the price of gold and silver; and the motion having been carried against them, they voted "no," on the proposition, "That all limitation of prices of silver and gold be taken off."

In their message at the opening of the May session in 1779, a majority of the Council called the attention of the House to the alarmingly rapid depreciation of the Continental currency, and suggested both an urgent appeal to Congress to provide a remedy for the evil, and the propriety of taking effectual measures for the enforcement of the laws of the state against such as should refuse to lease their real estate, and sell their goods or produce, except for coin. They denounced all such persons as public enemies, and predicted that the consequences of their conduct in this respect would be the disbanding of the army, and the failure of the patriotic cause in which so much blood and treasure had already been spent.

On the 29th of May, this message was referred to a committee of five members, who immediately submitted a report containing the following recommendation: —

"Fourthly, That a letter be addressed to Congress, signed by the President of Council, in the name of the General Court, on the depreciating and very alarming state of our currency."— House Journal p. 13.

This was read and accepted on the same day, and referred to a joint committee, consisting of Messrs Robert Treat Paine and John Pickering, of the House, and Thomas Cushing, of the Council.

On the 11th of June the House appointed a committee, consisting of Gen. Lovell, Mr. Nichols, Mr. Rawson, Mr. Perry and Mr. Gorham of Lunenburg, "to consider what is proper to be done to prevent persons from hoarding up and withholding the necessaries of life; also to consider what penalties are proper to be laid on persons who refuse to take Continental currency." On the next day, Col. Hutchinson was added to this committee.

* P. 1019, ante.

On the 14th, this committee was ordered to "take into consideration the evils consequent to the late resolution of Congress for taking off the limitation of prices of gold and silver, and report what is proper to be done;" and, at the same time, Mr. Cranch and Mr. Austin were added to the committee.

On the fifteenth, this committee made the following report: —

"The committee appointed to take into consideration the evils consequent to the late resolution of Congress for taking off the limitations of prices of gold and silver, reported as follows, viz. 'That the said resolve has occasioned a more rapid depreciation of our currency since that time than had taken place before; and that a committee be appointed to write to Congress upon the subject, desiring them, if agreeable to their plans, to order said limitation again to be laid on gold and silver.'" — Ibid., p. 46.

This report was immediately read and accepted, and Col. Dawes, Mr Gorham of Charlestown, and Capt. Wales were appointed a committee as therein recommended.

On the 17th, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, and on the 23d, it was passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence, and on the next day it was passed to be enacted by both branches.

On the 23d, and before the bill had been passed in the House to be engrossed, a memorial from the town of Rehoboth was read in the House, and committed to Messrs. Allen, Prentiss and Starkweather. The memorialists represented that the unhappy state of public affairs, caused by the "extended depreciation of the currency," had led them to apply by petition to the late Assembly praying for a remedy by legislation, as the only sure way of checking "the malignant contagion," and that the preferable course to this end, and the one most just, and productive of the least evil, would be the passage of a "regulation act, lowering the prices of the necessary articles of life, from time to time, in equal or similar contrast to their rising in time past;" they further represented that, in order to make such legislation effectual, it must be "universal throughout the United States." Prompt action was urged both in passing such a law, and in submitting to the several towns the question of the propriety of such legislation, if that course should be deemed expedient. The memorialists professed to have intelligence, from some of "our sister states, that they are making vigorous efforts in this laudable business;" and they appended to their memorial the copy of a vote of the freeholders of the town, at a meeting held on the 21st of the same month, instructing the town clerk to sign the same in behalf of the town.

The following report of the committee upon this memorial, was read on the 23d, "and ordered to lie": —

"In the House of Representatives, June the 23: 1779

The Board chosen under these resolves consisted of James Bowdoin, John Whetcomb, Joseph Palmer, Henry Bromfield, Samuel Phillips Savage, James Prescott, Samuel Allyne Otis, Jonathan Jackson and Jonathan Glover. On the 31st, the secretary was directed immediately to notify these gentlemen of their appointment. Nearly a month later an attempt was made to revise the commission of this Board, and a joint committee, consisting of Thomas Cushing, David Sewall and Francis Dana, of the Council, and Col. Orne, Judge Cushing and Mr. Wendell, of the House, was appointed, "to report what amendments may be thought necessary."

On the 8th of December, a resolve* was passed, that, until the 12th of the same month, any three members of the Board should constitute a quorum, "Samuel Allyne Otis being one of them."

The Board remained in service as thus constituted, until the next year, when the commission was revised, upon the report of a committee of conference, consisting of the Speaker (Mr. Paine) and Messrs. Porter, Greenleaf, Davis and Stone, of the House, and Preble, Cushing, Gill, Danielson and Edwards, of the Council, who had been appointed after a failure of the two houses to concur in the amendment proposed by the House. The following resolve† was accordingly passed,— the Council reconsidering its vote, and agreeing to concur in the amendment, as taken into a new draught: —

"July 7, 1777. In the House of Representatives — Whereas the present exigencies of Our affairs, and the War We are, by the injurious and cruil Conduct of Britain forced into, for the Defence of every thing dear to us, make it necessary that We should Adopt the best Measures for conducting the War with the greatest secrecey, dispatch & Oeconomy.

Upon the passage of this resolve the following gentlemen were chosen as members of the Board of War, by the votes of the House and Council: Samuel Phillips Savage, John Brown, Jonathan Glover, James Prescott, Samuel Osgood, George Williams, Samuel Allyne Otis, Thomas Walker and Ellis Gray.

The original draught of the bill of this chapter was read a first time in the House, June 22, 1779. It authorized the Board of War to commence and prosecute suits at law, as in the act, and made them liable to the suits of others; but it contained no provision for the appointment of agents and attorneys, or for proving the agents' authority or for the manner in which process, in actions brought against the Board, should be served. In the Council, on the 24th, the bill passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed as taken into a new draught; in which form, on the same day it was passed to be enacted.

Chap. 9. A resolve was prepared, to be offered to the House, in February, 1778, against the enlistment in privateers or merchantmen, of deserters from the Continental Army or Navy, or from the land service or marine service of this state, and providing stringent measures, extending to the forfeiture of the vessel and its apparel, to prevent the clearance of any vessel with deserters on board. No action appears to have been taken on this resolve; but on the 6th of January, the next year, a message from the Council contained this passage: —

"Another thing we cannot omit mentioning for your Consideration, is the taking some effectual Measures to prevent the Owners of private Ships of War and Merchant-Men from seducing Seamen away that are engaged in the public Service, either in the Vessels fixed out by the Continent or any of the United States: We shall never be able to appear respectable at Sea unless proper Encouragement is given to the Vessels fitted out by the Public, their Commanders must have the Aid of Government in manning their Vessels, or they will lie by the Walls and so be of little or no Service; and it might have a happy Effect, if in this Law they were likewise prohibited from tempting away any Foreigners belonging to any Vessels in the Service of any Nation that is now or may hereafter be in Alliance with the United States." — House Journal, p. 87.

This message was immediately committed to Messrs. Gorham, Lowell, Sumner, Washburn and Wood, who reported on the 8th, when this clause of the message was specially referred to Messrs. Gray, Dawes and Frazier. On the 20th, this committee was changed, by the substitution of Messrs. Barrell and Cross, for Messrs. Gray and Dawes, excused. No report of this committee has been found, but at the next session the following proceedings were had, indicating the need of some statutory provision applicable to such cases of desertion: —

The Honorable Council Gentlemen I beg leave to represent to your Honors that there is on board the Providence Frigate, the following men, Conrad Kramer, Richard Meridith, John Tuckerman, Spencer Voce, John Barker, Thomas Greenway, Jeremiah Blanchard, Ebenezer Hollis, Peleg Hearsey, and several Germans, whose names my informant did not know, who are Deserters from the State Regiment of Artillery.

This intelligence I have from Thos Acheson, a Bombardier; He says he went on board the Providence to see a Friend, and because He would not enter, they kept him several days, altho He told them, He belonged to the State Regt of Artillery; at last, by the intercession of his Wife, he got ashore. He says that Meridith, is kept on board, for the same reason, that they often strike, and abuse him, because he will not Enter, He say Meridith went on Board to git some money, that was due to him; and they charge Him with being a Spy.

There is another Deserter, on Board the Boston Frigate, William Bailey, He has been frequently seen by our Boat-men, in passing the Ship. I lay these matters before your Honors, hoping something may be done, to put an effectual stop, to such proceedings. For it is in vain for us to Recrute men, if the marine officers, may take them from us.

In the first session of the next Assembly, the subject of preventing the enlistment, in any armed vessel, of deserters from the Continental Army, or of soldiers in the service and pay of this state, and the concealing of such deserters, for this purpose, was introduced in a series of resolves brought down from the Council. These were read in the House, and committed to Messrs. Wales, Walley and Dawes, who reported them in a new draught. This draught having been read, it was ordered that Messrs. Tudor, Warren and Gerrish, be a committee to bring in a bill for the purpose therein mentioned.

The bill of this chapter was read a first time on the fifteenth of June. On the 26th, it was passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence, and on the 29th, it was passed to be enacted.

The resolves above mentioned contained, substantially, the provisions of this chapter — the most important difference being the authority given to the Board of War, in section five, which was omitted in the resolve.

Several amendments to the original bill were proposed by the Council, chiefly to fix the amount of the fines named in sections two and three, and to change the provision for the recovery of these fines (which, as section three was originally drawn, was by action of debt); also to insert the clause relative to the Board of War, in the fifth section. As to the first of these, the House voted to adhere to its own vote, but on the last two voted to concur with the Council.

The officers of the third and fourth Massachusetts brigades in the Continental Army, through a committee appointed for that purpose, presented to the General Court, with the leave of the commander-in-chief, a memorial in which, among other things, they recommended the laying of heavy fines on all persons harboring or concealing deserters, or carrying them off on armed vessels, whether public or private; and on towns neglecting to secure deserters and to return them into camp, under guard, at the expense of such towns This memorial was read Oct. 6, 1779, and immediately referred to a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Nichols, Brooks and Warren, of the House, and Messrs. Gill and Gardner, of the Council; upon which the following proceedings ensued: —

"The Committee of both Houses Appointed upon the within Application of Colº Thomas Marshall in behalf of himself, and the rest of the Officers of the Massachusetts Brigades in the Continental Army; have attended that Service Hearᵈ. The following resolve * seems appropriately inserted here: —

"In the House of Representatives Novr 23d 1779

Whereas by an Act of this State passed in the present year entitled 'An Act to prevent Deserters from the American Troops entering on board ships of war,' it is, among other things enacted, 'That any non commissioned officer or private soldier belonging to the Continental army, or the troops in the service & pay of this State, who shall desert & enter on board any armed ship or vessell of war & proceed on a cruize, & shall assist in capturing any vessell or vessells, goods, wares or merchandizes, which may hereafter be condemned as prizes, shall forfeit all his right & title to the same; & all share of any such prizes or dividends of prize-goods, which he might otherwise be entitled to shall enure & accrue to the use of this State;' And as by said Act no Reward is offered for the Discovery of such Deserters, therefore Resolved that one Moiety of all Dividends of Prize Goods & shares of Prize Money which any such Deserter might otherwise be intitled to, shall enure & accrue to the Person or Persons who shall inform against & secure such Deserter so as he shall be returned to the Corps he belonged to at the Time of his Desertion; the other Moiety to accrue to the Use of the sd State; any Law, Usage or Custom to the Contrary notwithstanding —

Chap. 10. "Resolved, That Congress, or such person or persons as they appoint to hear and determine appeals from the courts of admiralty have necessarily the power to examine as well into decisions on facts as decisions on the law, and to decree finally thereon, and that no finding of a jury in any court of admiralty or court for determining the legality of captures on the high seas can or ought to destroy the right of appeal and the re-examination of the facts reserved to Congress:

That no act of any one state can or ought to destroy the right of appeals to Congress in the sense above declared:

That Congress is by these United States invested with the supreme sovereign power of war and peace:

That the power of executing the law of nations is essential to the sovereign supreme power of war and peace:

That the legality of all captures on the high seas must be determined by the law of nations:

That the authority ultimately and finally to decide on all matters and questions touching the law of nations, does reside and is vested in the sovereign supreme power of war and peace:

That a controul by appeal is necessary, in order to compel a just and uniform execution of the law of nations:

That the said controul must extend as well over the decisions of juries as judges in courts for determining the legality of captures on the sea; otherwise the juries would be possessed of the ultimate supreme power of executing the law of nations in all cases of captures, and might at any time exercise the same in such manner as to prevent a possibility of being controuled; a construction which involves many inconveniencies and absurdities, destroys an essential part of the power of war and peace entrusted to Congress, and would disable the Congress of the United States from giving satisfaction to foreign nations complaining of a violation of neutralities, of treaties or other breaches of the law of nations, and would enable a jury in any one state to involve the United States in hostilities; a construction which for these and many other reasons is inadmissible:

That this power of controuling by appeal the several admiralty jurisdictions of the states, has hitherto been exercised by Congress by the medium of a committee of their own members." — Journals of Congress: Mar. 6, 1779.

"Resolved, That the resolutions of Congress passed on the sixth day of March last, relative to the controul of Congress by appeal in the last resort over all jurisdictions for deciding the legality of captures on the high seas, be immediately transmitted to the several states; and that they be respectively requested to take effectual measures for conforming therewith." — Ibid., May 22, 1779.

The foregoing resolves having been transmitted by John Jay, President of Congress, with his letter dated May 25th (erroneously given as the 24th, in the record), to Jeremiah Powell President of the Council, were probably read in the Council on the fourth of June, since the House Journals show that they were brought down that day, although neither the minutes nor the records of the Council give the date of their reception, or of any vote thereon until June 5th, when that Board joined with the House in referring them to a committee. This committee consisted of Messrs. Warren, Pickering and Gorham, of the House, and Thomas Cushing and Nathan Cushing, of the Council.

By the 29th of June the bill of this chapter had been reported to the Council, and read twice, whereupon the Council ordered that the further consideration thereof be referred to the next session of the Assembly, and, on the same day, sent it down to the House, for concurrence. The House immediately voted a nonconcurrence, and returned it to the Council, who reconsidered their vote, and passed it to be engrossed. On the 30th, the bill was passed to be engrossed, by both branches, in concurrence, and was enacted the same day.

Chap. 12. The following are the resolves of the Continental Congress making the "recommendation" referred to in the preamble of this chapter: —

"Resolved, That these United States be called upon, in addition to the sum required by a resolution of Congress of the second of January last, for their respective quotas of forty-five millions of dollars, to be paid into the continental treasury before the first day of January next, in the proportion following:

New-Hampshire,	1,500,000	Pennsylvania,	5,700,000
Massachusetts-Bay,	6,000,000	Delaware,	450,000
Rhode-Island,	750,000	Maryland,	4,680,000
Connecticut,	5,100,000	Virginia,	7,200,000
New-York,	2,400,000	North-Carolina,	3,270,000
New-Jersey,	2,400,000	South-Carolina,	5,550,000
			45,000,000

Georgia being invaded is hereafter to raise her proportion.

Resolved, That the said several sums, or any greater sums, which shall be paid by any of the states into the continental treasury, shall be passed to their respective credits on interest, on the same terms as are prescribed by the resolution of Congress passed the 22d of November, 1777." — Journals of Congress: May 21, 1779.

"It appeared proper to us to fix the first day of next January for the payment of the whole; but as it is probable that some states, if not all, will raise part of the sums by installments or otherwise before that time, we recommend in the strongest manner the paying as much as can be collected as soon as possible into the continental treasury." — Extract from Address of Congress "to the inhabitants of the United States," &c.: ibid., May 26, 1779.

A copy of the above resolves was communicated by John Jay, President of the Congress. The letter accompanying this copy was dated May 22, 1779, and both papers were brought down to the House on the fourth of June, when a day was assigned for taking them into consideration. On the 9th, after a proposition to raise three millions of pounds, by a tax, had been voted down, a motion that the sum of two millions eight hundred thousand pounds be raised as aforesaid, was carried in the affirmative, "by sixty-one members out of one hundred and three."

A committee to prepare a tax bill had already been appointed on the first day of the month, consisting of Messrs. Bowman, Osgood, Frazier, Ely and Gerrish. On the 10th, this committee was changed by the substitution of Messrs. Hunt, Choate, and Phillips of Andover, for Messrs. Bowman, Frazier and Gerrish, and on the same day it was moved that this committee "examine the three last tax acts, and compare the sums set on the several towns therein, with the sums which would be set on them agreeably to the present valuation, and adjust the tax bill now to be brought in, accordingly." This motion was lost by a vote of thirty-eight to forty-three.

On the 16th, a bill for apportioning and assessing £2,800,000, for defraying public charges, and £32,048, 8*s.* 6*d.*, to be paid the representatives, was read a first time. On the 17th, it was read a second time, and on the 19th, was read a third time and passed to be engrossed, and was sent up for concurrence, after a motion for an abatement of the sum laid upon Suffolk County in the last valuation, had been voted down, and after a committee, consisting of one member "from each county present," had been appointed, "to compare the sums set on the several towns, in the three last tax acts, with what would be their proportion according to the valuation settled the last session, and report what sums appear on such examination to be due to and from each town, agreeable to the clauses, in said acts, for adjusting the same on the said valuation."

On the 22d, the House sent a message to the Council, requesting them to send down the bill, if they had not passed it; whereupon it was brought down. The committee appointed, on the 19th, to compare the former tax acts, now reported, and, the sum set by them against the town of Charlestown having been struck out, on motion, an attempt to postpone further action upon the report until the next session was defeated by the casting vote of the speaker, and, after a contest, was accepted, and the same committee (changed only by the substitution of Mr. Walley for Col. Dawes) was ordered "to introduce" this report into the tax bill.

On the 25th, the committee on the tax bill again reported, "and, after debate thereon," the House "passed the addition, reported, by a majority of twenty-nine out of fifty-five." On the next day, the bill, with its title changed to the title of this chapter, was passed in the Council, to be engrossed, in concurrence, and, on the 28th, it was passed to be enacted by both branches.

The bill shows that every page was redrawn, down to the twelfth line of the second section, and that many alterations were made in the subsequent parts of the bill. The last amendment adopted appears to have been on the proposition of the Council, on the 29th, to strike out the words "to be" in one of the columns. This was agreed to; but a resolve offered in the House, on the same day, for deducting £2,840 10*s.* 5*d.* from the sum set on the town of Falmouth, although passed by the House, was not concurred in by the Council.

To expedite the collection of this tax, the following resolve * was passed: —

"In the House of Representatives June 30 1779 —

Petitions for relief, and remonstrances against the inequality of valuations and assessments, were this year presented to the General Court, from towns widely separated. Upon a representation from the town of Foxborough that the adjoining towns of Wrentham, Stoughton, Stoughtonham and Walpole, from which Foxborough was set off, had been overrated before the separation, and an abatement, of which Foxborough was entitled to a portion, had been made to the towns of Wrentham and Walpole, a resolve was reported by a committee to whom the subject had been referred, ordering the four towns above named to pay over to Foxborough its just proportion of the sum abated. This resolve was ordered to lie on the files * — possibly on account of a manifest error in the committee's report, by which the sum abated to the town of Hull, was mistaken for the much larger amount abated to Walpole.

The town of Gloucester sent in a memorial, approved at a town meeting held August 17th; but as the memorialists were granted relief from the operation of both this and the second tax act of this year, the memorial and the proceedings thereon are given in the note to the latter act: chapter 30, post.

The town of Worcester, at a town meeting held Nov. 15, 1779, directed their selectmen to present a memorial and remonstrance to the General Assembly to obtain relief from the excessive tax imposed upon them by this chapter, and to secure more equal taxation for the future. The remonstrance and the report of a committee to whom it was referred, November 19th, are as follows: —

"To the Honorable the General Assembly of the State of ye Massachusetts Bay—

The Memorial & Remonstrance of the Town of Worcester Humbly Sheweth

That your Remonstrants Apprehend that the Proportion of Taxes set & affixed to & for the Town of Worcester is Manifestly unequal, & that their Burden, if continued on the Same Scale of proportion must be insupportably Great.

That The Numbers of Rateable Polls & Estates in the Town of Worcester are far less than in many other of their Neighboring Towns whose Taxes are palpably inferior in proportion to the Tax of the Town of Worcester last set upon them — Several Towns whose Number of Polls & Quantum of Real & & personal Property, in any of them, Exceed the Town of Worcester nearly one third, are not Taxed So much as the Town of Worcester That your Remonstrants apprehend their Tax Rather a punishment than a Rateable Proportion of the public burden — That they Conceive that they may without vanity, assure the Court they have never Been deficient in furnishing their full Quota of men or money — & for Two years last past, they apprehend, much More than their Proportion of Soldierey & Soldiers Cloathing —

That your Memorialists are informed, that it has been held up to veiw & Suggested to the Court that they Neglected to present a valuation of their Property to the General Assembly A D 1778, Choosing Rather to Conceal their Property lest their Real abilities Should be Known & their Taxes Augmented — Your Memorialists & Remonstrants Reprobate the Idea — They despise the Suggestion — The almost uninterrupted usage of the Town of Worcester has been to Constitute their Select men their assessors — That at the Time of their appointment their then future Burdens were not foreseen — Their Selectmen were under frequent Orders of Council, & of the General assembly to procure Teams for Conductors — to procure & pay Bounties & Mileage to their Soldiery to procure Cloathing for their Complement of Soldiery — by which means an attention to all the Requisitions [of †] Government was entirely impracticable — Besides it was presumed that the Contest between the Town of Worcester & the New Town of Ward must have left Such Impressions on the minds of the Court, that the Memory of the Extent of the Numbers property & abilities of the Town of Worcester must be fresh in the mind of the Court on Recollection — From thence it must appear that the Town of Worcester is diminished in property & Numbers & their Burden Notwithstanding increased —

Your Remonstrants have it in Proof that their greivances in this Respect are Such that to pass over them would argue the Greatest Insensibility — The Number of Rateable polls in the Town of Worcester in the year 1778, belonging to Said Town was 357 — 68 of them Minors or Servants — 30, Single polls — Only 19 Rateable Estates, without polls — Half of the Estates last mentioned Scarce Noticeable enough to be put in the List of valuation your Remonstrants have Received Information y^t One Reason of the Augmentation of the Tax on Worcester, was the opulence of the Trading Interest there — Whatever is the Real Wealth of the Trading Interest here Your Remonstrants can only Say that their Invoice of Estate under oath denote their Estates not to be of the first magnitude — very different.!! — Your Remonstrants are Ready with alacrity & Alertness to assess & pay their Just & proportional Quantum of State Taxes & to Comply with & obey the Requisitions, orders & Injunctions of this Honorable Court in every possible &

"The Committee appointed upon the Memorial & Remonstrance from the Town of Worcester in the County of Worcester take leave to Report.

'That the proportion of taxes set and affixed to, and for the Town of Worcester is manifestly unequal, and that said tax is rather a punishment than a rateable proportion of the public burden' as represented by said Remonstrance do not appear to the Committee a candid representation.

First. Because, the Town of Worcester did not send into the Secretary's Office a Valuation of their rateable estate and property agreable to the Resolution of the General Court of the 20th of June* 1778 for said purpose.

Second. Because, the Committee on the Valuation did not enter upon the consideration of the Town of Worcester, until they had proceeded upon all the Towns in the County, not knowing but that the said Town would before the close of the Valuation, send theirs in, and thereby have sufficient light to proceed upon.

Third. Because, when said Committee had no other way to finish, than to doom said Town; they proceeded to refer the value of said Town to several members of the County, to compare a number of Towns with said Town, and that after such comparative view, instead of punishing for not adhering to the Resolution aforesaid, it was the general oppinion that Worcester considers some peculiar advantages stood as low as other Towns in the County.

Fourth. Because, a Sub Committee was appointed to consider what proportion was taken off in the Town of Ward, before said Town of Worcester was doom'd — And it is the opinion of the Committee that the Town of Worcester did not suffer for neglecting to send in their valuation.

That the Town of Worcester has furnished their Quota of men & money is not disputed, neither their future alacrity and alertness in serving the cause of their Country on any future Occassion apprehended.

Upon the whole, the Committee are of opinion, that they have not at present sufficient light to grant Relief to the Town of Worcester, But would further report as their opinion, that a Resolve pass, giving leave to the select men (who are the Assessors) of the Town of Worcester to send in a True and perfect list upon oath, of all the rateable property of said Town according to their best judgement at the Time the Resolution above refer'd to required; and that said valuation be considered upon the same scale that others were, And if it should appear said Town was doom'd too high; then the abatement pray'd for might take place. All which is humbly submitted

The inhabitants of Charlemont presented a petition in which they represented that the sum of £586 14*s.* 4*d.* 3*q.*, which, in this chapter, was added to the assessment on that town, to make up for former deficiencies, was disproportionately large, — no account having been made of the setting off of territory, either in estimating their proportion of the tax, or the amount to be paid by them on account of arrearages; that the town comprised but about sixty families, most of which were but just able to support themselves if not taxed; that the people were generally poor, settled upon new farms remote from any market "for the sale of their effects", and that they were so frequently called into the military service as to be unable to clear land more than sufficient for the production of crops to supply their own needs; that they had raised their full quota of men for the Continental Army, and answered all calls upon the militia, and, upon alarms, had turned out more men than most other towns of equal population; that they had not remonstrated against former inequalities of taxation by which they had been unduly burdened, but that the tax imposed by this act, "is so heavy that" they "know not how to be silent any longer," wherefore they prayed for relief.

This petition was referred to a committee, September 15th, who reported, in October, "as the petitioners, through mistake, did not produce a valuation to support their petition, that it be referred to the next sitting of the General Court"; but, November 25th, the petitioners were granted leave to withdraw.

From Great Barrington a petition authorized by vote of the inhabitants, at a town meeting held Dec. 23, 1779, and representing the unequal burden imposed on that town by this chapter, and calling the attention of the Legislature to the fact that their proportion of the tax was as great as it was before Alford and a part of the town of Lee were set off from it, was referred to a committee, April 10, 1780. No further action upon this petition has been found, save, that, on the 21st, a change was made in the committee.

This petition asked for "such an abatement as shall be equal and just"; and complained that the town of Stockbridge, which they declared to be superior in wealth, "is taxed much below them," and that their tax is nearly equal to that of the "large town of Sheffield, which is more than double to the town of Great Barrington, in extent, numbers and wealth."

The following petition from Cape Elizabeth, was referred to a committee, June 21st, and afterwards ordered to lie. In the next Legislature this petition was again referred to a committee, Sept. 21, 1780, upon whose report, finding the facts as alleged by the petitioners, a resolve was prepared granting their prayer, and directing that "the sum of eight shillings and fourpence on the thousand, be deducted from their said valuation." The resolve, however, was not passed; and not until after the adoption of the Constitution was the recommendation of the committee embodied in a resolve *: —

"To the Honble the Council, and the Honble the House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay, in General Court Assembled.

This Petition Humbly sheweth, that by some mistate the Town of Cape Elizabeth is returned as having Four Hundred & two polls in the State Valuation, which is one Hundred more than there is in Said Town, which will appear by the Original List, taken by order of the Honble Court, by the Assessers of said Town, in the Year 1778. which is herewith exhibited, which mistake we apprehend greatly augments our proportion of the publick Charge, both in the Taxes already paid and passed to the Credit of said Town, and in the future till another Valuation is taken And although there appears a Chearfullness in the Town to pay their Just Quota to Support the Countrys cause, Yet, our inability is such by reason of our Fishery & Navigations failing that to pay more then our Just proportion will soon render us incapable of paying any.

Wherefore pray your Honors will take the matter into your wise consideration and order the mistake to be Rectified and the Just Surplus passed to our Credit, if in Your Great Wisdom Shall think it Just, And as in Duty bound your partitioner Shall ever pray. —

Chap. 13. By the beginning of the year 1779 the depreciation of paper currency, both of the Continental and state emissions, had not only caused great financial embarrassment, but the rapid depreciation of the former threatened a total interruption of trade, the collapse of the general government, and a disastrous termination of the war, for want of means to maintain the army. The advance of prices, consequent upon this depreciation, was generally attributed, chiefly, to the unscrupulous artifices of "monopolizers"; and this view was proclaimed by Congress, in its address of the 26th of May, which accompanied the requisition on the states for $15,000,000, and in which an appeal was made to the people to discountenance forestalling and monopoly.

Before this address had been distributed, a majority of the Council of Massachusetts had, in their message of the 28th, called the attention of the House to the necessity of prompt and vigorous measures against all persons who refused to take the Continental currency, as shown in the note to chapter 7, ante.

In Philadelphia, the citizens met, May 27th, and passed a series of votes demanding the instant reduction of prices to the standard of the rates which prevailed at the beginning of the month. They appointed a committee to prepare a list of prices, and adopted stringent measures for enforcing compliance with the rates so established.

The example of Philadelphia was followed by Boston, where a meeting of merchants and traders was held on the 16th of June, who expressed their determination that no advance upon existing prices should be made in any article of merchandize; and that, from and after the 15th of July, prices should be reduced to the standard rates of the first of May preceding, and that, thereafter, a monthly reduction in prices should be made, provided the other towns in this state should adopt similar measures. They further resolved not to buy or sell silver or gold, nor any property whatever for coin; to expose any person who, to their knowledge, should demand hard money for goods or rents, and to exert themselves to bring to punishment all offenders against the act to prevent monopoly and forestalling. They thereupon adjourned to the next day, when they met again, in the court house, whence they repaired to Faneuil Hall by invitation of the inhabitants, who were there assembled in a general town meeting. Here the merchants reported seven resolves which they had adopted, and the last of which was, that these resolves were to be offered to every trader in town to sign, and the name of any person refusing was to be reported.

The first of these resolves bound the subscribers not to sell any of certain articles then on hand, at a higher price than that named for it in a list of prices of these articles (nine in number) reported therewith. The rest of the report was substantially a repetition of the resolves passed by them the day before.

The inhabitants, after listening to this report, adopted some twenty resolutions, in which "roused by a feeling sense of" "impending ruin, and animated with the same zeal which warmed the generous breasts of" their "fellow countrymen in Philadelphia," they proposed, "by the blessings of Providence on the united efforts of" their fellow countrymen, to rescue themselves, their country and posterity, "from poverty, misery and destruction," through the same organization, and by much the same methods, which had been found effectual in starting and carrying on the revolution.

After declaring it to be the right of a free people to inquire into all public and private grievances, and to seek proper means of redress therefor, and resolving that the extravagant demands for the necessaries of life are subjects "to be instantly inquired into and suitably redressed," they voted to approve the regulations adopted by the merchants, and also "the circular letters proposed to be sent by them to the several seaports in this state;" and they voted to direct the committee of correspondence of Boston to send "a circular letter, forthwith, to the several committees of correspondence in this state, requiring their united advice, assistance and counsel, that some general measures may be instantly adopted for redressing the present grievances."

The committee of correspondence, inspection and safety, for the town of Boston, issued the circular letters as directed, naming the town of Concord, and the 14th of July, as the time and place for holding a convention for the purposes indicated in the aforesaid resolves of the town of Boston.

In answer to these circulars, one hundred and seventy-four delegates, representing one hundred and twenty-one towns, in eight counties, met, in convention, as requested. Azor Orne, of Marblehead, was chosen chairman, and Samuel Ruggles, of Boston, was appointed secretary.

The circular letter declared the object of this convention to be "to take into consideration the present distressed situation of the people at large, and particularly the excessive high prices of every article of consumption; and, by tracing to their causes, those evils, to discover and point out the safest and best remedies;" but in the published record of their proceedings, the convention declares that it met "for the purpose of carrying into effect the several interesting and important measures recommended by Congress to the inhabitants of the United States, in their late wise, seasonable and animating address."

This is not the only indication of a disposition to moderate the severity of the measures which it was at first thought the unprecedented exigency demanded. The Boston resolves had not only denounced as public enemies those who refused to comply with the regulations approved by them, but had declared that they should not remain in the community, but should "be transported to our enemies as unworthy and dangerous members of society." But the convention simply resolved that such offenders should be deemed enemies of their country, and treated as such; and that the several committees of correspondence, &c., or selectmen, publish their names; and the same authorities were recommended to arrest and detain any offender not an inhabitant of their respective towns, until his name and place of residence could be ascertained so that a return thereof may be made to the town where he belongs, "that he may be served according to his demerit." And the buying and selling of silver and gold, or receiving them in trade, was left to the several towns to denounce in such "spirited resolutions as shall prevent such wicked and pernicious practices in future."

In Philadelphia, the extreme measures of the self-constituted redressers of the alleged public wrong, were resisted, in some instances to bloodshed, and here these measures were resented as unjust and illegal, by some who were courageous enough to brave public exposure, and threats of ostracism, in the assertion of what they deemed to be their legal rights; and it is likely the example of these intractable citizens was not without influence on others similarly situated, and helped to check the impetuosity of the "redressers."

Again, notwithstanding all these efforts to prevent it, the paper currency continued to depreciate. The enactment of chapter 7, making it a penal offence to refuse paper money in payment for merchandise, country produce, or rent, had not put an end to depreciation notwithstanding the Legislature, in order to prevent the exportation of goods to markets where no such law was in force, had, before that act was passed, laid an embargo on foreign and coasting trade by the following resolve: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In Council June 21 1779. —

To make the above embargo more general, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Brown of Framingham, Page and Dunbar, of the House, and Messrs. Niles and Pitts, of the Council, was appointed, September 9th, and instructed "to devise ways and means for preventing the exportation of salt and West-India articles from this state to the other states." On the 10th, this committee was changed by the substitution of Mr. Walley, and Mr. Gorham of Lunenburg, for Messrs. Page and Dunbar, who were absent; and a resolve was passed instructing the committee "to consider what measures are necessary to be taken to carry the resolves of the convention held at Concord, on the fourteenth day of July last, for the purpose of appreciating the currency of the United States, and lowering the prices of the articles of consumption, into full execution within this state." The following are the report of this committee and the order of the Council thereon: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In Council Septemr 11th 1779

The bill of this chapter was passed to be engrossed, in the House, September 21st, and sent up for concurrence. As first reported, the bill did not contain the fifth section of the act, which was proposed by the Council, as an amendment, and agreed to by the House. Five other amendments were made in like manner; viz., in the first section, the words "or any," in the first and second lines, were substituted for the words "and all other"; and the clause at the end of that section, beginning with the words "to be carried," was added. In the second section, the clause in the seventh line, beginning with the words "which evidence," and embracing the form of a certificate, and the words "as aforesaid," in the first line after the certificate, were inserted; and in the fifth line of section four, the words "a special action of the case," were substituted for the words "action of debt."

On the 23d, the Council passed the bill to be engrossed, with the foregoing amendments, and on the same day it was passed to be enacted. On the next day, the House sent up a message to the Council, representing that there were a great number of teams in the town of Boston, for the purpose of transporting stores from this state to the other states, and expressing their desire that this act be published from the balcony of the State House, at 11 o'clock before noon, and that the secretary be directed to have the act distributed in handbills throughout the state, "in order to prevent the inconveniences that may arise in consequence of transporting stores from this to other states." In a later message, the House request that the publication from the State House balcony be deferred until one o'clock.

On the 27th, a committee consisting of Messrs. Gorham of Charlestown, Dawes and Ashley, of the House, and Gill and Pitts, of the Council, was appointed, "to consider what is proper to be done to possess the minds of the inhabitants of the other states, of the principles on which the General Court passed the late embargo act."

This committee reported the following letter * as, "in their opinion, a necessary measure to be adopted by this court;" which, being amended in the Council by the substitution of October 20th, for November 27th (the time of meeting in convention, as first reported), was adopted, in concurrence, on the twenty-seventh: —

Sir The good people of this State greatly alarm'd at the late rapid depreciation of our currency have by a meeting of their delegates at Concord, agreed to regulate the prices of the most considerable articles of merchandize, and the necessaries of life, which at present appears likely to answer very good and salutary purposes, unless destroyed by those hawkers and sharpers that have heretofore so largely contributed to the inconveniencies we now feel But a regulation in this Government without similar measures are adopted by our sister States — affords opportunity to people of this class to execute all their refinement in sharping and tricking greatly to the damage both of your State and ours; the mischiefs arising from their practices have already been very apparent, such large quantities of goods being carried from hence as threaten us with so great a scarcity as will deprive us of the means for procuring bread and other provisions, of which we are at present in great want. Those monopolisers having made such exertions for transportation that the price of Cattle has almost doubled within a few weeks — those measures unless speedely prevented threaten the very existence of the community. The General Assembly of this State have therefore been under the necessity for the present of making an act to prohibit the exportation of sundry articles of merchandize and live stock out of this State. nothing but the most absolute necessity could have induced us to enter into a measure which may appear to militate with that spirit of brotherly love and friendship which the American States ought to bear to each other and for our common interest is so necessary to prevail throughout the whole. in order therefore that a free and general intercourse may take place upon principles correspondent with the publick good, and effectually to cut up and destroy the practices of those people who prey both upon you and us, we take the liberty to propose a consultation on the part of the Governments of New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut, N York, and Massachuset Bay to be holden at Hartford on the Twentieth day of October next for the purposes afors[d] and Thomas Cushing & Nathaniel Gorham Esq[rs] are deputed by this assembly with full powers to appear on the part of this State. the business proposed appears to us of great importance & to require dispatch we shall take the liberty to direct our Commissioners to appear at the time & place above proposed without further advice from you we have only to request you Sir to lay this Letter before the Assembly of your State if seting & if not before the Councill that they may have opportunity to take such measures thereon as the publick good may appear to them to require I am in the name & by Order of the Assembly Sir

Before the General Court had met in a second session, the subject of embargoes had been discussed in the Continental Congress, and, on the 21st of August, a resolve, recommending all states which had laid embargoes, to continue them to the first of January, and to extend them, if they were not already sufficiently comprehensive, so as to apply to wheat, flour, rye, Indian corn, rice, bread, beef, pork, bacon and live stock, "and to all other kind of provisions not herein enumerated," and also recommending "to such other of the states as have not embargoes in existence, to take the most effectual and immediate measures to lay on embargoes for the purposes before mentioned," had been reported, and, on a division of the question, the last clause, only, had been adopted (the rest having been rejected by the votes of six out of ten states: two voting "no," and two being divided); and, on the 25th, the same body had resolved, "that it be earnestly recommended to the several states, to take off every restriction on the inland trade between the said states."

These resolves, the transmission of which was purposely delayed, were communicated in the following letter, which was read in Council, October 1st, and, with the accompanying papers, referred to a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Thomas Cushing, and Gill, of the Council, and Messrs. Strong, Davis and Williams, of the House, "to consider this letter * * and report what may be proper to be done thereon": —

"Philadelphia 14th Sept: 1779

Sir, You will receive herewith enclosed Copies of three Acts of Congress — one of the 21st Inst,* on the subject of an Embargo — one of the 25th Augt. against Restrictions on the inland trade between the states & the third of the 10th Inst: for providing cloathing for the troops — The two first should have been, as usual sent to the states directly after they were passed, but it was the sense of Congress 'till within a few days to delay their transmission — I have the honor to be Sir with great Respect

Your most Obedt. Servant —

The Honorable President Powell — JOHN JAY — Presidt.

P: S: You will also receive herewith a printed copy of a circular Letter from Congress to their Constituents." — Ibid, p. 299.

The committee last named reported the following resolve,† as "proper to be passed by the General Assembly," and asked leave to sit again: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay Octr. 4 1779

Whereas Commissioners have by this Court been Appointed to meet at Hartford in the State of Connecticut on the 20 of October Instant, such Commissioners as may be Appointed by the States of New Hampshire, Rhode Island, Connecticut and New York to Confer amoung other Matters upon the Subject of Embargo's relative to the Inland Trade between the States above mentioned, Therefore Resolved That the Honble The Council of this State be and they Hereby are Authorised and Impowered, in the recess of the General Court, to Suspend the Operation of an Act of this state entituled an Act to prevent sundry Articles being Exported from this to the Neighbouring states, provided the result of said Conferrence shall be in favour of repealing the Embargo Acts of this & the other States." — Ibid., vol. 224, p. 280.

This report was accepted and, on the fifth, the resolve was passed.

The convention at Hartford, referred to in the foregoing resolve, and which assembled, at the suggestion of the General Court of Massachusetts, at the time and place designated in their circular letter of September 28th, above printed, consisted of thirteen delegates from five states; viz., Josiah Bartlett and Joshua Wentworth, from New Hampshire; Thomas Cushing and Nathaniel Gorham, from Massachusetts; Stephen Hopkins and Charles Holden, from Rhode Island; Eliphalet Dyer, Benjamin Huntington, Oliver Elsworth and James Wadsworth, from Connecticut; and John Sloss Hobart, William Floyd and Ezra L'Hommedieu, from New York.

The "powers" of the several delegates were not uniform. The professed purpose for which the New Hampshire delegates were sent, was "to agree upon some method for keeping up a free and general intercourse in trade, &c., upon principles correspondent with the public good;" to endeavor to destroy the practices of those "who prey upon their country;" and to consult and agree upon any other measures that may be thought necessary for the public weal. The delegates from Rhode Island had only an appointment to meet the other delegates, without further instruction. The appointment of the delegates from Connecticut was the same as the New Hampshire delegates received, with a more explicit instruction to devise measures to prevent the further depreciation of the currency. New York directed its delegates to act conformably to the proposals in the circular letter of Massachusetts, and also to consider and act upon such other matters "as may be deemed proper subjects of such consultation and conference." All the delegates, except those from Rhode Island and Massachusetts, were instructed to report the result of the conference.

† Printed resolves of the September session, chapter CLXXXIX. The report refers to accompanying "resolves." No other resolve than the above, relevant to the subject, has been found of that date; and the third page of the sheet upon which the report is written, bears the following memorandum: "Resolve impowering ye Council to Suspend ye Inland Embargo," — which seems to certainly indicate that this was the only one intended.

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives September 30th 1779.

Whereas the good People of This State have entered into measures not only to prevent the depreciation but to obtain an appreciation of our Currency, and the honest part of the community are making every exertion to carry said measures into execution which laudable endeavours, might have been over thrown by some who prefer even the smallest private gain to the publick interest unless prevented by the Embargo Act which this Court have thought proper to pass to cooperate with the resolutions of the People — And as it is necessary that our neighbour States should be made acquainted with the principles which induced this Court to pass said Embargo Law. —

Resolved That the Honble Thomas Cushing and Nathaniel Gorham Esqrs be a Committee in behalf of this Court to repair to Hartford by the Twentieth of October next & meet and confer with such Committees as may appear there on the part of New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island and New Hampshire and explain to them the motives that operated with this Court to pass said Embargo Law — and to concert with them such measures as may appear proper to appreciate our Currency and open a free and general intercourse of trade upon principles correspondent with the Public good

And be it further Resolved that said Committee represent in the most forceable manner to the Committee of New York and Connecticut the great wants of Flour in this State both for Public & private uses — and endeavour to Settle with them a proper mode of Supply. After comparing credentials, the delegates adjourned, from day to day, discussing the matters of interest laid before them. On the 28th, they adopted five resolutions, introduced by separate preambles In the first preamble they agreed that the depreciation of the currency was "much beyond what could naturally arise from the quantity of the circulating medium;" and attributed this to the avarice of some well-meaning but inconsiderate people, and to the artful designs of others, — secret or open enemies, bent upon ruining "the credit of our money," which, if effected, though it would not cause the convention to "despair of the Commonwealth, yet must be attended with the most alarming and dangerous consequences;" for the prevention of which, they declared they had "come into" the resolution which followed. They proceeded to express their opinion that the failure of former attempts "to prevent the growing mischief, by regulating and limiting the prices of the articles of commerce and produce," was owing to the multiplied emissions of Continental bills, in circulation;" "too great a reduction in the then current prices of articles"; and to "the partial extent of the agreements entered into for regulation;" by which last-named error, an unreasonable advantage had been given, to the inhabitants of such states as "had not adopted the same measures, not only to drain those states" where prices had been regulated, of articles needed for home consumption, "but to supply the army at a much higher price, of which the regulating states must pay their proportion." After expressing the belief that, by the action of Congress, in recommending frequent taxation, and the encouragement of loans to support the annual expenses of the army, and their resolution not to emit bills to an amount exceeding $200,000,000 in all, — "the natural depreciation of the bills in circulation may be nearly ascertained, and thereby a foundation laid on which a reasonable price for the articles of commerce and produce "could" be fixed with greater justice and precision," they offered arguments to overcome the scruples of some who might, possibly, apprehend "that the regulation of prices "was then" altogether unnecessary." They called attention to the fact that, notwithstanding the wise precautions of Congress, "the constant demands of the army" were "such, and the dispositions of the people to obtain the highest prices * * * so great and general, (and these confirmed by long habit and custom) that a regulation of prices, with the other measures hereafter recommended," appeared then, necessary; especially since the engrosser, monopolizer, opulent farmer and trader would, unless restricted, raise the prices of commodities in their hands, to keep pace with the increase of taxation (which would bear hardest on the poor and middling farmer), and so oblige Congress to either make further emissions, or leave the army destitute. Therefore, "in aid of the measures Congress have so wisely adopted," the first resolution declared that a limitation of prices would have a tendency to prevent the further depreciation of the currency, and "that to render such limitation permanent and salutary, it "was" expedient that all the states, or all of them as far westward as Virginia, inclusive, should accede thereto." The resolution closed with a proposal for a convention of commissioners from the New-England states, New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland and Virginia, to be held at Philadelphia, on the first Wednesday of January, 1780, for the purpose of considering the expediency of limiting the prices of merchandise and produce; and, if they deemed such a course expedient, to limit the prices of such articles as they deem proper, in their several states, etc., and to report their proceedings to the respective legislatures.

The preamble of the second resolve set forth that, whereas Massachusetts, New Hampshire and Rhode Island had, by their conventions, limited the prices of the principal articles of merchandise and produce, this action would prove abortive unless the other states, especially those contiguous, "immediately pursue similar measures;" therefore the resolve recommended the states of Connecticut and New York, immediately, to adopt measures for limiting prices.

The third resolve recommended the raising, by taxes, so much of the monthly supplies called for by Congress, "as the circumstances of the people" would "admit of, without distressing them;" that, in inviting loans, it would not be expedient to offer higher inducement than security that the lender should receive back, at the specified time, an equivalent of the sum lent, with interest, annually, at the rate of "six per cent, in like value as the money loaned;" and that it would be expedient to open the loan offices, as soon as possible, to receive such loans as should be judged necessary, and to take measures to facilitate and expedite such loans.

The fourth resolve was as follows: —

"Resolved that it be and hereby is recommended to the States of Massachusetts and Connecticut to repeal their Embargo Acts respecting Inland Trade and also to the States of Rhode Island & New Hampshire to do the same if any Embargo Acts are now subsisting there, so far as concerns those States who may Adopt Measures for Limiting the Prices of Merchandize & Produce." — Ibid., vol 144, p. 94.

The preamble to the fifth resolve set forth that the public safety would not admit of the immediate repeal of the embargo, in New York, upon the exportation of flour, meal and grain, as the Continental Army was dependent upon that state for its supply of those articles; but, since the people of Massachusetts, Rhode Island and New Hampshire must be greatly distressed without some supply of flour from that state, it was resolved to recommend to the state of New York to furnish the three states named, such a quantity of flour (if consistent with the public safety) as would be sufficient for the subsistence of the troops in service there, and for the use "of the inhabitants upon their sea-coasts."

A circular letter, signed by Stephen Hopkins, president of the convention, and attested by Hezekiah Wyllys, secretary, was addressed to each of the states named to be represented at Philadelphia, inviting their coöperation. Letters similarly signed and attested, were sent to the more southern states, enclosing copies of the resolves, and containing the expression of an earnest wish that they would adopt similar measures; and still another letter, with similar signatures and enclosures, was forwarded to the President of Congress, giving an account of the origin of the convention, and of its doings, and of the letters sent out to all the states, and requesting him to lay before Congress the papers addressed to him, in order to secure the coöperation of the southern states through the recommendation of that body. In this letter it was declared that, though they "do not conceive that a radical cure" for depreciation, "is to be obtained other than by taxes and loans," yet the large demands made upon New York and Connecticut for flour, for the army, greatly increased the distress of the people to the eastward. The letter also submitted to the consideration of Congress the practicability of getting part of the public supplies from the southward, so as to permit New York and Connecticut to afford some relief to their eastern neighbors.

Before considering the action of the Legislature upon the report of the doings of the convention at Hartford, the following measures, adopted by the General Court, to afford relief to teamsters delayed at Boston, for failure to comply with the strict requirements of this chapter, and to the Navy Board, for the eastern department, who were also embarrassed by the operation of the new law, deserve attention: —

"State of Massachusetts-Bay. In the House of Representatives, Sepr. 30 1779

The report of the delegates from Massachusetts to the convention at Hartford, was read in Council, November 11th, and forthwith committed to Messrs. Greenleaf, Wales and Freeman, of the House, and Benjamin Greenleaf and Moses Gill, of the Council, who had previously been appointed to consider a letter from Samuel Holten, together with a copy of an address by the state of New Jersey, enclosed therewith. This joint committee made a report, embracing the report of the delegates and the letter and address aforesaid. While confessing that the efforts of the Assembly, and of the people in conventions, had "proved ineffectual for the purposes intended"† yet, as there was a possibility that the

† It may safely be affirmed that no persons in the community were more zealous to promote the success of all measures adopted in the popular conventions, for checking depreciation of the currency, than were the managers of the patriotic press; and yet the following will serve to show how even these earnest supporters of the popular measures were obliged to yield to the operation of those unwritten, but inexorable, laws which fix the value of all mediums of exchange, and against which the crude expedients devised by the leaders of the people, were unavailing.

"THE Subscribers, publishers of the Boston News-Papers, having hitherto strictly complied with the regulations of the Convention at Concord, at length find it of no effect for them to stem proposed general convention of the states, at Philadelphia, in January, might "procure some relief from" their "present embarrassments," they recommended the appointment of commissioners from this state, to that convention, and that, "when a determination" should be "had on this matter, an account thereof be transmitted to the Legislature of the state of New Jersey, in reply to their address." They also recommended the repeal of the present chapter, and of chapter 15, in addition thereto. This report was read in Council, December 3d, and only so much of it accepted as recommended the repeal of this chapter and of chapter 15; and a committee was appointed to bring in a bill for said repeal No such bill was passed, however, until the next year.

While these proceedings were taking place in Massachusetts, the Continental Congress was taking measures to encourage the states to enact laws, to go into operation on the first of February, to effect a general limitation of prices throughout their respective jurisdictions; as set forth in the following resolves, passed on the nineteenth of November, and communicated in a letter, dated November 22d, from Samuel Huntington, president of Congress: —

"Whereas the fluctuating state of prices not only causes inequality and injustice in private dealings, and in furnishing the public supplies from the several states, but renders it impracticable to make the proper estimates for future expences, and to fix equitable salaries for those employed in the service of the United States: and whereas the estimates, according to which the requisitions for the taxes of the succeeding year have been made by the resolution of the 6th of October last, have been formed on the principle, that the prices of commodities necessary for the public use, would not exceed twenty fold of the former prices, and should they rise above that rate the taxes must be accordingly encreased, but should they fall below it the surplus of the sum raised may be applied to the sinking fund: therefore,

Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the several states forthwith to enact laws for establishing and carrying into execution a general limitation of prices throughout their respective jurisdictions, on the following principles, and to commence in their operation from the first day of February next.

Articles of domestic produce, farming and common labour, the wages of tradesmen and mechanicks, water and land carriage, not to exceed twenty fold of the prices current through the various seasons of the year 1774

Articles imported from foreign parts to be in due proportion with labour and the articles as above stated, making a proper allowance for freight, insurance and other charges.

Salt and military stores, whether of home manufacture, or imported from abroad, to be excepted from limitation of price.

Resolved, that it be recommended to the several states to enact strict laws against engrossing and withholding; and to take the necessary measures for having the same carried into full execution.

Resolved, That the proceedings of the commissioners from the eastern states to New-York inclusive, at their meeting in Hartford, in Connecticut, on the 20th of October last, discover a generous attention to the public good, and are well calculated to promote the same: it is nevertheless expected that no time will be lost in giving effect to these resolutions, as the same general purpose may thereby be attained and at an earlier period.

Resolved, That all officers and agents employed in making purchases for the United States be directed to conform strictly to all regulations that are or may be established in the several states:

That accounts be kept and returns made by all persons employed to make purchases in behalf of the United States, or to hire vessels, carriages or men for the service of the same, of the prices by them respectively given in such states as shall not before the first day of February, 1780, pass laws for the limitation of prices agreeable to the recommendation contained in the foregoing resolutions; to the intent that such states as shall have neglected to pass laws for the purposes aforesaid may respectively be charged in the public accounts with the aggregate amount of the difference of prices paid from and after the said first day of February, 1780, in such states and those in which such laws may have been enacted." — Journals of Congress: Nov. 19, 1779.

The letter above mentioned was read in Council, December 7th, and immediately sent down to the House, together with the foregoing resolves. In the House, the letter was read on the 16th; and thereupon a committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Gorham, Pickering and Hutchinson, of the House, and Thomas Cushing and Josiah Stone of the Council, to consider the same, and report what was to be done thereon. The report of this committee and the doings of the Legislature thereon are as follows: —

Thereupon, Messrs. Elbridge Gerry and Samuel Osgood were appointed commissioners for Massachusetts; and, on the 20th, Messrs. Dunbar, Choate and Allen, of the House, and Messrs. Caleb and Thomas Cushing, of the Council, were appointed a committee to report a draught of instructions* for their guidance; who made a report the next day, which was accepted by the Council, and, on the 22d, concurred in by the House, "as taken into a new draught," as follows: —

"To The Honble Elbridge Gerry Eqr and Samuel Osgood Esqr
Gentlemen

The General Assembly having appointed you Commissioners to Represent this State at the Convention to be held at Philadelphia on the first Wednesday of January next, you are hereby authorised and Impowered to meet, at the time & Place before mentioned, Such Commissioners as may be Appointed by other United States and to Confer and Consult with them upon the Expediency of Limiting the Prices of Articles of Produce and Merchandize; —

In your Deliberations upon this important Subject you will duely Consider, on the one Side, the advantages, that, (it has been suggested), will Acrue from such a measure, amoung others, that it will tend to giue stability to our Currency, Prevent that inequality and Injustice in private Dealings, as well as in furnishing the Public supplies from the several states, which have arisen from the fluctuating state of Prices, & that it will render it practicable for Congress & the several states to make the proper Estimates for their future Expences & to fix adequate salleries upon those who are in the public service; These are Important Objects and ought to be attended to — on the other side, you will duely Advert to the many objections that have been made to such a plan & the many Difficulties that will attend the Execution of it, for in case such a measure should be attempted & fail in the Execution, you must be sensible, it will be attended with many pernicious Consequences, It will greatly weaken the hands of Government as well as throw us into the greatest Embarrasements & will haue a fatal tendency further to Depreciate our Currency; Amoung many other Objections & Difficulties, that might be mentioned & which will naturally occur to your minds in the discussion of this subject, It may be well to Consider, whether it has not been found that a Limitation of Prices, intead of appreciating or giving stability to our money has not rendered it in a manner Useless, ? Has not shut up our Granaries, discouraged Husbandry and Commerce and starved our Sea Ports, in short whether it has not created such a stagnation of Business and such a Withholding of articles as has oblidged the People to give up the measure or submit to starving? Whether from these repeated Tryalls & Failures, That Confidence (which is so absolutely necessary in Case of a Limitation) is not so far lost, between the States and the Members of each state, that this alone must prevent the Execution of such a measure, as each Person will be Waiting to see his neighbour's Compliance, in the mean time withholding every supply from his Freind & his Country? Whether it has not thrown the Honest & Concientious part of the Community into the hands of Sharpers, Monopolizes & Extortioners and while it has operated as a restraint upon the Former to their great loss & Damage, it has not afforded an Opportunity to the Latter, whose only principle is that of Gain, by their Cunning and Deceit, to aggrandize & Enrich themselves to the no small Detriment of their Country?

You will also consider Whether it is possible to Carry an act for this Purpose into Execution in the method prescribed by Congress, when, upon tryall, it will be found, that by the method they Propose, the Prices of Labour & Produce will be reduced more than two Thirds, while the articles of Foreign Produce will be reduced but a Trifle, if anything at all, Can it be supposed the People in general will submit to it? for However reasonable it may appear to men of Candor & Discernment & those who will thoroughly examine into ye Causes of it, yet the Bulk of the People will apprehend they are Imposed upon and it will be extreamly difficult, if possible, to Convince them to the Contrary — you will further Consider, whether, if such a Limitation should take place & Could be Effectually carried into Execution, it would not be the means of Disappointing Congress of such supplies of money as they Depend upon from their late recommendations for Taxation, & thereby oblidge them to that measure which they are so very sollicitous to avoid, Vizt: The making further Emissions to defrey the public Expences, for is it to be supposed that the People in general would submit to such a large reduction of the prices of their Produce and at the same time submit to such large Taxes as the Requisitions from Congress now Demand? we trust you will give these objections, as well as every thing Else that may be offered pro & Con upon this interesting matter, in Convention, their due weight and after all we leave it with you to act according to your best judgement and discretion, and in Case you should, after mature & thorough Consideration, Judge the measure to be Expedient & Practicable & find that it is highly probable it will be adopted by all the rest of ye United States, you will then Proceed upon the Business & make report of your Proceedings to this Court, that they may take such order thereupon, as they shall then judge will best promote the Public Weal." — Ibid., vol. 144, p. 115.

The convention met on Saturday, the 29th of January, 1780,— the following being the commissioners appointed from all the states represented, except Massachusetts: Nathaniel Folsom and Nathaniel Peabody from New Hampshire; William Ellery from Rhode Island; Roger Sherman and Oliver Elsworth from Connecticut; Silas Condult and Thomas Fenimore from New Jersey; William Moore, William Henry and John Bull from Pennsylvania; Thomas McKean, Nicholas Van Dyke and George Latimer from Delaware; and William Paca, John Henry and Joseph Gilpin from Maryland: of whom only the commissioners from the New-England states, Messrs. Henry and Bull of Pennsylvania, Van Dyke of Delaware, and Henry of Maryland were present when the resolves were passed.

The Assembly of New York had not met since the convention at Hartford, and hence no commissioner had been appointed from that state. The convention, however, had "the fullest assurance" that the measures which they might adopt would be agreed to by New York.

The convention chose William Moore, president, and Samuel Osgood, secretary; and adjourned several times, during debate, until February 7th, when, after expressing their opinion of the necessity of the coöperation of all the states mentioned in the call, resolves were offered desiring the president to inform the governors of Virginia, and New York, of the proceedings of the convention, and request them to give the earliest notice of the determination of said states with respect to appointing commissioners to the convention, "to meet the same at their adjournment." Other resolves were proposed, appointing Messrs Moore, Ellery, Gerry, Paca and Henry of Pennsylvania, a committee to form a general plan for the limitation of prices, and to report the same at the next sitting of the convention. It does not appear from the record, that these resolves were adopted; but it does appear that, on the 8th, the convention adjourned to the fourth day of April, to meet at the State House in the city of Philadelphia.

A report of the doings of this convention was forwarded by Samuel Osgood, in a letter to President Powell, dated Feb. 11, 1780, which was read in Council, on the 14th of March, and both were sent down to the House, where, on the same day, they were "ordered to lie."

The following replies to letters from the president of the Council, to the governors of Connecticut and New York, show that, as late as February 23d, in the latter state, and March 10th, in the former, the laws forbidding the exportation of flour, meal and grain, had not been repealed: —

Sir. I have before me your Letter of the 14th January last, which came to hand on the 7th February, and has been duly laid before the General Assembly of the state, together with a Letter of similar Import from the State of Rh: Island. —

In Answer (I am sorry to say that,) measures of a similar Nature, altho' urg'd, have not met the Approbation of the General Assembly as yet. — Tho' I am not without a Hope, that upon reconsideration in May next, the repeal wish'd for by your State, may be carried —

I have the Honor to enclose you Copies of two Acts of the General Assembly of this State, pass'd at their late sessions, for the repeal of the Tender Act, and Establishment of the public Credit and Faith of the State on the principles of Integrity —

— The Measure is dictated by our wish to return Once more to those paths of Justice and Equity, from which we have too long and too widely deviated. — And the Legislature of the state cannot but Indulge a hope, that they may ultimately, procure honorable and essential Advantages, not to this only, but (by their adoption of similar measures) their sister states, and the general Interests of America —

"Albany 23d. February 1780

Sir, I had the Honor of receiving and communicating to the Legislature of this State a Letter from the General Assembly of the State of Massachusett's Bay dated the 14th Ulto. under your Signature and agreable to their concurrent Resolutions thereupon of the 21st & 22d Instant (a Copy whereof is enclosed) I am to inform you that there are not any Laws in this State prohibiting the Exportation of Merchandize or Produce except an Act for preventing the Exportation of Meal and Grain. —

The Legislature, induced by the repeated Representations of his Excellency General Washington and of the Honorable Major General Heath commanding the Continental Forces in this State; stating the distressed Situation of our Troops for Want of Provision and that if they were not speedily supplied a Dissolution of our Army with all the serious Consequences that would attend such an Event, might probably ensue, have lately passed a Law directing all the Wheat and Flour in the State to be seized and delivered over to the proper Officers for the Use of the Army except an Allowance to the Inhabitants, which considering the Failure of our Crops the last Year and the Number of Families that have been drove by the Enemy from their Habitations on the Frontiers into the more interior Parts of the Country, can scarcely be esteemed competent to supply their Necessities. — I am informed General Heath is soon to repair to Boston for the Recovery of his Health and I would wish to refer you to him for a more particular Account of the Distresses of the Army and the Necessity of the Measures adopted by this State for their Relief. —

I am authorized to assure you, Sir, that the Legislature, impressed with the strongest Desire of opening a free and uninterrupted Communication with our Sister States (to which as well their Interest as Inclination naturally leads them) are anxious for an Opportunity of manifesting their Intentions by a Repeal of their Embargo Law as soon as the public Safety will admit of it. —

The Petition of us the Subscribers Inhabitants of the District of Southwick in the County of Hampshire, and State aforesaid, humbly sheweth That the Great and General Court aforsaid by An Act thereof, in the year of our Lord Christ, One Thousand, seven hundred, and seventy, set off the District by certain Lines and Boundaries, as by the same Act appears, and bounded the District Southerly on the Line of Connecticut, Afterwards the Inhabitants thereof erected a Meeting House near the Center of the same District. Since which the Governor and Company of the State of Connecticut, have caused a Line, to be run with the Northerly Line of Suffield, in such a Manner, as to run within about half a Mile of Southwick Meeting House, thereby taking off from Southwick one third Part of the Lands, and Inhabitants which were included in Southwick

Wherefore Your Petitioners, humbly pray your Honors Consideration of the Premises, and that the Northerly Line of Southwick may be extended two hundred Rods further North, upon Westfield, parallel with the Original North Line aforesaid, so as to include the aforesaid two hundred Rods, with all the Inhabitants dwelling on the same, in as full

The foregoing petitions were read in the House, May 31, 1779, and referred to Messrs. Phelps, Pynchon and Brewster. On the 7th of June this committee reported a resolve * ordering the petitioners, to notify the town of Westfield to appear and show cause, on the second Tuesday of the next sitting of the General Court.

On the fourth of October the House concurred in a resolve, previously passed by the Council, that the prayer of the district of Southwick be granted, and that the petitioners have leave to bring in a bill, accordingly. On the 6th, the bill of this chapter, which had passed to be engrossed on the 5th, was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

At the next session, the following petition was presented; whereupon a resolve † was passed, November 30th, suspending the operation of this act until the further order of the General Court, and appointing a joint committee "to repair to the town of Westfield, and view their situation," and, as soon as may be, "report what is proper to be done thereon:" —

"To the Honb^le the Council and the Honble House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay, at a great and Genl. Court to be holden at Boston on Wednesday the tenth Day of Novr A D. 1779 —

The Petition of the Inhabitants of Westfield humbly beg leave to represent to your Honors that by a late Act of Said Court, the Town of Westfield look on themselves as greatly Aggreived; vizt by taking two hundred Rods from them and annexing the Same to Southwic, when in fact, the Inhabitants of Westfield had no Notice thereof but we humbly Acknowledge the honble Court did what was necessary on their Part, to give Notice by leaving the Same with their Clerk, but neither he nor the Selectmen of Westfield ever gave Notice to the Inhabitants, for their Consideration of the Same until after the Time had elapsed that your Honors had Assigned for Said Inhabitants to shew Cause &ca and even till after the Act had passed the Court. so that it became impossible for the Town of Westfield to shew Cause, why your Honors should not establish the Prayer of Southwic for that Purpose

Therefore for the Reasons above the Subscribers humbly pray your Honors Consideration thereof, with their Objections and that the same Act may be repealed & made null & Void and as in Duty bound your Petitioners shall ever pray —

Sept. 20th 1780 — Reconsider'd & orderd to lie on the Files — Consented to" — [Signed by eight of the Council]. — Ibid., vol. 232, p. 228.

The above vote to reconsider, etc, which originated in the House, is the last proceeding relating to this subject, in the Legislature, before the adoption of the Constitution. By chapter XLIV. of the resolves of the April session, 1781 (April 20), the resolve suspending the operation of this chapter was repealed, and this chapter was ordered to be "in full force, as soon as a new valuation shall be established by the Legislature." ‡

Chap. 15. The act to which the present chapter is in addition, had no sooner gone into operation than numerous unforeseen difficulties began to be encountered. The note to chapter 13 sets forth some of the embarrassments attending the enforcement of that act, and the measures adopted to avoid them; and from the provisions of the first section of this chapter, and the preamble to the second section, may be gathered the nature of the other defects of the former act, which led to the enactment of the present chapter, the bill of which had passed to engrossment in the House, and had been sent up for concurrence, as early as the thirtieth of September.

In the Council the bill was read a second time, October 2d, after it had been in the hands of a committee of conference; and a resolve was thereupon passed by that Board, referring it to the next session. This not having been agreed to by the House, the bill, after having been submitted to a second committee of conference, was again read, in Council, October 5th, when the vote of October 2d was reconsidered, and the vote of the House on the passage of the bill, was concurred in, with nine amendments, which, on the same day, the House agreed to, and, on the day following, the bill was passed to be enacted.

By the amendments above mentioned, "session" was substituted for "year," in the preamble; and, in the first section, "first" was changed to "tenth," in the first line; and the passage beginning with "unless," in the ninth line, and ending at "certificate," in the tenth line, was substituted for the words, "no satisfactory evidence having been given to such selectmen or committee." In the first line of the preamble to the second section, the words "this and" were inserted; and in that section, the words "this or" were inserted at the end of the first, and the beginning of the second, line; as, also, "or shall import or bring," in the second and third lines; and the words, "were imported since the first day of August last," in the eighth line, and "prices agreed upon by the late convention at Concord," in the tenth and eleventh lines; while, in the same section, the words "since the first day of August last," were stricken from the third line, after the word "provisions"; and the words "regulated price," were replaced by the words inserted in the tenth and eleventh lines, as above stated.

In engrossing the bill, the word "imported" was omitted after "them," in the seventh line; also the word "the," in the first line of the preamble to the second section.

An account of the doings of the convention at Concord, referred to in the act, has already been given in the note to chapter 13, ante.

Chap. 16. See the note to chapter 13, ante.

Chap. 17. The bill of this chapter, intended to reach cases not provided against in the former acts to prevent fraud in cord-wood exposed to sale (which had been made perpetual by 1772-73, chapter 8), was passed to be engrossed, in the House, on the fifth of October, and sent to the Council, for concurrence. On the 6th, the Council voted not to concur; but reconsidered this vote the next day, and passed the bill, in concurrence, with five amendments, to which the House agreed; and, on the 8th, the bill was passed to be enacted.

By the amendments, the words between "state," in the third line, and "[and]," in the fourth line, of the first section, were inserted; and the words "free of all charge," were stricken out after the word "measurer," in the tenth line. In the second section, "shall" was changed to "may," at the end of the first line, and the words "from time to time," and all after the word "reasonable," in the eleventh line, were inserted.

Chap 20. A bill with the title of this chapter was read three times, in the House, during the April session of 1778-79, and committed to Mr. Lowell, who, on the 30th of April, 1779, reported several amendments to it; whereupon it was passed to be engrossed, and sent up to the Council, for concurrence. The earliest memorandum upon the bill enacted, is dated Nov. 29, 1779. On that day it passed to be engrossed, in both branches; but the Council concurred, with a single amendment, transposing "jointly," from before the word "captured," in the first line of the act, to after the word "vessels." The House agreed to this, on the 30th; and, on the same day, the bill was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 21. On the report of a committee, consisting of Messrs. Batchelder, Whitney and Brown of Sandisfield, to whom the following petition had been referred on the 7th of June, 1779, a resolve was passed in the House, on the 11th, granting the prayer of the petitioners, and permitting them to bring in a bill: —

"To The Hon^ble Council & Hon^ble House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay In General Court Assembled at Boston May 26 1779 Humbly Shew —

The following petition, and votes of the town of Bernardston, are preserved in the public archives, but no memorandum of legislative action appears thereon: —

"To the Honble Council of the State of the Massachusetts Bay — and the honbl House of Representatives in general Court now assembled at Boston in the State aforesaid —

The Petition of us the Subscribers Inhabitants of ye west Part of Bernardston in ye County of Hampshire, humbly shews that at a legal Meeting of the Inhabitants of the Town of Bernardston on the 19th Day of April last past it was consented by a Vote of said Town that the Inhabitants living in the westward Part of said Bernardston should be incorporated into a distinct Town with all the Lands contain[d] within the following Boundaries viz: Beginning at the Northwest Corner of said Bernardston being about Twenty Rods East of green River, at a Stake and heap of Stones by a Beech Tree; thence to run Eastwardly on the Province Line Three Miles and Two Hundred & Eighty three Rods to a stake and heap of Stones, by a Beach Tree, then to run due south, to a Burch Tree, half a mile, west of Joseph Edwards' Dwelling House, and then to a chesnut Tree with a heap of Stones about it, One Mile west of Zebulon Allens Dwelling House, & to continue the same Point, to the south Line of said Bernardston, then to run West on the said south Line, till it strikes Green River, then the Line to run notherly on the East Bank of said River, till it strikes Colrain East Line, then to run by the said East Line of Colrain to the Boundary, herein first mention[d] — Your Petitioners beg leave to inform your Honours that the make and Form of the aforesaid Town of Bernardston is such as renders it wholly incompatable with the Interest of the Inhabitants to remain one Society, but seems to be a Place pointed out by Nature rather proper for two politic Bodies, there being a Chain of barren Mountains, altogether improper for Inhabitancy, extending from North to South, almost thro: the Town on which the above mentioned North and South Division Line is run and near about the Center of said Town, so that the Inhabitants live at the Distance of about Two Miles from each other, on each Side of said Mountain, which renders it highly inconvenient for them to meet together for the prosecution of publick Business, or their own private Concerns, and they further shew that each Part of said Town consists of so many Families, as to enable them to be at all necessary Expence of seperate Corporations, your Petioners therefore pray your Honours to take this our Petition into Consideration and to incorporate the aforesaid Tract of Land into a Town with all the Priveledges and Immunities which other Towns within this State do enjoy — and as in Duty bound shall ever pray — Bernardston June 1st 1779 —

By the 30th of November the bill of this chapter had been read three times, in the House, and passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. It passed through the subsequent stages, to engrossment, on that and the following day, and, on the second of December, it was enacted. Filed with the bill, is a copy, dated September 24, of the first vote of the town of Bernardston, above printed, and of the following vote of the town of Colrain: —

"At a Legall Meeting of the Free Holders & Other Inhabitants of Colrain on the Nineteenth day of May 1779, Voted & Accepted of the Lands & Inhabitants the West Side of Green River Commonly Called Bernardston Gore adjoyning Colrain to be Set of to this Town A True Coppy Attest. Chap. 22. The following petition was read in the Council, November 25th, and referred to a committee, consisting of John Pitts of the Council, and Messrs. Morton and Kingsbury of the House, who reported the bill of this chapter, which was read a first time, in the Council, December 1st, and, on the 4th, was passed to be engrossed, in concurrence, by the House: —

"To the honourable the Council & House of Representatives of ye State of Massachusetts Bay

The Petition of the Subscriber humbly sheweth

That by reason of Several Defects in the Act made in the Year 1765 for the Preservation & Increase of Moose & Deer on Tarpolin Cove Island, a number of base-minded Persons have frequently gone on to the said Island, and killed and taken away the Deer and Stock therefrom

That particularly, since the Enemy ravaged ye said Island of the Stock which remained thereon, ye same Persons or others of a like base disposition have gone thither, and killed Deer; pillaged the Tenants of the Trifles which even the Inhumanity of ye Enemy permitted to remain with them; and have done other Damages, which if Suffered to pass unpunished will encourage them to make of the said Island a meer waste and Desart.

Your Petitioner therefore prays your Honours that ye Defects in ye sd Act may be amended by a new one in addition thereto, or otherwise relieve yr Petitioner as your wisdom shall direct. JAMES BOWDOIN."— Mass. Files: Bills, 1779.

The last sentence of the first section, and the whole of the second section, were inserted by way of amendment to the bill as originally drawn, and all after "eighty-five," in the fourth section, was added to the bill in like manner.

Chap. 23. The provisions of the fee-bill passed during the first session of the General Court this year, were soon found inadequate, by reason of the rapid depreciation of the currency, notwithstanding that the former rate of fees had been increased, by that act, eightfold. On the 18th of November, therefore, Messrs. Gorham of Charlestown, Thatcher, Metcalf of Bellingham, Rawson and Curtis, of the House, were appointed a committee to revise that act, "and report what alterations are proper to be made." On the 27th, this committee reported that it "is for the interest of the state, and justice to those affected by said law, that a bill should be brought in for making the fees double to what they now are." Although an order was passed, on this report, that the further consideration thereof be referred to the next session, the bill of this chapter was read, in the House, a first time, December 3d, and on the next day it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, and on the 7th, it was passed to be enacted.

Chap. 24. The voluntary association which was incorporated by this chapter, was formed Sept. 6, 1762, under the following "rules," or articles of association, a printed copy of which remains on file in the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth: —

The Introduction.

"Knowing it to be our Duty as Christians, to be ready to distribute; sensible that such is the Uncertainty of human Affairs, that it's no uncommon Sight to observe those Persons who once lived comfortably, greatly reduced; which may as well happen to us, as to them: For this Reason we have formed Our Selves into a Society for the Relief and Assistance of each other, under like Circumstances.

In the first Place, we desire the Smiles of Heaven on this Our Undertaking; hoping Our whole Conduct in Life will recommend Us to the Favour of Mankind, and to the Blessings of Indulgent Providence! — That we may proceed Orderly, We have agreed to the following Rules; a strict Adherence to which, We promise each other.

The Time fix'd for the Quarterly Meetings.

FIRST, This Society shall meet Quarterly, on the first Monday in September, December, March and June, at Six o'Clock in the Evening; and before any other Business is entred upon, a Moderator shall be chosen, whose peculiar Business shall be to preserve Order.

The Clerk's Business.

SECONDLY, At the Meeting in September, the Society shall choose their Clerk, whose Business shall be to warn the Meetings, to keep a fair Record of all the Votes and Orders of the Society; and an Account of what Money is collected at the several Meetings, at the Admission of Members, &c.

The Treasurer's Business.

THIRDLY, At the same Meeting in September, a Treasurer shall be chose to receive the Money collected at the Meetings at the Admission of Members, or any Money which shall be given for the Use of the Society; and the said Treasurer shall procure two sufficient Bondsmen for the faithful Discharge of his Trust: And so often as the Money in his Hands shall amount to Thirteen Pounds six Shillings and eight Pence, he shall place the same at Interest, to some substantial Person of good Repute; but not without two sufficient Bondsmen, taking the Bond in his own Name, for the Use of the Society.

The Managers Business.

FOURTHLY, At the aforesaid Meeting in September, seven Managers shall be chose to transact Affairs between the Quarterly Meetings; and provided any Member shall become a proper Object of Charity, shall apply to the Managers in Writing, setting forth the Nature of his Case, who shall give him an Order upon the Treasurer for so much Money as they shall judge sufficient for his present Necessity, not exceeding Eight Dollars, till the next Quarterly Meeting; and then the Society shall give him what a Majority of the Society shall agree to. Their Power limitted.

FIFTHLY, as to the Admission of Members, no Person shall be admitted a Member of this Society, unless he obtains more than two Thirds of the Votes; and each Member at the Time of his Entry, shall pay Six Shillings for the Use of the Society; and during his Continuance with this Society, shall pay Quarterly one Shilling and six Pence: And should it appear that any Member shall wiltully neglect to bring or send his Quarterly Money, he shall forfeit and pay one Shilling and six Pence for the Use of the Society, besides his Quarterly Money. The Manner of raising the Stock, and admitting Members.

SIXTHLY, That no Member of this Society shall be entitled to any Relief until he has belonged to this Society for the Space of one Year. The Time that entitles a Member to Relief.

SEVENTHLY, If any Member of this Society shall be guilty of Profaneness, Intemperance, or any other notorious Crimes at the Quarterly Meetings, he shall forfeit and pay one Shilling and eight Pence for the Use of the Society; and provided he repeat the abovementioned Crimes, he shall be discharged from the Society, and be excluded from any Relief, unless he be reclaimed; and in such Case, he may be admitted into the Society again. Prophaneness, Intemperance, &c. not allow'd.

EIGHTHLY, That the Widow and Orphans of any Members of this Society, that's left under necessitous Circumstances, shall be entitled to Relief from this Society. Widow and Orphans Relie'v'd.

NINTHLY, That in Case any Member duly chosen for Clerk of this Society, shall refuse to serve, shall forfeit and pay Six Shillings for the Use of the Society: And provided any Clerk of this Society shall neglect to warn the Meetings, * or keep a fair Account of what Money is collected, or be guilty of any other wilful Negligence or Unfaithfulness in his Office, shall forfeit and pay four Dollars for the Use of the Society. Fine for negligent Clerks.

☞ May this Society continue as long as Charity shall be a Virtue!" — Mass. Files · Bills, 1779.

The above petition was read, in the House, Oct. 6, 1779, and committed to Messrs. Brown of Framingham, Nye and Wales, who, on the 8th of October, reported the following resolve: † —

"Oct. 8, 1779. In the House of Representatives — On the petition of William Burbeck & others, — Resolved, That the Petitioners have Liberty to bring in a Bill at the next Sitting of the General Court for the purposes mentioned in said Petition — In Council Read and Concurred Consented to by Fifteen of the Council." — Council Records, vol. XL., p. 68.

On the third of December, the bill of this chapter was passed to be engrossed, in the House, and sent up for concurrence, and on the 6th, the Council concurred in the engrossment; but it was not passed to be enacted until the sixteenth. In the original draught of the bill, alterations had been made, substituting the word "state," for "government;" reducing the value of the amount of real and personal estate to be received by the corporation, by purchase and donation, from ten thousand, to five thousand, pounds, per annum; and changing the time of meeting, and the limit of tenure of office, from the first "day," to the first "Monday," etc.; but, on the 30th, the following proceedings took place, by which an important amendment was subsequently added to the engrossment, in another hand than that of the engrossing clerk: —

"Dec. 30, 1779. Saml. Adams Esqr. went down with a Message to the Hon'ble House to propose an additional enacting Clause in an Act for incorporating certain Persons therein mentioned into a Body politic by the Name of the Massts Charitable Society Vizt. to insert provided always and it is further enacted that the Members of the Said Society shall at no Time exceed the Number of One hundred — if agreeable to the Hon'ble House —

Saml. Austin Esqr. came up with a Message from the Hon'ble House to inform the Board that the House agreed to the Proposed additional Enacting clause referred to in the foregoing Message." — "General Court minute book."

To make the provision in the third section, respecting the election of the first board of officers, intelligible, would seem to require the insertion of the word "after," between "next" and "on," in the seventh line; yet it appears to have been omitted both in the bill and in the engrossment.

In pursuance of the authority given to them in the fourth section, the majority of the Council issued a charter, finely engrossed on parchment, as follows: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay. —

Massachusetts Charitable Society

INTRODUCTION

To delight in Acts of Benevolence, to distribute with a liberal hand to the poor and Needy to soften the Cares of the Afflicted, We esteem as a Character becoming Christians — Impressed with this noble and exalted Principle, that We are not born for Ourselves, but as Social Beings designed by the wise parent of the Universe for the generous purpose of promoting the happiness of civil Society, and the welfare of each other. We have therefore formed Ourselves into a Society which is now Incorporated by Charter and distinguished by the Name of the Massachusetts Charitable Society, for the design and purpose of relieving those among Us, whom Providence may reduce to a state of poverty and Want. With humble Confidence in the smiles of Heaven on this Undertaking, We leave the success of our Cause in the Hands of that Being, 'who giveth to all men liberally' and delights in the Welfare of his Creatures, hopeing that our Conduct in Life will be such as to recommend us to his Blessing and the favourable approbation of Mankind,— United in these sentiments We recommend to each other a Solemn observance of the following Rules and Articles which we have adopted as our governing principles of Conduct.—

At the same time, William Haskins, Nathaniel Noves and William Hickling, were appointed a committee, to get "a device and seal." Their report, of an appropriate design, circumscribed with the motto, "MASSA: CHARITABLE · SOCIETY · NOBIS · NON · NATI · SUMUS · ", was accepted.

After the date of the first signing the articles of association, and until Sept. 13, 1779, inclusive, seventy-five or seventy-six members were admitted, from time to time. Eight more were admitted, Dec. 13, 1779, — John Hancock standing first in the list. Upon the organization of the corporation under the charter, Hancock was chosen president.

Chap. 25. The reasons which induced the Legislature to pass the act repealed by this chapter, are shown in the note to that chapter, pp. 1028–1033, ante.

Although a representative from Pittsfield was one of the committee appointed to report the bill of chapter 38, of 1778–79, the act was repudiated by the inhabitants of that town, who adopted the following instructions to Col. William Williams and Capt. James Noble, whom they chose to represent them in the next Assembly: —

"We give you the following instructions, viz.: —

"1st. That you do use your utmost endeavors that a constitution be formed at this time."

"3d. That a late act of the General Court, called and considered to be an act of oblivion respecting the county of Berkshire, be an object of your attention, and that your exert yourselves that the same may be repealed, as it was undesired by the county, and is fraught with reproach, discrimination, and such severe reflections upon the county as they utterly disdain, and are not chargeable with; not to mention the manifest injustice contained in it.

"4th. That the appointment of a Superior Court to be holden in this county on the first Tuesday of May current was unnecessary and premature, and that the gentlemen who proposed such a measure were not so instructed and directed."

"8th. And, as you are chosen to represent the town of Pittsfield, we expect that you will represent it as a town of a county which has acted as firmly and consistently as any county in this State; and, as you know the sentiments of the county, that you act conformably thereunto; and, if you are not treated with the same respect with representatives of other counties, that you return home, and give us the pleasure of your company." * — J. E. A. Smith's History of Pittsfield, p. 363.

Before the next term day of the Superior Court, another convention of delegates from the towns in Berkshire County, assembled at Stockbridge, and adopted an address and "resolves," to be presented to the judges when they should appear to open the court. Accordingly, on the first day of the term, the judges found the court house at Great Barrington in possession of some three hundred persons, who had accompanied the committee chosen by the convention to present the address, &c. Of these papers, Andrew Henshaw, clerk of the court, took the following copies: —

"To the Honble the Judges of the superior Court appointed to sit at Great Barrington on the 4th of May 1779 The People present beg leave to represent the within Resolves having been read distinctly two several times, and put to vote passed unanimously that the People present approve of the said Resolves and have directed the following Gentlemen to wait upon your Honors with these Resolves and to request your Honors to give an Answer to the people present of your Honors Intentions in the matter viz Lt. "County of Berkshire, State of Massachusetts-Bay.

To the Honorable the Judges of the superior Court appointed to sit at Great Barrington on Tuesday the fourth of May 1779 —

May it please your Honors

We being a Convention formed by Delegates from the several Towns in the County of Berkshire, beg leave to lay before your Honors the sense of our Constituents, which is as follows viz. that it is creating a dangerous President to admit or consent to the operation of Law untill there is a Constitution or Form of Government with a Bill of Rights explicitly approved of and firmly established by a Majority of the Freemen of this State, for which reason the good People of this County are oposed to the seting of Courts at this or any future time untill a Constitution be formed and approved of by the People of this State — And here we beg leave to give some account of ourselves, and the reasons of our Conduct and in the first place would premise That we always had a sense of the Necessity of Law, especially in time of War, that we feel the Want of a due Exercise of it, and in many instances the sad effects of not enjoying of it, and as we have heretofore observed to a former Assembly, will do all in our power to uphold Authority and Law when settled upon a good foundation — But to our supprise in the seting of the first general Assembly in 1775 contrary to any Charter that we ever yet saw, The Members of each County were called upon to nomenate suitable persons in the civil and Military Line which were chosen by the House and commissioned by the Councill, in which effectual care was taken that those then present should be in the Nomenation, which procedure roused our attention that such persons should nomenate and vote for themselves or be elected in a form that the Charter knew nothing of — We have further reasons for the non admission of Law on the present foundation, we keep our Eye on the Origin of the present mode of Government, which as it is acknowledged by our Oponents, stands on the advice of the Continental Congress in 1775, which advice as may be seen had a special reference to a reconciliation to the Crown of Great Britain and in the exercise of such a mode mode of Government all our Officers civil and military were appointed and still hold their Authority, but when the Revolution took place by the subsequent Declaration of Independence that advice certainly ceased, and altho' there was a Proclamation from the general Court dated January 23d 1776 congratulating the People on a new form of Government, yet this was before the declaration of Independence, every Law therefore exercised at that time must have the Crown for its

Index, yet the general Plea is by our Oponents that we hold our Authority and Government consequent upon said Advice from Congress, it is a Truth too well known to be denied, that since the Declaration of Independence there has been no social Compact or fundamental Constitution formed and adopted by the great Majority of the People of this State therefore the Basis and foundation of the present mode of Government is what we dislike, together with the Spirit & Principle which actuates many of the men who would inforce it — And considering all those Reasons (which appear to us of weight) we are fearfull of the Consequences should the operation of Law take place upon the present Foundation, especially if it should be attempted to be enforced by Violence, as some have intimated, which intimations we hope will appear to be groundless, as they have very much exasperated the People; We must therefore in Duty to ourselves to our Country and Constituents earnestly desire that your Honors would desist from attempting to set in this County untill the explicit voice of the great Majority of the Freemen of this State may be taken by Yeas and Nays respecting the Validity of the present Form of Government, by whoes Determination when explicitly and regularly known we are determined cheartully and religiously to abide by —

To these addresses the judges felt constrained to make the following reply: —

"To Leiut. Stouton, Jona. Nash, Deacon Lee, Deacon Kenney and Major Stratton — Gentlemen, Having considered the paper by you delivered us, purporting a Resolution of the People now here assembled, that the superior Court of Judicature &c shall not be held here this Day, as by Law appointed — We do now inform you, that as we conceive that the Court was ordered to sit here for the peculiar Advantage of this County and as it must fail of the desired Effect, while the People are thus averse to it, we shall not attempt to open the Court or proceed further in Execution of the Law here: but hope the time will come, when we shall be all united in the support of those Laws so necessary to the Defence of our Country and the good of Society — — and immediately despatched the following report of the affair, to the General Assembly, which, however, had been prorogued the day before: —

"To the honorable the general Assembly of the State of Massachusetts Bay —

May it please your Honors,

We beg leave to inform you that pursuant to the Law of the Government, we met at Great Barrington to open the superior Court in and for the County of Berkshire, where we found about three hundred persons assembled in the Court house, and while there, we recieved from a Person to us unknown a paper containing Resolves of a Convention of Delegates from several Towns in the County a copy of which is here inclosed; the body assembled sent Persons to borrow it of us, and again returned it with the writing on the back signed by Eldad Lewis, a copy of our Answer thereto is also inclosed, from whence your Honors will percieve the Court was never opened here — We thought it our Duty to give you this Information as early as possible, and are your

At the beginning of the first session of the next Assembly, the opening message from the Council, contained the following passage relative to these proceedings: —

"The Affairs of the County of Berkshire are in a critical situation, we have directed the Secretary to lay before you a Letter from the Justices of the Superiour Court of the 4th Instant wherein they Inform us that, in pursuance of Law, they met at Great Barrington to open the Court, where they found Three hundred People assembled at the Court House, who, notwistanding all the Lenity which Government has discovered towards these People, prevented the Court's being opened; we recommend this Letter togather with the Papers accompanying the same to your serious Consideration." — Ibid., vol. 158, p. 144.

The next day (May 29), this message was referred to a committee of five members, who forthwith reported, "that the consideration of the disorders which still subsist in the county of Berkshire, be postponed to some future time, when the Court shall have more leisure to attend to them." This report was accepted; and no further action upon the subject has been discovered until December 29th, when the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in Council. On the 31st, it was read a second time, and passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, and was sent down to the House, whence it was returned, with a vote of concurrence, the same day. The bill had been drawn as of the year 1779, but, on the first of January, upon a proposal from the House, this was changed to 1780, by amendment, and on the 3d, the bill was passed to be enacted.

Chap. 26. The bill of this chapter was read, twice, in the Council, and there passed to be engrossed, December 22d, and on the next day it was passed, in concurrence, in the House, to be engrossed, with an amendment, substituting the form of the preamble in the act, for the following form as reported in the bill: "Whereas many advantages have arisen from the afore-cited act, made in the present year of our Lord, therefore necessary to be continued for a longer time," which amendment was concurred in by the Council, and, on the 24th, the bill was passed to be enacted.

Chap. 27. As first drawn, and as sent down to the House, December 31st, the bill of this chapter, which originated in the Council, had no title, or date, prefixed. It was accordingly amended, Jan. 3, 1780, upon a message from the House, pointing out these deficiencies. On the 7th, the House sent to the Board another message, proposing to strike out the words, "which will be in the year of our Lord," immediately following the word "November," in the act; which being agreed to by the Council, the bill was that day passed to be enacted.

Chap. 28. The purpose of this act is sufficiently shown in the preamble. As first drawn, the second section of the bill ended with the proviso "that nothing herein shall be construed to extend to increase any corporal punishment incurred by any breach of said law." On the 7th, the bill passed through all its stages, to engrossment, inclusive, and, on the 10th, was passed to be enacted.

Chap. 29. After the passage of the resolves of Oct. 10, 1777, printed in the note to 1777-78, chapter 6, ante, providing for the families of non-commissioned officers and privates of the Massachusetts quota, the only additional pecuniary assistance rendered by the General Court, to soldiers or their families, up to this year, was that afforded by the resolve * of Oct. 17, 1777, and the resolve † of Jan. 16, 1778, in explanation thereof; by which resolves provision was made for defraying the expenses of sick and wounded soldiers, and for repairing losses incurred in battle or on retreat. For reimbursing the former class of expenses, a committee was appointed, May 31, 1779, to report the draught of a letter asking the aid of Congress.

By the depreciation of the currency, the officers and privates in the army were affected even more severely than citizens at home, on account of the unavoidable lapse of time between the making out of the pay-rolls and the payment of the money, and between their receipt of pay, and their getting it to their distant families or creditors, while the value of the currency in which they were paid, was daily diminishing.

The following complaint from members of four brigades of the Massachusetts quota, of the injury they had received from this depreciation, was read in the House, Jan. 19, 1779, and referred, by a concurrent vote, on the same day, to the committee on the state of the army: —

"To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay in General Court Assembled.

The Memorial, Remonstrance and Petition of the Officers in Brigadier General Nixon's, Patterson's Late Learnead's & Glovers Brigades, in behalf of themselves, and the Soldiers under their Command, Humbly Sheweth, that —

When America was driven to the Alternative of taking Arms in defence of their Liberties, or submit to the most abject Condition of Slavery; the State of Massachusetts Bay was far from being the last to Avow their full determination to risque their lives and fortunes in the defence of their Country, and early published to the world their ardent wish to spend their all, could they thereby secure the Invaluable blessing of Freedom to Posterity, rather than intail wretchedness upon them, accounting it a much richer legacy than should they leave them in possession of the wealth of the Indias, held at the servile tenure which the tyrant of Britain and his Venal Parliament profered to them.

We, at that time, considering ourselves as part of the Community, were Equally anxious with the rest of our brethren to defend the Common Cause, chearfully exchanging the sweets of domestick life for the fatigues and hardships of War, and have still no other wish than to secure the great object and to be again enrolled in the number of Citizens: but it is with the greatest concern we have observed for some time our brethren departing from that line of Virtuous conduct which before guided their actions, and are persuing measures, which if persisted in without redress, will finally cause a seperation of Interests between the Army and Country, Incompatible with the happiness of a Free State.

That our pay which was liberal is become of little value; our families are Starving; Gentlemen of rank in the United States publickly refuse the Currency of the Continent, and all Denominations of people (who would be thought Virtuous, honest and religious) are openly fixing a depreciation on the Currency and avowing their right to sell at the rate of six for one compared with gold and silver, and secretly promoting a much greater Depreciation; It is not for us discriminately to determine who is the cause, we only say it has happened and that it is a greivance to the Army insupportable. It is evident then that the contract which Government made with the Army is greatly Infringed upon, and that the Officers and Soldiers are Injured in a most capital manner: for it is the same thing in effect to be robbed of Seven Eights of our money at once, or have the whole reduced to one eight part of its' former value whilst we hold it in our pockets; and amounts to a tax upon the army nearly eighteen shillings upon the Pound which is extorted from us without our consent — a Doctrine which four years ago every american would shudder at!

That we are alarmed, greatly and Justly alarmed; for those of us who had any monies have applyed them to the support of our families, or the publick exigencies of the war: and to be compelled to loose our all; to beggar our families; to ruin our constitutions and to hasten old age upon ourselves are too great sacrifices for us to make: to beg we shall be ashamed; to steal honor and virtue forbids: yet, with all these alarming circumstances before our eyes we have persevered thro' the marches of an Alexander and the fatigues of an Hannible, haveing endured hunger, thirst, cold and nakedness: your troops have neither left the field, nor disgraced your arms for we confided in the wisdom of this Honorable Court; the Justice we expect from you; the love which every Officer and Soldier bears to the United States, to his Excellency the Commander in chief and the goodness of the cause we are Ingaged in, both as it respects ourselves and the wellbeing of posterity: from these considerations the officers have been hitherto enabled to keep the soldiery from dispair and from adopting measures which might have proved fatal in their consequences. We therefore urge your speedy attention to our greivances, the removal of which, (in our opinions) can alone disuade the soldiery from taking measures which will be Impossible for us to prevent.

We are not unaware of the many Dificulties with which Government has been Embarrassed, and considering ourselves as members of the community, are not unwilling to bear a part in them; neither do we expect that full, and Just satisfaction can be Immediately made us; but we must think it to be in the power of Government to take such effectual measures from time to time as will secure our stipulated pay to us, or our heirs after us, according to its original value; in doing of which we are willing to have every thing that has been done for us by this State taken into Consideration.

Let this security be given us, and let our properties be exempted from taxes, so far as they relate to town bounties and hires given to Levies and Militia, we shall then be satisfyed and contented. This we must think we have a right to expect from this Honorable Court; for altho we have the highest respect for Congress as a most venerable Body, and have addressed them on the subject of greivances; yet the object of their concern is large and too diffusive to extend to every part of the Army in season to releive their Distresses, and redress their wrongs. Besides, we consider each State as haveing an Immediate and intire sovereignty over her own Members; if therefore the government of the several States respectively does not take measures to support the Credit of the Currency it will unavoidably be out of the power of Congress to do it.

These things we will humbly submit to the wisdom of this Honorable Court, fully confiding in your prudence, Candour and love of Justice; and that you will speedily grant us all that relief, which we wish to receive; and as nothing but the great Cause of our Country could have induced us to forsake our Domestick Imployments, so, we can with the greatest sincerity assure this Assembly of our unabated zeal and ardent wish to contribute every means in our power to render the United States gloriously free; And that nothing should ever happen on our part to burst that Bond of United Affection and Interest, which was once so Conspicuous in the State of Massachusetts Bay, and which, should it ever happen, will be more distressing and more Mortifying than all the Apprehensions, Losses, Fatigues, Hardships and Bloodshed we have ever met with from the Common Enemy. Upon the report of the committee, the following resolve * was passed: —

"Feb. 4, 1779. In the House of Representatives. On the Petition of the Officers in the Brigades of Generals Nixon's, Patterson's (late Learned's) and Glover's in behalf of themselves and the Soldiers under their command.

Resolved, that the Selectmen or Committees of the several Towns and Plantations in this State appointed for this purpose be, and they hereby are enjoined to supply the Families of all Non-Commissioned Officers and private Soldiers enlisted from their respective Towns or Plantations (for three years or during the War in the Fifteen Battalions raised by this State) with Necessaries in manner directed by a Resolve of the Great and General Court of this State passed upon the Tenth Day of October One thousand Seven hundred and Seventy Seven — And to keep an exact account of all such Supplies to the intent, that the Towns may finally have the same paid by the State and also that such Supplies may be Charged to the said Non-Commissioned Officers and private Soldiers when their Pay, on which they entered the Service, shall be made good to them as is hereinafter provided. And the Selectmen and Committees respectively shall make up their Accounts for past Supplies as soon as may be, and for future Supplies on the first Day of January yearly, and lay them before the General Court for examination and allowance.

Resolved, that if any Selectmen or Committees shall be so regardless of their Country's Interest as to neglect to see the said Resolve of the Tenth of October fully executed, and Complaint be thereof made to the General Assembly, there shall be added to the Tax of the Town or Plantation, whose Selectmen or Committees shall be so delinquent, a Sum not exceeding five times the value of such Supplies which they upon request shall unreasonably refuse to make. And whereas there is no provision made for supply of the Com-

It also appears in the state archives, vol. 220, p. 438, et seq; but with so many alterations that it would be scarcely intelligible without numerous notes and cross references. It was therefore deemed best, in this instance, to depart from the rule by which, in this edition, resolves are taken from the originals when possible. It was concurred in by the Council, Feb. 6, 1779.

missioned and Staff Officers Families. It is therefore Resolved, that there be advanced and paid out of the Public Treasury of this State to the Commissioned and Staff-Officers of the Fifteen Battalions aforesaid who are engaged to serve for three years or during the War, the following Sums, viz^t.

To each Field Officer the Sum of Three hundred Pounds. To each Captain, Chaplain, Surgeon and Surgeon's Mate engaged for three years or during the War and being an Inhabitant of this State, Two hundred Pounds.

To each Subaltern Officer One hundred and Fifty Pounds. One Moiety of said Sums to be paid to them respectively upon the Fifteenth Day of April next, and the other Moiety upon the Fifteenth Day of July next. And in case it shall so happen that the Treasurer shall not be able to pay such Sums at the times abovementioned, He is hereby impowered and directed to give said Officers, or any of them who shall apply therefor, his Note upon Interest payable upon or before the first Day of January One thousand Seven hundred and Eighty, which several Sums when so paid either in Notes or Money as aforesaid shall be charged to the account of the respective Officers who shall receive the same and be Deducted from their Wages when adjusted and made good as is herein after provided.

Resolved, that the Constables and Collectors of the State-Tax now ordered to be issued shall exchange with Commissioned or Staff Officers of said Battalions belonging to their respective Towns the Notes aforesaid giving such Officers Current Money for the Principal and Interest due upon such Note at the time of such Exchange. And the Treasurer is hereby directed to receive such Notes of all Constables and Collectors in payment of the Tax aforesaid. And the Officer having the same so exchanged shall indorse his name on the same and thereon set the Day of the Month and year when the Exchange shall be made, at which time the Interest on such Note shall cease.

Resolved, that this Government will, at the close of the present War, receive an account of the time which the Officers and private Soldiers belonging to this State shall have served in the said Battalions and will then make good to them and the Heirs of such of them as shall then be dead, the Wages of the Establishment of Congress whereon they engaged according to a late Act of this Government, entitled, An Act against Monopoly and Oppression, taking for a measure of their Wages, the Prices set to the Articles enumerated in the same Act, taking into Consideration by the same measure all Bounties, except the Continental Bounty of Six Pounds and the State-Bounty of Twenty Pounds, Supplies, Gratuities and Sums already advanced, or which shall hereafter be given, Supplied or Advanced.

Provided nevertheless, that if the Honb^le Continental Congress shall make the Wages of said Officers and Soldiers good to them as aforesaid, this Government shall not be held by this Resolution. And also provided, that this Provision shall not extend to those who shall, without a regular and honorable Discharge, leave the said Service before the time, for which they are engaged, shall expire. In Council Read and Concurred.

Consented to by Fifteen of the Council." — Council Records, vol. XXXIX., p. 75.

A letter,* from which the following is extracted, bearing date Feb. 10, 1779, was thereupon reported by a committee of both branches of the Assembly, and was ordered to be sent to the delegates from Massachusetts, in the Continental Congress: —

"We were in hopes 'ere this to have heard that the Honb^le Congress had taken some suitable measures to quiet the minds of the Officers and Soldiers in the Continental Army under their Sufferings by reason of the depreciated state of our Currency. The Officers and Soldiers of the fifteen Battalions and of Colonel Crane's Regiment of Artillery including Stephens's Corps raised in this State have been so pressing in their applications to the General Assembly, that they have passed a number of Resolutions wherein they have engaged (provided Congress do not do it) to make good their Wages at the close of the present Contest. It appeared to the Court from the representation of the Officers, that this was a measure absolutely necessary in order to keep the Army together. We hope it will meet the approbation of Congress and desire that you would endeavour to obtain their Order that the expence that may hereby accrue shall be finally borne by the Continent. The Officers and Soldiers in the Regiments under the command of Colonels Jackson, Lee & Hendly have applied to have the same relief; but as the Court have been lately informed that this State has, in the late Arrangement of the Army, no Credit for the Men belonging to those Regiments, they apprehend it belongs to Congress to grant them the necessary relief, as most of the Men belonging to these Regiments were raised in this State, and their Families are here and therefore can be more easily supplied by us. We are willing, provided we can have Credit for the Men or Congress will give us directions to treat them in the same manner, to pass similar Resolutions in their favor. You will therefore use your endeavours that the Men beforementioned should be placed to the Credit of this State as part of their Quota of the Continental Army, as also the Men belonging to Colonel Crane's Regiment of Artillery including Stephens's Corps, as the Honb^le Congress as well as General Washington strongly recommended it to this State to grant the same encouragement to these Men as to those belonging to the fifteen Battalions."— Ibid., p. 97.

On the same day, another letter, † reported by the committee last named, and relating, in part, to the same subject, was ordered to be sent to the President of Congress.

Col. Shepard continued his applications for prompt and equal payment to officers and men, in three letters, addressed to the Secretary, or to the General Court, during the month of May. On the 29th of May, these were referred to a committee, consisting of Samuel Niles and Joseph Simpson, of the Council, and Messrs. Nichols, Gerrish and Wales, of the House, to take them into consideration, "and report what may be proper to be done thereon." The report of this committee, and the action of the General Court thereon, were as follows: —

"The Committe of both Houses, to whom was referr'd the Letters of Col Shepard; have Considered the same, and are of Opinion that his Complaint, in Regard to the Officers in the New Arrangment, is without foundation, as your Committee dont find but one Officer, in the Returns made, that is mentioned as being of the new Arrangment, and that he has rece'd his Moiety, agreeably to the Resolve.

As to the Request, That the whole sum granted, might be paid att this time in One Note your Committee are of Opinion that as the other Moiety will soon become due, it will not be Expedient to Supersede the Resolve of the Sixth of Febry last. At this session, also, on the petition of Col. Rufus Putnam (which was read and referred in the House, May 28th), a resolve was passed, extending the operation of the resolve of February 6th, to some members of the army who were not inhabitants of Massachusetts. This petition, and the resolve thereon were as follows: —

"To the Honble the Council & Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay in General Court assembled.

The Petition of Rufus Putnam Colo of the 4th Massachusetts Regiment in the Service of the United States of America, Humbly Sheweth,

That by a Resolve of the General Court past in Feby last, wherein they engage that this Government will at the Close of the present War, make good to the fifteen Battallions raised by this State their Wages agreeable to the Establishment of the honble Congress, there appears to be no Provission made for such Officers & Soldiers of the said fifteen Battallions, who are not Inhabitants of this State.—

That in the Battallion aforesaid are several Foreigners who have gained no Inhabitancy in the State, yet have served faithfully since the Commencement of the War. — There are also others who are Inhabitants of Bennington & other Places in the Grants (where no Quota is call'd for or Raised) who are all mustered for, & serving as Part of the Quota of this State; & which your Petitioner humbly concieves have a right to expect this State will see Justice done them, as they enter'd your Service on the Faith of Government pledged to them in an Act entitled an Act against Monopoly & Oppression.

The aforesaid Resolve also affects Doctr William Annen an Inhabitant of Maryland, who has served in some of the Massachusetts Regts since the opning of the Campaign at New York in the Year 1776, & is now serving as Surgeon in your Petitioner's Regt.—

Wherefore your Petitioner prays, that your Honors will be pleased to take ye Premisses into Consideration, & make such Provission for Officers & Soldiers circumstanced as before described, as will relieve the Distresses of both; & prevent the Despair & Desertion of the Soldiers wch otherwise, 'its too probable will ensue.— And in particular that the Regiment may not be deprived of a Surgeon, especially as there is no Mate in it; nor are Gentlemen of the Faculty who have any considerable Practice or other Employment, willing to enter the Service.—

On the 28th of May, in conformity with the annual practice, a committee of accounts was chosen by the House, consisting of Loammi Baldwin, Richard Cranch, Seth Washburn, Ephraim Starkweather, Lemuel Kollock, Thomas Durfee and Jonathan Webster, and commissioned "to receive and examine all accounts (not otherwise ordered) which are duly authenticated, for any service done, or expense incurred, in consequence of any order or resolve of the General Court; and to allow so much thereon as shall appear to them to be reasonable and just."

The resolves † establishing this committee declared that their doings, or the doings of any four of them, during either the recess or the sitting of the General Court, should be considered as valid as any vote or resolve of the House. They were required to keep a record of the names, and places of residence of the persons whose accounts should be allowed by them; of the amounts so allowed; "and the occasion of the charge." By the same resolves, Jabez Fisher, Benjamin White and Daniel Davis, on the part of the Council, were joined to this committee, and they, or the Council itself, were authorized, either during any session or in recess, to concur in the accounts allowed by the House committee, "so far as shall appear to them just and reasonable, and duly authenticated." The paid accounts thus approved were to be kept by the secretary, in separate files, and to be laid before the House, for inspection, when called for; and the Council were authorized to issue their warrants therefor, upon the treasurer, payable to the committee of the Council, to an amount not exceeding £30,000. Extra pay was granted to the members of the above committee on the part of the House, for their extraordinary services. On the 3d of June, Samuel Osgood was added to this committee, and Joseph Hosmer was substituted for Thomas Durfee, who had been chosen to the Council.

On the 8th of June, a resolve * was passed establishing a form to be followed by selectmen and committees in rendering their accounts under the resolve of the sixth of February; and, on the 24th, another resolve † was passed, authorizing the committee of accounts to allow compensation to such selectmen, &c., for their services. Besides the above committee of accounts, another committee had been appointed, "for stating and methodizing the public accounts." The term of service of this last-named committee having expired, the following resolve ‡ was passed:—

"State of Massachusetts Bay — In the House of Representatives June 28th 1779

The non-commissioned officers and privates of the Massachusetts contingent in the Continental Army, were enlisted under the resolves of Congress, of Sept. 16, 1776, for raising eighty-eight battalions, of which Massachusetts was required to furnish fifteen. As an additional inducement to every recruit who should enlist in the Massachusetts quota, to serve "during the war," the General Court, by the resolves § of Oct. 19, 1776, had offered, besides the pay and "encouragement" already voted by Congress, one blanket, annually, in case Congress should not provide one, or eighteen shillings, if the soldier should furnish one himself; and twenty shillings per month, to be paid semi-annually during his continuance in the service. But this last payment was only to be made in the event that Congress should not increase the wages of soldiers by that amount; and if the increase made by Congress should fall short of twenty shillings the state was pledged, only, to make up the deficiency.

Before the passage of these resolves, beating orders had been issued, and enlistment-rolls prepared, for men to serve "during the war," unless sooner discharged by Congress; but Congress, in its resolves of November 12th, having objected to such discrimination in favor of this class of enlistments, and having resolved that all who enlist for the term of three years be entitled to equal pay and bounty with those who enlist to serve during the war, except the grant of 100 acres of land to the latter (in addition to the pay and bounty granted to each) the General Court, by resolves ‖ passed on the 24th of November, repealed so much of its resolves of October 19th, as established the objectionable distinction, and offered a full discharge from enlistment (with the right to reënlist), to all who, by this offer of extra bounty, had been induced to enlist to serve during the war, upon their returning so much of the bounty as they had received; or, if they failed to return the bounty, they were to be held for three years' service, only. By the same resolves there was granted to each non-commissioned officer or private not belonging to any other of the United States, who should enlist in the Continental Army, as part of the Massachusetts quota, a bounty of £20, in two notes of £10 each, to be delivered to him upon his passing muster. These notes were payable in four years, with interest, semi-annually, at six per cent.

In the resolves of November 12th, Congress had required enlistment-rolls to be prepared in two forms; one, for those who should enlist for three years, and another, for those who should enlist to serve during the war; but, although the General Court followed this direction of Congress, the beating orders, here, were issued for the enlistment of men to serve "for three years or during the war;" and from this last circumstance, as well as from the plain import of the resolves of November 24th, there were some veterans in the army, who, though not strictly entitled to a discharge, held themselves free to leave the camp at the expiration of the three years' term of service of others who had enlisted at the same time but upon a different agreement.

As the end of the three years for which a large part of the army had enlisted, drew near, the importance of measures to secure the reënlistment of as many of these veterans as could be induced to remain in the army, became obvious; and, accordingly, the following resolutions were passed by Congress, before the opening of the second session of the General Court: —

"Resolved, That it be and it is hereby recommended to the several states that have not already adopted measures for that purpose, to make such further provision for the officers and for the soldiers inlisted for the war, to them respectively belonging, who shall continue in service till the establishment of peace, as shall be an adequate compensation for the many dangers, losses and hardships they have suffered and been exposed to in the course of the present contest, either by granting to their officers half pay for life, and proper rewards to their soldiers; or in such other manner as may appear most expedient to the legislatures of the several states:

Resolved, That it be and hereby is recommended to the several states to make such provision for the widows of such of their officers, and such of their soldiers inlisted for the war, as have died or may die in the service, as shall secure to them the sweets of that liberty for the attainment of which their husbands had nobly laid down their lives." — Journals of Congress: Aug. 17, 1779.

"Resolved, That until the further order of Congress, the said officers be entitled to receive monthly for their subsistence money, the sums following, to wit, each colonel and brigade chaplain five hundred dollars, every lieutenant colonel four hundred dollars, every major and regimental surgeon three hundred dollars, every captain two hundred dollars, every lieutenant, ensign and surgeon's mate one hundred dollars.

Resolved, That until the further order of Congress the sum of ten dollars be paid to every non-commissioned officer and soldier monthly for their subsistance, in lieu of those articles of food originally intended for them and not furnished." — Ibid.: Aug. 18, 1779.

Early in its second session, the Legislature began to take more effectual measures to allay the discontent that prevailed in the army among the soldiers of the Massachu-etts quota. They appointed committees to consider the several resolves relative to the supply of soldiers' families, with the view of remedying any defects that might appear therein.

A letter from General Heath, dated September 2d, at the Highlands on the Hudson, and a memorial, enclosed therein, of the Massachusetts officers of the line in the Continental Army (neither of which has been found in the archives), were immediately referred to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Osgood, Davis of Boston, Page, Ashley and Wales. This committee promptly reported a resolve for the appointment of a committee of three, to visit the army, "on the subject matter" of these petitions; but the different views entertained in both branches with respect to the form of the resolve, the nature of the instructions to be given to the committee, and the individuals who should be appointed, and their number, led to a contest which lasted more than two weeks. Finally, the following resolves* were agreed upon, and signed by a majority of the Council, on the first of October, after several conferences had been held, to settle differences on some of the many amendments proposed or adopted: —

"Whereas the Time of Inlistment of Part of this State's Quota of the confederated Army of America is near expiring; And Whereas, by the smiles of Heaven, the Period of our Warfare is we trust nearly arrived, our inveterate Enemies having brought upon themselves the national Vengeance of France & Spain whose combined naval & military Force must soon reduce imperious Britain to listen to the Voice of Reason & of Peace: And Whereas it is necessary that a respectable Army should still be kept in the Field, that the War which was begun with Spirit & hath been bravely maintained, may terminate with Glory & the Accomplishment of the great Purposes which originated it; And Whereas from the prov'd Fidelity, & unshaken Firmness of the intrepid Men who have hitherto constituted the distinguished Regiments belonging to this State, it will be most for the Interest & Reputation of this & the united States to engage the same gallant Veterans to continue the military Guardians of their Country, Therefore as an Encouragement for their Reinlistment, it is resolved —

That a Bounty of Three hundred Dollars, in Addition to the Bounty & subsistence Money allowed by Congress, be paid to Each Non-commission officer & Soldier who has or shall Inlist as one of this State's Quota of the Continental Army dureing the continuance of the present war between the United States of America & Great Brittain. And it is allso resolved that each Officer & Soldier who shall engage as aforesaid shall be intitled to receive all the Benefits provided & promised by a Resolution of the General Court of this State passed the 6th of February last. And their Accounts shall be punctually settled & the Ballances paid at the Conclusion of the War; And in Case the War should continue longer than one year, then at the close of each year, so long as the same shall last, & the Polls shall be exempted from Taxes of every kind and the Estates Both Real & Personal of Each officer & Soldier, who shall Ingage as aforesaid Shall be Exempted dureing their Continuance in said Service from all Town Taxes Levied for the Purpose of procuring men to go into the Army.—

And be it farther resolved that Colonel Nathaniel Freeman & Samuel Osgood Esq be a Committee immediately to repair to Camp for the Purpose of carrying the aforesaid Resolves into Execution. — and that the said Committee be and they Hereby are impowered to Agree with the Officers belonging to this state — on a time and place for the meeting of a Committee of this Court with such Committee as shall be appointed by the said officers, for the Purpose of Adjusting the Account of each officer and soldier up to the first day of January 1780, and to assure them that the several ballances which shall be then due to such as shall Continue in service during the war, Shall be paid by the said first of January — and should any officer or soldier Decline Entering the service as aforesaid his or their Account shall be also settled on the said first of January and the ballance paid as Soon as the Circumstances of this Government will admit." — Mass. Archives, vol. 224, p. 225.

The following instructions* to the visiting committee (reported by a joint committee, consisting of Col. Baldwin and Mr. Davis of Boston, on the part of the House, and Thomas Cushing of the Council) were also adopted: —

"In the House of Representatives Sept. 30. 1779

Resolved that the following Instructions be given to the Committee appointed by the Resolve of this Day to repair to Camp for the Purpose of reinlisting this State's Quota of the Continental Army —

1st You are to repair without Delay to Camp, & on your Arrival to confer with the Commander in Chief & take the advice of the Generals, & field Officers belonging to this State, upon the best Method for carrying into Effect the Design of said Resolves.—

On the same day on which the above resolves were passed, the visiting committee were supplied with $200,000 (for which they were to be accountable), to be expended in filling up the state's quota; and the Council were also empowered and requested to issue warrants, in the recess of the General Court, for a further amount, if in their judgment necessary. The committee who reported the resolves† for these purposes, were "directed to cause a suitable number of the resolves for reënlisting men, to be printed."

To the committee who reported the above resolves, had been referred, on the fifteenth of September, a petition from the officers under General Glover's command, dated Camp Lower Salem, State of New York, August 20th. The petitioners represented their great need of clothing suitable for the approaching cold weather, and their inability to procure it, and prayed for a supply "at such prices and in such way as has been or may be pointed out by Congress, or the General Assembly."

Upon this petition the committee, on the 20th, had reported a resolve‡ directing the Board of War to procure, as soon as possible, suitable clothing for the petitioners, and "all the officers belonging to this state, in the Continental Army," the expense of which was to be paid out of the proceeds of the sale of the estates of absentees.

The report of the committee to consider the resolves relating to the support of the families of soldiers in service,— a subject which had been before the Legislature for an equal length of time, — was also adopted, as follows: —

"State of the Massachusetts Bay In the house of Representatives Septr 30 1779:

The report of the visiting committee was rendered November 12th, as follows: —

"The Committee appointed by a resolve of the General Court to repair to the Army for the purpose of carrying into Execution the resolution of court of the 1st of October last, having attended that Service beg leave to report.

That agreable to our Instructions we proceeded to Head Quarters at West point, where we arrived the 15th day of October, and immediately waited on his Excellency General Washington, communicated to him our Business and advised with him on the best method of carrying sd Resolve into Execution, who highly approved of the wisdom & Justice of the Assembly discovered in sd resolution, and of the mode proposed to reinlist this States Quota of ye Army.

Agreable to our instructions and his advice we then consulted with, and took the Opinion of the General and Field Officers from this State, who were thereabouts on the method for effecting the business, And agreably to their Opinion we met all the Field Commissiond and Staff Officers of our Line, who were Assembled for that purpose — after Communicating to them the doings of the Assembly and delivering the resolution for each Company, we desired them to express their minds with Freedom upon the Subject, and if they had any objections to them to mention them freely.

We found the Officers, many of them and ye Soldiers all exceedingly uneasy and determined to quit the Service, as being unable any longer to Support themselves therein much less their Families who they said were suffering that they had neglected their usual means of providing a support for them, Spent their Fortunes to support themselves, in Charracter, in the Service, while the pay they recd from ye continent was by the depreciation of ye Currency reduced to nothing — that they had not been supplied with Cloaths or small stores according to encouragement and promises — that they had suffered great inconvenience and hardships on that account — that their Families at home had not been punctually supplied according to Stipulation — that they the Officers had been greatly disappointed in not receiving the Suit of Cloaths promised them in some instances not at all, in others not without great delay, frequent applications and long & expensive attendance on the Council House or Board of war till their Expences amounted to almost ye Value of the suit — that from some departments in Government they conceived they had not always met with that kind treatment and language they thought their sufferings in the service of y^e^ public and their Character as Gentlemen entituled them to — that y^e^ Cloaths supplied the Officers in many instances were scarcely worth making up and vastly inferior to those supplied the Officers of the other states — that when one of them had long been waiting for promised Cloathing at great Expence and petitiond that his Expences might be allowed him, tho voted by the House was nonconcurrd by the Board and he finally obliged to lose it himself — that the very inadequate supply of small Stores which had been forwarded them — had not been properly distributed — That altho Several Regts have been Supplied with the suits of Cloaths for y^e^ Officers with out Money, others had been refused them notwithstanding they offered the money and had it ready — that they cannot get any trifle convey'd to their Families by our Teams who carry Supplies to the Army without giving the most extravagant price — for instance Col. Bailey was required to give a Hundred Dollars ℔ Bb^l^ to one of our Teams for carrying back in an empty Team a few Barrels of Flour to his suffering Family. That the soldiers complain that those of them who were supplied with guns by y^e^ State or Continent and had 4£. 10/. stop'd out of their Bounty are not allowed to own the arms, which they think they ought as y^e^ price was Stopt out of their Bounty — that this is a great cause of complaint — They complaind greatly that no more pains are taken to take up & secure deserters that there are vast numbers Secreted in y^e^ state 40 in the County of Berkshire and many in y^e^ County of Hampshire — that the inhabitants hire them to work knowing them to be deserters because they can hire them Cheaper than others and therefore refuse to return them to the Army — that several deserters who had been taken up in y^e^ County of Berkshire had been rescued out of Officers Hands. That they had for their fatigues and hardships hitherto been rewarded with promisses only, to be fulfilld at the close of y^e^ war — and the great failure in Cloathing small Stores and gratuities promised had exceedingly discouraged the soldiery and induced them to believe that government never intended to make them good — especially as they had been told that government were exceeding jealous of the unfriendly designs of the Army respecting y^e^ Civil rights of y^e^ Country a thing as abhorrent to them as to their brethren at Home That they profess to entertain the Sincerest attatchment to civil government and wish to contribute all in their power to Support it and are exceedingly mortified at y^e^ idea of not being considered as Citizens, their right to which, they mean not to relinquish but wish to return to y^e^ enjoyment of —

That great uneasiness prevailed on acco^t^ of the small Stores being delivered with no greater regularity and proper acco^ts^ kept and receipts taken to whom delivered lest they should be charged with the whole stores forwarded to camp, which they think very unjust unless it can be made to appear they rec^d^ them — the Captains and Subalterns thought it exceeding hard that when the Field Officers were supplied with six shirts each they were provided with only two — and were mortified at the great difference in the Quality of of their Cloathing

These grievances or Complaints were mentiond by the Officers as being either their own complaints or those of the soldiers who they apprehended would not be induced to engage again — They said they had taken great pains to encourage them & to Assure them that government would do them Justice — but the disappointments had been so frequent that they would now disbelieve what they should Offer them. These things they ment^d^ with Freedom but with decency and great defference to the Assembly — They appear'd to speak feelingly & sensibly but with candor.

We endeavour'd to account for the deficiencies they mentiond, by the exceeding great embarrassments Govt met with in procuring Supplies from abroad — the extraordinary Scarcity of Provisions which had prevaild at home y^e^ last season and the unhappy situation of the Currency — and not from a want of attention to their merit, sufferings & necessities or of a desire most amply to relieve supply and reward them

That the Assembly entertaind a high sence of their merits and were anxious to do them ample Justice and reward them according to their Merit — And Assured them in the strongest Terms that they might depend ample Justice would be done them.

We met them repeatedly both those at West point — and those of Nixons & Glovers Brigades at Croton River — and after they had heard many embarrassments of Government we mentiond which they before were ignorant of, they thought it accounted for many things they before thought injurious — when we Assured them the Legislature considered them as Fellow Citizens and entertaind no Jealousy of their disposition of Counteracting or undermining Civil Government it appeard to give them no small Satisfaction.— When we assured them that their wages would be made good — that Cloathing and Stores would be forwarded with all possible expedition, and as fast as it could possibly be procured, and every attention paid to their wants — and any real grievance they Complaind of would be attended to & removed — And that the Court were so determind to do ample Justice to all that they had resolved to give the same Bounty of Three Hundred Dollars to those who had alreadv inlisted as well as to those who should inlist during the war — it appeard at last to give them great satisfaction, and professed their determination to exert their utmost abilities to give the same satisfaction to the soldiery and to reinlist them — in which we have no doubt from the good sense they discoverd themselves possessd of — their integrity & zeal in the Cause of their Country, which was very apparent their hearty desire to promote the honor & service of this state in particular — and their most inviolable attatchment to and respect for their Great Commander Gen^l^ Washington that they will do all in their power to answer the wishes of Government. His Excellency Gen^l^ Washington assured us he should do all in his Power to encourage and promote the same — as also Gen^l^ Heath and the other Gen^l^. Officers of our Line who appear to be exceeding anxious to engage the old troops during the war — And we are exceeding happy to find other Gen^l^ Officers not of our particular Line speak of the resolution of our state with great respect & approbation & are endeavouring to inculcate the same sentiments in our Line. particularly the Hon. major Gen^l Howe of North Carolina who Commands a division at Croton River consisting of two Brigades of this States Troops was pleased to express to us a very great respect for the State of Massachusetts Bay a high opinion of the Bravery & good disposition of their troops and of the valour abilities and politeness of their Officers and his great Satisfaction in having y^e Honor to Command a Division of them and we were no less pleased to find our Officers exceeding happy under his Command He treated us and through us the State with every mark of civility & respect — And told us He should think himself exceeding Happy in having an opportunity to serve the state and should pay an immediate & very particular attention to their resolve and use his utmost endeavour to have it carried into execution in those Brigades. And we are happy in being able to report that the above mentiond encouragements and the considerable number who inlisted before we left Camp induces us to believe the desires of the Honorable Court will meet with considerable success. But as it was the universal Opinion of all the General Field & other Officers so it is ours, that the greater part will not enlist, untill the proposed Settlement is adjusted they fearing lest it should not amount to ample Justice — in the doing which we trust they will be convinced and induced also to reinlist — That the forwarding a Supply of Cloathing especially Shoes Stockings Shirts Hatts & Blanketts and also a good Quantity of small Stores among which at this Time some good spirit would not be a useless article would not only greatly encourage the reinlisting but are absolutely necessary to be done immediately — As near half are now barefooted — and a great proportion entirely destitute of Hatts Stockings or Blankets so indispensibly necessary especially at this season & in that rugged Country.

We also beg leave to report that, it appears to be the expectation and wish of the Army that Some provision of half pay or other provision might be made for the widows or orphans of those who may die in the service — we promised to mention this to court and are of Opinion that an attention to it immediately would greatly encourage the Army.

And as the money we carried which we left in the Care of Hon. Maj^r Gen^l Heath we are told is expended it will be necessary immediately to forward more for the purpose of reinlisting.— And that the paying the Bounties speedily to those who had inlisted would have a very happy effect as it is the Opinion of the Officers it would do as much towards inducing others to inlist as paying the Bounties to them — as those who have inlisted will be engaged to procure others, and by being possessd of Money would be able to have great influence on many of them. And if these measures are taken and an equitable Settlement takes place we doubt not most of the old Troops will be reingaged:

The Officers of the Army in our Line proceeded to Choose a Committee to meet a Committee of y^e Court to adjust the Settlement as proposed and have chosen Col. Popkin Major Hull Major Fernald Cap^t Walker and Capt. Howard—and Col. Henry Jacksons Regiment who are not Brigaded propose to choose one more and have agreed to meet the Committee of Court by the 15th of this month at Boston unless y^e Circumstances of y^e Army should forbid their leaving it, in which case they will write. And we hope the Honorable Court will excuse us in Saying we found it necessary to give Some encouragement that the expence of the Committee from the Army would be considered & provided for by the Public, As we found it attended with difficulty in agreeing as to the place without The expence of the Journey being urged together with their leaving the Army, as an objection to their meeting at Boston.

One circumstance more we beg leave to mention that there are many Soldiers who belong to other states inlisted during the war and some for three years only who have been considered as part of this States Quota — the Officers wish to know if Court mean to extend the Bounty to them in Case of their reinlisting.

The foregoing report is Humbly submitted

This report was read on the day of its date, and immediately referred to a committee, consisting of Gen. Titcomb, Mr. Gorham of Charlestown, and Mr. Tudor, of the House, and Messrs. Josiah Stone and Aaron Wood, of the Council, who were directed "to consider the same, and report what may be proper to be done thereon." This committee, which was enjoined "to sit forthwith," made a partial report the following day, in the form of resolves; one, ordering $500,000 to be immediately forwarded to General Heath, to carry on the work of recruiting according to his discretion; and another, for defraying the expenses of the committee chosen by the army to coöperate, at Boston, with the committee to be appointed by the General Court to settle the accounts of the Massachusetts officers and soldiers. By the adoption of these resolves,* which immediately followed, the General Court fulfilled the quasi engagement of the visiting committee, as narrated in their report.

The above-named committee to settle accounts was chosen, by ballot, November 17th, and consisted of Messrs. Austin, Freeman, Baldwin, Osgood and Gorham of Lunenburg, as first chosen; but Messrs. Gorham and Freeman having resigned, and it having been resolved to add two members to the committee, Messrs. Jonathan Greenleaf, Samuel Phillips, Peter Boyer and John Deming were chosen, on the nineteenth.

By one of the resolves † passed November 25th, the committee appointed to meet a committee from the army, for the purpose of adjusting and settling the accounts of the officers and soldiers, were directed in their computation of balances due, to take into account all advances made by Congress, over and above the established pay and subsistence, and all gratuities and advances made by the state, either in money, clothing or stores; likewise to deduct the value of supplies furnished to the families of soldiers by the several towns in obedience to any order of the General Court; but they were not to make account of bounties given to encourage enlistment, either by Congress, the General Court, or any town or individual. On the 7th of January, however, the following resolve* repealing this resolve of November 25th, was passed: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives Jany 6th 1780

Whereas, it is Just & Reasonable that all advances which have been made to that part of the army raised in this State, in Consequence of the high prices of the Necessaryes of Life, Should be taken into the Account, when their Wages are made good. — Therefore Resolved That the Committee who have been Appointed to Settle the Accounts of the Army be & they hereby Are directed to Reckon to the Account of Any Non commission officer or private Soldier any Bounties they have or may have received from any Town or Individual person in this State provided a proper Return of the same is made agreeable to the orders of this Court The Resolve of November 25th 1779 to the Contrary Notwithstanding

The passage of this last resolve was promptly followed by a remonstrance from the committee of the army appointed to settle accounts in conjunction with the state committee, in which they declared, that "it was with peculiar satisfaction they found this Court had so far coincided with the prevailing sentiments of the officers and soldiers of the army, as to relinquish the idea of deducting * * * those sums which were considered by the contracting parties as a free gift to induce them to enter into the public service, upon the faith of the monopoly act." They then proceeded to argue against "the impolicy, not to say injustice," of the resolve just passed, and referred to the terms of their enlistment, by which, they claimed, they were entitled (under the monopoly act in force at the time of their enlistment, and which contained no provision for its repeal) to wages equivalent to certain quantities of commodities, and that the bounties then given could not have been bestowed in consideration of actual or prospective depreciation of the currency. They further represented the hardship the resolve would bring to the widows and orphans of those who had died in the service, before their accrued wages had equalled the amount of bounties received by them; in which case, they added, "the unhappy sufferers must be still further distressed by being obliged to repay those very sums which were given as an inducement to their husbands and parents to risk their lives in the service of their country." They therefore prayed for a reconsideration of the resolve, and, at the same time, declared that they had been instructed by their constitutents to use their influence with the General Court, to the end that the situation of these unfortunates "may be particularly attended to, and some compensation made them, in consequence of their misfortune;" and they therefore embraced this opportunity to urge a request which they conceived "to be warranted by every principle of humanity and gratitude."

No immediate action appears to have been taken on this remonstrance; but four days later, the following resolve† was passed, establishing a schedule of rates of depreciation of the currency, from the date of the first enlistment, to the first of January, 1780: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives January 11th 1780

Therefore Resolved that the Committee of this Court who have been appointed to Settle and Adjust the Ballance due to each Officer & Soldier of this States Quota aforesaid respectively, Be and they are hereby directed to take for their rule (in Assertaining the Value or depreciation of the Current money at the Several periods of the payments which have been made them and of the Ballance due to them respectively on the first day of this present January in Current Mony,) the Calculation Contain,d in the right hand Collumn of the following Schedule; which determines how many pounds and hundredth parts of a pound Current money at the several periods mentioned in Said Schedule, were eaquil in value to each twenty Shillings promised to Such Officer or Soldier as aforesaid: — It being calculated upon an average of the rates of depreciation as computed by the prices of Beef Indian Corn Sheeps wool & Soal Leather they being the Articles agreed upon by this Court and the Committee of the Army to make the said Calculation upon.

Simultaneously with the introduction of the foregoing resolve, in the House, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the Council. The original bill has not been found, and therefore the object of a conference upon it, proposed and held on the 12th, has not been ascertained. On the 13th, the House proposed an amendment, "to make the bottom of the note of the treasurer, to correspond with the title of the act," and upon a message to the Council, for that purpose, Samuel Adams was sent down with a message, from the Council, agreeing thereto, and proposing to strike out the word "last," after "February," in the title, and to insert "one thousand seven hundred and seventy-nine." The bill was still further amended, upon a message from the House, proposing to substitute words, and the prefix A. D., for the figures "1779," to which the Council agreed; and, thereupon, the bill was passed to be enacted.

Immediately upon the passage of the bill, the following proceedings * took place: —

Resolved, That the President of the Council be & hereby is requested to sign a fair Copy of the following Letter & transmit the same with Copies of the Papers therein referrd to, to the President of the Honble Congress inclosed in the Letter to the Delegates open, in their Letter — In Council Read & Concurred

* Printed resolves of the December session, chapter CXXIII. The rough draught, of the letter to the president of Congress, and the original resolve are in the state archives, vol. 202, p. 24. The resolve followed the letter which was referred to, as "foregoing" both in the original and the printed resolve.

Letter to the Honble President of the Congress —

Boston Jany. 13th 1780.

Sir, The General Assembly of Massachusetts Bay, in compliance with the requisitions of the Honorable Congress to raise the quota of troops assigned to them in such way as should appear most conducive to the public interest, have pursued such measures as they thought most consistent with the ideas of Congress, and as they have found necessary to effect this important purpose. When this State first raised their quota of Men for the Continental Army, such was the appearance of a great depreciation of our Currency, & such the discouragements consequent upon it, that in order to effect a speedy inlistment of our quota of the Army we were obliged by a principle of Justice to engage to the Officers and Soldiers that the prices of all articles, as regulated by an Act to prevent Monopoly and Oppression, should be adhered to as the Standard of the value of their pay. In pursuance of this engagement, this State finding that regulation of prices could not be supported, passed the Resolve of February 6th last, herewith inclosed in order that our Soldiers might be assured that there should be no failure of a just settlement and payments at the end of the War, agreeable to the true value of their first engagement. Upon the late requisition of your Honble Body to reinlist the fifteen Battalions assigned to this State as their quota, we found it further necessary to settle and pay the ballances due to them at the rate of depreciation, up to the first day of January current, without which there was no prospect of success in reinlisting the Army. This rate of depreciation has been agreed upon by a Committee of the Army appointed for that purpose, and has been adopted by the General Assembly of this State, and an Act has passed to carry the same into execution, and pay the ballances due to the respective Soldiers, which schedule of depreciation and the said Act respecting the same we send inclosed. We trust this measure is agreeable to the ideas of Congress in their recommendation of Augst 17th last — and we have the rather adopted it, as we conceive it to be the best rule of Justice & compensation between all parties. In order to carry this proposed settlement into execution, we are obliged to apply to your Honble Body for information of all supplies and provisions of any kind, which they have made, and articles of every kind which they intend to be charged to the Officers & Soldiers of the Army, upon their pay being made good to them, according to the rate of depreciation.— We wish to be informed among other things, whether the half pay for Seven Years after the War granted to the Officers, as also the increased subsistance money, the Cloathing furnished the Officers by the Clothier-General at a reduced price, and the increased pay of the Officers, are of this kind, We apprehend the General Service will be greatly promoted by receiving all necessary informations on the above subjects as soon as may be, as no settlement can take place without it.—

In the House of Representatives Resolved, that the President of the Council be and he is hereby requested to sign a fair Copy of the following Letter and transmit the same together with the Letter to the President of Congress unsealed, to the Delegates of this State at Congress — In Council Read and Concurred

Letter to the Delegates representing this State in Congress —

Gentlemen,

Herewith you have an Address to the Honorable Congress, respecting the measures we have taken to settle with and reinlist the quota of the Continental Army raised by this State. As this is a Matter of very great and pressing importance to us, you will therefore give a close attention to it, and use your endeavours that we have speedy, explicit and satisfactory answers to the same. It is the expectation of this State that all those expences (being in their nature only a fulfilment of the original engagement of Congress to their Army, to pay them a certain sum as Wages) will be charged by Congress to the Debt of the United States, and to the credit of this State.— We therefore desire you will inform us whether this matter has been settled or considered, and what your apprehensions of this matter are, as soon as may be."— Council Records, vol. XL., p. 258.

While this progress was making in the work of recruiting, and providing the necessary money therefor, a committee on clothing for the army, had reported resolves, from time to time; and, on the first of December, a letter from General Glover, dated at Peekskill, Nov 25, 1779, was read, in the House, and referred to this Committee, in which he represented that many of the men in his brigade were destitute of shoes, stockings, &c., and "that no provision more than the first establishment, had been made for the general officers belonging to this state." Upon the report of this committee, resolves* were passed, December 3d, directing the Board of War, with all possible despatch, to cause to be packed, in suitable casks, all the blankets, shoes, stockings and shirts which they had received from the towns, and immediately to deliver them to the committee appointed to purchase stores for the army; who, in turn, were to forward the same, together with other clothing, to Mr. Samuel Ruggles, "state clothier," in the army, to be by him delivered to the Massachusetts troops, according to the direction of the commander-in-chief, or, failing such direction, according to his own judgment, so as best to promote the comfort of the soldiers.

Another of these resolves directed the Board of War to supply each major-general and brigadier-general, of the Massachusetts quota, upon application, with a suit of clothes suitable to the officer's rank; also six shirts and stocks, six pairs of stockings, three pairs of shoes, one pair of boots, and a hat; to be charged to them, respectively.

A third resolve directed the committee appointed to adjust soldiers accounts, to settle and adjust, in like manner as with the accounts of the privates, the accounts of such general officers, belonging to the state quota, as should apply therefor; and directed the treasurer to pay the balances found due on such settlement, in the same manner in which he had been directed to pay other officers in the army.

* Printed resolves of the November session, chapter CXXV.

A copy of these resolves was ordered to be sent to each of the general officers of this state, in the army

The resolve of November 25th, above referred to, had required any collector or constable to exchange current money in his hands, belonging to the state, for any of the notes or securities given to the soldiers, in payment under that resolve; (which were to be taken by the treasurer, as taxes, for their value, and interest thereon computed to the time of exchange); but it having been found that by the operation of this resolve the whole of the money to be raised by the two preceding tax acts, would be taken up, and that the treasurer would thus be prevented from paying over the state's proportion of the Continental tax, this part of the resolve was repealed * on the 6th of December.

On the 20th of December, a resolve † was passed directing the committee on accounts to make up a roll of the sums found due to each town and plantation in the state, under the resolves of June 8th, and October 8th, including compensation of selectmen and committees, for their services, in order that the same might be paid agreeably to directions in the last tax act.

The committee for settling the soldiers' accounts having, on the 3d of December, submitted to the General Court five questions as to the course they should pursue in the cases therein stated, the subject was considered at various times during the ensuing six weeks, and finally the following resolve ‡ was perfected (after sundry amendments and one conference) and passed, on the fourteenth of January: —

"In the House of Representatives —

Resolved, That the following additional instructions be given to the Committee appointed to settle with the Army viz^t That no Officer is to be made good in more than one capacity, and that those Officers & Soldiers who shall appear to be Inhabitants of this State agreeable to the method prescribed by the Resolution of Congress of the fifteenth of March last ascertaining the State to which certain Officers and Soldiers belong who are in Hazens and Sherburnes Regiments are to be included in the Settlement and Reckoned as part of this States quota of the Continental Army; All the small Stores and Cloathing which have been supplied the Army by this State, to be taken into the Account for the settlement with the Army in such manner as the Committee shall think just and equitable upon examining the Commissaries Accounts; the gratuity money raised by Lottery and the monies advanced to the Officers shall be charged to the respective Accounts of the Officers & soldiers on the day they received it, in case it can be ascertained, if not on the day their several warrants on the Treasurer were dated; & in case any doubts and difficulties should arise in the minds of the Committee relative to the beforementioned settlement:

Resolved, That in such case they are hereby Directed to apply to the Hon^ble Council who are hereby impowered and requested to give them such further Instructions as they may think necessary — In Council Read and Concurred Consented to by fifteen of the Council." — Ibid., p. 264.

During the ensuing recess of the General Court, the two committees who were engaged in settling the accounts of the army, found themselves unable to agree on the rule of allowance for depreciation of the currency. The committee from the army, according to their construction of the engagement of the General Court, in the resolves of Feb. 6, 1779, claimed full allowance for all depreciation, whatever; including the fall of the currency between the time of service for which they were paid, and the date of actual payment; while the state committee, feeling bound by the direction of the General Court in the above resolve of Jan. 14th, declined to accede to this claim. Accordingly, the former committee made a formal written application to the latter, alleging that they could not understand their action in this matter, unless some resolve, unknown to them, had been passed by the Assembly, for a part settlement of the soldiers' accounts (which their constituents had given them no authority to agree to), and asking for specific information as to the final determination of the General Court, on this point, in order that they might be able, as soon as possible, to give their "constituents the necessary information, that they may no longer labor under the mistake of having their pay made good by this state, when no such thing is intended."

This letter, which was dated January 29th, was, by order of the state committee, immediately communicated to the Council, for further advice; whereupon the Council passed the following order: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay Council Chamber Boston Jan^y 29 1780

Order^d That the Committee appointed to settle with the Army be and hereby are informed That Their Letter, and the Letter to Them from the Committee of the army have been considered by This Board, and as The same Letters relate only to the Question we have already with mature Deliberation advised you upon, can only add That sould the Gentlemen on the Part of the Army, cause a Delay of Settlement upon the Generous Plan laid by the General Assembly They alone must hazzard the Consequences, and the world will Judge of the Rectitude of the General Assembly of the State of Massachusetts Bay, in Their Endivours to do Justice to Their Quota of the Continental Army —

Attest JOHN AVERY D Sec^y." — Mass. Archives, vol. 176, p. 133.

On the 22d of February, the state committee reported to the Council that they, and the committee from the army, had "mutually" agreed to all articles necessary to complete a settlement with the non-commissioned officers and privates, except in relation to the above dispute concerning depreciation, and the further question of deducting town bounties; and that the committee from the army refused to join in the settlement unless these two points were "considered in their favor." The committee, therefore, while expressing their "dissent from" the army committee, "on this subject," prayed for advice and direction "as to our further proceeding in the settlement."

* Printed resolves of the November session, chapter CXLIV.

The Council immediately passed an order recommending the state committee to proceed with the settlement "agreeable to the resolutions of the General Court, and the advice given by this Board January 29th, last, upon the subject matter of this representation."

In the mean time the Continental Congress had passed the following resolve (in reply to the questions propounded, by order of the General Court, in the letter of January 13th, from the president of the Council, to the president of Congress) settling all disputes as to the deduction of all public bounties except such as had been granted by towns: —

"Congress took into consideration the report of the committee on the letter of January 13th from the president of the council of Massachusetts-Bay; whereupon Resolved, That the president of the council of Massachusetts-Bay be informed, in answer to his letter of the 13th of January last, that all grants and allowances, of what name or nature soever, made by Congress to the officers and soldiers of the continental army, in addition to their pay, rations or bounties, since the first day of January, 1777, (except for extra services or expences in special cases) were made in consideration of the enhanced prices of the necessaries of life, in consequence of the depreciation of the paper currency, and ought to be accordingly considered in making good the original contract." — Journals of Congress: Feb. 29, 1780.

Soon after the beginning of the next session of the General Court, the committee from the army presented a memorial, in which they referred to their remonstrance of January 8th, and renewed the complaints therein made concerning the two matters of grievance which had been finally passed upon by the Council. In this memorial, in addition to their former arguments, which they amplified ingeniously and forcibly, they urged that, as several reënlistments had been made, at the time of the repeal of the resolve of November 25th, upon the strength of the assurance therein given, good faith required that the resolve which repealed it should be reconsidered.

This memorial was read, March 15th, and referred to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Wales, Choate and Baldwin, of the House, and White and Cutts, of the Council; and, on the same day, a resolve * was passed, reciting, in the preamble, that several officers of the army were obliged to return to camp immediately, and it was not in the power of the committee appointed to settle with the army, to ascertain the precise balance of their accounts, at present, and directing the committee to certify to the Council, for all officers who should apply therefor, one-half, approximately, of the balance due to them on account of depreciation of their wages; which they further ordered to be paid, in two notes, upon warrants drawn upon the treasurer, as in other cases. On the 23d, another resolve † was passed, making the certificate of the committee evidence as to the holder's membership of this state's quota in the army, as well as of the particular company, regiment or corps, to which he belonged, and of the term for which he enlisted.

By the 24th, the joint committee, to whom, on the 15th, had been referred the petition of the committee of the army, made their report, submitting certain resolves, which, with the action of the Assembly thereon, were as follows: —

wages in settling with the privates, in the corps of artificers, who had enlisted for three years or during the war; and to deduct extra pay: and further directing them not to grant certificates, for balances, to discharged or supernumerary officers, until those in actual service, and applying therefor, had received theirs

Still another resolve * was passed, on the third, directing the treasurer to issue his notes for one-half the balance found due to officers dismissed from the service, in the same manner in which he had been already authorized to proceed with regard to officers remaining on duty.

On the fifth of May, the following resolve, † extending the provision of section seven of the act, and requiring the services of the selectmen, was passed:—

"In the House of Representatives May 5th 1780

In the first session of the next Assembly, in order to prevent further delay in settling with the troops, the treasurer was empowered, by resolve,‡ to employ an additional force in striking off notes. On the 19th of June, another resolve § was passed, directing the committee on soldiers' accounts, to complete the settlement of the depreciation of the wages of officers, in the service, applying for a settlement, and to certify to the Council the balance found: provided, they could procure accounts of clothing to Jan. 1, 1780; leaving after-supplies to be settled later.

On the 22d, the last-mentioned resolve was explained by another resolve, ‖ which provided that all advance for clothing to officers should be charged, and deducted in the next settlement; but the committee, in the present settlement, were to deduct each officer's proportion of small stores, "and any moieties or gratuities they have received, in money or notes, from this state." By a resolve ¶ of the 12th, John Deming, Peter Boyer and Stephen Gorham, were added to the committee for settling with the army; and, by another resolve, on the 23d, they, or either of them, were directed to continue with the state committee, "when the business of their other appointment will admit, until the further order of the General Court."

The legislative proceedings thus far considered, relating to the wages, bounties, and accounts of soldiers, affected only the rank and file of the regular line, and of the artillery and cavalry; but did not embrace the members of the staff attached to the army.

On the 20th of September, a petition, signed by Richard Gridley and Scarboro' Gridley, engineer and assistant engineer, respectively, John Rice, town-major of Boston, Nathaniel Barber, jun., commissary of military stores, and Andrew Brown, deputy muster-master of the eastern department, representing that their pay and subsistence had never been augmented, notwithstanding the depreciation of the currency, and that during their time of service they had never transacted any other business of profit; and praying for the same gratuities and moieties as had been given or promised to officers in the line upon the same establishment, or that other adequate provision might be made for them — was read in the House, and referred to a committee which seems never to have reported.

On the 20th of November, Congress resolved that the director-general, and his deputies and assistant deputies, the physicians and surgeons-general of the hospitals and army, senior and junior surgeons, the apothecaries-general, and their assistants, the hospital-chaplains, regimental surgeons and mates, mates of the military hospitals, commissaries and assistant commissaries, paymasters, and stewards of the hospital, who should have been in the service for one year, and should still be in the service, should be entitled, annually, to draw clothing from the clothier-general's stores, "in the same manner, and under the same regulations," as had been provided by the resolve of Nov. 26, 1777, for officers of the line. By another resolve, passed at the same time, these staff officers were declared entitled to subsistence, in like manner, to that granted by the resolve of August 18th, to officers of the line; and in the proportions stated in a table incorporated in the resolve, in which the monthly payments (which were to begin the 18th of the previous August) ranged from five hundred, to one hundred, dollars, according to rank. A third resolve of this series granted to all mates necessarily employed in the military hospital, or army, the same subsistence that regimental mates received.

The subject of granting to the staff the same benefits that the line had received, was again brought to the attention of the Legislature, in the memorial of Thomas Chase, deputy quartermaster-general, in which he declared that the staff in his department, and under his direction, had always been excluded from every benefit of drawing clothing from the public stores, and had never been considered in the gratuity granted to the officers of the line, "though laboring under every difficulty, and more aggravated by expenses on several accounts — their pay much less, and their subsistence but a tenth part so much; and still, to increase their distress (and which must of necessity oblige them to relinquish the service, and, by so doing leave this department destitute, which must be attended with the worst consequences), the town [of Boston] have, in their late tax, assessed them for both poll and faculty; which from many of them will draw the greater part of their pay." The memorial concluded with a prayer that the officers aforesaid be admitted to the "same advantage as has been granted to those in the line," and that "a law may be passed to indemnify the staff from paying taxes." This memorial was read and committed, December 22d, and on the first of January was "referred to the next session."

By the representation of Chase, in a letter to the Council, dated March 11th, it appears that the House voted to place the staff, in the Massachusetts contingent, upon the same establishment as the line, in respect to the particulars pointed out in his memorial, but that this vote failed through the nonconcurrence of the Council. He, therefore, in this letter, remonstrated against further delay in doing justice to those for whom he interceded, in order, as he professed, to relieve his conscience of "the guilt of concealing facts, the consequence of which if not prevented by some equitable provision, will prove ruinous to the army dependent upon this district." He declared that he had, with difficulty, and after "the most strenuous arguments to convince them that justice" would "finally be done to them," prevailed upon part of the staff under his direction, to continue in service until the result of his application should be made known; and represented their great destitution of food and clothing (with which the line, whose expenses were less than one-third of theirs, were supplied); their sacrifice of ease and comfort, and their relinquishment of "the flattering prospects of emoluments from trade and private business," and the intolerable extremities to which they had been reduced by the "immense depreciation of the currency" and "the enormous burden of the taxes."

On the 13th, this letter was read in the Council, and ordered to be sent down to the House, where it was referred to a committee, to whom, on the 17th, a second memorial from Richard Gridley and others was referred; the committee, at the same time, being enlarged by the addition of two members.

This last-named memorial was dated March 9, 1780, and was presented in the name of those who signed the petition of September 20th, with the further signatures of Isaac Foster, deputy director-general; Ebenezer Hancock, deputy paymaster-general; John Gooch, deputy commissary-general of forage; Isaac Peirce, aid-de-camp of Major General Gates; John Hopkins, deputy commissary-general of prisoners, and Robert Lamb, commissary of hides: all of whom signed for themselves, their assistants, and others in their respective departments.

After referring to the petition of September 20th, and to their inexpressible mortification at the failure of the Council to concur with the resolve of the House passed in compliance therewith, these memorialists declared that nothing but a conviction of the justice of their claims, and the fullest assurance of the candor of the two houses and their intention to distribute equal justice through all branches of the administration, would have induced them to again call the attention of the General Court to "their most intolerable sufferings, and to distresses which it is in the power" of the Legislature only to remove.

Then followed five distinct articles of grievance, in which they recapitulated their former complaints, and insisted that the discrimination in favor of officers of the line was unjust to the staff, who had risked so much, and of whom it was but justice to themselves to observe that, notwithstanding their opportunities and temptations, their poverty, and the distresses of their families, "scarcely an instance can be adduced of fraud or neglect in the staff of this state." The memorialists conclude with a prayer that, as "considering the flagrant injustice of their being made the only sufferers from the depreciation, in the whole army; nay, indeed, they may say, almost in the whole community," they doubted not that the Legislature would "place them on the same footing with the officers of the line, belonging to the state."

On the 27th, no definitive action having been taken on the former memorials, they were reënforced by another, from the medical staff, who had joined in the last memorial, but who wished to state some additional facts, peculiar to their condition, in aid of the efforts of their brethren in other departments. They called attention to the following facts:— First, that when the first blood was shed at Lexington they repaired to the scene of action (some of them relinquishing lucrative private business), to attend the wounded; that, without commission or appointment, they joined the camp at Cambridge, in the performance of duties, the nature and extent of which were well known to the commander-in-chief, and to some members of the General Court who, at that time, had "stepped forth, and distinguished themselves in places of importance." The memorialists further represented that, as the army became better organized, they received commissions, first from the state, and subsequently from Congress,— three of the memorialists acting as surgeons in the general hospital, and one in the state regiment of artillery, until the close of the second campaign, when he also was appointed surgeon in the hospital; second, that they had filled such stations as had been assigned to them in the army, — sharing all the vicissitudes of the camp, from the beginning of the contest, regardless of their private interests; third, that, after what they had expended for a liberal education, and to qualify them for their professional duties, it was "as repugnant to reason and equity," as it was "mortifying and injurious," that they should be rewarded "with less pay than the private soldier;" fourth, that, "by a calculation made at the close of the campaign in 1778, it appeared that as many hospital officers had died of contagious diseases, as were killed officers of the line, in proportion to their numbers;" fifth, that, from hardships peculiar to the medical staff, many of the officers of the middle department were resigning their commissions; but that the memorialists did not wish, by remaining in the service, "to be driven, in poverty, to private life, unrewarded for services" in which their "health and most valuable years had been expended."

The memorial closed with an earnest appeal against the rejection of their requests on the ground that the state would not be reimbursed by Congress, and the query whether it is most consistent with equity that the citizen rendering services for the state should lose his reward, or the loss be endured by the state "in whose defence those services were performed?" — with which appeal, and the declaration that, when they observed "the fortunes amassed by others" while the memorialists had been serving the public, they thought themselves justly entitled to a compensation, and for this compensation, they declared, they depended "solely on the candor of the Legislature of the state who gave us our first appointments, and to whom we belong." The signers of this memorial were Isaac Foster, and the three senior physicians and surgeons, — John Warren, Samuel Adams, junior, and William Eustis.

The committee to whom was referred these petitions and memorials from the officers of the staff, made the following report: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the house of Representatives March 27th 1780

The Committee appointed to consider of the petition of Col Richard Gridley and others Staff Officers in this State, beg leave to Report. That, after Examining the Resolves of Congress and maturely considering the same, are of Opinion that the Officers above mentioned, are not included, as part of this State quota of the Fifteen battalions, raised in this State. And that a Committee be appointed to write to Congress desiring their directions, respecting the subject matter of the petition above mentioned." — Ibid, vol. 226, p. 458.

— which was referred to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Page, Singletary, Fessenden, Reed, and Williams of Roxbury, upon whose report the following resolve * was passed: —

"State of the Massachusetts Bay. In the House of Representatives March 28th 1780 —

Resolved that the following Letter be sign'd by the President of the Council & sent to our Delegates at Congress.

Gentlemen, In consequence of the Donations, Gratuities & Emoluments at various times granted by the General Court to the Officers & Soldiers which constitute this State's Quota of the Continental Army, reiterated applications from the Officers in almost every Department of the Staff have been made for similar favours, but as it was doubtful whether persons serving in the General Staff would be considered as forming part of our Quota & the State be credited accordingly, We have hitherto considered them as not intitled to the benefits which the Officers & Soldiers in the Massachusetts Line derive from the Resolves & Acts of this Government made purposely for their advantage —

You are therefore, Gentlemen, hereby directed by the General Assembly to take the sense of Congress on this subject, & should they think proper to credit this State for the various Officers who belong to it, serving in the different Staff Departments you will obtain an explicit declaratory Resolve for this purpose: should Congress think otherwise, you will then inform the General Court whether Congress mean to make a particular provision for them equivalent to what has been made by this State for the Officers & Soldiers of their fifteen Battallions —

On the 10th of April, Congress passed two resolves; the former, declaring that, when furnished with the proper documents, Congress would make good all losses by depreciation, "to the line of the army, and the independent corps thereof," — putting all troops serving in the army, who had enlisted for three years, or during the war, upon an equal footing: — and the latter, providing for the appointment of a committee of three, to report a proper compensation to the staff of the army, "in consequence of the depreciation of the currency." Two days later, the delegates from Massachusetts laid before Congress the instructions communicated to them in the letter of March 28th, whereupon these instructions were referred to a committee, upon whose report the following resolve was adopted, on the fifteenth: —

"Resolved, That any state which shall furnish the officers of the hospital and medical staff belonging to such state in the service of the United States with such articles of cloath-

The resolves of Congress, of the 10th and 15th of April, were both forwarded to the president of the Council, with the following letter: —

Chap. 30. A committee of the House was appointed September 11th, "to devise ways and means for supplying the treasury." On the 16th, this committee reported that a sum be raised by a tax upon polls and estates, and recommended, as another resource, the sale of the confiscated estates of refugees.

On a division of the question upon the adoption of the recommendation of this committee, and after a debate thereon, from time to time, until the 24th, the question being put on the first proposition, "Whether any sum to be agreed upon, be laid upon the polls and estates of the inhabitants of this state," it passed in the negative, by a vote of twenty-six to sixty-one; and the vote was refused a reconsideration, by a vote of thirty-two to fifty-six. The remainder of the report had been accepted on the 17th, and a committee was then appointed "to bring in a resolve for the purposes therein mentioned." This resolve is more particularly referred to in the note to 1778-79, chapter 48, p. 1055, ante.

Upon the failure of this proposition for a tax, a committee of seven of the leading members was immediately appointed, "to devise some means of supplying the treasury with a sum adequate to the demands of government."

Nothing further in regard to ordering a tax was done this session. Before the Legislature again assembled, the following resolves were passed by Congress: —

"Resolved, That, in addition to the sums required by the resolutions of Congress of the 22d November, 1777, and 2d January and 21st May, 1779, the several states be called on to raise, in such manner as they may judge expedient, sufficient sums to enable them to pay into the continental treasury or to the order of Congress, on the first day of February next, and on the first day of each succeeding month, until the first day of October next, inclusive, their respective proportions of fifteen millions of dollars:

That all sums which may be so paid by any of the states during the continuance of the war, shall be passed to their respective credits, on the terms prescribed by the first article of a resolution of Congress of the 22d of November, 1777:

And that the several states be respectively charged with the annual interest of six per centum on all deficiencies in the payment of the several quotas which have been or may be required of them."—Journals of Congress: Oct. 6, 1779.

"Resolved, That the quotas of the several states to make up the monthly assessment of fifteen millions of dollars, to be paid the first day of February next, and the first day of each succeeding month, to the first day of October next, inclusive, be as follows:

New-Hampshire,	400000 dollars.	Pennsylvania,	2300000 dollars.
Massachusetts Bay	2300 000 do.	Delaware,	170000 do.
Rhode-Island, &c.	200000 do.	Maryland,	1580000 do

New-Jersey,	900000 do.	South-Carolina,	1200000 do. 15000000

Georgia being invaded is hereafter to raise its proportion."—Ibid.: Oct. 7, 1779.

At the opening of the third session, on the tenth of November, the Council, in their message to the House, called attention to these resolves of Congress, in the following words: —

"During the last recess of the General Assembly we received two letters from the honorable the President of Congress, dated the 25th of September and 21st of October last, covering sundry resolves of that honorable Body, respecting the several States paying monthly, for nine months, from the first day of next February, their respective proportionable part of Fifteen millions of dollars."—House Journal, p. 2.

The committee to whom the message was referred, reported, on the 11th, "That it is expedient to tax the polls and estates of the good people of this state, a sum equal to the last tax; to be paid into the treasury of this state, one-half by the first of February, next, and the other half by the first of April, following." On the 16th, "agreeably to the order of the day," the report of this committee was considered, and, after debate, the suggestion of the committee was adopted, and "by a majority of forty-two members out of sixty-five," it was voted to apportion and assess a tax of £2,800,000 to be paid in according to the recommendation of the committee; and Messrs. Ward, Pope, Cushing, Gorham of Lunenburg, and Dunbar, were appointed to bring in a bill for that purpose. The House, at the same time, refused to appoint a committee to revise the last valuation, and report what alterations were proper to be made; and, by a vote of twenty-seven to thirty-five, rejected a motion to instruct the committee on the tax bill, to insert a clause providing for the reimbursement of towns which should thereafter appear to be overtaxed. Still another motion, for the appointment of a committee "to devise some new method whereby a true valuation may be obtained," was voted down.

On the 17th, the House voted that the pay of its members, "for the two last sessions, be inserted in the tax bill."

On the 18th, a committee was appointed "to revise the several resolves laying penalties on towns for neglecting to raise men, and report what is proper to be done;" and on the 19th, the subject of inserting in the tax bill "the sums due to the several towns for supplying soldiers' families" (upon which the committee on the tax bill had asked the House for direction), was referred to this committee. On the same day, the report of this committee was read, and the afternoon was assigned for its consideration. Another committee was now appointed "to consider what is proper to be done in respect to fining towns wherein some companies have raised the men required, and others have not."

The report of the committee to examine the resolves was taken up according to appointment, and adopted; and the following resolve * was thereupon passed: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives Novr 19. 1779

Whereas in & by a Resolve of this State passed the eighth † day of June in the present year for raising two thousand men for reinforcing the Continental Army, it is ordered that each Town & Plantation should severally incur such Penalty for the use of this State as the General Court should thereafter determine for every man they should be deficient in their respective quotas, agreeable to the requirements of the said Resolve. On the 27th, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, and recommitted; and the committee, upon which, on the 23d, Major Osgood had been appointed, was further enlarged by the addition of Capt. Williams of Salem, and Capt. Curtis. On the 30th, the bill was read a second time, and recommitted, with instructions to report again in the afternoon. On the next day, the committee reported, and the afternoon was assigned for further consideration of the bill; and all the members were ordered to give attendance "until the same be completed." The poll-tax was now fixed at ten pounds, by a vote of fifty to twenty-nine. The debate on the bill continued through the next two days, when the bill was read a third time, passed to be engrossed, and sent up to the Council for concurrence. In the Council, on the third of December, it was read a first time; and on the 4th, it was read a second time, and passed to be engrossed, in concurrence. On the 6th, a message came up from the House, proposing the insertion, at the end of the first section, of the words, "the following sums set against them, respectively;" which was agreed to by the Council. The words "that is to say," which follow the words thus inserted, seem to have been put in by the engrossing clerk, without special authority. On the 7th, the bill was passed to be enacted, in both branches, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

By the following resolve,‡ this act was ordered to be printed and distributed: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay in the House of Representatives December 3d 1779

The resolves referred to in the table of apportionments, over the four columns which appear for the first time in this bill, were passed for the raising of soldiers for the defence of the frontiers, and for reënforcing the Massachusetts contingent in the Continental Army.

The resolve of June 12, 1778, § provided for calling out 1,800 men, to repel invasions "from the northward" and from Rhode Island. They were enlisted to serve until Jan. 1, 1779, unless sooner discharged. For this purpose, the brigadiers or commanding officers in the following counties, were to detach men from their respective brigades, as follows: Suffolk, 205; Essex, 260; Middlesex, 218; Worcester, 257; Hampshire, 199; Berkshire, 102; Plymouth, 153; Bristol, 134; Barnstable, 78; York, 90; Cumberland, excepting Falmouth, 58; and Lincoln, 51; — a total of 1,805 men, who were to be formed in companies of 68 men each, "as near as may be," exclusive of commissioned officers. All males above sixteen years of age, excepting members of the Council, officers of Harvard College, ministers of the gospel, grammar-school masters, Quakers, Indians, negroes and mulattoes, were declared liable to this service. Such men as had already actually marched from Hampshire and Berkshire, to reënforce the northern army, were to be taken as part of the quota of those counties under this resolve.

Of the men thus raised, those from Suffolk, Essex, Middlesex, Worcester, York, Cumberland and Lincoln, together with 100 men from the southern part of Hampshire County, and 130 men from Plymouth County, were to be immediately marched to Providence, to fill up the Massachusetts battalions under Wade and Jacobs. The remainder of the men raised in Hampshire and Berkshire, were to immediately join General Stark at Albany "or elsewhere, as he shall order." The men from Barnstable were to be detailed as a coast-guard, in that county, by their brigadier, but were subject to be called into service, in any part of the New-England states that the General Court, or the officer commanding at Providence, should appoint. One Company from Bristol was to proceed to Dartmouth, to serve under the officer in command of the militia there, until further orders from Providence; while the remainder of the Bristol and Plymouth men were to act as a coast-guard (the latter to be stationed at Rochester and Wareham), until ordered to duty elsewhere. The resolves promised that the Assembly would continue its inquiries respecting inequalities in the proportion of men enlisted from the several towns "until they shall be able to have the most ample justice done therein;" and declared that those towns which had sent into service, for the term of three years, one seventh part of their male population over sixteen years of age, had just cause of complaint against towns which had contributed a smaller proportion.

The resolves of June 8, 1779, * were passed to carry out the pledge or, rather, the recommendation, of the convention held at Springfield, July 30, 1777, † to raise and equip a number of men "to guard the shores round Rhode Island," "so long as the enemy kept in force there."

The attention of the Legislature was directed to this duty by the following resolve of Congress, passed upon the application of Governor Greene of Rhode Island, in his letter dated the 26th of April: —

"Resolved, That it be and it is hereby earnestly recommended to the states of New-Hampshire, Massachusetts-Bay, and Connecticut, to furnish and keep up constantly in the state of Rhode-Island and Providence Plantations, their several quotas of troops as adjusted by the resolution of a committee from the said states and the state of New-York, which met at Springfield in the state of Massachusetts Bay the 30th day of July, 1777." — Journals of Congress: May 7, 1779.

This resolve of Congress was referred to a joint committee of the Legislature who reported, in Council, that another regiment be raised in this state, to do duty in the state of Rhode Island and Providence Plantations, to complete the quota assigned to this state by the committee assembled at Springfield on the 30th of July, 1777. This report was read May 28th, and ordered to lie. The subject next came up in the resolves of June 8th, by which 800 men, including non-commissioned officers, in addition to those ordered to be raised to reënforce Colonel Jacobs's command, were to be enlisted to serve until Jan. 1, 1780, unless sooner discharged. They were to be detached by the brigadiers or commanding officers in the same manner as directed in the resolve of June 12, 1778, and the same classes of persons were made liable to service, with the addition of members of the Council, who were not exempted as in the former resolve. The men were to be formed into eight companies, which were to constitute a regiment, the field officers of which were to be appointed from the militia, by the major part of the Council. The number of men in the company from Suffolk, was 95; from Essex, 119; from Middlesex, 100; from Worcester, 124; from Hampshire, 102; from Plymouth, 74; from Barnstable, 38; (who with the 69 men from Bristol were united in one company); from York 45, — who were united in one company with the 34 men from Cumberland. The regiment was ordered to march, immediately, to Providence, and there, to be under the Continental officer in command of that department.

The resolves of June 9, 1779, ‡ were passed for filling up the fifteen battalions of the Massachusetts contingent in the Continental Army agreeably to the following resolves of Congress: —

"Resolved, That the infantry of these United States for the next campaign be composed of eighty battalions, viz.

3 of New-Hampshire,	11 of Pennsylvania,
15 of Massachusetts-Bay,	1 of Delaware,
2 of Rhode-Island and Providence Plantations,	8 of Maryland,
8 of Connecticut,	11 of Virginia,
5 of New-York,	6 of North-Carolina,
3 of New-Jersey,	6 of South-Carolina,
	1 of Georgia.

That each of the said battalions consist of the number of commissioned and non-commissioned officers and privates established by an act of Congress, passed on the 27th day of May last.

Whereas Congress by an act of January 23d last, did among other things authorise the commander in chief to take the most effectual measures to inlist for the continuance of the war new recruits in the United States, to compleat the battalions to their proper complement; and for this purpose to grant to each new recruit who should inlist in any of the continental battalions during the war, such a bounty as the commander in chief should think fit, but not to exceed two hundred dollars; and it being apprehended that the said provision will not answer the good purposes thereby intended:

Resolved, That the above recited clause of the said act of Congress be repealed; and that it be earnestly recommended to the several states to make up and compleat their respective battalions to their full complement by drafts, or in any other manner they shall think proper; and that they have their quotas of deficiencies ready to take the field and to march to such place as the commander in chief shall direct without delay:

That a bounty of two hundred dollars out of the continental treasury shall be granted to each recruit, who, after the 23d day of January last, hath inlisted or shall inlist during the war; or in case the state shall have granted as great or greater bounty, the said two hundred dollars for every such recruit shall be passed to the credit of the state respectively for whose quota he shall be raised." — Ibid., Mar. 9, 1779.

For this purpose, 2,000 men were ordered to be raised "by draft, lot, or voluntary enlistment," according to a schedule annexed to the resolves, to serve for nine months (unless sooner discharged) "from the time they shall respectively appear at Springfield, or such other place as the commander-in-chief shall direct the place of their rendezvous."

The brigadier or commanding officer of each brigade was required to immediately order the colonel or commanding officer of each regiment in his brigade, respectively, to cause the several companies under his command, to be forthwith called together, "and a number of men, equal to the number assigned to each town and plantation in" each respective brigade, in the aforesaid schedule, to be immediately raised. The drafts for this purpose were to be made from the train-bands and alarm lists, the returns whereof, from the towns and plantations in the several counties, were to be made into the secretary's office on or before the following dates, respectively: Suffolk, Essex, Middlesex, Plymouth and Bristol counties, July 2d; Barnstable, Worcester, Hampshire and York counties, July 7th; Cumberland and Berkshire counties, July 12th; and Lincoln County, July 17th.

The men so raised were to be "upon the Continental establishment," including, of course, the bounties, pay, etc., voted by Congress; and particular provisions were made for registering them, and for turning them over to the officers appointed to receive them into the army.

For neglect of duty in respect to the draft, by military and town officers, and by committees of safety, penalties were fixed by these resolves of the ninth of June. Besides these, it was resolved that all towns and plantations failing to fill their quotas by a specified time, "shall severally incur such penalty as the General Court shall hereafter determine, for the use of this state, for every man they shall be deficient, as aforesaid, which sum shall be added to the next state tax of such town or plantation;" while £120 was ordered to be abated in the next state tax, to every town, for each man furnished by it under the present call. By the same resolves, also, there was ordered to be added to the tax of any town, deficient, on the last day of July, in its quota (to the Continental Army) of one seventh part of its male inhabitants enlisted to serve for three years or during the war, a fine of £350, for every man in which it should be so deficient; and an equitable allowance was ordered to be deducted from this fine for men furnished for less than three years, in the town's quota; and, if the deficiency in three-years' men should be made good before July 31st, such towns were to be paid the amount of this allowance.

The resolves of June 12, 1778, and June 8, 1779, imposed no fine on the towns, but gave the selectmen and assessors of the several towns, authority to assess a tax, upon polls and estates in their respective towns, for the amount of the bounties and mileage which, by those resolves, were authorized to be paid out of the town treasuries, and for which a deduction was to be made from the next state tax levied on the towns.

Before the passage of the resolves of June 8, 1779, the following resolve* was passed: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay } In the House of Representatives May 3d — 1779

† "Committee," in the printed resolve.

The penalty which, by the resolves of June 9th, was left to be fixed by the Legislature at a future day, was settled by the resolve of November 19th, already given in full.

Pending the passage of this act, various resolves, votes and orders were passed by the House, fixing the sum to be assessed upon certain towns, and exempting other towns from the payment of fines. Thus, upon the report of a committee appointed November 25th, it was resolved, on the 27th, "That the sum of £1,081 2*s.* 2*d.* be set upon Chesterfield Gore," as their proportion of the state tax. On the 29th, "in consideration of the embarrassments the town of Boston were under, by the impress of men for the Penobscot expedition," it was voted, that "they be excused from the fine to which they are liable, for a deficiency of five men in their proportion of those ordered to be raised by a resolve of the 8th June, last." The same day, on the petition of Edward Davis, for the town of Oxford, the committee on the tax bill were ordered to suspend inserting a fine on that town, for a deficiency of nine men which they were ordered to raise; and the consideration of the petition was referred to the next session.

On the first of December, on objection made by the members of the House, from the following towns, to the fines laid on their respective towns, a minute thereof was ordered to be made: Chelsea, Ipswich, Beverly, Cambridge, Newton, Medford, Shirley, New Braintree, Northborough, Bolton, Framingham, Foxborough and Mendon. Of these thirteen towns, Cambridge, only, was exempted from a fine in the act, although seven others of these towns were relieved by subsequent resolves. The insertion of a fine of £600 upon Lancaster, and another of £300 upon Oxford, were ordered to be suspended, on the same day. On the 20th, Messrs. Brown of Framingham, Whitney, Perry, Page and Singletary were appointed "a standing committee, to consider any applications that may be made by towns, for relief respecting fines laid on them in the last tax act."

After the passage of the act, fines were remitted by resolve, in the following instances: —

Upon the petition of Joseph Thaxter, representing that, as agent of the town of Hingham, he preferred a petition to the General Court, on the thirty-first of December 1779, and that, on the next day, he appeared and convinced the committee appointed for that purpose, that the town had done its duty; and stating that he had received from the committee the promise of a favorable report; and that, upon his representation thereof to the town, the assessors had proceeded to assess the tax without the fine; but that it appeared that the said committee never reported to the House; and the chairman had returned his petition to him; and concluding with a prayer to be heard on the petition,— the following resolve * was passed: —

"State of Mass^{tts} Bay — In the House of Representatives March 18 1780 —

Whereas the Town of Hingham were fined the sum of Nine Thousand Pounds for not furnishing Fifteen men to serve in the Continental Army for the Term of Nine Months in the year 1779 agreable to a Resolve of the General Court. Therefore —

Resolved That the Fine of Nine Thousand Pounds laid upon the Town of Hingham in the last Tax-Act be remitted

And it is further resolved, that, as the Town of Hingham did not in the Year 1779 bear any Proportion of the waste of the Army, that s^{d} Town is not entituled to the Bounties granted to the Nine Months men in the Year 1779

A committee of the plantation of Myrifield (now Rowe) presented a petition, dated Jan. 14, 1780, for remission of the fine of £600, and for an abatement of the present and former state tax, "to such a degree as not to exceed our ability to pay," or, failing that, that a committee be appointed "to view our situation and circumstances, that their report may be a means for us to obtain our desired relief." The petitioners represented that they had presented a petition, in September, for relief from the tax imposed by chapter 12, which was read and committed, and afterwards rejected, but not in season for the town to comply with the act, or to prevent the issuing of execution against them; that the town was utterly unable to raise the sums "repeatedly required" of them, which, they declared, they believed the General Court would think exceeded their proportion. That of the 10,000 acres in the plantation, only 7,000 were habitable, not a tenth part of which was under any kind of improvement; that ten years before, there were but eight families in the place, which was increased to twenty-eight families when the war began, — most of which were so poor as to be unable to pay the small cost of lands to settle on; that those who had removed thither since the war began were such as had been reduced from comfortable livings, to the necessity of earning, by hard labor, on small tracts of wild land, the means of purchasing supplies to be brought from a distance; that the earlier settlers were just beginning to make improvements when the war broke out, and being, to a man, engaged in the popular cause, and more than ordinarily "exposed unto alarms," even in seed-time and harvest-time, they had been obliged to purchase more than half of their provisions, at a distance of from ten to thirty miles, at enormous prices, for which their improvements were not sufficient to yield them an equivalent; that, through all their adversities, they had "supported the gospel," which they could not continue to do if their burdens should be increased; that, in respect to the fine of £600, they had sent only one of the two men required, because, though the rate was one man for thirty-six and one-half ratable polls, they (as they had not more than forty-eight polls at the time of the requisition) thought the sending of one man, a sufficient compliance; in which the superintendent, who accepted their man, concurred, and they hoped it would be equally satisfactory to the General Court; that they had nothing to sell wherewith to procure money, — they being above one hundred miles from any market, and obliged to pay enormous prices for salt and other necessaries ("even the price of seven bushels of rye for a bushel of salt"); that, being a new plantation, they, within a few years, had been obliged to build, through the woods, all the roads in the vicinity, and even roads to other adjoining places several miles distant, and to keep these roads in repair at their own expense, which required, annually, the average labor of ten days per man; notwithstanding which, the country was so rugged that, the petitioners declared, it required four good oxen, and at least the greater part of one day, "to convey half a ton burthen, in our best road, for the distance of five or six miles from this place," and that by this means only could they transport such necessaries of life as they purchased at a distance; that they had been obliged to borrow money to pay the bounties and travel of soldiers, and to make good the depreciation of the currency, they having no money of their own; that, by their great distance, many of the orders for raising men, and calls for valuation returns, failed to reach them in season for compliance; by which they incurred the same costs and fines that would have been incurred by towns within ten miles of the seat of government. Upon this petition, the following resolve* was passed: —

William Bodman, agent for the town of Williamsburg, presented a petition, dated March 23, 1780, for remission of £600, of the £2,400 fine laid on that town, for a deficiency of four men, alleging that the computation for the town's quota was made on the basis of a former valuation instead of the one they had last sent in to the secretary's office, which could not be found by the committee; by which their required quota exceeded their just proportion, by one man. Upon this petition, the following resolve† was passed: —

The militia officers of the town of Northfield presented to the General Court, a petition, dated Feb. 28, 1780, representing the fidelity with which they had "waded through" their arduous duties during the war, — often, thereby, incurring "the anger of many" of their company, as having raised more than their just proportion of men; notwithstanding which, they were, as they supposed, deficient in one man, only, though the committee afterwards found them deficient in two of the three-years' men, which deficiency they immediately supplied. They alleged that they subsequently discovered that Abraham Parchus, a runaway servant of Capt. Elisha Hunt, had enlisted, for three years, in the Continental Army, and they had returned him as of their quota; so that when a requisition came for five more men, they raised but four, expecting that Parchus would be counted as one; but, to their surprise, the town was fined £600 for a deficiency, for which they were much blamed. They further represented that the requisition upon them for nine-months' men, was disproportionately large; wherefore they prayed that the town "be eased of the above-mentioned fine."

This petition was referred to a committee who, on the 4th of April, reported that the town of Northfield had been required to furnish one man in twenty-six, on the call for nine-months' men, whereas the proper proportion was only one in thirty-seven, and that the town had raised its full quota of one-seventh of the serviceable male population, and that Captain Alexander, the representative from that town, claimed that they had already in the army one man more than their quota; which facts they laid before the House, and prayed for its direction. No further action upon this petition has been discovered.

The petition of Jonathan Brewster, in behalf of the town of Worthington, was read and committed, March 26, 1780. The petitioner represented that, notwithstanding the fine of £2,100 laid upon that town for a deficiency of four men, under the call of June 9th, they have, in actual service, that number of men over their quota of one-seventh of the serviceable male inhabitants; and prayed relief from the fine aforesaid. Upon this petition the following resolve‡ was passed: —

A similar petition, dated March 27, 1780, by the selectmen of the town of Shirley, was read and committed, April 4th. These petitioners alleged that just before the requisition for the nine-months' men reached Capt. Edmund Longley, their militia captain, he enlisted into the service, to serve during the war, one Edward Johns, and after receiving his orders, he enlisted three more men; namely, Ephraim Warren, Ephraim Warren, junior, and Edward Smith, whom he did not return; and that all four men went into actual service, where the said Johns still remained. The petitioners therefore prayed that the fine on said town be remitted; whereupon the following resolve * was passed: —

The selectmen of Medford presented a petition, dated March, 1780, in which they represented that the town had filled its quota, and that, under the resolve of June 9, 1779, the town was entitled to an abatement of £120 for each of six men which they had furnished in season to be returned by the second day of July; wherefore, they prayed for an opportunity to vindicate their conduct, and that the fine of £600 laid upon said town, in the tax act, be remitted, and that their tax be abated in £720, for the six men aforesaid. Upon this petition the following resolve † was passed: —

The petition of John Everett, in behalf of the town of Foxborough, was read and committed, March 23, 1780. The petitioner represented that, notwithstanding the General Court had, on the 23d of January, reduced the quota of that town from five men to three, the town was, by mistake, fined, in the tax act, £1,200 for the two men thus abated; and concluded with a prayer that the treasurer be directed to credit said town for the above sum. Whereupon the following resolve ‡ was passed: —

In a petition dated Dec. 27, 1779, the selectmen of Marlborough represented that the town had raised ten men (the whole number required of them), and had them duly mustered in; that six of them marched; that one of them was drowned before marching orders; and that the remaining three absconded, and had not been captured, although the town had been at great expense to find them. They, therefore, prayed that the fine laid upon them for their deficiency, or such part thereof as the General Court should think fit, be taken off; whereupon the following resolve § was passed: —

Upon the petition of Paul Newton, in behalf of the town of Northborough, which was read and committed March 24, 1780, representing that the inhabitants had raised all the men required of them, and praying for a remission of the fine set upon that town, the following resolve* was passed, in the House, April 3d, and concurred in by the Council, April 5th, "as taken into a new draught." This new draught, which is given below, was concurred in by the House, April 15th, and, the same day, it was passed, and signed by sixteen of the Council: —

"State of Mass^tts Bay — In the House of Representatives April 3^d 1780

In preparing the bill of the present chapter, the resolve passed, upon the petition of Jonathan Whitney, agent for the town of Conway, and printed in the note to 1778–79, chapter 39 (p. 1042, ante), was overlooked, by the committee and, therefore, Whitney applied to the General Court, in a petition dated April 17, 1780, setting forth this fact, and also objecting that the fine laid upon that town should have been for one man only, and that it was, therefore, £1,200 too much; and praying that the £520 granted by the former resolve, and the £1,200 excess of fines, be refunded from the state treasury, and that the petitioner be allowed to draw the same, giving his receipt therefor; whereupon the following resolve † was passed: —

"State of Mass^tts Bay } In the House of Representatives April 20, 1780

A petition of the selectmen of Springfield, dated April 10, 1780, represents that, for aught they knew to the contrary, until the town was fined £1,800, in the tax bill, all the men required of their town by the resolve of June 9, 1779, had been raised; but that, upon subsequent inquiry, it appeared that one of the militia captains in their town, whose proportion to the town's quota would have been two men, had not received orders to raise more men; and that another man of the town's quota was detached from another company in the town, to serve as required by the said resolve, but had been permitted, by His Excellency, General Washington, to remain in the capacity of a clerk with George Measam, clothier-general, then stationed in Springfield. The petitioners, therefore, prayed that the amount of the said fine "or such a part thereof as" the General Court should "think in justice we ought to receive, be refunded."

The Petition of the Inhabitants of the Town of Marblehead, in Town meeting, Legally Convened humbly shews, that early in the Contest between Britain and the United States of America, the People of this Town (altho Sensible of its exposed Situation, to the ravages of the Enemy, and the Intire deprivation, of the means of Subsistance, should they take an active part, being wholy dependant on the Fishery, for the Support of its Inhabitants notwithstanding those insurmountable difficulties (save in so Glorious a Cause as that of freedom, and the Just rights of mankind) Did chearfully ingage with their lives and fortunes, to defend and Support them, to the last extremity, the Consiquence of which was, a total Stagnation, with respect to makeing the least provision for the necessarys of life (having no Lands to Improve) that Immediately upon the port Bills takeing place in the Town of Boston, the Inhabitants of this Town, with pleasure open'd their Stores, and every other Convenance for the doing Buisiness, to the Inhabitants of the said Town of Boston, without any expence to them, a few disafected persons excepted, That when a Standing Army was Called for in 1775, this Town furnished a full regiment, and the grater part of One the Succeeding year. That this Town not Only took this Share of publick duty in the Land Service, but that when Armed Vessels, where fixed out by the Continent, great part of the Crews were furnished by the Town, Added to these, private armed Vessels, from the neighbouring Towns, took of almost all the remaining part of its males, Capeable of doing duty, (this Town having but very few privateers, so that the advantages, arising from that buissiness, so far as it respected the Owners of the Vessels, Chiefly went into other Towns, whose property they were) in Such a manner that often times, there were not so many men left in Town, out of about thirteen Hundred, which was the number in 1775. as were from time to time, called for, upon special Emergencis by the Hon^ble the General Court, and to Supply which Calls this Town was obliged, to have recourse to their former Small Interest, and go into the neighbouring Towns, and hire the men on the best terms they could be obtained, and this with Chearfullness; tho we where obliged many of us, to deprive Ourselves of the necessaries of Life to Support the burden, That there was near One hundred of Our Inhabitants in the Expedition at Penobscott in Armed Vessels from Other Towns, the failure of which was Attended with loss to this Town in particular, as well as to the State in General. we would hope this State of facts, will make it appear, that this Town, has not been wanting in its Exertions for the publick good, we now beg leave consicely to State the Situation we are now in, as Compared with Our Circumstances, at the Commencement of this War, Our Trade then Extensive, our fishery very large, the male Inhabitants, as has been before Observed then Amounted to Thirteen hundred, and now from the misfortunes Consiquent on war, in Sea-ports, we have not half those persons left, the natural Consiquence of which is, our Widows with their helpless Ofspring, are from day to day, beging in our Streets, for food & raiment, the releif of them (so long as it is in the power of the remaining few to afford) humanity forbids a refusal, and added to these difficulties, there are at this time, absent in two armed Vessels, One hundred of our males of whom there is not the least hopes, of their being in Existance. Our trade has been Exceeding Small, Since the war, and we think it may with truth be said, that of the Vessels Sent out of this place, in the year 1779, but three or four returned. Your petitioners therefore humbly pray, that notwithstanding this Town did not fully Comply with the requestion of the Hon^ble the General Court, by their resolve bearing date June the Ninth 1779, for a reinforcement of men for y^e Space of Nine months, for the Continental Army, (and we must say every exertion for that purpose was made by the Officers whose province it was) you in your wisdom and goodness will remitt the fine of four thousand, and Eight hundred pounds, laid on this Town, for that deficiency, and if on viewing the Circumstances of this Town, as here truly discribed, Justice as we respect the other Towns in the State, or Mercy as it respects the Inhabitants of this Town, demand it, — you would likewise, be pleased to make Such Abatements in our future Taxes as you in your wisdom, from time to time, find necessary, Should you Otherwise determine we must Conclude, we have been deficient in our duty, and Shall Endeavour in future so to Conduct as to meet your approbation, tho the Consiquence may be (if possiable) greater distress. and as in duty Bound Shall Ever pray.

The petition, to the General Court, of the selectmen of Belchertown, represents that they duly hired seven men, "at a dear and expensive rate," to constitute their quota under the resolve of June 9, 1779, and that, within the time ordered, the captains of each company presented them to the muster-master and took a receipt for their having passed, and then took them to the superintendent and saw that they were accepted; which, the petitioners declared, was all they were required to do under the order for raising the men; wherefore they prayed that the fine of £600, laid on said town, be remitted, and that they be allowed a bounty of £400; whereupon the following resolve † was passed, by which they received £120 bounty, in addition to the £720 allowed in the act (amounting, in all, to £120 for each of the seven men enlisted), and also a reimbursement of the £600 fine which they had paid into the treasury: —

In the House, probably in consequence of the objection of the representative from Chelsea, hereinbefore mentioned, and upon the written representation of Col. Jabez Hatch, that he had given no order to the captain of the militia in that town to raise men under the resolve of June 9, 1779, a resolve was prepared for reimbursing, from the state treasury, the £1,800 fine paid by the town of Chelsea under the tax bill. This resolve was passed by the House, but was nonconcurred in the Council, Jan. 8, 1780.

On the 30th of March, 1780, Samuel Sprague and Jonathan Green, selectmen of Chelsea, drew up a petition to the General Court, — which they afterwards presented, together with another paper from Colonel Hatch certifying that the inhabitants had always complied with the orders of the colonel, and always procured their quota of men, as early as any other company in the regiment; and also a certificate from the commissioned officers and four of the selectmen of Chelsea, ‡ that they never knew that they were ordered by the General Court to procure any nine-months' men, either in May, June, July, August or September, 1779, until they heard that the town had been fined, in the tax act, for not sending three men; which they offered to verify, on oath.

The petitioners reiterated the declaration as made in the certificate mentioned above of their ignorance of the call for recruits; and also, represented that, upon a call from the colonel of their regiment, they had promptly sent five soldiers to Castle Island, in August, and, soon after their return, that two others were sent, upon a like call, to the same island, to serve for two months, who served out their time; and, after this call, that the town had promptly and seasonably sent one commissioned officer and six privates, to Hudson River, to serve for three months, — which was double the town's proportion for that service; and that they had never failed to comply, seasonably, with any order for men that were required of them, by authority, at any time during the war; wherefore they prayed for an order to draw from the state treasury the sum of £1,800, or for such other relief as the Assembly should think proper. Upon this petition the following resolve § was passed: — eral Court, but feared that compliance would soon be impossible owing to the innumerable difficulties of their situation; that two-thirds of the inhabitants had been settled but eight or nine years; that the town was "surprisingly in debt;" notwithstanding which (and other discouraging circumstances, substantially as narrated in the earlier petition of the town, particularly described in the note to chapter 49, post) the company in the north part of the town had completed their full quota of men and supplies, and the company in the south part of the town had failed, not for want of good will, but because the men drafted from their ranks had been discharged by the superintendent, upon proof made to him of the suffering circumstances of their families; wherefore, in view of the disproportionate number of poor people in Hancock, and that if payment of the fine was enforced, those who were willing and had fully performed their duty must suffer with the rest, he prayed the General Court to take the case into consideration and to determine the same as they in their wisdom should direct. Accordingly the following resolve * was thereupon passed: —

While the bill of this chapter was pending, a committee was appointed "to inquire into the state of the towns of Buckland and Mount Washington, and report what sum ought to be assessed on them in the present bill."

This was on November 29th, and, on the next day, the committee reported that, with regard to the town of Buckland, they could find no foundation whereby they could determine what the inhabitants "ought to be assessed," and therefore "that they be not included in the present tax bill, and that an order issue to the said town of Buckland, that they immediately take and send a list of valuation, conformable to what was issued to other towns in this state, to be lodged in the secretary's office; and the same being examined and adjusted, they shall pay the same in the next state tax, and what shall then farther be laid upon them."

The substance of the committee's report respecting the town of Mount Washington appears in the following resolve † reported by this committee, who, in the above report, had recommended that a bill be brought in for the purpose: —

"State of Massachusetts-Bay — In the House of Representatives Dec^r 6^th 1779 —

Besides the above resolves for remitting fines, the Assembly received urgent appeals for the abatement of taxes, from the counties of Lincoln and Cumberland, and from the towns of Gloucester and Boothbay. The relief granted to Lincoln County was from the burden of the next tax as well as this, and is more fully explained in the note to chapter 49, post. See, also, resolve of Jan. 6, 1780, for relief of Fryeburg, p. 1252, ante.

The following resolve,‡ passed upon the petition of Jeremiah Powell, who, in behalf of the county of Cumberland, represented that the greater part of the vessels which were owned by the inhabitants of that county had been lately lost — "most of them in the unfortunate expedition to Penobscot;" that enlistments in that county had become extremely burdensome, on "account of the lowness of the establishment," — three thousand dollars, as he had been informed, being "demanded by those who incline to enlist, over and above the pay and rations;" that the said loss of vessels had not been made up in any degree, to the owners; that on these accounts and by the distress incident to the invasion of the eastern parts, by the enemy, the inhabitants of the county had become unable to pay the heavy, and, as he thought, undue, proportion of taxes laid upon them; — and therefore prayed that a resolve might be passed, suspending the issue of executions against constables and collectors of taxes, in the several towns in that county, until they should get some relief from their unhappy circumstances, though he expressed his belief that the greatest possible exertions would be made to pay the taxes, notwithstanding the withholding of these executions, which, he declared, "must add distress to the distressed:" —

The following memorial from the town of Gloucester was read Sept. 9, 1779, and referred to a committee, consisting of Messrs Wales, Starkweather, and Gorham of Lunenburg: —

"The Honorable the General Court of the State of Massachusett's Bay. Assembled at Boston

The Memorial of the Town of Glocester — Humbly sheweth,

That at the Commencment of the present War — Our Riches consisted in numbers of healthy Inhabitants, not in Lands or Effects — who warmly espoused the cause of their Country by a voluntary Enlistment into its service; during the two first Campaigns, we had upwards of 220 men in the Field — numbers besides joined the Marine department as more suitable to their former Occupation —

When the Hon^ble Congress, regulated every State's quota of men in 1776, our proportion in that arrangment, was 137 men; being the one seventh part of our male Inhabitants —

We have in most draughts that have been made, from that time to the present, been called upon for our Proportion according as it was then made of 960 men, without any allowance for our Losses — We have made the Calculation as accurate as possible, and find by the number of men we had in 1775, and the number of Polls we had last May, that our Men diminish in the proportion of 10 ℔ Cent. ℔ Annum — the Scheme stands thus,

Ratable Polls in 1775 were	1053
deduct 10 ℔ Cent.	105
Men in the Year 1776	948
10 ℔ Cent. deducted, ...	94
Heads in the Year 1777, ...	854
10 ℔ Cent deducted, ...	85
Heads in 1778, ...	769
10 ℔ Cent. deducted, ...	77
Polls in 1779, ...	692

which number of Polls agrees with the Town's Books the Current Year within four, and is agreable to the return made by us last year within five, as you may see by said return —

We address ourselves to the Justice of this Honorable Court whether it is agreable to the strict Equity, we hope is intended & meant, to be called upon still for our proportion of men; when they diminish in numbers, so very fast — for, unless their places be supply'd by Youth coming of Age — or Strangers settling here — a ten Years war, (if we were to lose as we have done) would extinguish all our male Inhabitants. Fifty two Youths have been Enrolled the three last Years — Very few strangers incline to settle in Cape Ann. — The Loss of numbers of our People is not our only Misfortune, (tho' a great one,) loss of Property hath accompanied it; In 1775, When the General Alarm of War, sounded in the Ears of All — Our most active, wealthy Inhabitants — Thro' dread of having their Houses burned, and Interest destroy'd — moved from Cape Ann to places of greater security, — carrying their Effects with them and not returning since — We are deprived of Two great supports of any Community, Viz^t Wealth & Numbers — had They have continued with us, The Wealth — that since has flow'd into Newbury-Port, Boston — and other places thro' their means — would have Centred here; — Loss of Merchants and their property by moving out of Cape Ann, has been followed, by the removal of Numbers of our most Industrious Men elsewhere, for want of Employment here — That those who remained — were Gentlemen — who could not dispose of their Situations — Numbers of Poor that could not move away — And the Familys of Soldiers in the service — Our Scituation is very peculiar — having but little Intercourse with the Country — We live on an Island Joined to the Main, by a narrow neck of Land — consequently, receive but little Benefit from Travellers — little or no benefit accrues to us, from the War — or the necessities of the Community — That if we have Interest as a Town or as Individuals, it must have been acquired either by the produce of our Farms — by Privateering — Or by Trading to Sea in Merchant men — An Exact List was given in by us last Year, of the number of Acres of all sorts of Land in the whole Town by which, you will perceive we have but 853 Acres of Arable, — Orcharding — and Mowing Land in the whole — which do not produce enough of the Necessaries of Life, to support the Town Two Months in the Twelve — It seems — Heaven never intend, that Cape Ann should be supported — by Farming — Our Support arose from the Fishery — hence so many persons in so poor & rocky a place at the Commencement of the War —

The second way, we can be supposed to have acquir'd Money, must be — by Privateering — The Candor of the Honorable Court will Indulge us with stating that matter as concisely as we can — In 1776, we fitted out Two Schooners about one half of Each owned in this Town — One was successful, the other, unfortunate, — she took nothing — The first took Two Ships & a Schooner, with West India produce 'on Board — The produce sold at the stated price then set by the General Court — The Privateer was taken by the Enemy, the next Cruise — in Two or Three days after she went out — With that Prize Money, the next Year we fitted out two Brigantines, as Privateers — One of them in Company with another Brigantine took two Jamaica Ships & carried them into France — They were seized there by English Merchants — and 'tho' the Captors & Owners receiv'd a certain sum afterwards, — what with Expences in procuring it — The depreciated state it was in when receiv'd — it came to very little —

The other Brigantine was half own'd in Town — she captur'd a Brigantine laden with Wine & Salt, & One with — Green Fish, the Wine sold for £45 ℔ Quarter Cask, the Salt — 30/ ℔ Bushel — This Brigantine and her Crew (chiefly Cape Ann men) have never been heard of since — the last Year, we did nothing — We Own about one half of a ship — thats now out 'on a Cruise, she has sent in two provision Vessels — This is the Sum of our privateering — Had we been of sufficient ability to have kept, even what few Goods we had come in, we should have reap[d] the benefit of that measure — but we were necessitated to sell, to get Cash to carry on our Business — That Money immediately growing worse — and necessaries high — Families to support — Taxes to pay — but little income — and that daily lessening or diminishing — The Hon[ble] Court, will reasonably infer, that it must be (as it really is) almost all spent — what may have induc'd people in general to think our Circumstances much better than they are, or were, hath been as we conceive, from their apprehending, that the number of Prizes putting into Cape Ann from time to time were more or less own[d] by the Inhabitants but the reverse of that is the case — We have a fine Harbour, & numbers of Prizes, belonging to other Towns, put in here first when they come in from Sea, to make a Harbour — hence the news of so many being in Cape Ann — but they go out again when the Wind is fair — without any Benefit to us at all, except the pleasing reflection of our Neighbour's success, 'tho' we ourselves were unfortunate —

The other & last way mentioned to have money must be from trading to Sea in Merchantmen — You will please to indulge us with stating that matter — In April 1775, We had Eighty sail of Fishing Schooners which averaged fifty Tons is 4000 —

In foreign Merchantmen — Coasters & Fishing Boats 1000 Tons —

The whole of all the Vessels owned in Town improv[d] or not falls short of 2040 Tons — We have been peculiarly unsuccessful in our foreign Trade — since last fall we have lost 690 odd Tons of Vessels with their Cargoes, all captured by the Enemy —

The whole of the Merchantmen we have now at Sea, consists of one half of a small ship, the other half own[d] in Boston — whether she ever returns or not is uncertain, she has never been heard of since she sail[d] — Thus Gentlemen, we have endeavoured to State our real Situation, respecting the only method we could get Money by — we have miscarried in them all — Our Numbers Annually diminish — Our Farms don't deserve the name — Our Privateering Effects almost all spent — Our Merchandizing almost ruin[d] us — a very numerous Poor to support upwards of 750 of that Class that live chiefly 'on Charity — In a Word, we are very poor, and very much affected by the War — We rely 'on the Justice of the Honourable Court who have given us a Rule to be our guide in Town Affairs Viz[t], 'If any Individual is overtaxed, in the Town Assessment — upon Application to the Assessors, with a State of their Circumstances, they are to be Abated' — We are assured, when the General Court weighs our Situation, they will follow so equitable a Rule — We boast of our attachment in General to the public Weal, We are not against bearing our proportion of the public Burthens — But if y[e] above Rule holds good respecting an Individual in a Town, by A — parity of reason, it holds good in respect to a Town in a State — We are taxed in y[e] last Tax Bill more than We can pay. If the Hon[ble] Court would Delegate a Comm[ee] to examine into our Circumstances, they will We are assured, corroborate the representation we have given —

We are Assured the Hon[ble] Court were influenced by Patriotic motives in laying so heavy a Tax — Viz[t] to call a large sum out of Circulation, to render the remainder of more value — by which means, the high prices of y[e] necessaries of life would be lowered, & many other benefits would accrue to this as well as y[e] States in General but thro' y[e] forementioned misfortunes, we are not in a capacity to pay a high Tax. We verily believe if all y[e] Money in Town were collected into one Sum; it would fall short of y[e] Sum set upon this Town. We are Poor, We lay Ourselves at y[e] Feet of Our political Fathers, We pray an Abatement in y[e] very large sum set upon this Town to pay, as we are unable to pay it, if it is insisted 'on — We are desirous of doing as far as we are able — Your Paternal Indulgence in this respect will encourage us — And as in Duty bound will Ever pray, —

At a Meeting of the Town of Glocester regularly called for the Purpose, on the 17th of August 1779 the above was unanimously Voted

Ibid., vol. 185, p. 251.

On the 15th of December, the committee to whom the above memorial was referred, reported a resolve, appointing a committee to repair to Gloucester, "to view the situation and circumstances of the town, and to confer with the inhabitants on the subject of their memorial, and report to this House, at their next session, what they think proper to be done for the relief of said town." This resolve passed the House, but was nonconcurred by the Council, on the 18th, and laid upon the table. On the same day, however, the following order was passed by the House: —

"State of Massachusetts-Bay In the House of Representatives Dec[r] 18th 1779

On Motion — Order'd. That M[r] Choate, Maj[r] Hosmer & Coll Brown of Reading be a Committee to repair to the Town of Glocester, to view the situation & circumstances of the Town, & to confer with the Inhabitants on the subject of their Memorial, & report to this House at their next Session what they think proper to be done for the Relief of said Town — JOHN HANCOCK Speaker." — Ibid., vol. 228, p. 3.

Upon their arrival at Gloucester, the committee were presented with the following address: —

"To the Gentlemen of the Committee from the Hon^ble^ Court to inspect the situation of the Town of Gloucester — Gentlemen

We gave you occular demonstration respecting the poverty of the Land of this Town that 'tis chiefly Rocks, noway capable of cultivation, nor even as pasture, in any proportion to a like number of Acres in any Town in this state — You had an opportunity at the same time of perceiving that the dwelling houses are chiefly Huts inhabited by Widows & poor Family's — You inspected the Circumstances of our Wharffs & Warehouses, that they are in a ruinous situation for want of improvement, the Warehouses & Sheds pulling down, by the great number of Poor that's almost starving — With this you have a list of the Poor Widows which we shewed you — We would inform you that the number of Souls in the Town is about four thousand of Men, Women, & Children — That near one Quarter of which are Widows & Orphans, to support them with other poor Families we have but about 500 Rateable polls — the whole of the Grain to support them is about 6000 Bushels, which makes it but about one bus^l^ & a half to a person in a year. the Remainder is purchased out of Town at a large additional expence, which over price more than what others have it for where it grows would go a great way in paying our Taxes — other provisions used in Town is in the same proportion — we only hint these matters to you which you will improve on by your own good sense — We have about 1900 head of Horses & horned Cattle in Town with about 1900 sheep according to the valuation taken in 1778, and have about 364 Tons of English hay and 870 Tons of Salt hay to support them with which is about three Quarters enough, the other Quarter costs very dear both by Land & Water —

With this you have a State of our Trade which is as exact as possibly could be Ascertained, by which you perceive that almost all our Vessels that we sent out were taken — we lost of our original Stock about 160,000£ out of 200,000£ odd which was our Stock in Trade in 79 — This is a summary State Gentlemen of what we endeavoured to convince you of, and doubt not you will represent it to the Hon^ble^ Court as it really is — and for them Reasons, pray Relief from Taxation untill we are in a situation to pay them.—

We are Gentlemen your Obed^t^ Serv^ts^ — PETER COFFIN, JOSEPH FOSTER, BARNETT HASKIN } Committee of Glocester." — Ibid., p. 5.

At the close of the last session the committee made the following report to the House, which was adopted, in the nature of a resolve,* by both branches: —

"State of Massachusets Bay In The House of Representatives May — 5 — 1780

The committe Appointed to Repair to the Town of Glocester To View the situation and circumstances of the Town and confer with the Inhabitants on the Subject of their [mem †]orial and Report what may be Proper to be done for the Relief of said Town — Have Attended That service and after Carefully inquireing into the Circumstances of the Town — Aske Leave to Report as Their oppinion that the Town of Glocester be Abated the one half of their State and contenantal Tax contained in the Two Last Assessments and in that Proportion in futer untill the further order of the General Court —

A resolve granting relief to the town of Boothbay, applied to the next tax act as well as this. It is therefore given in the note to chapter 49, post.

In a petition dated April 3, 1780, and read in the House on the fifth of June, the inhabitants of the plantation of "Cambden," represented that they, "being a small place, next adjoining" to Thomaston, and embracing not more than twenty families, "the oldest about ten years' standing," were called upon, by that town, to pay part of the taxes set upon Thomaston; that in its distressed situation this infant settlement was "incapable of bearing the burden of a tax, they having undergone the greatest sufferings from the enemy, by fire and famine;" that they were settled on a bay, to which their vessels, formerly employed in transporting wood (which was almost the sole business of the place), had been confined during the war, owing to the proximity of the enemy, whose special resentment they had incurred by "being the first that opposed them in swearing the inhabitants;" that they could not think the General Court meant that they should be assessed for this tax, although, by law, they were obliged to pay it; wherefore they prayed that they might be relieved, by the postponement of this tax until they should be better able to pay it, that so the danger might be averted of destroying a settlement which in the future might help defray the public charge, as in the past it had "contributed to the good of the states by repeatedly sending" its "full complement of men into the war, with the greatest despatch, and every other thing in" its "power."

This petition was forthwith referred to Messrs. Frost, Tyler and Small, who, as "no papers nor nothing appears before the committee, only the petition," reported a resolve that "said petition should lay on the table until the further order of this Court." No action upon this report has been discovered; but, by the resolve of Nov. 7, 1780, printed in the note to 1780, chapter 16,* one-half of the next state-tax set upon Thomaston, was abated

* Printed resolves of the March session, chapter CCXCII. † Manuscript mutilated.

While the tax imposed by this chapter was draining the resources of the people, the following resolve, passed by Congress, afforded them temporary relief: † —

"Resolved, That the several states be excused from paying into the treasury two thirds of the monies which they were called on to raise monthly for the use of the United States by the resolution of the sixth of October, 1779." — Journals of Congress: Feb. 25, 1780.

The resolve hereunder given, on the following petition to the General Court, from the Board of War, was agreed upon by a committee of conference, consisting of Samuel Adams, Timothy Danielson and Timothy Edwards, of the Council, and Mr. Davis of Boston, Capt. Wales and General Warren, of the House: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay —

To the Honble the Council and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled—

The Board of War beg leave respectfully to represent — That they have been ever impressed with the warmest wishes to promote and have made every exertion to forward the Public Service, and do again as they have repeatedly done heretofore assure your Honors, that those wishes still continue to influence them, & that such exertions shall never on their part be wanting —

But it is with regret they must inform your Honors, that such is the exhausted State of their Finances, that it is totally impracticable to comply with the Resolve of Court of 28th Instant for supplying Machias, as also the Orders of the Honble Council of the same date, grounded on a Resolve of Court of the 15th of the present Month —

Annexed are the estimates of supplies necessary for those Services, which we shall submit to your Honors with this only remark, that the Beef & Pork with the Ordnance Stores, we have on hand, for the rest the Money must be immediately furnished —

Already overwhelmed in Debt which the very small & slow Payments we receive from the Treasurer does not enable us to discharge, the urgent calls from the Commissary General & Commissaries of Sea Coast men for Bread & smaller Rations, the Officers of the Army loud in their demands for their Cloathing, which for want of Money we cannot procure and supply, the very extraordinary Expence in fitting the Ship Protector for Sea, — the demands from the late and present Officers of the Regiment of the Train for Arrearages of Cloathing both for themselves and Soldiers,— the late Order for purchasing two Armed Vessels, with the present Order for supplies for the Eastern Department,— the various and almost numberless Orders that we receive from Court & Council for Miscellaneous services, added to the enormous Debt due on the unhappy Penobscot Expedition,— as also for Cloathing purchased for the Officers on Credit, and for which Payment is very importunately demanded — these things may it please your Honors have & will involve us in difficulties & embarrassments to us very distressing, & we fear almost inextricable,— our task is hard indeed, with every disposition on our side to carry into effect your Honors Orders, were we so enabled, we are obliged to spend near half our time in hearing our Dunners, & excusing the nakedness of Government, & patiently submitting to bear every reflection for not complying with their various pressing demands — These may it please your Honors are melancholy truths & which we doubt not will engage that serious consideration the importance of the objects may appear to deserve — for our Duty impels us to represent to your Honors, that it will be impossible for us any longer to proceed in the Business of our department, unless very large Sums of Money are not only granted, but paid to us for that purpose,—

The inhabitants of the plantation of New Providence had tried, several times, to secure the passage of an act annexing them to one of the adjoining towns. These attempts having proved unsuccessful, as shown in the note to chapter 33, post, they improved the opportunity presented in the present tax act, where, for the first time, they had been taxed as a separate community, to renew their application for corporate privileges, on the ground that they had no authority, in their unincorporate condition, to assess and collect the tax laid upon them by the General Court. One of the results of this application, was the passage of the following resolve §: —

Resolved That the Treasurer be and he hereby is directed forthwith to issue his Precept to some Justice of the Peace dwelling near to such Plantations requiring him to Grant his warrant for calling a meeting of the Inhabitants thereof agreeable to an act pass'd A D 1761 intituled 'An Act providing for the Levying and Collecting of Taxes in Plantations that are not incorporated' — And the Inhabitants of such Plantations at such meetings respectively shall proceed to choose the proper officers for assessing & collecting the Sums Set on them in the last Tax Act, as well as the Sums due on former assessments, whereof the Treasurer in his Precept to the Justice, and the Justice in his warrant for calling said meeting shall give a particular account — And such Justice shall cause return to him to be made of the names of the officers chosen at such meetings and Transmit a List thereof to the Treasurer without delay — And the assessors and Collectors so chosen shall proceed in every respect as in said act is directed & shall have the same Power & be Subject to the same Penalties as like officers in Incorporated Towns.

The act of 1761-62, chapter 16, providing for the levying and collecting of taxes in unincorporated plantations was in force at the date of the passage of this chapter, having been continued by 1769-70 chapter 4; 1770-71, chapter 6; and by 1775-76, chapter 14 to Nov 1, 1779 "and from thence to the end of the then next session of the General Court, and no longer." The plantation of New Providence notwithstanding the fact that the public tax thereon assessed had been included in the tax laid on the town of Lanesborough, seems to have been precisely within the category to which the act of 1761 was applicable, and no allegation of reasons for supposing that that act did not apply has been discovered, among the papers filed with the petition of the inhabitants for separate incorporation.

In the note to chapter 9 of the acts of the next year, however, (p. 1443, post), it is shown that although the plantation of New Providence was assessed separately under the present chapter, this fact was not taken into consideration in fixing the amount of the tax to be assessed on Lanesborough, and this may have been the foundation of a belief that the tax on this plantation had been laid through inadvertence.

The following resolves of Congress applied to the collection of all taxes due on account of the United States to March 1, 1780, including a portion of the first moiety of the tax assessed by this chapter. No state legislation, however, providing for the enforcement of these resolves has been discovered: —

"Whereas it is represented that large arrears are due to the inhabitants of sundry of these states for provision, forage and other articles, furnished by them to the departments of the commissary general of purchases and quartermaster general for the public service, and for which they have received notes or certificates, signed by persons appointed to purchase the said articles, the payment whereof hath been delayed, to the prejudice of many of the holders, and for which money cannot in the present circumstances be issued from the treasury: therefore

Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislatures of the respective states wherein such notes or certificates have been heretofore given, and remain unpaid, to impower the collectors of the continental taxes, due to the first of March last, to receive in payment thereof such notes or certificates from the persons in whose names they have been given, on the following conditions;

That the persons paying in the said notes or certificates indorse the same to the collectors, who may receive them, and also take an oath or affirmation, before a magistrate, that they have been obtained for the value and the articles therein expressed, delivered for the use of the United States, and for which no payment hath been made; which oath or affirmation shall be indorsed on each note or certificate:

That in cases when the notes or certificates held by any person shall exceed the amount of the taxes due from such person, at the time they are paid in, the surplus be credited by the state to such person, and allowed in future taxes, under such checks and securities as the respective legislatures may think best suited to their different modes of collection; and that such surplus bear an interest of six per cent. till thus discounted:

On passing the foregoing paragraph,

The yeas and nays were required, and

It passed in the affirmative.

Resolved, That the said notes or certificates, so indorsed and received by the collectors as aforesaid, being by the treasurer of such state delivered to the principals of the respective departments, from whom payment is due, or their agents in the city of Philadelphia, and the receipts of the said principals or agents making the principals accountable for the amount of the notes or certificates paid in as aforesaid, being lodged with the board of treasury of the United States; the respective states shall thereupon have credit for the same on their quotas of taxes due to the 1st of March last; and if the amount shall, in any case, exceed the said quotas the balances shall be paid to the respective states to whom they may be due:

Provided that nothing contained in the foregoing resolution shall be construed to exonerate any state from the payment of orders already drawn, or to affect the requisition of Congress of the 19th day of the present month: *

On the question to agree to the foregoing resolution, exclusive of the proviso,

Chap. 31. In the note to the last preceding chapter the scheme for supplying the treasury from the proceeds of the sale of confiscated estates, has been mentioned. At the next session, the supply thus provided, having proved inadequate, a committee of the House, consisting of Messrs. Dunbar, Davis of Boston, Gorham of Lunenburg, Davis of Oxford, and Perry of Medfield, was appointed, "to devise further ways and means of supplying the treasury." On the 17th of December this committee made the following report: —

"The Committee appointed to devise further ways and means to supply the Treasury — Beg leave to report as their Opinion

1st That it is expedient for this State to negociate a loan in Holland of pounds sterling as soon as may be, to be appropriated as the General Court shall think proper —

2d In order to give suitable encouragement for loaning money to this State that a promise of this Government be made to those persons who loan their money, that when they receive it, it shall be made as good as when it was loaned — And that the Interest be made equal to what is allowed by Congress —

3d That an Excise be laid on all Rum Spirrits & Wine consumed in this State --

4th That the Committee appointed to Methodize and state the public Acots and to call Upon all those persons who have receiv'd public Monies and Stores, (and who have not yet accounted for the same) be directed immediately to write to each particular person, who has received monies and Stores as Aforesaid, & call upon them to settle their Accounts forthwith. And to require each person to pay his respective Ballance in money in those Cases when public money was receiv'd. And in Stores of the same species in those Cases when public stores were drawn and no sufficient & satisfactory evidence can be giuen that they were applyed to, and expended in the public Service

5th That a bill be brought in obliging all agents for the Companies of armed Vessels both publick & private to pay into the Publick Treasury any Shares or parts of Shares of Prize money which they Shall not have paid to the Captors in months from the Time of their Reciveing the Same." — Mass. Archives, vol. 137, p. 257.

This report was immediately put in the orders of the day for the afternoon, "after an injunction of secrecy thereon," and at the hour appointed it was taken into consideration, and, agreeably to the recommendation in the fourth paragraph, a resolve † was passed, "directing the committee for stating accounts, to call upon each person who has received public monies and stores, to settle for the same."

A committee was appointed "to bring in a bill agreeably to the recommendation in the fifth paragraph."

The second paragraph was ordered to be committed to Messrs. Pickering, Dunbar and Starkweather, "who were directed to enquire into the resolve of Congress, referred to."

* Which referred to Pennsylvania.

† Printed resolves of the December session, 1779, chapter VII.

The third paragraph, recommending the laying an excise on spirits, etc., was rejected.

The subject proposed in the first paragraph, was discussed with great secrecy; and, after a conference between the two houses, and some urgent messages to the Council, to take action upon certain resolves which had been adopted and sent up by the House, the resolves were finally passed, as follows: —

"Dec. 24, 1779. Whereas it is highly probable that great advantages may be derived to this State, by Obtaining a Loan or Credit from Gentlemen in Europe, for a Sum not exceeding One hundred and Fifty thousand pounds st^g Therefore,

Resolved, that this Court will immediately take such measures, as to them shall appear effectual for Obtaining such a Loan or Credit for a Sum not exceeding One hundred and Fifty thousand pounds Sterling — Twenty thousand pounds of which to be invested in such articles as are suitable for Cloathing this States Quota of the Continental Army, to be Shipped by the Ship Protector, and as many other Goods suitable for this Market, as the said Ship can take in, provided the whole Cost of the Goods sent in said Ship does not amount to more than forty thousand pounds Sterling, the Articles to be purchased and shipped to be determined on, by a Committee of five persons to be appointed by this Court by joint Ballot, the first Cost of said Goods to be Insured in Europe — The remainder of the Sums so borrow'd to be lodged in some secure hands in Europe, to be drawn out as the General Court shall hereafter direct by Bills of Exchange or Invested and Ship't in such Goods, as will be most for the advantage of this State, as the aforesaid Committee shall order, the Money arising from the sale of said Bills, or Goods to be appropriated, for the payment of this States proportion of the Continental Debt. — And it is further,

Resolved, That the Board of War be and they hereby are directed to Man and fix the Ship Protector for the Sea as soon as possible, and that the Commander of said Ship be directed to proceed with said Ship to some Port in the Kingdom of France, and receive on Board said Ship, such Goods as shall be delivered him, by the Agent who may be appointed by this Court to purchase and Ship Goods on Account of this State and after taking such papers and directions as he may receive from said Agent, to proceed to some port in this State, & upon his return home carefully to Avoid every danger from the Enemy that he possibly can, and whereas it will be necessary in Order to Obtain the Loan or Credit aforementiond, that a fund be Established, as a Security for the payment of the Debt that will be hereby contracted in Europe, Therefore,

Resolved That a Committee be appointed to prepare and bring in a Bill for that purpose, also,

Resolved That some Suitable person be appointed by this Court, and Vested with proper powers and Instructions, by said Court, (or the Committee they may appoint for this purpose) to Negotiate a Loan or Credit, and transact the Business aforementioned, and that he proceed to Europe in the Ship Protector or some other Vessell for the purposes aforesaid In Council Read & Concurred Consented to by fifteen of the Council." — Council Records, vol. XL., p. 197.

On the 3d of January, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Warren, Davis of Boston, and Walley, of the House, and Thomas Cushing and Samuel Adams, of the Council, was appointed "to consider and report what instructions" were "proper to be given to the agent that may be appointed to negotiate a loan in Holland, to the committee who may be appointed agreeably to the" above resolves, "and to the commander of the ship Protector;" and also to report what allowance was proper to be made to the agent, for his services. Col. Freeman was subsequently appointed on this committee, in place of Mr. Davis, who was excused.

On the 5th, after some disagreement as to the time of meeting to choose the agent (which was settled by a committee of conference), the two branches joined in the choice of James Bowdoin, who received fifty-four out of fifty-five votes cast. Mr. Bowdoin, in a letter dated the 6th, declined the agency; whereupon, on the same day, the two branches agreed to meet on the 7th, for another choice. On the 7th, this meeting was postponed to the 8th, when the two houses came together and proceeded to ballot again. On the first ballot, Nathaniel Gorham received twenty-six votes, and Jonathan Loring Austin, eighteen votes, out of the fifty-two ballots thrown; and there was no choice. On the second ballot, Gorham received twenty-eight votes, and Austin twenty-nine votes, out of fifty-eight ballots thrown; and again there was no choice. On the third ballot, Austin was chosen by thirty-three votes out of fifty-seven; and, on January 10th, a letter from him, accepting the appointment, was read in Council, and sent down.

In the mean time, a message was sent up from the House, requesting the Council "to direct the attendance" of Mr. Austin, "and acquaint him with his appointment," etc., "and the intention of the General Assembly to keep the matter as a secret;" and proposing that the choice of a committee for obtaining such loan, be put off "until the afternoon;" to which the Council agreed. A proposition from the Council, by message, through Samuel Adams, to refer the business of procuring the loan, to the Board of War, instead of a new committee, was rejected by the House, on the same day. This was on the 8th of January. In the afternoon the two houses met (having, in the morning, arranged preliminaries, including the choice of a committee to collect, count and sort the votes), and the following persons were chosen to transact the business mentioned in the resolves, with regard to the loan — each receiving, out of the whole number of fifty-five ballots thrown, the number of votes hereunder given against his name: Thomas Cushing, thirty-eight; Nathaniel Gorham, twenty-eight; Samuel Phillips, thirty-nine; Caleb Davis, thirty-nine; Thomas Walley, thirty-eight.

The business of choosing an agent and a committee, agreeably to the resolves of December 24th, having been thus accomplished, the Assembly proceeded to pass the following resolves, vesting the agent with the necessary power; authorizing the Council to issue his commission; and fixing his compensation: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay — In the House of Representatives January 11th 1780

Whereas this Court have determined to negotiate a Loan or Credit in Europe for a sum not exceeding one hundred & Fifty Thousand pounds Sterling — and have appointed Jonathan Loring Austin Esqr. an Agent for that purpose — therefore

Resolved that there be allowed to the said Jonathan Loring Austin Esqr. Four hundred pounds Sterling as a Compensation for his services and also his reasonable Expences paid: and that he have Liberty to receive in Europe out of the Loan or Credit so obtained, the sum of Four hundred pounds sterling over and above his Expences and also such further sum as will be necessary to furnish the Ship Protector with any Articles that may be wanted for her in Europe and which he is hereby impowered to furnish Accordingly — and it is also

Resolved that any Ballance that may be due to the said Jonathan Loring Austin Esqr. shall be paid on his return to this State at the rate of Exchange as it may then be and that he lay his Accounts before the General Court for adjustment —

The foregoing resolves were reported on the 8th, by the committee which had been appointed for that purpose on the 3d of January. The same committee also reported written instructions, to the agent; to the committee on the subject of the loan; and to the commander of the ship Protector; — none of which, however, remain in the archives.

On the 15th, the Council issued the following commission: —

"The Government & People of the Massachusetts Bay in New England —

To all Persons to whom these presents shall come — Greeting

(LS) Whereas the Great & General Court or Assembly of the State of the Massachusetts Bay at their Session held by adjournment on the fourteenth day of December 1779 did resolve to take effectual measures for obtaining a Loan or Credit in Europe for a sum not exceeding the sum of one hundred & fifty Thousand pounds Sterling part of which sum to be vested in goods & shipped to this State, & the remainder to be lodged in Europe for such purposes as are mentioned in the said resolution — And in the same Session did also make choice of Jonathan Loring Austin Esqr. for their Agent to negociate the Loan & other business to be negociated & done by virtue of the resolution aforementioned — Know ye therefore that we, the major part of the Council of the said State, by virtue of the power vested in us, & at the request of the said Great & General Court or Assembly, reposing confidence in the ability & Integrity of the said Jonathan Loring Austin have & by these presents do constitute authorized impowered & commission him to do & transact all & every part of the business required by the resolution aforesaid to be done & transacted by the Agent chosen as aforesaid.—

In Testimony whereof we have caused the Public Seal of the State of Massachusetts Bay aforesaid to be hereunto affixed Witness the Major part of the Council of the said State at Boston the day of in the year of our Lord 1780 & in the fourth year of the Independence of the United States of America." — Executive Records of the Council, vol. 24, p. 384.

While these proceedings were taking place, the bill of this chapter was passing through the regular stages, to enactment The original bill has not been discovered; but it appears by the record that, on the 5th of January, it was read a second time, in the Council, and referred to the committee appointed to draught instructions, etc., and that on the 8th, it was read again in the Council, and passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with two amendments, which were concurred in by the House. On the 10th, an amendment was adopted, by which the words "in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and eighty," were substituted, in the engrossment, for "1779," as in the original draught. This change, evidently, was made in the heading of the bill, which is not retained in the printed act On the 11th, the bill was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

On the 12th, the Assembly adopted the form of a letter to be sent to John Adams, who had been appointed minister plenipotentiary to negotiate peace with Great Britain, and to Francis Dana, his secretary of legation, for the purpose of notifying them of the passage of the act, and of the appointment of the agent, a copy of whose instructions were to be enclosed with the letter. They were specially urged to guard against every event that might tend to defeat the object of the agency, and to coöperate with the agent in case of his safe arrival; or, in case of his failure to reach his destination, to undertake the business of his commission, either in person or by proxy; and for this service the letter was considered sufficient authority.

On the 13th, the following resolve was passed, for supplying the committee on the loan with money to enable them to carry out their instructions: —

"In the House of Representatives

Resolved, That the Honble Council be and they hereby are requested to grant Warrants on the Treasury of this State in favor of the Honble Thomas Cushing Esqr. Nathaniel Gorham Samuel Phillips, Thomas Walley and Caleb Davis Esqr. who have been Appointed a Committee to prepare an Invoice of Goods to be imported from Europe, and also to procure a passage for the Agent who is appointed to Negotiate a Foreign Loan, for such sum of money not exceeding Five thousand pounds, as they may have occasion for to enable them to prosecute said Business, they to be Accountable for the sums they shall respectively receive

In Council Read and Concurred Consented to by fifteen of the Council." — Council Records, vol. XL., p. 251.

The same day, another resolve was passed, giving the agent authority to negotiate a loan in Spain, as follows: —

"In the House of Representatives

Whereas it appears to this Court, that it is probable the Agent lately appointed by said Court to procure a Loan in Europe, may be able to procure part of the same in Spain, & Whereas by the Instructions given said Agent, he is not impowered to procure said Loan in any places except France or Holland — Therefore,

Resolved, That said Agent be and he is hereby impowered to procure such a part of said Loan in the Kingdom of Spain, as the Committee appointed to give him additional Instructions, may think will be for the Interest of this State, and he is also impowered to Invest such a part of the Loan which he shall procure in Spain in Goods, as the Committee aforesaid may think proper, who are also impowered to give said Agent such further directions respecting the Loan and Goods aforesaid as they may Judge necessary. — provided they do not Exceed the sum already directed to be Invested in Goods — In Council Read and Concurred Consented to by fifteen of the Council." — Ibid., p. 256

In pursuance of his instructions, Mr. Austin, on the 22d, took passage for Bilboa in Spain; but was captured and carried a prisoner to England, where, not long after, he was liberated, through the intercession of friends, and because of the difficulty of proving anything against him sufficient to warrant his detention,—he having thrown overboard his credentials and instructions before the vessel in which he took passage had been overtaken by her captor.

Meanwhile the outfit of the ship Protector, for her intended voyage, was delayed. The season was approaching when great danger was to be apprehended from the fleets and cruisers of the enemy; and therefore, on the 19th of April, the House voted (probably in secret session, since the entries relating to this business were omitted from the journal) "that a committee be appointed to bring in a resolve for repealing that part of a resolve which passed the last session, whereby the ship Protector was ordered to Europe." The vote was carried, by thirty-five out of sixty members present; and a committee of three members was accordingly appointed, who reported the following resolve, which, after a vote to reconsider it had been voted down, was passed in the House by a vote of forty-two to thirty-two: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives. Aprl 19th 1780

Whereas by a Resolve of this Court of Jany 31st Last the Ship Protector was ordered for Europe For certain purposes mentioned in said Resolution and whereas the said Ship was not ready for Sailing so Early as was then Expected and the Season being so far advanced that we have the greatest reason to Expect the Sea Coast of this State will be Infested with the Enemyes Cruisers which makes it Necessary to Retaine the said Ship — in these Seas. Therefore

Resolved, that Each & Every Clause in said Resolution which orders said Ship for Europe be & hereby is Repeald and made null & Void — and the Board of War are hereby Directed, to order the Cruises of the said Ship in Such manner as they may Judge will most Efectualy Protect the Sea cost and Render the greatest advantage to this & the United States of Amirica [A]

And whereas it is of the greatest Importance that Speedy measures be adopted for Bringing the goods from Europe which have been ordered to be purchased for the army it is therefore further Resolved, that the Committee who were appointed to make out an Invoice of Said Goods & give additional Instructions to the agent appointed to Negoiate a Forign Loan, be & they hereby are Impowered & directed to take the most Efectual & Speedy measures for Bringing Into this State the said goods Togeather with any other Goods purchased for this State Either by agreaing with the owners of Private armed Vessels, to bring them on freight or by Directing the agent afores[d] to procure fraight for them in the Safest & Cheapest maner he Can, in Europe or in any other way (not Repugnant to the foregoing Resolutions) which the said Committee shall Judge will be most for the Intrest of this State, and the said Committee are further Directed to Imbrace the first Opertunity of writing to the agent afores[d] Directing him not to purchase any more Goods then those articles which were ordered for the use of the army but in Case he has purchased those articles ordered for this Market to Ship them in the Safest & Cheapest maner he Can Sent up for Concurrence JOHN HANCOCK Spk[r]

The committee appointed to give instructions to the agent, was thereupon "empowered to agree for a vessel to bring the goods which the agent was ordered to procure." Before this time, the owners of the ship Mars had advertised her for sale, on condition that £900 be paid for her, in hard money; and the subject of purchasing her having been considered in the House, on the 12th of April, probably with favor, the Board of War, soon after, purchased that vessel, and the question was now put, in the House, whether or not she should be sent to France to bring home the goods to be procured by the agent. This motion was negatived; but a vote was passed, empowering the committee above named "to take such measures for bringing into this state the goods ordered, as they should judge best."

Upon his release from imprisonment, Mr. Austin found his way to the continent, and energetically devoted himself to the business of his commission. The duplicates of his instructions, which had been sent to Messrs. Adams and Dana, were sufficient credentials to one who had already formed an extensive acquaintance in diplomatic circles, as the bearer of despatches conveying tidings of the capture of Burgoyne; but though he urged the importance of the success of his mission, to the French court, and suggested to Vergennes and Sartine the certainty of an adequate and profitable return, in fish, beef, pork and lumber, as well as in masts and spars for the royal navy, he could obtain from them no promise of sufficient assistance, and was equally unsuccessful in his applications to the leading merchants, and manufacturers of goods needed to clothe and equip the army.

Letters having arrived from Europe, bearing date as late as the 17th of April, and no tidings having been received of the arrival, in Europe, of Austin, or of the vessel in which he sailed, the committee appointed to prepare schedules of goods to be purchased by him, presented a memorial to the Legislature, which was first read in Council, and was sent down to the House on the 20th of June, where it was read and referred to a committee of five of the leading members, who, thereupon reported the following resolve*: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay — In the House of Representatives June 22, 1780

Whereas the General Assembly of this State did at their Session in January last appoint Jonathan Loring Austin Esq^r their Agent to procure a loan of money in Europe, and did allso impower said Agent to purchas and ship on account of this Goverment a quantity of goods &c necessary for the Army and the supply of the publick magazines — agreable to such instructions and orders as he might receive from a Committe of the General Court appointed & Authorized to give him directions accordingly —

And whereas the Committe afors^d have represented to this Court that M^r Austin agreable to their directions embarked in a Vessell bound for Bilboa in the Kingdom of Spain in prosecution of his commission afors^d — and have further represented that there is reason to suppose M^r Austin has not arrived at Bilboa afor^d in consiquence of which some further measures are become necessary to carry the good purposes of the resolve of January last into execution —

Therefore Resolved that the Board of Warr be directed and they are hereby accordingly directed to fit the Ship Mars Simeon Sampson Esq^r commander for sea as soon as possible, and when so fited deliver said Ship over to Thomas Cushing Esq^r and others the Committe of the General Court appointed to manage the business of the foreign loan afors^d whose Orders in all matters touching the destination of the Ship Mars Capt. Sampson or other commanding Officer of said Ship are hereby required and directed to obey —

And it is further Resolved that the Committe afors^d be directed and they are hereby accordingly directed to order Capt. Sampson in the Ship Mars to repair with the utmost dispatch to Nants or such other port in the Kingdom of France as they shall judge best in order to bring into this State such goods as the Committe afors^d may think proper to order in her, and the Committe afors^d are hereby impowered and directed to order any other or additional quantitys of goods on account of this State in such other Ships or Vessells as they may think proper — taking care in all cases to insure the full value of the goods so shipt and the premium thereon any resolves to the contrary notwithstanding —

And it is further Resolved that the Committe afor^d be directed to write to the Hon John Adams & the Hon Francis Dana Esq^rs earnesly requesting them to undertake the procurement of the loan afor^d agreable to the resolve of January last and to ship or give directions for shiping such goods as the Committe may think proper provided M^r Austin has not arrived in France to transact said business —

When the Mars arrived at the mouth of the Loire, on the 10th of September, Mr. Austin was at Amsterdam, on the business of his mission, and letters directed to him were accordingly forwarded to Mr. Adams, then minister resident there. These letters failed to reach the agent until after the lapse of considerable time; and this circumstance, together with the want of remittances from the state treasury, and the growing distrust of the ability of Massachusetts to repay the loans and credits asked for (caused, as Mr. Adams wrote to Mr. Austin, under date of November 13th, "by the series of events" in America, during the year previous, "which the English represent so favorable to them, and so unfortunate for us," and which, he added, seemed "to have extinguished the little remains of credit that we had before"), delayed the departure of the ship, and utterly defeated the project of obtaining the loan.

Under these circumstances, Mr. Austin contracted with a private firm, for the shipment, by way of St. Eustatia, of a quantity of clothing, of the value of £3,000; and shipped on board the Mars fifty tons of "warlike stores," belonging to the United States, which had been deposited at Nantes, subject to the order of Dr. Franklin, who had given an order for the shipment of one hundred tons of these stores, and permission to draw upon him for 12,000 livres, for the freight; but Capt. Samson, after vexatious delays in getting access to the proffered stores, was obliged to reject one-half of them, in order to leave room for the valuable private freight, useful to the army, which completed the cargo of the Mars.

The Mars sailed on the 10th of December. In the mean time the Assembly passed the following resolve*; and the receipt of the instructions therein given, was acknowledged by Mr. Austin, in a letter, dated at Nantes, December 4th, and addressed to Thomas Cushing, chairman of the committee on foreign affairs: —

"Resolv'd that the Committee on Foreign affairs be & hereby are directed to write to Mr Jona Loring Austin — to Purchase the Goods he was directed for the use of the army A at all Events B — & to direct him to Insure the first Cost of the Goods on the best terms he can, provided he can obtain mony enough on Loan for that Purpose — but if not to Insure but one half the first Cost and in Case he cannot procure mony sufficient for the Purpose last mention'd — then to Ship the Goods without any Insurance —

And in Case there should be any Chance of Convoy — to direct him to Cause Capt Sampson C to detain his Ship a fortnight for that Purpose —

Early in November, Mr. Austin was thinking of returning in the Mars, from his unsuccessful mission, and he then consulted with Mr. Adams as to the propriety of this course. The latter, while declining to advise him, wrote, under date of November 13th, that he saw no prospect of advantages from remaining in Europe; that "we have no reason to expect any news this year, that will make any considerable change in our credit: even the Burgoyning of Cornwallis would not;" and continued, "our countrymen will build upon sandy foundations if they depend upon anything but their own industry and resources," concluding with this declaration and advice: "I know not what further, or better, could have been done; and the best way is to explain the whole to your constituents, with the utmost frankness and simplicity." As the time of the departure of the Mars drew near, Mr. Austin concluded to remain, for the reasons expressed by him in the following extract from his letter of November 28th: —

"I would now return in the Mars confident a longer Stay here could not be attended with any Success, situated as I am, if I had received your Letters in Answer to those I have wrote; but as its possible on the representations I have made, the Government may order a different mode of proceedure, & enable me by the Contents of their next Letters to procure the Cloathing which will be as much wanted this year as next I have concluded to wait your further Commands, althô was I to consult my own Inclination aside of the public Business I should not hesitate a moment how to proceed. Permit me therefore earnestly to request as speedy a Reply as possible to this & my former Letters, & if the General Assembly should finally conclude to defer for the present all Supplies from Europe, & depend upon furnishing every Necessary within themselves, to entreat, such Remittances may be immediately made, as will enable me to discharge with Honor the Debt I have been obliged to contract with my Friend for my necessary Support & Subsistance." — Ibid., vol. 231, p. 495.

About two months after the date of the foregoing letter, the Legislature passed the following resolves for the purchase of bills of exchange, to discharge the debt contracted by Mr. Austin: —

"Common Wealth of Massachusets — In the House of Representatives Jany. 24: 1781

The Mars arrived home safely, bringing advices from the agent. For more than four months the state had been organized as an independent Commonwealth, under the state Constitution; and the letters from the agent, including the letter from which the above passage is extracted, were referred, March 3, 1781, to a joint committee, consisting of Nathaniel Gorham of the Senate, and General Warren and Benjamin Austin of the House, to take them into consideration, and make report thereon. On the 6th, this committee reported the following resolves: * —

"Common Wealth of Massachusetts In Senate March 6th 1781 —

Whereas it appears by the letters & accompts recd. from Jona Loring Austin and Jonathan Williams Esqrs by the Ship Mars from France — that there is a considerable sum of money due to said Jona Williams Esqr for disburstments upon the Ship Mars while in France, and for advances made by him to Mr. Austin, in order to to enable saidAustin to pay the expences incured for his support while in France and Holland in the prosecution of the Commission with which he was charged by this Government —

Therefore Resolved that the Treasurer of this Common Wealth be directed, and he is here accordingly directed to pay to His Honor Thomas Cushing Esqr and others the Committe of foreign affairs out of the first moneys that come into his hands the sum of eighteen hundred and thirty pounds money of the New Emission, which said Committe are directed to vest in Bills of exchange and remit the same to Jonathan Loring Austin Esqr in order to discharge the debt due to Mr Williams for disburstments on the Ship Mars and for money advanced to sd Austin as aford the said Austin to be accountable for the expenditure of the money that shall be remited to him by the Committe afors in consiquenc of this resolve —

Besides the invaluable assistance which Mr. Williams had rendered the agent, in various ways, the sum advanced by him on account of the ship Mars, for wages, stores, etc., amounted to more than £23,000, part of which he had been reimbursed out of the money obtained from Dr. Franklin, and from other sources. Besides this, Mr. Williams had furnished the agent with the means of subsistence, during his stay abroad.

The following is the letter from Mr. Williams, referred to in the preamble to the foregoing resolve: —

Honble Gentlemen

The Massachusetts State ship Mars arrived here to the Address of Mr Austin who was then in Holland. She was consequently detained in an inactive State 'till his arrival in this Place

Mr Austin communicated to me the Situation of the Ship and the State affairs under his Direction; and from a real Concern for the Welfare of the State in which I was born, & to which I am sure I cannot outlive my attachment, I supplied both him and the Ship as he will inform you. I refer you to him for further Particulars and hope my Conduct will meet your approbation, Mr Austins Letters to you will represent the necessity of speedy Remittances to wipe off his & my Engagements.

Chap. 32. In the first session of the General Court this year, a committee was appointed, in the House, "to consider what is proper to be done to prevent vexatious suits' being brought against committees who were appointed by the authority of the late provincial congress, for any matter done by them in the execution of their office." This was on the 14th of June, and, five days later, the committee reported a resolve "determining that, for the future, no process shall be brought against them, or against selectmen, in consequence of the discharge of their duty, without first obtaining liberty from the General Court." The Council nonconcurred in this resolve, and nothing further upon the subject was done until the fourth session, when the following letter was read in the House, and committed to General Warren, Major Washburn and Colonel Grout, of the House, and William Sever and John Pitts, of the Council, with directions "to consider the matter at large, and report a bill of indemnification, and to prevent prosecutions of a like kind:" —

"Plymo 29. March 1780

Dear Sir

A curious matter turned up yesterday, of which I think my sellf obliged to Inform you — An Action is commenced, by Jno Thomas, Against Stephen Samson, Jesse Harlow & Stephen Churchil, for two hundred wt of Tea, Destroyed by them, by order of the County Convention, setting in this place in the year 1774, of which matter I have no need of being particulor, as you was mamber of this Convention & the Chairman.— wont it be necessary to preclude, by an act or Resolution of ye Genl Court, such suits as these, and so confirm the doings of conventions & Committees in times when they were necessary and of whose resolutions & doings such salutary effects have been produced — You will consider of this matter & will, I doubt not, do what is necessary —

* Printed resolves of the January session, chapter CCVI.

Your good Family are all well & nothing very material has occurd since you left us —
I am Respectfully Your Friend & Humbl Sert
Hon[l] James Warren Esq[r] Wm Watson
N B The Tories interest themselves very much in this matter & Intend to bring actions of this nature for every thing that has been done to them — if Thomas succeds." — Mass. Files: Bills, 1780.

The committee appointed as above, reported the bill of this chapter, which was read a first time, in Council, on the sixth of April. On the 8th, it was read a second time, and amended by substituting the title and preamble as they stand in the act, for the following, as reported by the committee: —

"An Act to Indemnify & secure from prosecutions in Law all Persons who in the late Times of distraction under the Tyrannical Goverment of George the third King of Great Britain have by an open & patriotic opposition thereunto, Exposed themselves in Certain Instances to actions of Damages & other Prosecutions Whereas in the late Times of distraction under the Goverment of the British King it became necessary that open opposition should be made to the violent measures then Taken for the distruction of the Rights & Liberties of the people of this State, & that Persons & property should be taken & property in some Instances destroyed, and Whereas divers of the Good People within this State, did at the Utmost risque of their Persons & property stand forth in opposition to the violent, & distructive Measures of the Goverment aforesaid, & are now threatned with or actually have actions of Damages, or other prosecutions Commenced against them, by Evil & Disaffected Men." — Ibid.

The bill having been sent down for concurrence, on the 8th, was, on that day, read three times in the House, and still further amended, by inserting the words in the eighth and ninth lines of the act, beginning with "first," and ending with "the," and adding "first day of January, Anno Domini one thousand seven hundred and eighty," in place of the following passage in the bill: " day of A.D. 17 , and before the day of A.D. 17 ." This amendment was concurred in by the Council, on the same day; and on the the 10th, the bill was passed to be enacted by both branches, and was consented to by fifteen of the Council; after which, Samuel Adams came down with a message from the Council, proposing the substitution of the date in the act, for Jan. 1, 1780, the date fixed in the previous amendment. Mr. White was thereupon sent up to the Council, to inform them that the House agreed to the proposed amendment, and the bill was changed, accordingly, by interlining the new date.

Chap. 33. On the 18th of March, 1777, the following petition from the inhabitants of the plantation of New Providence, together with the accompanying petition of the inhabitants of Gageborough and the copy of the vote of that town, was read, in the House, and referred to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Pynchon, Root and Jewett: —

The committee, on the next day, reported an order of notice to be served on the clerks of the plantation of New Providence and the town of Gageborough, returnable on the second Tuesday of April, following; but the loss of the journals of the House from that date to the close of the legislative year, precludes the possibility of learning what proceedings, if any, were had upon the return of the notice.

This appears to have been the first attempt to unite the inhabitants of New Providence with one of the adjoining towns. The name of Gageborough was changed to Windsor, Oct. 16, 1778, by chapter 23, of the acts of that year. Less than four months later, the following petition by inhabitants of Windsor, Adams and New Providence, was read in the House, and referred to Messrs. Farley, Peck and Clark, the committee appointed on the papers relating to the incorporation of Cummington, as shown in the note to chapter 6, p. 1242, ante: —

No further action upon this petition has been discovered.

The consideration of this subject was renewed in the second session of the next Assembly, through the action of the committee on the tax bill, which gave occasion for the following petition: —

This petition was read, in the House, Sept. 13, 1779, and committed to Messrs. Williams, Singletary and Morton, who were directed "to revise the laws, and see if effectual provision is not made in regard to assessing and collecting taxes in plantations, and if not, to report a bill for that purpose." On the 28th, this committee reported that there was, already, sufficient provision made for assessing and collecting taxes in plantations, "and that the state treasurer be directed to govern himself accordingly."* The committee also reported that the prayer of the petitioners, for a committee to view their situation, etc., "be granted, and that a committee of both houses be appointed for that purpose, the petitioners paying them their charge and expense."

This report was read, and recommitted to be drawn into a resolve, and Mr. Turner was put upon the committee in place of Mr. Singletary, who was absent. On the 29th, the committee reported two resolves, which were passed by both branches, in concurrence. The former of these appears in the note to chapter 30, ante, and the latter† was as follows:—

"State of Massachusetts Bay — In the House of Representatives Sept^r 29^th 1779

At what time this committee repaired to New Providence in compliance with this resolve, does not appear; but the following letter and copies of votes, which accompanied the same, indicate that it was before the 10th of November:—

The following is the report of the committee, which was read, in Council, March 27, 1780, and accepted, in concurrence, on the next day:—

"The Committee appointed by both Houses upon the Petition of the Inhabitants of the Plantation Called New-Providence praying the General Court to send a Committee to view their Situation and Incorporate them with the North West Corner of Windsor, and the South part of the Town of Adams, into a Town; having given proper notice to all parties concerned, have attended that service and beg leave to report as their opinion that the plantation called New Providence in the County of Berkshire be Incorporated with and annexed to the Town of Adams. — and that a Bill be brought in for that purpose accordingly. NOAH GOODMAN per order."— Ibid., p. 266.

In accordance with the above report, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in Council, March 30th, and, on the next day, passed to be engrossed, and sent down for concurrence. On the 6th of April, it was passed by the House, in concurrence, to be engrossed, and on the 10th, was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

During the first session of the next Legislature, an effort was made by the inhabitants of the town of Adams, to procure the repeal of this act. The following is the petition presented for this purpose, signed by Ezekiel Harrington and one hundred and twelve others, together with a certificate annexed, to show the proportion of the town's taxes paid by the petitioners:—

The following counter-petition, signed by Philip Mason and eighty-seven others, was also filed: —

"To the Honourable Council and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled at Boston

Both these petitions were referred, June 13, 1780, to a committee of the House, consisting of Messrs. Warren, Goodman and Hastings, who reported, on the 15th, that the petitioners have leave to withdraw. This report, nowever, was not accepted, but an order was passed, "That the petition lie upon the files of the House." On the 14th of March, 1793, the town of Cheshire was incorporated, embracing with other contiguous lands the territory annexed to the town of Adams by this chapter.

Chap. 34. The following copies from the town records of Sudbury show the attempts that were made to effect a division of the town, before application was made to the Legislature: —

"At a Leagall Town meeting in Sudbury June 25th 1778. The Second article to be acted upon at Said Meeting was to See if the Town would vote to Divide the Town of Sudbury and make it two Towns, and take the nesesary Steps therefor

These attempts having failed, the inhabitants of the easterly part of the town presented to the Assembly the following petition, at the fourth session in the year 1778-79: —

"To the honorable the Council and House of Representitives of the State of Massachusetts Bay, in New-England.

The Petition of us the Subscribers Inhabitants of the easterly Part of the town of Sudbury humbly sheweth,

That whereas many & great Difficulties and Inconveniencies intirely unavoidable by us in Consequence of our present connected Situation (being united in all our Town Affairs with the westerly Part of sd Sudbury) lay with peculiar and heavy Weight upon us; which we shall hereafter endeavour to set forth in this Petition in as clear and just Light as the Nature of the thing will possiby admit of.

Ist All our publick meetings to transact Town Affairs are attended with great fatigue and Difficulties by Reason of the Distance, which many of the Inhabitants of the Town live from the Places appointed for meeting: (Numbers having to travel six and seven Miles) by reason of this Distance the Time and Expence must be double in transacting Business to what might be necessary; or some worthy Inhabitants must unavoidably be deprived of a privilege of disposing of their Property in publick Grants; a Privilege which is one grand Barrier of public Safety and Happiness, and to which all mankind are by Nature Justly intitled.

This Difficulty appears a most aggravated Burden and presses upon us with additional Weight which demands our utmost Endeavours for a removel, when we take into Consideration the absolute necessity of repeated Town meetings in the present Exegencies of publick Affairs. —

IId The Town in its present Situation being so very extensive the Officers to transact Town Business by Reason of their Distance from each other are involved in inconceivable imbarrasments, by reason of which men the most capable are discouraged from accepting Officies which they would otherwise execute with Honor to themselves Fidelity to their Trust and great Benefit to their Constituents; the publick Business greivously retarded, and the Town involved in Errors almost irretreivable.

We feel the sad Effects of this Incumberance very peculiarly at the present Day, when (as is customary in other Towns in the State, as well as in this) the raising of men to augment the Army of the united States, is intrusted to the Town in Conjunction with the Millitary Officers; for now the Expences are greatly inhanct to what they would be were the Officers more compact, our Army neglected, and the glorious Cause we are engaged in greatly injured. —

From a mature and deliberate Consideration of these Greivences and to obtain a regular and speedy Releife therefrom, (previous to our Application to your Honors, for your desicive Determination upon the Matter) we have, in order to secure and promote Peace and Harmony betwixt Friends and Neighbours, made Application to Sd Town in publick Town meeting called for that purpose desiring their Consent for a Division of Sd Town, and that we might be incorporated into two distinct Towns; It being the general Oppinion of the Inhabitants of the Town that it is sufficient in Dimentions and Numbers to make two Towns, as will hereafter appear by the Votes of Sd Town. (Those on the west side of the River in Sd Town, being many more in Number than those on the east Side,) have so far granted our Request, as to repeatedly vote there be a Division made in the Town, & that the River Running through Sd Town be the Line of Division with the Addition of two Farms which lay upon the west side of the River: This we think is a very unequal Division; as thereby the westerly Division will contain more than two Thirds of the Land in Sd Town: And therefore pray your Honrs to take our Greivences with the Proceedings of the sd Town into your wise and judicious Consideration and appoint a Committee to settle a just Line between us: & order Such Divisions & Regulations as may be Necessary And your Petitioners as in Duty bound shall ever pray. —

Sudbury Febr 22d 1779

N. B. We suppose a just & equal Division may be made without the removal of either Meeting-House or the laying out any new Road"—[Signed by Joseph Curtis and one hundred and twenty-one others].— Ibid., p. 89.

The foregoing petition was read, in the House, April 23, and committed to Messrs. Hosmer, Page and Greenleaf, who, on the third of May, submitted a report, which has not been discovered. No further legislative action upon the subject appears to have been had during that political year.

During the first session of the next Legislature, the above petition was revived, in the House, and again committed; and on June 11th, the next day after this commitment, the following resolve* was passed, upon the report of this committee: —

"In the House of Representatives June y^e^ 11 1779 —

On the Petition of Joseph Curtis and others Inhabitants of the Easterly Part of Sudbury Praying they may be set off into a Separate Town for reasons mentioned in said Petition and that a Committee may be appointed by this Court to view said Town of Sudbury and report a Division Line to be setled between them. Therefore: —

Resolved that Samuel Austin & William Brown Esq^rs^ with such as the Hon^ble^ Board shall Joyn be a Committee to Repair to the Town of Sudbury hear the parties & view the Circumstances of said Town and make Report to this Court on the second wednesday of the next Sitting of the General Court what ought to be done and that the Cost of said Committee be paid by the Petitioners Sent up for Concurrence JOHN HANCOCK Spk^r^

The committee appointed by the foregoing resolve, reported at the third session, as follows: —

"The Committee of both Houses appointed on the Petition of Joseph Curtis & others inhabitants of the Easterly part of the Town of Sudbury, praying for a Committee of this Court to settle a just Line, & order such Divisions & Regulations as may be necessary between them, and the Westerly part of the Town, and Ordered to repair to Sudbury, hear the parties, View the Circumstances of said Town and report what Ought to be done —

Report, that having duly notified the Town of Sudbury, by notifying the Clerk of said Town; of time and Place of meeting: and being met by the Select Men, together with a large number of other most respectable Gentlemen belonging to the westerly part of said Town, we spent several Days in hearing the parties, & Viewing the circumstances of said Town And after the most deliberate Consideration, your Committee are clearly, and Unanimously, of Opinion; that it will greatly contribute to the convenience, & peace, of both Parties, and serve the publick Interest, that said Town be Divided into two Seperate Towns, by the following Line Viz. Beginning with the River between Concord & Lincoln, thence to run with the River, till it comes to the Mouth of the Ditch on the westerly Side of said River, between the Meadows, of W^m^ Baldwin Esq and Eliakim Rice, thence on said Ditch to the County Road leading to Stow, Crossing said Road, and bounding on the Southerly Side thereof, till it comes to the Line between the Land of Nath^l^ Rice, and Jon^a^ Carter, thence Southwesterly with the Line between said Rice, & Carter, to the Land of L^t^ Elisha Wheeler, then running Easterly with the line between said Carter & said Wheeler to the County Road leading to Marlboro, thence running up and bounding on the westerly Side of said road till it comes opposite to the line between the lands belonging to the Heirs of L^t^ Dan^l^ Goodenow, Deceas'd, & land in possession of Robert Eames, at sandy Hill (so called) thence Crossing said road to the corner aforesaid, thence running to a Swamp white oak Tree near the head of Cap^t^ Moses Maynards Meadow, thence running a strait line to a swamp white oak Tree standing on the Bank of the River Easterly from the Dwelling House of Cap^t^ Moses Stone, thence up, & with s^d^ River to framingham Line.—

And further it is the Opinion of your Committee that the Bridges and long Causeways over the River & Meadows near M^r^ Jon^a^ Carters; shall for ever hereafter be supported and maintained by the two Towns in equal proportion, the said Bridge and Causeways lying within the limits of the Easterly Town notwithstanding; and that all the Monies or Estates heretofore given by any Person or Persons to the Town of Sudbury Should be equally divided, to each Town & they respectively empowered to dispose of their respective Moieties agreable to the direction of the Donors —

And that the Town Stock of Arms & Ammunition be divided to each Town in Equal proportion according to the number of persons that are obliged to Bear Arms, in each Town —

And that the Petitioners have liberty to bring in a Bill for the purposes aforesaid —

The vote by which the House concurred in the vote of acceptance of the above report, stood thirty-three to twenty-six; and on the first day of December, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the Council. On the next day, it was read again, and sent down. On the 3d, it was read a first time, in the House, and the consideration thereof "referred to the next sitting of the General Court."

While the Assembly was holding its second session, the inhabitants of the town of Sudbury held a meeting, of which the following is the record: —

Printed resolves of the May session, chapter LXXXVII.

"At a Legall Town Meeting in Sudbury Sept^r 20 1779
On a Motion made to Instruct their Representative to oppose a Division of the Town of Sudbury Unanimously Voted the following Instructions
To Capt. Jonathan Rice
S^r Notwithstanding a former vote of the Town for Dividing the Same by the River, yet upon more Maturely Considering the Scituation, and viewing the Circumstancis of the Town, we are fully of Opinion that a Division of the Same cannot take place without prejudice to the one part or the other. You are therefore directed to use your utmost Endeavours to prevent any Division of Said Town

Besides instructing their representatives, as above, a committee of the inhabitants, chosen for the purpose, presented the following protest against the proposed division of the town: —

"State of the Massachusetts Bay } To the honorable the Council & the honorable the house of Representatives of said State in General Court assembled at Boston, Dec^r 1779

Ezekiel How, Thomas Plympton & William Rice jun^r (a Committee from the Town of Sudbury, & specially impowered by said Town for the Purpose,) most respectfully shew,

That it is with the greatest Regret & Concern that a Major Part of the Inhabitants of said Town understand that a Bill hath been brought foward in the General Court for the dividing of said Town & making two seperate Corporations of the same: They therefore beg leave in behalf of said Town to submit the following Reasons against said Bill passing into a Law, to your Honors Consideration —

First. A Major Part of the Inhabitants are greatly averse to the proposed Separation.

Secondly. That they humbly conceive that the splitting of Towns Rarely conduces to the public Interest at any Period; but at this particular Time, the multiplying Towns may operate greatly to the public Detriment, bacause a Constitution of civil Government for this State is not yet compleated.

But should the honorable Assembly, still think proper to sustain the Bill, they beg leave to object to its passing in its present Form, for these Reasons; Said Bill proposes that the intended Westerly Town, shall support one half of the great Causeways & Bridges on the Easterly Part of the present Town, notwithstanding, should the Division take place, the Westerly Town will be saddled with nearly double the Expence of necessary Highway Repairs, which the Easterly Town will be subject to; In addition to which according to the Division Line run by said Bill, all the Gravel which is appropriated for the Repair of s^d Causeway by the present Town, will lie within the Easterly Town, & consequently they be intitled to the exclusive Privilege of using it: That by said proposed Division, all the One only excepted Poor belonging to the present Town will be thrown for Support on the Westerly Town only: That the proposed Line will cut off a large training Field from the Westerly Town; which was specially appropriated by the original Donors to the Benefit of the West Parish of the now single Town; That a Number of Inhabitants will be greatly injured as Individuals, should the proposed Line of Division take place, all which can be made sufficiently to appear; For these & other Reasons which can be offered, your Petitioners, in behalf of said Town of Sudbury, pray that no Division of said Town, untill a new Constitution shall be adopted, may be made; And if this cannot be conceded to, at least that said Bill may be recommitted & said Town by their Agents be farther heard respecting the Premisses.

And your Petitioners as in Duty bound shall ever pray.

The following additional remonstrance was presented at the same session: —

"State of the Massachusetts Bay }

To the honorable the Council & the honorable the House of Representatives in General Court assembled at Boston December, 1779 —

Caleb Wheeler, Robert Eames, Isaac Hunt jun^r, Sam^l Hunt & Moses Stone humbly shew,

That they are Inhabitants of the Town of Sudbury, & having heard that a Bill is now pending before the Honorable Assembly to make a Division of said Town & erect the same into distinct Corporations beg leave to submit the following Reasons against said Bill being passed into a Law, to your Honors wise Consideration.

That by the Division Line laid down in said Bill the House & farm of your Petitioner Caleb Wheeler is set off to the Easterly Town, whereas they lay on the Westerly Side of the River, Whereby should such easterly Town be incorporated, your Petitioner will loose the privilege, in a great Measure of the Town School, & be otherwise subjected to great Disadvantages.

That by the Division Line pointed out by said Bill, the Houses & Farms of your other Petitioners Robert Eames, Isaac Hunt jun^r, Sam^l. Hunt, & Moses Stone are each placed in two Divisions, the Houses will lie in the West Town, & the greatest part of the Farms each own, in the East Town, by Means of which their Estates will be lessened in their Value, & they, otherwise, subjected to great Inconveniences.

They therefore pray, that said Bill may not pass into a Law: But if your Honors should think any Bill of the like nature expedient, they pray that they may be heard previous to a Law being passed, as they presume they can satisfy your Honors, that a Division Line may be run without Injury to your Petitioners, & at the same Time without any Disadvantage to the proposed Easterly Town. And your Petitioner as in Duty bound shall ever pray

The date of the presentation of the foregoing remonstrances has not been ascertained, for want of a copy of the House Journal between December, 1779, and April, 1780. For the same reason the date of the following report is unknown; but it is supposed to have been made within the above period; probably about March 23, 1780, when the bill appears, by a memorandum endorsed thereon, to have been recommitted. A memorandum on the original report denotes that it was accepted: —

"The Committee To whom was refer'd the petition of the Com^tee on behalf of the Town Sudbury and also the petition of Caleb Wheeler and others Inhabitants of s^d Sudbury praying that the bill now pending before the Hon^ble Assembly for dividing said Town may not pass into a Law or att least that said Bill may be recommitted & that they by their Agents be further heard respecting the premes —

Your Committe have attended that Service & having fully heard the parties on their Sevaral petitions & duly Considered the Same beg leave to report, That the principle grievances Complaind of by the Com^tee of Sudbury is remedied in the Bill for dividing said Town, & that said Town of Sudbury in its present Scituation is Subjected to very great disadvantages, which renders it necessary that it should be divided, which in the Opinion of your Com^tee will Conduce to the Interest of both Eastern & Western part and that no other Line Can be drawn that will do Equall Justice to Each party better than the Line agreed upon by the Com^tee who reported the division, and that the bill pass in all Respects as though it had not been referr'd to this present Session." — Ibid.

In a petition to the General Court, dated March 6, 1780, one hundred and sixteen of the inhabitants of the easterly part of the town represented that sundry inhabitants of the town had voted that the town pay £300 to defray the expenses of a committee chosen by them to appear at the third session of the Legislature, to oppose the division recommended by the legislative committee; that the meeting for this purpose had been warned by the selectmen, by posting a notice at the door of the meeting-house, on Sunday, the fifth of December, and that the meeting was held on the sixth, and adjourned to the seventh, when the further sum of £300 was voted for the same purpose; and that an assessment had been ordered for collecting these sums from the inhabitants. The petitioners objecting to the legality and equity of these transactions (most of them having received no notice of the meeting), prayed the General Court to take these proceedings of the town into their consideration, "and grant them some relief from such an unlawful tax, as they in their great wisdom and wonted goodness shall think best."

The bill of this chapter was taken up, in the House, March 23, 1780, and committed to Messrs. Brown of Framingham, Perry and Gerrish, and on the 6th of April, having been read three times, it was passed in concurrence, to be engrossed, with four amendments; one, substituting "eighty" for "seventy-nine," in the heading, and another inserting the preamble as it stands in the act, for the following form, reported in the bill: "Whereas the inhabitants of the easterly part of the town of Sudbury, in the county of Middlesex, have represented to this court that they labour under many difficulties in their present situation, for the remedying of which they earnestly request they may be incorporated into a separate town by the name of East Sudbury;" still another, adding the last sentence in the second section; and the last, adding the third section to the act. The bill was then sent up to the Council, for concurrence, where a vote of concurrence was passed on the next day, and on the tenth, it was passed to be enacted. It was signed by fifteen of the Council.

The following petition sufficiently explains the origin and purpose of the resolve* which it precedes: —

To the Hon^e Council & Hon^le House of Representatives in Gen^l Court Assembled.

The Petetion of Jonathan Rice Humbly sheweth —

That the Great and General Court of this State did in their Session in April 1780 — Incorporate into a separate Town: a part of the Town of Sudbury, by the name of East Sudbury: & in the Act for Incorporating said Town of East Sudbury it was provided; that they the Inhabitants of East Sudbury aforesaid, should be held to pay their proportion of all the Taxes Granted or that should be Granted to be Assessed on the Inhabitants of the Town of Sudbury: during their then Session.

But no provision being made in said Act to impower the State Treasurer to direct his warrants to the Constables or Collectors of East Sudbury to Collect any part of the Taxes aforesaid. —

Your Petetioner therefore humbly prays you Honors to take the matter into your wise consideration and pass such order thereon, as shall remove the difficulty Suggested in the foregoing petetion. —

Chap. 35. The town records of Mendon show that as early as May, 1739, John Jones and others presented a petition, to the inhabitants, in town meeting, asking to be set off "a particular town, by themselves." The inhabitants refused to grant the prayer of this petition, and confirmed this refusal by a second vote at the same meeting,— the former vote having been doubted. The particular reasons for this request have not been ascertained; but it appears that within two years after the presentation of this petition, certain difficulties between the Rev. Mr. Dorr, the minister of Mendon, and members of his church and congregation, had resulted in the calling of an ecclesiastical council which had pronounced against the minister, and that, in the town meeting on the second day of March, 1740-41, Mr. Dorr had succeeded in procuring the passage of votes expressing confidence in him, and agreeing to choose a committee of three persons to unite with another committee, to be chosen by such members of his church as adhered to him, in calling another council. Against these votes, as also a vote to adjourn to the 16th, a respectable minority had protested; notwithstanding which, the adjourned meeting was held, and a committee chosen, upon the motion of Mr. Dorr.

The subject of the above controversy was brought to the attention of the next Assembly, in its first session; and on the 16th of July, 1741, the following order was passed in the House: —

"A Petition of Thomas Tenney & a great number of others Inhabitants of Mendon; Setting forth the Controversies they have had and still have with their Minister Mr. Joseph Dorr, upon which they have had the advice of an Ecclesiastical Council, which the said Mr. Dorr refuses to comply with or to do any thing to give the Petitioners a reasonable satisfaction; and therefore Praying that they may be set off as a separate Precinct or otherwise relieved in the premisses.

In the House of Representvs Read and Ordered that the Petitioners serve one or more of the Select men of the town of Mendon with a Copy of this Petition that they shew cause if any they have on Tuesday the Twenty Eighth day of July currant why the prayer thereof should not be granted.

In Council; Read and Concur'd Consented to J: BELCHER." — Council Records, vol. XVII., book 3, p. 15.

The petition was read again July 29th, together with the answer of Samuel Morse and others, agents of the town of Mendon, and immediately referred to a joint committee, consisting of the Speaker and six members of the House, and five members of the Council. This answer has not been found in the archives; but the committee was charged "to hear the parties forthwith, and report thereon."

On the last day of the session (Aug. 8th) the report of the above committee was read and accepted in the Council; but the House nonconcurred, and passed an order "that the report be referred till the fall sessions, for further consideration." With this vote, the Council, in turn, nonconcurred, and voted to adhere to their own vote; whereupon the House again voted a nonconcurrence.

During the third session, the town voted (Sept. 22nd) its consent that the territory east of Mill River "be set off, as a separate town, but that they would not allow the new town any portion of the ministry or school land, or of the money accruing from the sale of any part of the same." *

Upon this action by the town, the following petitions were presented and considered in the House, early in the November session: —

"To his Excellency William Shirley Esqr. Capt. General & Governr. in chief in and Over his Majesties province of the Massachusetts Bay &c And to the Honble the Council & the House of Representatives of Sd. province in General Court or Assembly, this 25th of November 1741–

On the 27th of November, an order was passed on the above petition, that the prayer thereof be so far granted as that the petitioners be allowed to bring in a bill for a township, agreeable to the vote of the town of Mendon, at their meeting September 22, 1741. This order was sent, the next day, to the Council, where a vote was passed concurring therein, with an amendment, substituting the following words for the words printed in Italics, in the order: —

"with their Families & Estates be erected into a separate precinct according to the Bounds contained in the Vote of the Town of Mendon pass'd the 22d of Sept. last, And that the Inhabitants be invested with the powers & privileges of the Inhabitants of other precincts within this Province."— Ibid., p. 197.

The House refused to concur in the proposed amendment and insisted upon their own vote, whereupon, on the 30th, the Council voted a nonconcurrence. On the 4th of December, the subject was again brought up by a message from the House, requesting the Council to reconsider their last vote, which they accordingly did; but, upon another vote, they refused to concur with the vote of the House, and voted to adhere to their amendment.

The House now ordered the petitioners to notify the town of Mendon to appear on the 16th, if the court should be then in session, or, if not, on the first Thursday of the next session, to show cause "why the prayer thereof should not be granted with respect to their being made a precinct." No record of a hearing on the 16th, has been found; but a memorandum upon the petition shows that the House then voted to nonconcur in the above last vote of the Council.

No further action on the above petition than has been already described, appears of record in the journals of the House. The following vote upon that petition, however, preceded by a brief statement of the prayer thereof, appears in the legislative records of the Council; and both the petition and vote are here printed from the originals remaining in the state archives: —

"In the House of Repves Decr 22d 1741 —

On the 8th of June, 1742, the petition of John Holbrook and others, of the town of Bellingham, and James Albee and others, of Mendon, praying that a certain part of the latter town be set off to Bellingham, was read, and after notice thereon to the town of Mendon, returnable on the first Friday of the next session, and upon consideration of the answer of a committee of the town of Bellingham the petition was dismissed on the third of September.

The petitioners, in this instance, alleged "that, by reason of the great number of sectaries in Bellingham, the remaining part are not able to support a gospel minister, and that the petitioners of Mendon are commodiously situated for Bellingham."

The above appears to have been the only attempt to change the territorial condition of the precinct as established in 1741, save that, on the 10th of August, 1744, the following vote was passed, upon the petition of the inhabitants of the precinct, "shewing the difficulties they meet with by reason of the uncertainty of their bounds, as described by the order of the Court, and praying that their bounds may be more plainly described, and that they may be impowered to lay a tax on the unimproved lands belonging to non-residents, for the charge of building a meeting-house and settling and supporting a minister in the said precinct:" —

"In the House of Representᵗʸᵉˢ; Read & forasmuch as in the Vote of the General Court constituting them a Precinct, the Southerly Bounds thereof were not described: Therefore Voted that the Southerly Bounds of said Precinct be the Country Road from Bellingham Line, to Sheffields Mill to the Eight Rod Road (so called) which is agreable to the Vote of the Town of Mendon, pass'd September 22. 1741." — Council Records, vol. XVII., book 4, p. 471.

Upon the second prayer of the petition, the Legislature ordered notice to the proprietors of unimproved lands in the precinct, returnable on the first Wednesday of the next session. At the time appointed, although the record shows no direct action upon this petition, another petition was read in the House, and notice thereof ordered to be served on the town of Mendon. This petition was by William Sheffield, John Sprague and Nehemiah Nelson, all of Mendon, "shewing their dissatisfaction at their being rated to the support of the ministry in the new precinct in said town, — the meeting-house being placed at such a distance from them that they can have no benefit by it; and therefore praying that they and their estates may yet remain in the old precinct, and the tax aforesaid taken off from them." To this petition the town made answer, and, on the first of December, the petition was ordered to be dismissed. Neither of the above petitions, read, respectively, in August and October, has been found in the state archives.

The proceedings which resulted in the enactment of the present chapter, began with a vote of the inhabitants of the town of Mendon, at a town meeting held, March 15, 1779, by adjournment from the first day of the month, on the question whether or not "the town will vote off the easterly precinct in said town, to be a separate town, agreeable to the tenth article in the warrant?" — which was answered in the affirmative, by a vote of sixty-seven to sixty, taken on a division of the polls. On the 12th of April, at a meeting duly warned, the town chose a committee of three, to confer with a committee of the easterly precinct, "to see how, and in what manner, said precinct shall be set off as a town." On the third day of May, the two committees submitted the following reports; whereupon it was "Voted, that the boundary line between the town of Mendon and the easterly precinct, when set off into a separate town, be the middle of the Eight-rod Road (so called), to Upton line:" —

"Mendon 3ʳᵈ May 1779 we the Subscribers being a Committee Chosen by the Town of sᵈ Mendon at their last Town meeting to meet a Committee of the Second Precinct of sᵈ Mendon to Consult and agree with sᵈ Committee on Such Conditions and articles as would be proper for said Town and said Precinct to Come into — in Case said Precinct Should be Set off by the General Court (of this State) into a Distinct Town — and to make report of our doings at the then Next meeting of said Town for the Choise of a Represᵛᵉ we having attended sᵈ Service with the Committee of the Second Precinct Chosen for that purpose and have agreed upon the following Articles (viz)

On the 19th of the same month,* the above report was accepted by the inhabitants, in a town meeting, and at the same time it was voted to settle the boundary between the two towns agreeably to the vote of the inhabitants at the previous town meeting.

During the first session of the next Assembly no movement appears to have been made to secure a confirmation of the division thus mutually agreed upon between the two towns; but in the second session the following petition was read, in the House, September 15th, and referred to Messrs. Farley, Perry and Thurston: —

To the Honourable Council and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled at Boston September 8th 1779

The Inhabitants of the Easterly Precinct in Mendon, in the County of Worcester, in said State, Humbly shew, that they your Honour's Petitioners have been set off from the Town of Mendon as a Precinct, between Thirty and Forty Years — that your Petitioners are humbly of Opinion that if they were set off as a seperate Town from the Town of Mendon it might be for the Advantage of both Parts of said Town; as it's Extent as it now lieth is large, and many People have Six or Seven Miles to go to attend Town Meetings, which Meetings of late Years by the Difficulties of the Times are become more frequent and cannot be avoided — that if said Town was divided it would bring Publick Business into much less Compass — that your Petitioners have made Application to said Town to see if they would Consent and Agree that the said Inhabitants of said Precinct, consisting of more than One Hundred Families, with all the Lands belonging to said Town lying on the Northwardly side of the Country Road and on the Eastwardly side of the Road called the Eight Rod Road should be set off from the Town of Mendon as a seperate Town; which Request the said Town has granted and agreed to, together with our proportionable Part of the Ministry and School Money, and Town stock of Arms and Ammunition belonging to said Town, and also your Petitioner's proportionable Part of the Poor belonging to said Town which are now a Town Charge; to all which the Two Parts of the said Town have agreed, as by Records doth appear.

We your Petitioners therefore pray that your Honours would take this our Request and humble Petition under your wise Consideration, & set off the Inhabitants of Said Precinct into a seperate Town, by the Name of - - - to the Bounds as hereafter mentioned; Namely; Begining at the Southeasterly Corner at a Heap of Stones in Bellingham Line on the North side of the Country Road by said Road; then running Westwardly and bounding Southwardly by said Road untill it comes to a Road called the Eight Rod Road (now reduced by said Town to a Four Rod Road) lying at a Place called the Neck; then running Northwardly and bounding Westwardly by said Road as it is now stated by said Town, untill it comes to Upton Line, (each Town to maintain the one Half of said Roads;) then bounding Northwardly by Upton Line to Hopkinton Line; thense on Hopkinton Line to Holliston Line; thense on Holliston Line to Bellingham Line; thense on Bellingham Line to the first mentioned Bounds — And that all Proprietors of the common and undevided Lands in the former Township of Mendon, enjoy and hold their Rights as formerly - &c - As in Duty bound shall ever pray,

The committee above named reported, verbally, on the 18th, that the prayer of the petitioners be granted and that they have leave to bring in a bill accordingly.

The bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, on the first of October, in the forenoon, and it had its second reading in the afternoon of the same day, and, on the 4th, was read a third time, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. In the Council it was read, first, on the 4th, when the second reading was ordered to be referred to the next sitting of the General Court. On the 8th of April, 1780, the bill was read a second time, in the Council, and passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with an amendment substituting the passage in the third line of the preamble, which ends with the word

*Metcalf, in his Annals of Mendon, makes no mention of this meeting; but contemporary copies of proceedings at that meeting, from the town records, duly attested by the town clerk, are on file in the secretary's office.

"Worcester," for the following, as reported in the bill: "Whereas the inhabitants of the easterly precinct in the town of Mendon, in the county of Worcester, have represented to this Court that they". This amendment was concurred in by the House, on the same day; and on the 11th, the bill was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

While the bill was pending, the following certificate was filed in aid of the petition: —

Before the foregoing resolve had been passed, a committee of the House, consisting of Messrs. Tudor, Davis of Boston, Wales, Walley and Washburn, had been appointed† "to enquire into the state of the Continental and state prison-ships, in the harbor of Boston; also by what means so many prisoners have made their escape; and report what measures are necessary to be adopted for the more effectual securing the prisoners brought into this state." The report of this committee was read in the House, September 27th, and the next day was specially assigned for the consideration thereof, when a debate ensued which was adjourned to the 29th. On the 5th of October, the debate on this report was resumed, and the report was ordered to be recommitted, for amendment. On the 6th, the committee again reported, and their report was accepted, and the vote of acceptance sent up for concurrence. The resolve came back, the same day, for concurrence in a vote thereon referring the subject-matter of the resolve "to the next sitting of the General Assembly." In this, the House refused to concur; whereupon a committee of conference was proposed, in a vote of the House which was nonconcurred in, on being sent up to the Council. No further trace of this report, or of any action upon it has been discovered.

Just before the close of the third session of the General Court, Congress passed the following resolves: —

"Many inconveniences attending the present management of prisoners of war, and great dissatisfaction having arisen from the mode of exchanging them heretofore used from the partialities inevitably attending the same, while conducted under various directions by divers commissaries independent of each other; and sufficient provision not being made for their security, in many cases frequently occuring:

Resolved, That all prisoners of war, whether captivated by the army or navy of the United States or by the subjects, troops or ships of any particular state, shall be delivered into the care and custody of the commissary general of prisoners, his deputies or assistants, and be deemed and treated in all respects as prisoners of war to the United States:

That it be earnestly recommended to the governments of the respective States, that they make no exchanges of prisoners, to the intent, that all exchanges may be made through the commissary general of prisoners, by direction of Congress or the commander in chief, or board of admiralty; and when prisoners are taken by the particular subjects, troops or vessels of any state, not in the service of the United States, or by private ships or vessels of war fitted out in any particular state, these shall be first exchanged, so far as is necessary, for the subjects or inhabitants of the same state, taken by the subjects, adherents, ships or vessels of the enemy; and the overplus, if any, shall go towards redeeming the prisoners in the hands of the enemy, without regard to their being subjects or inhabitants of any particular state:

That all masters or commanders of private ships or vessels of war, shall take the utmost care to bring into port all prisoners captivated by them. And if from necessity they shall be obliged to dismiss any prisoners at sea, they shall, on return from their cruize, make report thereof, on oath, to the judge of the admiralty of the state to which they belong, or in which they arrive, within twenty days after their arrival, with their reasons for such dismission. And if the judge shall not be satisfied with the reasons assigned, or if it shall appear that the prisoners were discharged to avoid the trouble or expence of bringing them into port, and delivering them into custody, or in any wise unnecessarily, then the judge shall transmit an account thereof to the executive of the state, who are requested to examine into the matter, and vacate the commission granted to the said delinquent master or commander of the ship or vessel, if they are of opinion that such dismission was improper:

That all prisoners of war captivated by private ships or vessels of war, be delivered by and at the expence of the masters or owners of such ships or vessels, to a commissary of prisoners nearest the place of their landing, or into the nearest county goal, on pain of forfeiture of the commission granted to such private ship or vessel:

That on such delivery of the prisoners into the goal, the goaler shall be obliged to inform the government of the state wherein the said prisoners are landed: or in case of their residence at too great a distance, the lieutenant or commanding officer of the militia of the county wherein such prisoners are landed, the commissary general of prisoners or his deputy, that if the said prisoners are not deemed by the executive of the state, or the said commanding officer of the militia, to be in a place of sufficient security, they may be removed under proper guards to a place or places of greater safety, at the expence of the United States. And the executive powers of the respective states are requested to give the necessary orders to the commanding officers of militia on this subject, and to pay the expences of escorting and transporting the prisoners, charging the same to the United States. The said executives are also requested to give orders to the officers of their militia, to take immediate charge of all prisoners of war captivated by the ships and vessels of war, belonging to the United States or to any particular state, and to convey them at the expence of the United States, to the nearest commissary of prisoners, or to the county goal; and also direct the like steps to be taken in regard to their removal to places of greater safety, as is provided in the case of prisoners captured by private vessels:

That it be recommended to the legislatures of the respective states, effectually to provide, at the expence of the United States, for the delivery and safe keeping of all prisoners captivated by their respective subjects, out of vessels stranded or cast on shore on their coasts, obliging the parties taking prisoners, to deliver them to the nearest commissary of prisoners or into the nearest jail, in case no commissary of prisoners is stationed within convenient distance of the place of capture; and in case of neglect or misconduct in the persons so taking the prisoners, that they forfeit all right to the vessel, her tackle, apparel and furniture so cast on shore, or the property they may save, or be otherwise entitled to out of such vessel; or imposing such other penalty as the said legislatures shall respectively think proper.

That it be recommended to the said legislatures to provide and direct, that all jailers receive and deliver prisoners of war, without charging any fee or reward to the persons delivering them into or taking them by proper authority out of their custody. The reasonable expences of supporting such prisoners in jail, to be paid by the government of the state wherein they shall be confined, and charged to the United States, except where they can and shall be otherwise provided for by the proper officer in the service of the United States. And the jailer shall transmit a copy of his charges against the United States, for account of prisoners of war, to the commissary general of prisoners, or his nearest deputy, when any prisoners leave the jail, either for removal to places of greater security or for exchange:

That prisoners of war either on their march or in confinement, be furnished with only two thirds of a soldier's ration:

That none but sick or wounded prisoners be allowed carriages at public expence:

That all prisoners on parole pay their own expences, and such expences shall be paid before they shall be exchanged:

That all officers, prisoners of war to the United States, unless in hospitals, pay their physicians, surgeons and attendants:

That the commissary general of prisoners and his deputies, make regular monthly returns to the board of war of the numbers, situation and exchanges of all prisoners under their charge, and that they also give the said board such occasional information, of all material transactions in their department, as circumstances from time to time render necessary, or when they shall be required by the board so to do, under pain of being suspended or dismissed by the said board:

That all exchanges of prisoners made in consequence of the foregoing resolutions, shall be soldier for soldier and sailor for sailor." — Journals of Congress: Jan. 13, 1780.

During the fourth session the subject of better providing for the management of prisoners of war was again taken up in the House, and, on the 21st of March, a joint committee was appointed, "to bring in a bill to repeal the law or laws heretofore made for securing prisoners of war brought into this state, and also to provide for the future care and government of said prisoners, agreeable to the" above resolves of Congress.

By entries in the minute-book of the legislative doings of the Council, it appears that the committee above mentioned did not report until the 28th, when the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the Council. These entries are confirmed by memoranda endorsed on the bill, wherein, also, it appears that the bill was read a second time, on the first day of April, passed to be engrossed, and sent down for concurrence; and that, on the third of April, it had been read three times in the House, and there passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed. On the 12th of April, it was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 37. The increasing depreciation of the currency, which had led to the revision of the fee-bill, in chapters 1 and 23, respectively (by which the fees of public officers had been, first increased eight-fold, and then sixteen-fold, within the space of six months), now obliged the Legislature to again double the amount of the last preceding rate; or, in other words, to multiply the old standard of fees by thirty-two, in order to give to officers whose fees were established by law, an amount equivalent to what they had received for like services before the currency had depreciated.

Owing to the loss of the journals of the House for the latter part of the third, and the beginning of the fourth, session, this year, the date of the first presentation, or report, of this chapter, to the House, has not been ascertained; but from the memoranda upon the original bill, it appears to have been read three times in the House, on the 10th of April, on which day it was there passed to be engrossed, and sent up to the Council, for concurrence. On the next day the Council passed it, in concurrence, to be engrossed; and on the 13th it was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 38. By the "General Court minute book," which was used in making up the legislative records of the Council, it appears that a resolve was passed, in concurrence, Dec. 28, 1779, ordering notice to be served on the inhabitants of the town of Sutton, to appear on the second Wednesday of the next sitting of the General Court, and show cause, etc., against the petition of John Adams and others, inhabitants of the easterly part of Sutton. It also appears that, on the 15th of March, 1780, this petition was read in the Council, and that a joint committee, consisting of Benjamin White of that Board, and Col. Hutchinson and Capt. Hunt, of the House, was then appointed, "to consider this petition and [the] answer thereto."

It may be assumed that the petition above referred to was similar to the petition which follows; but what further action was had upon it has not been ascertained; and even the resolve above mentioned does not appear among the printed resolves.

The following petition, accompanied by the copy of a vote of the town of Sutton, hereunder printed, was read in the House, April 18, 1780, and the prayer thereof granted, and Mr. Bacon was ordered to bring in a bill, accordingly: —

"To the Honourable the Council & Honr the House of Representatives of the State of the Massachusetts Bay in General Court Assembled —

On the same day, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, and on the 19th, it was read a second time and passed to be engrossed, and sent up to the Council, for concurrence, on which day, also, it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, in the Council. It was passed to be enacted, on the 20th, and was signed by fifteen councillors.

Chap. 39. In the note to 1777-78, chapter 23,* for incorporating the town of Coxhall, certain resolves for suspending the operation of that act are mentioned. The following resolve of Oct. 1, 1778, and vote of acceptance of a report, June 5, 1779, are the resolves referred to; and below are given the petitions and other proceedings upon which these legislative votes were founded: —

"To the Honble the Council and the Honbl the House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay in general Assembly convened Humbly Shew

The Subscribers, who were chosen Select men & assessors for the town of Sanford for the year 1778. That a Tract of land of eight mile square formerly called Philipstown in the County of York was in the year 1768 Incorporated into a Town by the Name of Sanford. Soon after which a Valuation of the Estates Real and Personal of persons Resident therein was taken, and Taxes from the State and County have from that Time to this been laid upon them, and like assessments of men & other matters for Supporting the present War.

That your Petitioners have lately heard that a new Town has been lately erected, by the Name of Coxhall, which takes away a Considerable part of the Lands and Inhabitants from Sanford Viz a Slice of land Two miles & Three quarters of a mile one way & Six miles the other way.

That your Petitioners are apprehensive, The Incorporation of Coxhall, was done either, thro' some misinformation, or not having proper knowledge of its, taking such a Slice from Sanford as to leave the Residue in an Irregular form. Your Petitioners are further Confirmed in this Supposition, as the Town of Sanford were not notified of this Incorporation until Since it was effected. and as your Petitioners have been informed (for they have not as yet Seen the Act Incorporating Coxhall). There is no Provision made respecting the paiment of Taxes already assessed.

Your Petitioners would further represent that one of the Select men & assessors, lives in that Part of the Town that is said to be Incorporated, by the Name of Coxhall: which renders the duty of Your Petitioners, doubtfull. For whether the Select man that lives in that part, called Coxhall has any Power to proceed in taking a Valuation, agreable to a late act of State, or to assist, the other two, in other Town Business: and if he has not whether the two that Remain, are legally authorized to proceed without him and they would further Suggest that a difficulty will arise of the same kind in assessing the State Tax, and whether any part of it can be now assessed upon those Inhabiting Coxhall. and whether Your Petitioners may not be involved in difficultys for the assesments already made for as they are not ascertained of the Time Coxhall was Incorporated, they may have assessed a Tax since that Time. Wherefore as there has been as yet no meeting Called of the Coxhall People under the new Incorporation they would Suggest for the Reasons before mentioned & such other as may naturally arise upon the Facts, the Inexpediency of diminishing the Town of Sanford of any of its few Inhabitants for the present, or at least to suspend the Operation of the s^d^ Incorporation of Coxhall so far as it lops in upon Sanford till a future Period. And give such explicit directions respecting the premises, that your Petitioners may be Enabled to do their duty without Danger or Distraction

On the first of December following the adoption of the above resolve, the inhabitants of Sanford, at a legal town meeting, appointed Joseph Simpson and David Sewall to be agents for the town, jointly and severally "to use their endeavor to procure a repeal of the act for incorporating Coxhall into a township, so far as it interferes with the town of Sanford, by representing the matter to the General Court in such way and manner as to them or either of them shall appear most eligible for obtaining the same."

Two sessions intervened between the date of the above order and the further consideration of the subject of this chapter in the General Court. In the mean time, the following petition was prepared, which was read in Council, June 3, 1779, and referred to a committee consisting of Oliver Prescott, of the Council, and Messrs. Cross and Bragdon, of the House, who were ordered to take into consideration the original petition of the selectmen of Sanford, together with the papers accompanying the same (including the petition given below), "hear the parties, and report what may be proper to be done thereon" : —

"State of Massachusetts Bay

To the Honble the Council and the Honble House of Representatives in General Court assembled.

The Subscribers Freeholders & Inhabitants of a Town newly Erected By the name of Cox Hall Cited to appear & shew Cause why the Prayer of the Petition of a number of the Inhabitants of Sanford should not be Granted,

Humbly shew,

That the Petition from Sanford appears to your Honours humble Petitioners very extraordinary and to be built upon very groundless assertions — they are pleased to say in sd Petition that they were 'not notified of the Incorporation of Cox Hall till after it was Effected' and that they 'are apprehensive it was done Either thro' some misinformation or the General Court's not having proper Knowledge of its taking a slice from Sanford.' To which your humble Petitioners would Reply that tho' the People of Sanford were not formally & legally notified of our Request to the General Court to be Erected into a Town in the form we now are, yet they could not be ignorant of it, as our Petition lay before the General Court four or five Years before it was granted and a Gentleman now one of the Selectmen of Sanford & that signed the Petition against said Incorporation was one of the Petitioners for the Incorporation. If it was of Importance that the General Court should have Known that Cox Hall as Petitioned for & Granted, took in a part of Sanford we are humbly of Opinion that it lay with those who tho't themselves injured by it to have given the General Court that Notice and have made their Objections against it, and also that they had sufficent Opportunity for doing it: and it appears to your humble Petitioners very unfair & ungenerous in them now to make a plea of their not being notified of said Incorporation to procure the Suspension of it; as we had been at considerable Expence in Calling meetings, laying out high ways & other things which are necessary under new Incorporations and Since the said Suspension have no legal way to Raise money to defray these Charges.

Your humble Petitioners would Suggest to your Honours the Reasons why the annexing the Slice of Land (now in dispute) to Sanford would be inconvenient & ineligible, the principal of which are that there is a Body of waste Land lying between the Inhabitants of the Two Towns four or five miles wide which will not admit of settlements it being a Barren Pitch-pine Plain including a large Spruce swamp which at certain Seasons is impassable by Reason of a flow of Water — Likewise that Two Rivers & in some Places Three run thro' said Land, on which accounts it would be very inconvenient for the Inhabitants on the disputed Land to be included in the Town of Sanford as they could never Expect jointly to Enjoy any Privileges civil or Religious — The Line Between the Two Towns as last settled By the General Court in the act for Incorporating Cox Hall runs thro' said Plains and thereby Remedies the above Evils and Difficulties which would unavoidably attend the Inhabitants of the disputable Land being connected with Sanford as the most of them Live four or five miles from the Settlements in said Town.

It may likewise be of importance to your Honours to be informed that the Proprietors of Cox Hall include in their Claim, the whole of the Slice of Land now in Dispute, the annexing of which to Sanford leaves the Remainder too Small for a Town, whereas when annexed to Cox Hall, Sanford still contains many thousands of acres of Land more than Cox Hall with double the number of Inhabitants. and as the most of the Inhabitants of Cox Hall now live on the Disputed Land their being annexed to Sanford would not only be vastly inconvenient for them but also Leave the remaining Inhabitants under Peculiar disadvantages.

Your honours most humble Petitioners would in Conclusion observe that it appears very Extraordinary to them that the People of Sanford should Object to the Incorporation of Cox Hall when they themselves have been so sensible of the Inconveniency of our being connected with them as a Town on account of our Lying so Remote from them, that they have Ever Caused the money Voted By the Town to be Collected & Expended as Seperate from Each other as any two Towns in the State.

We therefore for the Reasons above mentioned pray your Honours that the Petition of the Selectmen & Inhabitants of Sanford may be dismissd & the Incorporation of the Town of Cox Hall be no Longer suspended and your humble Petitioners as in Duty Bound shall Ever pray &c

On the 4th of June the above committee submitted the following report, which was read, first, in the Council, and not accepted: —

"The Committee of both houses appointed to take into Consideration the Petition of the Selectmen of the Town of Sanford and the papers accompanying the same, hear the parties and report what is proper to be done thereon — Have fully heard the parties and Observe that the Bills for incorporating the Towns of Sanford & Coxhall Intercept a valuable part of each other's Grant; That each of sd Towns contain a great Quantity of broken Land unfit for Settlements, and that if they continue Seperate Towns it is very probable the propr's & Inhabitants may be incumbered with Expensive Disputes about their property: The Committee are therefore fully of the opinion that it will be for the Interest of the Towns of Sanford & Coxhall to be incorporated into one Town, by the Name of Alford, which name your Comtee have been informed would be very pleasing to many of the Inhabitants —

Which is Submitted — OLIVER PRESCOTT pr ordr." — Ibid., p. 486.

On the next day, the House refused to concur in the vote of the Council rejecting the report, and ordered it to be recommitted. In this, the Council concurred. At the same time, the committee was changed, by the appointment of Col. Prime and Artemas Ward, in place of Messrs. Cross and Prescott, respectively, who were absent The committee as thus reconstituted, immediately made a report,* which, together with the vote thereon, was as follows: —

Though the above report was brought down to the House immediately after the above vote of the Council, thereon, was taken, it was not concurred in, until March 24, 1780. On the 25th, a committee of the House, consisting of Messrs. Batchelder, White and Godfrey, was appointed, "to bring in a bill for the incorporation of Coxhall, agreeably to a report accepted yesterday."

The loss of the journals of the House between Dec. 31, 1779 and April 10, 1780, leaves nothing by which it can be determined, with certainty, whether or not the bill of this chapter was the first bill reported by this committee; but it appears not unlikely that the committee, at first, submitted a draught of a bill still remaining in the state archives, and bearing the title, "An Act for repealing a law of this state, made and passed in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-eight, intitled 'An Act for the incorporating the plantation called Cox Hall, in the county of York, into a town, by the name of Cox Hall;' and for incorporating the said town, by the same name, by diferent boundaries." In this bill, after a repeal of 1777-78, chapter 23, it was provided that Coxhall be reincorporated by the boundaries given in the committee's report.

The bill of this chapter was read a third time, in the House, passed to be engrossed and sent up for concurrence, April 13, 1780; on which day, also, it was read a first time in Council. On the 21st, it was read a second time in Council, and passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with an amendment, inserting, in the first section, the words "on a straight line, bounded at four miles distance from said Saco River," which were omitted in the bill. The House concurred in this amendment, and on the 24th, the bill was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Filed with the bill, was a plan of the territory as last laid out; and accounts of expenses of the committee, dated Nov. 9, 1779, were filed with the report.

Chap. 40. It appears from the following report that, as early as March 10, 1780, Gov. Trumbull of Connecticut, forwarded copies of two acts of that state, repealing two former acts; one, making the bills of credit of the United States a legal tender at their nominal value, and another, for ascertaining the current value of these bills, and for making them a tender at that rate: —

"The Committee of both Houses to whom were referred Governor Trumbulls Letter of the 10th inst. covering two Acts of the State of Connecticut repealing an Act of said State making the Bills of Credit of the United States a legal Tender & an Act for Assertaining the Value of said Bills & making them a Tender at their Current Value, have attended that Service & beg leave to report, that

That a Committee be appointed to prepare & bring in a Bill for ascertaining & declaring the Value of the Notes executed & issued by the Treasurer of this State & making Provision for their being finally made good & the Principal together with the Interest paid to the respective Lenders in Gold or Silver or in Bills of Public Credit of this State according to the full Value of said Notes when they were issued

The loss of the journals of the House, for the period between Dec. 31, 1779 and April 10, 1780, leaves no trace, in the records of the Massachusetts Assembly, of any earlier proceeding, there, similar to this of Connecticut. The current value of the Continental bills, throughout the United States, had sunk to about one-fortieth of their nominal value, with no prospect of a reaction; and it needed only the example of one state to cause a general breach through the elaborate but insufficient net-work of legislation designed to maintain the credit of the currency against the operation of natural laws.

Neither the above-named letter, nor the copies of the acts received therewith, are known to be in existence; but it appears from an entry in the "General Court minute book," that the papers were received on the 17th, and immediately referred to a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Tudor, Choate and Osgood, of the House, and Thomas Cushing and Timothy Danielson, of the Council. The same record, as well as a paper preserved in the state archives, shows that on the 25th, Major Davis was appointed on this committee, in place of Mr. Choate, who was absent; and both the record and a memorandum on the report itself, show that on the 27th, the report was read in Council, accepted, and sent down for concurrence. This is all that has been found relating to legislative proceedings in conformity to the example of Connecticut, until after the following resolves of the Continental Congress had been received: —

"THESE United States having been driven into this just and necessary war at a time when no regular civil governments were established, of sufficient energy to enforce the collection of taxes, or to provide funds for the redemption of such bills of credit as their necessities obliged them to issue; and before the powers of Europe were sufficiently convinced of the justice of their cause, or of the probable event of the controversy to afford them aid or credit, in consequence of which, their bills increasing in quantity beyond the sum necessary for the purpose of a circulating medium, and wanting at the same time specific funds to rest on for their redemption, they have seen them daily sink in value, notwithstanding every effort that has been made to support the same; insomuch that they are now passed by common consent in most parts of these United States, at least thirty-nine fortieths below their nominal value, and still remain in a state of depreciation, whereby the community suffers great injustice, the public finances are deranged, and the necessary dispositions for the defence of the country are much impeded and perplexed: and whereas, effectually to remedy these evils for which purpose the United States are now become competent, their independence being well assured, their civil governments established and vigorous, and the spirit of their citizens ardent for exertion, it is necessary speedily to reduce the quantity of the paper medium in circulation, and to establish and appropriate funds that shall ensure the punctual redemption of the bills: therefore

Resolved, That the several states continue to bring into the continental treasury by taxes, or otherwise, their full quotas of fifteen million dollars monthly as assigned them by the resolution of the 7th of October, 1779; a clause in the resolution of the 23d of February last, for relinquishing two thirds of the said quotas to the contrary notwithstanding; and that the states be further called on to make provision for continuing to bring into the said treasury their like quotas monthly to the month of April, one thousand seven hundred and eighty-one, inclusive:

That silver and gold be receivable in payment of the said quotas at the rate of one Spanish milled dollar in lieu of forty dollars of the bills now in circulation:

That the said bills as paid in, except for the months of January and February past, which may be necessary for the discharge of past contracts, be not re-issued but destroyed:

That as fast as the said bills shall be brought in to be destroyed, and funds shall be established as hereafter mentioned for other bills, other bills be issued not to exceed on any account one twentieth part of the nominal sum of the bills brought in to be destroyed:

That the bills which shall be issued, be redeemable in specie, within six years after the present, and bear an interest at the rate of five per centum per annum, to be paid also in specie at the redemption of the bills, or at the election of the holder annually at the respective continental loan-offices, in sterling bills of exchange drawn by the United States on their commissioners in Europe, at four shillings and six-pence sterling per dollar:

That the said new bills issue on the funds of individual states for that purpose established, and be signed by persons appointed by them, and that the faith of the United States be also pledged for the payment of the said bills, in case any state on whose funds they shall be emitted, should by the events of war be rendered incapable to redeem them; which undertaking of the United States, and that of drawing bills of exchange for payment of interest as aforesaid, shall be indorsed on the bills to be emitted, and signed by a commissioner to be appointed by Congress for that purpose:

That the face of the bills to be emitted read as follows, viz.

The possessor of this bill shall be paid Spanish milled dollars, by the thirty-first day of December, 1786, with interest in like money at the rate of five per cent. per annum by the state of according to an act of the legislature of the said state, of the day of 1780.

And the indorsement shall be as follows, viz.

The United States insure the payment of the within bill, and will draw bills of exchange for the interest annually if demanded, according to a resolution of Congress of the 18th day of March, 1780.

That the said new bills shall be struck under the direction of the board of treasury, in due proportion for each state according to their said monthly quotas, and lodged in the continental loan-offices in the respective states, where the commissioner to be appointed by Congress in conjunction with such persons as the respective states appoint, shall attend the signing of the said bills, which shall be compleated no faster than in the aforesaid proportion of one to twenty of the other bills brought in to be destroyed, and which shall be lodged for that purpose in the said loan-offices:

That as the said new bills are signed and compleated, the states respectively, on whose funds they issue, receive six tenths of them, and that the remainder be subject to the orders of the United States, and credited to the states on whose funds they are issued, the accounts whereof shall be adjusted agreeably to the resolution of the sixth of October, 1779:

That the said new bills be receivable in payment of the said monthly quotas at the same rate as aforesaid of specie; the interest thereon to be computed to the respective states, to the day the payment becomes due:

That the respective states be charged with such parts of the interest on their said bills, as shall be paid by the United States in bills of exchange, and the accounts thereof shall be adjusted agreeably to the resolution aforesaid of the sixth of October, 1779:

That whenever interest on the bills to be emitted shall be paid prior to their redemption, such bills shall be thereupon exchanged for others of the like tenor, to bear date from the expiration of the year for which such interest is paid:

That the several states be called on to provide funds for their quotas of the said new bills, to be so productive as to sink or redeem one sixth part of them annually after the first day of January next:

That nothing in the foregoing resolution shall be construed to ascertain the proportions of the expence incurred by the war, which each state on a final adjustment ought to be charged with, or to exclude the claims of any state to have the prices at which different states have furnished supplies for the army hereafter taken into consideration and equitably adjusted:

That the foregoing resolutions, with a letter from the president, be dispatched to the executive of the several states, and that they be requested to call their assemblies if not already convened, as speedily as possible to take them into immediate consideration, to establish ample and certain funds for the purposes therein mentioned, and to take every other measure necessary to carry the same into full and vigorous effect, and that they transmit their acts for that purpose to Congress without delay." — Journals of Congress: March 18, 1780.

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the several states to revise their laws, enacted pursuant to a former resolution of Congress, making the continental bills of credit a tender in discharge of debts and contracts, and to amend the same in such manner as they shall judge most conducive to justice in the present state of the paper currency: and

That it be further recommended that the said laws be enacted in such manner that no persons may take unjust advantage to defeat the good purposes of this resolution, by availing themselves of the notice thereof before the passing of the several acts." — Ibid.: March 20, 1780.

By comparing the provisions of chapter 7, § 2, of this year, with the purview of the present chapter, and the recommendation of the latter of the foregoing resolves (which appears to have been forwarded with the former, notwithstanding it is not mentioned in the preamble of this chapter), the lesson which, in the course of nine months, the popular leaders had learned respecting the limit of the legislative function in the matter of fixing the value of currency, is obvious.

From an entry in the "General Court minute book," it appears that the above resolves were referred, on the 7th of April, to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Pickering, Davis of Boston, Tudor, Hunt and Paine, of the House, and Artemas Ward, Thomas Cushing, Samuel Adams and Timothy Danielson, of the Council, to take the same into consideration, "and report what may be done thereon." This committee reported, on the 12th, "by way of a bill," bearing the title of this chapter; which was read, in the House, on the same day, debated, and ordered to be read again, the day following. On the 13th, the debate was resumed, and a message was sent up to the Council inviting the Board to be present. The Council qualified their acceptance of this invitation by stating, in their message, to the House, that, at noon, they "will be obliged to attend the Overseers' meeting of Harvard College." At the close of the debate, the bill was read a second time, and the further consideration thereof referred to three o'clock in the afternoon, when the debate was resumed, and a vote passed to insert section 14, in the tax act (chapter 49); which indicates that, probably, thus far, there had been such opposition to adopting the first section of the act, that this concession was deemed expedient. The debate was continued on the three following days. On the 14th, the question of making bills of the new emission a tender in all payments, was decided in the affirmative, by a vote of fifty-five out of seventy-five members present; and "the clause [§ 16] for making good, government securities," was adopted by a vote of forty-two to thirty; whereupon the bill was "committed, for amendments in some other paragraphs," to Messrs. Pickering, Paine, Hunt, Davis of Boston, and Kollock.

On the 15th, the committee on amendments reported; and, after a motion to reconsider the vote passed the day before, for making the new bills a tender, had been defeated, the amendments were passed upon, and the bill was ordered to be read a third time on the following Tuesday. On Monday, the 17th, Messrs. Greenleaf, Osgood and Nichols, of the House, were put upon the committee, in place of Messrs. Paine and Pickering (who were absent) and Mr. Tudor, who was excused — the Council concurring in a vote of the House to that effect, after having first proposed adding the new members above named, instead of substituting them for the gentlemen whose places they took. On the same day, the House enjoined its members on the committee, to sit immediately, and sent a message to the Council requesting a like order from the Board to the members of the committee from that body.

On the 18th, the bill was read a third time, in the House, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. In the Council, on the same day, it was read a first time; and the next day was assigned for the second reading. By two original orders remaining in the state archives, it appears that a committee of conference "upon the two last paragraphs in the bill," was appointed on the 19th, and changed, on the 20th, by the appointment of Mr. Page of Hardwick, in place of Mr. Singletary, who was absent. This committee was enjoined to sit, immediately; and, from a memorandum minuted on the bill by Secretary Adams, it appears that on the day last named, it was read a second time in the Council, and passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed.

On the 24th of April, the bill was passed to be enacted, by both branches — the vote in the House, standing twenty-six to nineteen.

By the journal of the Council, this bill appears to have been consented to, on the day of its enactment, by fifteen of the Council; but Secretary Avery made the following memorandum in the margin of the engrossment: "The above Bill was not consented to 'till May the 5th following, as appears by the Records."

Some explanation of this discrepancy, is found in sundry entries in the "General Court minute book," or original memoranda from which the secretary compiled the legislative journals of the Council. By these, it appears that, on the 28th of April, a message was sent down from the Council proposing to amend section 15, by adding the last eight words, to which the House immediately agreed; and that, on the 3d of May, the House proposed to amend the bill by striking out the word "annually," in two places, and by adding the clause, at the end of section 16, beginning with the words, "the interest," in the seventeenth line; and that to these proposals the Council at once signified its agreement. The title of this bill is also included in the list of titles of acts consented to, entered May 5th, the last day of the session.

Neither the act, nor the face of the bills emitted by virtue thereof, showed from what date the interest promised by both, should be computed. A letter from the Board of Treasury of the United States, to Nathaniel Appleton, commissioner of loans, in the state of Massachusetts, which still remains in the state archives, and is dated Oct. 19, 1780, contained the following instruction: "You will please to observe that interest on the new bills is to be calculated from the date of the bills; and, in all receipts and payments, must be attended to."

This instruction was not in accordance with the general understanding on the subject; and accordingly, in the first session of the General Court after the adoption of the Constitution, a committee of the House, consisting of Messrs. Baldwin, Singletary and Stone, was appointed, November first, "to take into consideration at what period of time the new emission of money shall draw interest." This committee, on the 10th of November, reported two resolves, naming Aug. 1, 1780, as the time from which interest on the bills should be computed, "in all payments from and to the treasurer of this Commonwealth, from and after the first day of December next;" and the treasurer, and "all persons empowered to receive public monies, or interested with the same," were ordered to govern themselves accordingly. This resolve was accepted, and sent up to the Senate, for concurrence, where it was read November 18th, and concurred in, "as taken into a new draught;" which was then sent down for concurrence. The resolve, as thus redrawn, provided that the date of the act authorizing this emission, be considered as the date of the bills, and that the treasurer, in all receipts and payments from and after December 10th (and all persons empowered to receive or pay public moneys), conform themselves to this direction.

On the 20th, the House voted not to concur with the above vote of the Senate; whereupon a committee of conference "on the subject-matter of said resolves," was appointed, consisting of Messrs Lowell, Kollock and Walley, of the House, and Messrs. Fisher, Choate and Bliss, of the Senate. The result of this conference does not appear; but, on the same day, another committee, consisting of Messrs. Choate and Turner of the Senate, and Messrs Walley, Lowell and Goodman of the House, was appointed to take into consideration the resolve of Congress, of March 18th, and the resolve of the General Court, of the 10th of November, and the new draught of the latter, and report what may be proper to be done thereon. The report of this committee, and the action of both branches thereon, were as follows:—

"The committe of Both Houses appointed to take into consideration a Resolve of Congress of march 18th Last togeather with a Resolution of the Genl. Court of 10th of Novr Inst. "To the Hon^ble^ Counce1 and House of Representitives of the State of the Massachusetts Bay

The Petition of Thomas Pratt, in behalf of the town of Chelsea, Humbly Sheweth that the town of Chelsea Since the commincement of the present unhappy war hath Greatly Depreciated in its Value on the following accounts (Viz) Whereas part of the army being Stationed there in y^e^ year 1775 Said town Suffered the Loss of much of their fence and and Some of Said fences are not Rebuilt to this Day and Some of the Lands of Said town now Lays Common for want of the fence that was burnt by the army and also many of the Buildings of Chelsea were Greatly Damaged and Some totaly Destroyed So that the Repairs of those of Said buildings that have been Repaired Since have been Very Costly and Some of them that are yet to Repair: the Repairs thereof will Cost Considerable, and the Cattle and Sheep in the time of the Siegue by order of the General: were Drove off from the farms they Belonged to and many of Said Cattle and Sheep were Lost for want of feed and other ways and also a Considerable part of the wood in Said town was burnt by the army and many of the fruit trees of Chelsea Spoiled and Some Destroyed and also Two Valueable Grist mills Ruined So that they have been useless Ever Since Said army was first placed in Chelsea, So that the town of Chelsea feel the Impoverishing Efects of the abone misfortunes Very Considerably Down to this Very Day and besides the aforementioned troubles it appears by Calculation, that one half of the Salt marsh Land in Said town which is a Very Considerable number of acres is owned by the Inhabitants of other towns and the produce of Said marsh Carried into other places So that the people of Chelsea Can keep but Small Stocks of Cattle to be Rated and also about one half of the upland of Chelsea is owned by Gentlemen that Live in other towns and Cheafly Improved by poor tenants that but few of them are able to Stock their farms with their own Cretures and So there is a Lesser number of Cretures found on Said places than otherwise would be found to be Rated: and also when the former Valueation was taken and when the assessors of Chelsea took a List of the Polls in Said town to Exhibit to this Hon^ble^ Court Last year there was Six Rateable Polls put in Said List of Rateables that Belonged to a part of Chelsea Call^d^ Pleasent point and a Considerable number of housen by them Inhabited and now there is but one Rateable Poll on Said point and all the houses Except one Evacuated And also another thing that much Lessens the ability of Said town is that almost all the people in Chelsea Buy their fire wood & Fenseing which Costs as much or more than at Boston.

Under all the aforesaid Disadvantages when we were favoured with a View of the Late Valueation to our Great Surprise we found the town of Chelsea Set at about ten Shillings on a thousand pounds more than we Stood at on the Valueation before: what was the motive that Caused the town of Chelsea to be Set higher then formerly (when So much poorer) we are at a Great Loss: as we were not Represented in this Hon^ble^ Court the year past we are Inclined to think it was a mistake and we flatter our Selves, your Hon^rs^ will take our unhappy Case into your wise Consideration and Redress our Greivences that So we may pay according to our Interest in which Case we Shall always Chearfully Comply with all the Requesitions of this Hon^ble^ Court and as in Duty bound Shall Ever pray

This petition was read June 22, 1779, during the consideration of the report of a committee, appointed three days before, "to compare the sums set on the several towns, with what would be their proportion according to the valuation settled the last session." The petition was ordered to lie upon the table, and the committee aforesaid was ordered "to introduce their report into the tax bill."

Other towns followed with similar complaints, some account of which is given in the notes to chapters 12 and 30, ante.‡

The unsuccessful efforts of certain towns in Suffolk County, to secure a revision of the valuation of that county, have been already alluded to in the note to 1777-78, chapter 29. On the 16th of June, 1779, Mr. Kollock, the member from Wrentham, moved the House, "that the valuation, so far as respects the county of Suffolk, be revised." Upon this motion, a rider was offered extending the proposed revision to the entire valuation of the state. This last motion was promptly defeated, by a vote of forty-seven to thirty-three.

A motion was then carried, "that the members from each county have liberty to consider the valuation as it respects their several counties, and lay before the House the alterations they may agree to propose."

A memorial was then taken up, "praying that the several towns in the county of Cumberland may, by such as they shall appoint, meet and make division of the sum set on said county, in the valuation, and lay it before the General Court, for their approbation, before the granting another tax." This was "ordered to lie until the tax bill is taken under consideration."

On the 19th of June, another effort was made to obtain an abatement of the sum laid upon Suffolk County, "in the valuation settled the last session, in such proportion as should be determined by the House;" but after a long debate this was voted down.

‡ For instance, Foxborough, Worcester, Charlemont, Great Barrington, Cape Elizabeth, Fryeburg, Gloucester and Marblehead.

On the same day, the following order was passed: —

"Ordered, That Col. Dawes, Capt. Williams, Major Hosmer, Capt. Alexander, Mr. Turner, Col. Freeman, Col. Pope, Col. Cutt, Major Washburn, Mr. Copeland and Mr. Raymond, being one member from each county present, be a committee to compare the sums set on the several towns in the three last tax-acts, with what would be their proportion according to the valuation settled the last session; and report what sums appear on such examination to be due to and from each town, agreeable to the clauses in said acts, for adjusting the same on the said valuation." — House Journal, p. 52.

The House Journal shows that the above committee reported on the 22d, and that their report was then "read and considered;" but no further trace of this report has been discovered.

On the 19th, also, a motion was defeated, by a vote of thirty-five to thirty-three, for the appointment of a committee, consisting of members not belonging to Suffolk County, "to consider a new proportion," among the several towns in said county, "of the sum laid on said county in the valuation settled the last session."

After the prorogation of the General Court, in June, several of the towns of Suffolk County, by their agents, joined in a convention at Medfield, and prepared the following petition and remonstrance: —

"State of Massachusetts-Bay } To the Honorable Council and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled —

The Petition and Remonstrance of the Inhabitants of the Towns of Dedham, Medfield, Wrentham, Needham, Medway, Franklin, Foxborough, Bellingham Walpole Stoughtonham Brookline & Stoughton in the County of Suffolk by their Joynt Agents, [met*] at Medfield aforesaid on the 28th day Augt. 1779 —

Humbly Sheweth —

That whereas by the last valuation, taken and apportioned on the Several Towns and Plantations in this State, by the late General Court, by Some means unknown to your Petitioners, an undue proportion of the last Tax, is now laid on the said Towns — and So long as the present valuation remains, Your Petitioners conclude the Same proportion of all Future Taxes will be Assessed on them in the Same manner.

And when your Petitioners take into Consideration the amazing large Debt which from the Troubles of the Present Times, now remains on the United States of America — a large proportion of which (in addition to our own Publick Debt) must be paid by the Inhabitants of this State.

Your Petitioners therefore cannot but View their Case not only Distressing, but really Discouraging and insurmountable; and from practicing on the present valuation, the Disproportion that appears in adjoyning Towns, in the Different Counties is so large, That your your Petitioners Cannot but Humbly Remonstrate against any future Grant of money being apportioned, on our said Towns by said valuation: It is with Concern, your Petitioners have seen the Repeated applications of their Representatives for an alteration of said Valuation, Disregarded, by the last and present Honorable House of Representatives; your Petitioners do not pretend to point out, any particular Town or County in this State That are abated by their being overburthened, but conclude that must necessarily be the Case.

Therefore, Your Petitioners, on Contemplating on their Distressed Situation, Cannot avoid Saying, That a few years Taxing them by the present Valuation, in the Same proportion must Strip them of the whole of their property — while their freinds and Neighbours (in the other Towns and Counties at least) may be left under flourishing Circumstances Under these apprehensions we Cannot but lay our Peculiar Situation before your Hon.s —

Your Petitioners are unwilling to beleive, That the Fathers of any People, Can Judge it good Policy to oppress any one part of the Community, in preference to another — for in the present case it will be impossible, for the Towns your Petitioners Represent, to Defray the Expences of Maintaining their Families — Educating their Children — or Supporting the Gospel —

Therefore, Your Petitioners, Humbly Pray, That y[r] Honres will take their Case into your Wise Consideration, and Grant them Such Releif as Shall be Just and Equal not only relating to the present but future Taxes: And your Petitioners as in Duty bound Shall ever Pray

On the 8th day of the next session, the above petition, etc., was read in the House, and committed to Messrs Williams of Salem, May and Rawson, who, on the 6th of October, made a report, from which the following is an extract: — " * * * * *

Your Committe find's that there is Great Addissions & deductions, on said Towns, also other Town's in the County, which your Committe are not able to Account for,

Resolved that the member's of the County of Suffolk, except the member's of the Town of Boston, meet in some Town in said County and Take the Valuation Book make any Alteration in the proporsion's Set on the Town's in said County, Lay it before this Court at the next Seting of the Gen^l Court."— Ibid., p. 365.

This report was read on the same day, "and the consideration thereof referred to the next sitting of the General Assembly."

The General Court assembled on the 10th of November, by adjournment from the 9th of October; and, on the third day of the session a motion was made, in the House, for the appointment of a committee, "to consider the expediency of revising the last valuation"; which, after debate, was defeated by a vote of twenty-nine to twenty-seven. Four days later, the following additional motions were made with no better success: —

"Nov. 16, 1779. It was then moved, That a committee be appointed to revise the last valuation, and report what alterations were proper to be made; and after debate thereon, the question was put, and it passed in the negative.

It was then moved, That the committee on the tax-bill be instructed to insert a clause making provision that in case it shall hereafter appear that any town is over taxed, such town shall be reimbursed; and after debate thereon, the question was put, and it passed in the negative, twenty-seven only voting in favor of it, and the number of the House present being sixty-two.

It was then moved, That a committee be appointed to devise some new method whereby a true valuation may be obtained; and the question being put, it passed in the negative." — House Journal, p. 12.

In the mean time, the town of Plymouth had made application to the General Court, by its agent, James Warren, one of the most influential members of the House, to have its valuation revised. The following petition for that purpose was referred, on the 10th of September, to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Hutchinson and Cranch, of the House, and Aaron Wood, of the Council, appointed "to repair to Plymouth for the purpose mentioned in said petition": —

"To the Hon^ble Council & Hon^ble House of Representatives of the State of Mass^a Bay in General Court Assembled at Boston Sept. 8 1779

The Petition of James Warren Agent for the Town of Plymouth Humbly Sheweth

That the inhabitants of the said Town of Plymouth by the Almost Total loss of their trade & fishery by the Sterility of their lands, by the great number of poor persons & families who depend on Charity for their subsistence & by the Uncommon loss of Men in the Army & at Sea, are rendered utterly Unable to pay the taxes assessed upon them, Agreable to the last Valuation —

That your Pet^r Concieves the true State of that Town was not so well understood as to enable the Court to do that Justice in Settling the Valuation for that Town, which their circumstances really require — He therefore prays your Honors to Afford the Inhabitants of the Town of Plymouth such relief in the Abatement of Taxes Already laid on them & such reduction of their Taxes in future as your Honors shall judge reasonable & just, and that your Honors may be possessed of the true State of that town, and of the truth of the above representation Your Pet^r humbly prays that a Comm^ee may be Appointed to repair to Plymouth & Ascertain to your Honors the true State of the Same —

And your Pet^r as in duty bound will pray &c J. WARREN." — Mass. Archives, vol. 185, p. 276.

The joint committee above named made the following report, which was read in Council, November 12, and sent down: —

"The Committee of both Houses appointed to repair to Plymouth For the purposes Mentioned in the Petition of James Warren Agent for Plymouth; have in Obedience to their Orders repaired to Plymouth afore s^d where they ware attend by a Number of Respectable Inhabitants and the Select-Men of that Town: after a full View and hearing upon the Subject Matter contained in Said Petition Y^r Committee ware fully Ascertained of the following Facts (viz)

That in the Year 1775 the Inhabitants of Said Plymouth had 80 Fishing Vessels a Mounting upon An Average to 40 Tuns each which Made in the Whole 3200 Tuns. each Vessel employ^d 7 hands besids shoremen all of which Vessels have been lost except 6. only two or three of the six Vessels have been used since 1775

That they had at that time a bout 1000 or 1200 Tuns of Merchent Vessels all of which have been totaly lost

The land appeared to be extreemly poor and Barren except a Small Screed by the Sea Shore a considerable part of which was Improved for Meshing and curing of Fish but can now be only Improved for Mowing and Tillage —

The Poor are greatly Multiply^d a Moungst them which cost the Town for their Support £4000 L-M per year —

That they had two Still-Houses in which they commonly distelld 400 Hd^ds per year now but 50 or 60 —

The Wharves are Seven in Number on which there is 20 Ware-Houses which appeared to the Committee Must have been of great Income when the Town was in trade; at present off but little or no Income and that both Wharves and Ware Houses are gon and going to decay Very fast and without a Speedy repair Most of that Intrest will be totally lost and it also appeared to y^r Committee that the Inhabitants of the Town are at present unable to Make the Necessary repairs

That before the decay of Trade they had 33 Fish Houses all of which they commonly Filled with Fish now but 13 of them Standing only 4 of them are of any use

That the rent of their Houses are Fallen a bout one third That in 1775 and before that time the wharves and ware-Houses on them would rent for £1100 L-M per year now would not rent for More then £150 per year

Your Committee would ask leave further to Suggest as their Opinion that the Town of Plymouth really Stand too High on the last Valluation in consequence of which they are taxed in an undue proportion and ought to have an abatement all which is Humbly Subbittd AARON WOOD pr Order

In Council Novr 12th 1779 Read & sent down JOHN AVERY D. Secy."—Ibid., p. 279.

In the House this report was committed, on the same day, to Messrs. Dawes, Washburn, Turner, Prescott and Baldwin, who were directed "to report what abatement, if any, ought to be made from the sum set on said town, in the valuation." This committee reported, November 25th, as follows: —

"The Committee appointed to report, 'What abatement if any, ought to be made from the sum set on the Town of Plymouth in the Valuation' Take leave to report as their opinion, That no abatement ought to be made to the Town of Plymouth — And for the following reasons.

First. Because, that the personal estate of the County of Plymouth was taken upon the same scale of Valuation as the other Counties in the State, agreable to the returns of the several Towns in said County.

Second. Because, the real estate was estimated according to the best evidence the Committee on the Valuation could obtain.

Third, Because, when the foot of the whole County broke at £1,079,716 which made £78 ,, 6,, On a thousand and was £6 ,, 18 ,, 7¼ more than the valuation in 1772, upon a revision of Counties before any particular Town was brought into View, for the losses the County had sustained by the War &c they were reduced from the aforesaid £78 ,, 6. down to £67 ,, 11 ,, 6 which was £10 ,,14. less than what they broke at; and £3 ,, 15 ,, 10¾ less than in the valuation of 1772.

Fourth, Because, when the aforesaid sum of £67 ,, 11 ,, 6 was determined to be laid on the County of Plymouth as their proportion on the Thousand, the several Towns in said County was then revised and each Town partook of its proportion as equitably as the Committee could make it, and this with the assistance of the members of the County of Plymouth in particular.

Fifth Because, the Town of Plymouth returned but 96 polls less than in the Valuation of 1772 and the foot of their Estate agreable to their OWN returns amount to £63,667 ,, 4 ,, 5 which at one shilling on the thousand give £3 ,, 3 ,, 3, and their 546 pols at 1d give £2 ,, 5 ,, 6 more, so that they must stand at £5 ,, 8 ,, 9 on a Thousand — Said sum being £1 ,, 12 ,, 1¾ less than they stood at in the valuation of 1772.

Their Woodland-pasture-meadow &c being much lower than many other Towns in the County.

Therefore if the Town of Plymouth has got more than its proportion of taxes, it must be owing to the returns made by the assessors being too great, and not through any mistake of the Committee on the Valuation; and without some other return than the one above refer'd to; the Committee cannot see their way clear to advise for any abatement.

All which is humbly submitted THOS DAWES p Order."—Ibid., p. 278.

After further debate on this report (continued, at a later hour, by special assignment), this report was accepted on the same day, by a vote of thirty-three to twenty-six. Notwithstanding this failure to secure a change in the past valuation of Plymouth, the state treasurer was directed, in January, following, to withhold his executions for collecting the state tax of that town, as shown in the note to chapter 12, p. 1252, ante.

On the day on which the petition of Plymouth was finally disposed of, Obadiah Sawtell, agent for the town of Shirley, filed a petition, complaining that the town was "over-taxed in the last valuation," and praying for relief. On the reading of this petition, the following vote was passed: —

"Voted, by a majority of thirty-four out of sixty-six, that a committee be appointed to consider the several complaints that have been made to the House, respecting the effect of the last valuation, and report what measures are proper to be taken to remove the cause of such complaints:

Voted, That this committee consist of one member from each county, and that the members from each county have liberty to consult and agree upon some person for their county, and report at twelve o'clock to-morrow."— House Journal, p. 28.

Thereupon the following proceedings took place: —

"Nov. 26, 1779. Ordered, That Col. Dawes be a committee to cause a fair copy to be taken of the contents of the two valuation books: That the said copy, when taken, be attested, and either that or the original be lodged in the Secretary's office, not to be taken out of the same without leave.

Ordered, That no member or other person be allowed to take any of the valuation rolls out of the chest in which they are deposited, without leave of the House, and that those which have been taken out be returned. * * *

Agreeably to the order of the day, the members from the several counties present, except Suffolk, nominated one gentleman from each to constitute a committee to consider the complaint respecting the valuation. The gentlemen nominated were chosen, viz. Col. Little, Col. Baldwin, Mr. Oakman, Major Parks, Mr. Starkweather, Major Davis, Col. Williams and Col. Grow."— Ibid.

On the 30th, Messrs. Morton and Thomas were appointed to the above committee, in place of Messrs. Starkweather and Oakman, who were absent; and on the 4th of December, the report of the committee was read in the House. This report, together with the vote of the Assembly thereon, which was published in the "Independent Chronicle" of December 23d, was as follows: —

"The Committee appointed from a number of Counties in this State to consider the complaints made by a number of Towns in the State respecting the effects of the present Valuation and report what measures are necessary to be taken in order to remove the cause of said complaints have carefully attended that service and after the best enquiry they are able to make are of opinion that the present valuation as it respects the different Counties in the State is Just and equal But from the many complaints made and the best knowledge your Committee can obtain respecting the matter they are further of opinion that the Valuation as it respects the proportions set upon some Towns in some of the Counties in the State are not so equal as might be wished this your Committee find to be the cause of the complaints made to this Court. Your Committee can devise no better method for removeing the cause of these complaints than by a County revision of the Valuation that so each complainant may have oppurtunity of redress according as he or they shall make appear to be Just and proportionable: and that said revision take place the next sitting of the General Court and that in order to an easy and satisfactory accommodation of the matter the members of the House be strictly required & enjoined to give their attendance at the next Setting of the General Court Wherefore your Committee beg leave to report the following Resolve.*

State of Massachusetts-Bay } In the House of Representatives Decr 4, 1779

Resolved That this Court will as early in the next sitting thereof as may be, appoint a Committee consisting of a member or members from each County in this State to revise the present Valuation and report such alterations in the proportions of the several towns in the different Counties as shall then be made appear Just & equal and in order that the same be done with the utmost Justice and satisfaction the several members of the House are hereby required and strictly injoined to give an early and punctual attendance at the next sitting of the General Assembly

And it is further Resolved, That any Town in this State which has not sent any Representative to the General Court the present year and who apprehend themselves over burdened in the said Valuation shall and may be heard respecting the matter by their Agent or Agents as they shall chuse to appoint

The loss of the House Journals for the period between Dec. 31, 1779 and April 10, 1780, leaves it uncertain when the order was passed for bringing in the bill of this chapter, and what measures were taken, during that period, to procure full and correct returns as a basis for the new valuation.

By a memorandum on the following petition from the town of Foxborough, which remains in the state archives, it appears that it was "ordered to lie," on the 23d of March, 1780, and that, on the 24th, it was referred to the "committee on the valuation." The failure of this town to get the relief prayed for in a former petition, has been alluded to in the note to chapter 12, ante: —

"To the Honourable Council and House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay in General Court Assembled —

The Petition of the Inhabitants of the Town of Foxborough Humbly Sheweth that Said Town was not notified to take a Valuation of their Rateable Estate untill Some time in February 1779 which rendered it impossible for the Assessors to make a return before the Courts Committee had Reported the Valuation on the Several Towns, in this State, and Said Town was Doomed to Stand 48500 Pounds which your Petitioners Conceive to be more than Double its real Value as will appear by the returns of the Assessors from the several Towns that said Foxborough Originated from, and also by Attested Coppies from Said Towns Shewing in what Proportion the Said Town of Foxborough Paid when Assessed by the Towns of Stoughton Stoughtonham Walpole and Wrentham Since they were incorporated; when your Petitioners See the Scituation of a Number of the Towns around them, that they do not Pay more than half the Sum that is Paid by the Inhabitants of the Town of Foxborough according to their real wealth and Number which Creates Great Uneasiness and is an Intolarable Burden, we are Intirely willing to Pay, our full Proportion with the Rest of the State and to Sacrifice our all in the Common Cause if it Should be Necessary — there is another Circumstance which We Beg leave to mention which may Serve to demonstrate that we are Greatly over Tax'd, that is the universal Complaints of the nonresidant Proprietors, who declare that they are Tax'd Double in the Town of Foxborough that the Same Land would have been had it lain in their respective Towns —

Your Petitioners therefore trust in the Clemency of this Honourable Court, that they will Consider that they are but an Infant Town and lay no more upon them at least than their is laid upon Towns that are more aged and much Richer we further Humbly hope that this Honourable Court will take our Case in their wise Consideration and abate So much of our two last Taxes (which we have not yet been able to pay) as may appear to have been laid upon us more than our just Proportion and that the Execution be Staid untill these matters are adjusted —and your Petitioners as in duty bound Shall ever Pray

The bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, April 11, 1780, and a second time, April 14th, and a third time, on the 18th; and was thereupon passed to be engrossed, in the House, and sent up for concurrence, by the casting vote of the speaker. In the Council it was read a first time, on the 18th of April, and passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, on the 27th, after several intervening assignments, — probably for debate thereon. It was passed to be enacted, April 28th, and was signed by fourteen members, only, of the Council.

Chap. 42. This chapter incorporated the first district erected since the act of 1775-76, chapter 3, by which all existing districts were converted into towns; and Carlisle was the only district in Massachusetts at the time of the adoption of the Constitution of the Commonwealth. A considerable portion of the settled territory included within the limits of the town incorporated by this chapter, was embraced in what was known as the Bloods' Farms. This tract of land came into the possession of the brothers, John and Robert Blood, partly by purchase, as early as 1650, and partly, probably, by descent from their father. Robert, also, possessed other extensive contiguous territory in right of his wife, who was the daughter of Major Simon Willard, to whom the General Court of the colony had granted lands as a reward for his eminent public services. After the incorporation of Billerica, in 1655, the Bloods, whose farms adjoined the new plantation, though not within its limits, appear to have been considered as belonging to that township.

During King Philip's war, the Bloods sought refuge in Concord, and were there taxed as inhabitants; but on their petition, the General Court, on the 9th of May, 1678, ordered these taxes to be repaid them, "without charge to the petitioners." This appears to have been the beginning of a controversy between them and the town of Concord, which resulted, on the 17th of March, 1685, in an agreement between the parties, by which the "Farms," which had heretofore existed as a "peculiar," were annexed to Concord upon conditions by which Robert Blood, senior, his heirs and assigns, were exempted from obligation to serve in any town office, and from all rates excepting such as should be laid for repairing or building the meeting-house. By this agreement, also, the "waste lands" of the Bloods were to be exempted from taxation; highways were to be laid out, to and from the town, for their accommodation, and they were to have "meet places assigned to them in the meeting-house," in Concord. No express reasons for granting the exemptions claimed by the inhabitants of the territory above named, have been found in the state archives; but as the settlers there occupied an outpost on the frontiers, and were remote from the meeting-house in Concord village, from which they were separated by the Concord River, and to which they had access only over roads often submerged, or otherwise impassable, the conjecture is not unfounded, that these circumstances furnished sufficient inducement for consenting to their enjoyment of these special privileges.

As early as Dec. 18, 1732, Jonathan Blood, John Parlin and twenty-six others, inhabitants of the northerly part of Concord, subscribed to an agreement to support meetings for public worship at the house of Joseph Adams. The whole amount thus subscribed was £18, 4*s*. The subscribers appear to have organized as a society, to have chosen a clerk, and to have held meetings for prudential affairs, sometimes, at the house of David Parlin. At a meeting of the inhabitants of Concord, held May 21, 1733, a vote was passed, pursuant to an article in the warrant, upon the questions "whether the town would make allowance to sundry inhabitants of the north part of Concord, to support preaching amongst them * * in the winter season," or "would set off the said inhabitants, to be a separate precinct;" both of which were decided in the negative.

During the fourth session of the Assembly of the following year "a petition of Benjamin Stone and twenty-five others, of Concord, setting forth the distance they are at from the place of public worship in said town, and praying that they may be erected into a separate precinct by the bounds stated in the petition," was read, and notice thereof was ordered to be served on the town of Concord, returnable on the first Tuesday of the next May session This petition has not been discovered; but there is little doubt that the petitioners represented the same body which had organized for worship in the winter of 1732, and had unsuccessfully applied to the town for aid, in the spring of 1733. This petition came up for consideration on the 4th of June, 1734, together with a certificate of twenty-eight other inhabitants" of the proposed precinct, "shewing their unwillingness to be part of the precinct," and the answer of the town of Concord, the inhabitants whereof, on the 24th of May, had chosen Joseph Dakin, Hugh Brooks and Samuel Merriam "a committee, to give reasons to the General Court," at the day appointed, why the prayer of the petitioners should not be granted. After consideration, this petition was ordered to be dismissed.

At a town meeting held by adjournment, March 7, 1737–38, and called, among other things, "to see if the town will dismiss Zechariah Blood, and others, petitioners with him, from Concord, in order to join with part of Chelmsford and part of Billerica, to make a separate township;" and "to hear the petition of Eleazer Brown and others on the northwardly side of Concord River," that all the inhabitants of the town "on the north and northerly side of the North River, so called, may be set off a separate township;" the inhabitants refused to grant the latter petition, by a vote of seventy-six to twenty-six; and on the former petition, "the town saw cause not to act * * at that time, for that a greater number that live within the bounds asked for, appeared against the wanting the said petition, than appeared for it."

On the 3d of March 1739–40, at a meeting of the inhabitants of Concord, for which the twelfth article in the warrant was, "to hear the request of Jonathan Blood and others, of the northwardly part of the town, who desire to be set off to be a separate precinct * * * according to bounds set forth in their petition," — the town refused to grant the prayer of the petitioners.

The next attempt that has been discovered, to have any portion of the territory north of Concord River set off as a separate town or precinct, was on the fifth of May, 1746, when the warrant for the next town meeting, contained an article for hearing and considering the petition of John Hartwell and others, then to be laid before the town for that purpose. The meeting at which this petition was considered was held May 20th, by adjournment from the 12th, and at the adjournment the petition was referred to the next town meeting.

The grounds for separation alleged by these petitioners were, "in order to their more conveniant coming to y^e^ publik worship of God, from which they are many times many of them hindred by y^e^ Difficulty of passing y^e^ river in times of flud & by y^e^ great Distance of their aboad from y^e^ place where y^e^ publike worship of God is now upheld."* They promised to state other reasons in the petition to be presented by them. On the 3d of November of the same year, the warrant for the town meeting to be held on the 17th, contained an article for considering the petition of John Hartwell and others, which, it is probable, was the original petition, and it was again "referred to the next town meeting." The record of the next town meeting held by adjournment, on the 3d of March contains no reference to this petition. This and other similar applications were ineffectual, until the year 1753, when, having failed to get a vote of the inhabitants of Concord consenting to their separation, James Chandler and forty-six other inhabitants of this territory (not, however, including Bloods' Farms), appealed to the General Court, in the following petition, which was read in the House, Sept. 13, 1753, and notice thereon ordered to be served on the town of Concord, returnable "on the second Wednesday of the next sitting of the Court": —

"To His Excellency William Shirley Esq^r^ Cap^t^-General and Governor in Chief in and over his Majesties Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England and to the Hon^ble^ His Majesties Council and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled

The Petition of the Inhabitants of the Northerly Part of the Town of Concord Humbly Sheweth

That Whereas your Petitioners have for many years Past attended with our Families on y^e^ Publick worship of God at the old Parish in Said Concord with many and great Inconveniencies by Living (many of us) So Remote therefrom there is a great Number of aged, and youngerly Persons are very Freequently Nessesarily Detain'd from the Publick worship They not being able to Travel So far in the heat of Summer without Exposing their health, and in y^e^ winter season the Days Being So Short they Cannot without a great Deal of Pains and Trouble get to y^e^ Place of Publick worship in season and in Case they tarey till the times of Exercise is over they Cannot Return to their Places of abode till Sometime in the Evening, which greatly Endangers them of Suffering with the Cold, and Perticularly in times of floods there is great Numbers (of all Sex) are oblig'd to Tarey at home on y^e^ sabbath altho'— there is good bridges over the Rivers but Cannot Come at them, all which Renders your Petitioners Case very Deficult

Archives, vol.* 116, p. 470.

The town of Concord during the recess of the General Court, having passed the vote shown in the following petition, Jonathan Blood and twenty-seven others, who were desirous of being included in the territory to be set off, presented their petition to the General Court, early in the next session, as follows: —

"Province of the Massachusetts Bay December 4^th^ 1753. } To His Excellency William Shirly Esq^r^, Governour and Commander in Cheif, The Hon^ble^ His Majesties Council and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled

The Petition of a Number of the Inhabitants of the Northerly part of the Town of Concord in the County of Middlesex Humbly Sheweth

That whereas the Inhabitants of the Said Town of Concord at their Meeting the 22^d^ day of October Last 'Voted that the Inhabitants of the Northerly part of the Town 'Shall and May have all the Liberty that the Town Can Grant them to Go off as a Seperate 'District at any time when they Shall Agree or Choose So to do by the following Bounds 'viz^t^ to begin at Concord River and Run Streight to Acton Line So as to Run across the 'Road Leading to Bloods farm and across Groton Road (so Called) at Each of them one 'Mile and three Quarters from the Meeting House upon a Streight line and then to be 'Bounded on Acton and Billerica and on Concord River to where it began

And Whereas the part then voted to be Set off is thought not only by your petitioners but by many others in Said Town to be too Small, your Petitioners pray that the Same may be Confirmed by your Excellency and Honours with a Small Addition and to Run by the following Bounds viz^t^ to Begin at Concord River at the mouth of Ralfs Brook So Called and Running to a white oak tree in or by the High way on the Easterly Side of Hunts Hill otherwise Called Gravell Hill from thence to a heap of Stones by the wall in Groton Road (so Called) about four Rods on the North of Daniel Coles Barn and So Extending a Streight line to Acton Line (which will Cross Each of the Roads mentioned in the vote of the Town about Two miles from the meeting House as the way Runs) then to be Bounded by Acton to Billerica line then by Billerica taking in Bloods Farm (so Called) to Concord River then on the River to where it Began and that the Lands within Said Bounds with the Inhabitants may be made a Seperate Town or District and be vested with the Same priviledges which other Towns or Districts Enjoy. And your Petitioners as in Duty bound Shall Ever Pray." — Ibid., p. 477.

The above petition was read, in the House, December 7th, and notice thereof was ordered to be served on the town of Concord, returnable on the 12th, — the same day on which the order of notice on the petition of James Chandler and others was returnable.

On the return day, the selectmen of Concord appeared and consented to the petition of Blood and others, "provided they be obliged to pay their proportion of all public dues, as they have heretofore done, 'till such time as they agree to set up and maintain the public worship among themselves; and that they be obliged to pay such proportion, towards maintaining the great North Bridge in said town, for the future, as shall be judged reasonable, unless dismissed by a vote of the town." Whereupon this petition was referred to a joint committee, consisting of Benjamin Lynde and Samuel Watts, of the Council, and Messrs. Livermore, Coolidge and Lawrence, of the House, who were ordered "to hear the parties, and report what they judge proper for the Court to do thereon."

On the same day, Jonathan Brooks and twenty others, who lived within the territory described in Chandler's petition, filed their objection to being "layed off, in any shape, according to that request."

A committee, chosen for the purpose by the town of Concord, also appeared, and presented the following answer to the last-named petition: —

"Province of the Massachusetts Bay } To His Excellency William Shirley Esq^r^ Governour and Commander in Cheif The Hon^ble^ His Majesties Council and House Representatives in General Court Assembled December 12^th^ 1753.

We the Subscribers being a Committee appointed by the Town of Concord to make answer to the Petition of the Inhabitants of the Northerly Part of Said Town praying to be Set off as a Seperate District would Humbly Offer to your Excellency and Honours the following Reasons why the Prayer of their petition ought not be Granted Viz^t^

The Said petitioners Pray for a part of said Town to be Sett off as a District Containing Six thousand Nine Hundred and Thirty acres on which are upwards of Eighty Families and is the most valuable part of the Town being the most fertile and Profitable land and Contains all, or almost all the Lands within the first parish in Said Town Capable of Making any New or aditional Settlements; Whereas much of the Remaining part of the first parish in Said Town is Barren and unprofitable pine Land which Never Can be Improved to any Considerable, if any advantage: That if their petition Should be Granted and they Set off to the Bounds mentioned in their petition which Comes within one Hundred and ninety four Rods of the meeting House, it will Leave the first Parish in a bad Situation and under Difficult & Deplorable Circumstances not Two mile and half wide by the Meeting House and the Inhabitants in the Southwesterly Part as distant from the place of Publick Worship as the Petitioners and have as much need of Releif (all which may appear by a Plan of the Town Herewith Exhibited) and the Inhabitants near the Meeting House being many of them Tradesmen and Others which are Tennants or have very Small Estates and Generaly under Low Circumstances it will make the Burden very Heavy on a few Persons: we would also Observe that the Difficulty in Passing the River mentioned in their Petition is almost, if not altogether without Foundation the Town Having Lately been at a Great Expence in Raising the Causey and Building a wide wall for people to travell over on foot when a flood Covers the Causey (which Seldom Happens) And your Respondants would also beg Leave further to Inform your Excellency and Honours that the Said Petitioners in their Petition have Left out and made no mention of Bloods Farm (so Called) which adjoyns to the northerly Part of Concord and Contains about one Thousand Eight Hundred and fifty acres with about fifteen families thereon, and which is Accounted a Part of Concord and have Paid Publick Rates and taxes in Said Town for about Eighty years Past and Live the most Remote from the Publick worship of any belonging to the town and are obliged to travell through that Part Petitioned for to be Set off in Order to Get to the Place of Publick worship: and the Inhabitants of Said Town of Concord in Consideration of their Difficulties together with many others in the Said Northerly Part of the Town at their meeting the 22^d^ day of October last Voted

[Here follows the vote of the Town as set forth in the petition of Jonathan Blood and others, supra. — ED.]

Within which Bounds which Contains about Six Thousand and Six Hundred Acres there is about Sixty Families and being Some of the best Part of the Town and Contains land Sufficient and Room Convenient for a Considerable many additional Settlements was thought by the Inhabitants of the Town at their Said meeting to be as much as they Could Spare without manifest Injustice to the Remaining Part and to be as Large as the Petitioners and Others Concerned Could Reasonably desire and what was thought to be Sufficient to satisfie them although Something less than they asked for; But they having petitioned your Excellency and Honours for a Confirmation of the Same with a Small Adition which will take in about five Families more than the Town voted to them yet the Town we understand will not oppose it being very willing they Should be accommodated as far as is any ways Consistant with Justice and Equity and without Oppressing the Remaining Part; But if the Petition of the Said northerly Inhabitants of Concord prefer'd to your Excellency and Honours the Last Session of this Great and General Court Should be Granted it must unavoidably be attended with very bad Consequences Injustice Hardships and Oppression your Respondants Therefore Humbly Pray that the Said Petition may be Dismissed and other measures taken to Relieve the Inhabitants of the Northerly Part of Concord Such as may tend to Keep up and maintain a Harmony and Good Agreement among the Inhabitants of Said Town agreeable to the name thereof and your Respondants as in duty Bound shall Ever Pray TIMOTHY WHELER JUNR.

On the 13th, the above answer, together with the petition to which it relates, was referred to the same committee to which had been referred the above petition of Blood and others. Another petition, signed by John Hartwell and forty-two others (all but twelve of whom were signers to the above petition of James Chandler and others), which had been read, in the House, on the 7th of December, and ordered "to lie on the table," was referred to the same committee. This last-mentioned petition was as follows: —

"To His Excellency William Shirly Esq^r Cap^t General and Governer in Chief in and over His Majesties Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England and to the Honourable His Majesties Counciel and House of Representativs in General Court Assembled.

On the fourteenth of December, the joint committee submitted a written report, dated the 13th, in which they stated that they found "such an uneasiness and disagreement amongst" the parties, that they reported "it as their opinion that the petitions and answers be referred to the next sitting of this Court, for further consideration, unless the parties should, before that time, accommodate their differences among themselves" This report was accepted, and the petitions, etc., were referred, accordingly.

During the following winter and spring, until late in March, the joint committee appear to have had this business still in charge, and to have made efforts to bring about an agreement among the petitioners and remonstrants. No less than six different petitions and reports, addressed to this committee during this period, are preserved in the state archives, together with long lists of rates, by which it appears that, in the portion of the town sought to be set off as a separate district, etc., there were one hundred and fourteen tax-payers; twenty on Bloods' Farms, and one hundred and seventy-five in the town, exclusive of the northerly portion, aforesaid, and of the south-east parish.

On the second day of the fourth session (March 28, 1754), the foregoing papers were read again, in Council, and referred to the same committee, with orders to "hear the parties, and report what they judge proper for this Court to do thereon, as soon as may be." When this vote came down to the House, the next day, it was concurred in, and Col. White was substituted, on the committee, for Col. Lawrence, who was absent. The Council thereupon substituted Stephen Sewall, for Samuel Watts, in which the House concurred.

The committee as thus changed, completed their report on the 10th of April, as follows: —

"The Committee to whom was refferred the Petition of Jon^a Blood & others the Inhabitants of the Northly part of Concord praying to be made a Seperate District, & also the Answer of the Selectmen of the Town of Concord, having hear'd the Parties & considered the several Papers Given in on the same; —Are of Opinion That the Prayer of the s^d Petition be so far granted, as that they be sett off and made a Seperate District by the following bounds viz to begin at Concord River* at the mouth of Ralphs brook so called & runing to a white Oak tree in or by the Side of the High way on the Easterly Side of Hunts Hill, & from thence to an heap of Stones about four Rods north of Dan^ll Coles barn &

On the 11th, this report was accepted, and an order was passed by both branches, in concurrence, "that the petitioners have liberty to bring in a bill, accordingly." On the 12th, the bill of 1753–54, chapter 36, was read twice and passed to be engrossed, in Council, and sent down to the House, for concurrence, where it had its first and second reading, the same day, and, on the 13th, was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with two amendments, which were concurred in by the Council, and, on the 16th, it was passed to be enacted.

The settlement effected by this act was not of long duration. On the 22d of January, 1755, — a little less than nine months after the act went into operation, a general meeting of the inhabitants of the district was held, to act, among other things, upon the following application to the selectmen: —

"Carlisle January: 15th 175[5*]

To the Selectmen of the district of Carlisle Gen[tlemen*] we the Subscribers Inhabitants of sd Carlisle being [] Discouriaged in proceeding any further as a district being sensib[le] of the many difficultyes and Cost that will arise we fear we shall not be able to Carry on the same: we therefore Gent. desire you to Call a Meeting of the district as soon as Can be and Insert as an Article in your warrant for sd Meeting to see if the district will agree by a vote to petition the Great and General Court that the whole district may be Dismist from any further proceedings as a district and be laid to the Town of Concord as heretofore

Gent. your Compliance herewith will greatly oblige your Humble Servants —

DAVID WHITTAKER" [and seventeen others]. — Dr. Clark's collection.

Upon the article inserted in the warrant, in accordance with the above request, the inhabitants, after debate, "voted, that they will petition the Great and General Court, for an addition on the southerly part of the district, &c."

The immediate cause of this discontent appears to have been the difficulty of agreeing upon a location for a meeting-house in the district. Committees to select a site had been appointed, and had reported; and the geographical centre of the town had been ascertained by a surveyor, whose plan, showing the situation of some thirty or forty homesteads, and indicating the centre of the district, and the site chosen by the committee, has recently been discovered.

The following petition, which was read in the House, June 6, 1755, sets forth the later doings of the district, prior to this application to the General Court: —

"To His Excellency William Shirly Esqr Capt. General and Governer in Chief in and over his Majesties Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, and to the Honourable his Majesties Council and House of Representitives in General Court Assembled June 3/1755

Notice of this petition was ordered to be served upon the non-petitioners in the district, and upon the town of Concord, returnable on the first Tuesday of the next session. A counter-petition, signed by Ephraim Keyes and fifty-two others, inhabitants of Carlisle, Chelmsford, Billerica and Acton, was read, in the House, June 25th, and notice thereon ordered to said district and towns, returnable at the same time. This petition represented the petitioners' urgent need of a meeting-house (which, they alleged, would accommodate them if it should be erected in Carlisle), and the failure of that district to agree upon a site of such a building; wherefore they prayed to be incorporated into a township or district, which should include one-half of "the lands, with the inhabitants on the same, between Concord meeting-house and Chelmsford meeting-house, in this manner: that there be made an east and west line in the centre, between" the above-named meeting-houses, "and that half the lands between Concord meeting-house and the said centre line, south of it, with the inhabitants thereon, and half the lands between Chelmsford meeting-house and the said centre line, north of it, with the inhabitants thereon, and all the lands, with the inhabitants on the same, two miles and an-half distant, east and west, from a straight line drawn, or run, from Chelmsford meeting-house to Concord meeting-house (passing through the centre aforesaid), the whole width of the lands that may be set off" between the two meeting-houses, should constitute the new town or district — "the east and west lines to be parallel with the said straight line from Chelmsford meeting-house to Concord meeting-house; which boundaries may take in part of Carlisle, Billerica, Chelmsford, Acton and Westford." The petitioners represented that they had mutually agreed that the meeting-house should be built "on the said straight line from Chelmsford meeting-house to Concord meeting-house, in the centre, where the east and west lines shall cross the same, if a convenient place; if not, the nearest convenient place."

On the return day, the consideration of both these petitions was ordered to be referred to the second Wednesday of the next session. On the first of October, these petitions were read again, together with the answers thereto, and, after a motion to refer them to a committee, had failed, they were again "referred to the second Wednesday of the next sitting of this Court." Accordingly, on the day appointed, these petitions were referred to a joint committee, consisting of Samuel Watts and William Brattle, of the Council, and Messrs. Lawrence, Clap and Foster, of the House, who were ordered to take the petition of Jonathan Puffer and others, "and the several papers accompanying the same, under consideration, hear the parties, and report what they judge proper to be done thereon." On the 26th, this committee reported upon the petition of Ephraim Keyes and others, that they had "considered the same, heard the parties, etc., and are unanimously of the opinion that the prayer thereof is unreasonable, and that the petition be dismissed." This report was accepted, and the petition ordered to be dismissed, accordingly.

On the same day, upon the petition of Jonathan Puffer and others, the same committee reported that they were of opinion that the General Court "send a committee to Carlisle fully authorized and empowered (if they think fit for the interest of said district) to fix on a place to set the meeting-house," etc., "or to make report what they think proper for this court to do further thereon." This report was rejected by the Council, who passed an order again referring the subject to the "next sitting" of the General Court. In this order the House refused to concur, and voted that the petition be dismissed, and in this vote the Council concurred.

The papers referred to as accompanying these petitions were, the answers of the district of Carlisle to both petitions, and the answers of Chelmsford, Westford, Billerica and Acton, to the petition of Keyes and others; the petition of John Robbins and nine others, of Westford (in which they represented that if the prayer of Keyes and others were granted they should consider themselves "almost ruined and undone"; that they had just got through with settling a minister and building a meeting-house, and getting convenient highways, "and to begin the world anew, we are not able to do it;" that if the proposed new meeting-house was to be placed in the centre of Carlisle it would be more inconvenient to them than their own; that they had "a good minister now settled, and to be now floong [flung] into the open field, we cant bear to think of," and concluded with an earnest remonstrance against being "torn to pieces and undone" by the proposed act of incorporation); the remonstrance of John Hartwell and fifty-six others, inhabitants of the territory described in Keyes's petition; and the remonstrance of William Shed and thirteen others, inhabitants of Billerica, in which they represent that, within a few years, they had built a meeting-house and settled a minister, and had built a large bridge over Concord River, "against the meeting-house," and that many of the petitioners for separation were "so poor and needy as they cannot support or carry on such charges as will inevitably arise in a new township"; and therefore prayed "that they may be continued unto the town of Billerica."

The answer of the district of Carlisle to the petition of Puffer and others, was chiefly a denial of the sufficiency of the reasons alleged for the granting of this petition, and a reiteration of the willingness of the inhabitants to have the district enlarged by an addition from the adjoining territory of Concord, and that enlargement of their territory from any other town would ruin them; that they apprehended it to be the purpose of many of the petitioners, to break up the district, as those persons had also signed the petition of Keyes and others; that some who signed, were ready to recant, and many were not voters in Carlisle, and one of them, only a tenant, but not a freeholder. To this answer was appended a certificate, signed by three of the signers to Puffer's petition, asking that said petition be dismissed.

The answer of Carlisle to the petition of Keyes and others, alleged that there was a prospect of the inhabitants agreeing, soon, upon a site for a meeting-house, notwithstanding what the petitioners had stated to the contrary; that the site proposed by the petitioners would "no way commode the same," and if the prayer of the petitioners should be granted, the inhabitants of the district would "be in a worse condition than" they "were when" they "all belonged to the town of Concord;" that they would be "joined with a great number of poor persons," who would probably soon need pecuniary assistance; also that, if they were set off as the petitioners desired, there was, to use their own words, "the uttermost danger of our being greatly imposed upon as to our religious circumstances, by being joined to a number of separates, many of whom lie under church censure, or debarred of church privileges, in the church or churches where they belong, and are mostly separates from our common way of divine worship, and for a long time have forsaken the standing ministry, and heard a lay exhorter, whom we suppose they would settle among us * * * or, at least one of the same persuasion"; and closed, with the declaration that rather than be joined with the petitioners "we would beg to be set back to the town of Concord again, which nothing would induce us to be willing to, except the danger of our being obliged to be incorporated with these petitioners."

The answer of the town of Chelmsford was signed by a committee, chosen for the purpose at a town meeting held on the first of August, who were instructed to use such arguments against the petition of Keyes and others, as they should "think most proper." This committee represented that the remoteness of the petitioners from the meeting-houses of the several towns to which they belonged, which they had given as their principal reason for being erected into a new township or district, was "not the only true reason why the major part of the petitioners of Chelmsford desire to be set off, * * * but that they have a greater reason" which they had not expressed in their petition, inasmuch as, for a year and a-half, or more, they had separated from the regular church and congregation in the town, and attended the ministrations of one, Samuel Hide, "late a tailor in Boston, but now a bold, illiterate, Separate speaker or exhorter,"—who had been brought into town by some of their number, to the great disorder and disturbance of the church and town, and to the no small hurt and damage of even some of their number; and that the minor part of the said petitioners" were "either those who have heretofore been disaffected to the ministry and church, as the others, or drawn in by their influence," and that they joined in the petition in order "to facilitate a settlement for their exhorter." The committee further expressed the belief that very few, if any, of the petitioners would be nearer the meeting-house in the proposed district, than they now were to the meeting-house in Chelmsford, and that the town, having been settled as early as 1654, offered but little chance for more new settlements, or profitable improvement; that the soil was "poor and barren," that the inhabitants were hardly able to pay the town and public taxes, and that the setting off of the petitioners would open a door to strife and contention about the location of the meeting-house,— which would either have to be moved to the centre of the territory remaining after the petitioners were set off, or enough more land set off from the northern part of the town to leave it in the centre; which would be the ruin of the town. They therefore prayed that the petition be dismissed.

Thomas Read, in behalf of the town of Westford, answered that the petition signed by "Timothy Wilkins and Jonas Robins" (two of the signers of Keyes's petition), was "a falls [false] petition, and they not held to answer thereto." They therefore asked that it be dismissed; but if they should be held to make answer, they would beg leave to say that they could not spare any of their number, for they "are but small as to number of acres; for our town, containing but of nineteen thousand and a few odd acres in the whole; for when we was laid off from Chelmsford we was to have had one-half of all the land belonging to the town of Chelmsford; but there was about three thousand acres where the surveyor went to plan the town, belonged to a certain propriety; so we was licked out of fifteen hundred acres." They also declared that the town included between four and five thousand acres, at least, of "drowned lands," of which the six ponds, ("some of them a mile long, and good part of a mile wide, besides there is two great ponds more) we own the greater part of them, to our sorrow;" that they had also three great spruce-swamps, measuring one thousand acres, and a great deal of pine-lands, and "rock pine-hills," fit only for pasturage; that they had as much as they could do to live, and pay their minister, and their public charges; and that the setting off of the petitioners would not only bring confusion to the towns from which they were separated, and disturb the parish settlements there, but would undo those who should be set off, as their lands would not be wholly in the old or the new town; and the differences of opinion that would arise among them would eventually "break them up." The answer closed with a prayer that the petition be dismissed.

The answer of the town of Billerica, by Thomas Kidder, who had been chosen for the purpose, contained the same representation about the new bridge, that was made in the later remonstrance of William Shed and others. It contained the further statement that the number of polls, in the town, had been reduced to two hundred and forty, and the territory of the town proportionally diminished, by the setting off therefrom, about one-half of the town of Bedford, the whole of the town of Tewksbury, besides a considerable number of inhabitants, and several hundred acres of land, to Wilmington. The answer also stated that the line proposed in Keyes's petition would come within two miles of the meeting-house in Billerica, and that "most of the principal inhabitants" were opposed to the separation. Wherefore the town prayed that the said petition be dismissed

John Davis, junior, and Samuel Davis, a committee chosen by the town of Acton, answered for that town, approving of a remonstrance of sundry inhabitants of that town (which has not been discovered in the state archives), and declaring that there were but two signers of Keyes's petition belonging to Acton, one of whom had since died, and neither of whom "had possession" there; that not many years before, the town, by order of the General Court, had built a meeting-house, and settled a minister, — to use their own language: "even when our numbers and substance were exceedingly small; and now, in our infant state, such is our weakness that it is with great difficulty we pay the charges we are subjected to, as a town;" that the prayer of the petitioners was, for setting off one seventh part of the families in the town, which would reduce the town to a condition in which they would be unable to perform the duties of a town; and would, moreover, make the existing site of their meeting-house no longer central. These objections they submitted to the consideration of the General Court, without a special petition for relief.

The answer of Carlisle to the petition of Puffer and others, was submitted to the General Court, on the 6th of August. All the other answers, and the remonstrances of John Robbins and others, and John Hartwell and others, were submitted September 24th, except the answer of Acton, which was presented on the first of October. The remonstrance of William Shed and others, of Billerica, was presented on the 22d of October.

These schemes for the extinction of the district having failed, the project of getting the district set back to Concord was renewed, the next year, by a committee of the district, chosen for that purpose, at a general meeting of the inhabitants. This, it will be seen, was precisely the prayer of Jonathan Puffer and others, which had been opposed by a committee chosen by the district, against the protest of Puffer and twenty-three other inhabitants. The reasons for this change by the inhabitants, are sufficiently shown in the petition of the committee, which was as follows: —

"To His Excellency William Shirly Esq^r and Governer in Chief of his Majesties Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England. To the Honb^e His Majesties Council: And the Honble the house of Representitive of Said Province in General Court Assembled. August 12/1756 ·

The Petition of the District of Carlisle in the County of Middlesex by their Committee Humbly Sheweth. —

That whereas Your Petitioners being Set off, of the Northerly Part of Concord a Separate District in April 1754 And there being but a very Small Majority (if any) that were freeholders included in S^d District that were Petitioners for being Set off which R nder'd our Case very Difficult and we Still Remain in a very Broken Posture. And altho there has been many Trials and in various ways for Coming into some ammicable agreement for building up the Place according to y^e Intent of our being Set off. And Seeing all means Fail, and apprehending the utter impossibility of ever Coming into any further agreement for Setting up a House for the Publick worship. Did at a District meeting on y^e 14^th of July Last Come into the Following Vote. That the District will Petition the Great and General Court that the whole of the District be Return'd Back to the Town of Concord with all their Former Priviledges — (And also that none of the Inhabitants be set off again into a Separate Town District or Precinct Excepting Such as shall hereafter Sign a Petition to the Great and General Court to be set off)

At the time of our former trial of Returning back to the town Concord there was a Petition Prefer'd to this Hon^ble Court by Some of the Inhabitants of Chelmsford and Billerica which Included Part of this District was (without any Doubt) the Cause why there was no better agreement for our Returning back which fears are in Some measure Removed by that Petition being Cast out as an unreasonable Petition as we apprehend: — And the Town of Concord was serv'd with a Copy of the Petition of Mr Jon^a Puffer and others to Give in their Reasons if any they had against this Districts Returning to the town of Concord and by a very great majority voted not to send a Committee to oppose our Returning and we have not again made our application to the Town to see if they will accept of us inasmuch as the town was so free to Receive us at that time. — but have been with all the selectmen of Concord and they Say they know of no reason the Town Can give against our Returning at this time any more than at the time above Said. — And there is Several of the Inhabitants that Live the most Remote from the Town of Concord are ingaged in Returning as above S'd. — We therefore Humbly Pray in the Name of the District that your Excellency and Honours would Take your District Distrest Condition into your wise Consideration and Releave us according to the vote of the District or in Such a way and manner as your Excellency and Honours Shall in your Great wisdom Think Fit. — &c

The above petition was read, in the House, Aug. 12, 1756, and notice thereof ordered to be served on the town of Concord, returnable on the first Tuesday of the next (October) session. Accordingly, on the return day, the inhabitants of Concord having voted, in the mean time (Sept. 28, at a general town meeting, duly warned for the purpose), first, not to choose a committee to oppose this petition, and second, that they would receive the district back, "agreeable to their petition," the following order was passed: —

"In Council October 6, 1756 Read again and it appearing that the Petr^s had Served the Town of Concord with a Copy of the Petn who have made no answer to the same Therefore Ordered that the Prayer of the Petition be granted and that the Inhabit^ts of the Dis-

A difficulty was now encountered which again called for the interposition of the Legislature. The district newly annexed to Concord was destitute of town officers, whom the law required to be chosen at the annual town meeting, in March; whereupon the selectmen of Concord applied to the General Court, for a remedy. Their petition, which was dated Oct. 19, 1756, was read, in the House, on the next day; and the following order (drawn by Col. White, appointed a committee for the purpose), was passed: —

"In the House of Representatives Octo 20th 1756 — Voted that the Town of Concord at their next General Town meeting be and hereby are authorized & impowered to make Choice of a Contable Tythingmen Surveyors of highways & such other Town Officers as they shall think proper & necessary in that part of sd Town Lately Caled the District of Carlisle, publick notice being given thereof in the notification for Calling said meeting, which officers when Chosen shall be obliged to serve in the respective offices to which they shall be Chosen under the same Penaltys as the Town officers were that were Chosen in the month of March last

Another difficulty arose in the extinct district of Carlisle, which with the remedy provided therefor, is sufficiently shown in the following order. It was brought to the attention of the General Court, by a petition, read in the House, Jan. 7, 1757, and referred to Col. Clap, Col. Buckminster and Mr. Merrill, "to prepare the draught of a proper vote to be passed thereon," etc. The "vote" or order reported by this committee, was as follows: —

"In the House of Representatives January 10th 1757

For the next sixteen years no attempt to disturb the settlement effected by the foregoing vote has been discovered; but application was made to the General Court, at the first session in 1772–73, by certain inhabitants of Concord, Billerica, Chelmsford and Acton, "living near together, and far distant from the place of public worship in their respective towns," who prayed that, in order to the erecting into a separate town or district, them and their neighbors (comprising about seventy-six families), a committee of the Legislature might be appointed, at the expense of the petitioners, to view their situation and circumstances. This petition, which was signed by Jeremiah Andrews, John Robbins, Samuel Green, and fifty-four others, was read, in the House, June 10th, and referred to Messrs. Farley, Pierce and Maynard.

The following are the bounds of the territory which the petitioners prayed to have set off: —

"bgining att the Southeasterly Corner of Stephen Blood Juner's meadow att Concord Riuer thence Runing westerly Strait Line to the Southwest Corner of Edward browns Land on a Strait Line to Grotten Road including the house and Land of Samuell Dauis thence Runing on A Strait Line including the hovse and Land of Samson wheeler in acton thence Runing Northerly on a Strait Line Encluding the house and Land of John Emory thence Runing Northeasterly in Cluding the hovse and Land John Robbens in Chemsford Still Runing Northeasterly including the house and Land of Zachariah Emory thence Runing Northestly including the house and Land back of Joshua Snow thence Runing Easterly including the house and Land of Jonathan Swalow Still Runing Easterly including the house and Land of amos Kidder thence Runing Southeasterly including the hovse and Land of Nathaniel hutchenson thence Runing on a Strait Line to the Range way where the Country Road croses the Same thence Easterly by the South Side of Said Country Road to Concord Riuer thence up the Sd Riuer to the bounds first mentioned." — Ibid., vol. 118, p. 625.

The petitioners alleged as reasons for their prayer, that, as divers of them lived seven miles, others six miles, some four miles, and the nearest, nearly three miles, from the regular places of worship in their respective towns, (which prevented the regular attendance upon public worship of the old, the infirm and children), the petitioners "out of a just regard to the religious education" of their children, had, "at their own expense, erected a place of public worship among themselves," not more than two and a-half miles distant from any of their homes; which, and the "hiring preaching," from time to time, added to the province taxes, "and their full proportion of the salaries of the ministers of the towns they now belong to," proved a burden "extremely heavy." They further represented that though they were willing to endure this burden, and even more, rather than have the religious training of their children neglected, yet they appealed to the Court to judge how far it was equitable to continue this burden on them in order to ease their neighbors, who could well enough spare them; that the four towns from which they sought to be set off, would hardly feel their loss; while, to the petitioners, the exemption from all taxes for the support of ministers, except those of their own choice, would be very "serviceable."

Upon the report of the above committee, on the 12th of June, each of the four towns above named was ordered to be served with a copy of the petition, "together with an explicit representation of the bounds of the lands they pray to have set off * * *, that the said towns may shew cause," etc., on the second Thursday of the next session of the General Court. Accordingly, on the 15th of January, 1773, this petition, and the answer thereto of the town of Concord, by a committee chosen for the purpose, were referred to a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Sever and Humphrey, of the Council, and Farley, Greenleaf and Bigelow, of the House, who were ordered "to consider the same, and report what they judge proper for this Court to do thereon."

The answer of Concord set forth, first, that though some of the petitioners may live nearer the place proposed for public worship, in the petition, yet the roads thereto (which would be used only for that purpose) would, in summer, be so much worse than the roads to the meeting-house in Concord, that it would be much easier to attend the latter; while, in the winter, the roads would be in such condition that it would be "impracticable for many to attend at said new proposed place of worship;" on the other hand, the roads to Concord meeting-house were kept open in winter, and were passable at all seasons of the year; second, that the aged as well as the young, among the petitioners, "who choose to attend worship anywhere, are constant attendants at public worship, in Concord;" and as for their children's schooling, it had never been neglected; and their chance for the future, in that respect, was better than it had been in the past; third, that when the district of Carlisle (which included some of the territory now sought to be set off) was set back to Concord, the inhabitants, in their petition (which was granted by the General Court), prayed "that they or any of them might never more be set off from Concord 'till petitioned for by the major part of them," which had not yet happened; and fourthly, fifteen out of the twenty families in that portion of the ancient territory of Concord, now prayed to be set off, were "utterly averse to going," being fully satisfied with their existing privileges as townsmen of Concord. The respondents, therefore, declared it to be, in their opinion, "not only a grievous hardship, but a great infringement on" their "liberties and privileges, to have a number of inhabitants forced and dragged * * * from a town where they have enjoyed every advantage accruing from society, to which they earnestly desire still to belong," and from which a separation must be inconvenient and injurious to them — who would thus be forced into a society entirely new to them, and be subject to great expenses, and exposed to the feuds and contentions to which new societies are liable, without reaping any one advantage more than they then had.

On the 21st of January, the joint committee made a report, which, with the order thereon, of both branches, is given below: —

"The Committee of both houses, on the Petition of a number of the Inhabitants of the Towns of Concord, Billerica, Chelmsford & Acton, praying, that they may have a Committee, at their own expence, to view their Situation & Circumstances, in order to their being erected into a Town, District or Precinct; & also the petitions of a number of the Inhabitants of the Sd Towns who are Included within the limits prayed for, who pray that they may not be set off from ye Several Towns or Parishes to which they respectively belong, together with the Answer of the Towns of Concord, Billerica, & Chelmsford, have attended that Service, fully heard the parties, & on due Consideration are of Opinion that the Sd petition dismissed which is Submitted WM SEVER P ordr

After the lapse of little more than six years, the subject of incorporating those of the inhabitants of Chelmsford, Concord, Acton and Billerica, who lived remote from the meeting-houses in those towns, yet not so far from each other, and who were members of a separate society or congregation for public worship, engaged the attention of the Legislature, in consequence of the presentation of the following petition, which was read, in the House, Sept. 10, 1779, and committed to Messrs. Perry, Adams and Williams of Roxbury: —

"To the Honourable Council, & House of Representatives, of the State of Massacusetts Bay, in New England. —

The Petition of a number of the Inhabitants of Chelmsford, Concord, Acton & Billerica, that live at a great distance from any Place of Public Worship, desiring that they may be made a Town, District, or Parish, agreeable to the Bounds hereafter mentioned.

This Petition humbly Sheweth, That the Petitioners not being able to get their Families to Meeting, & labouring under very great Disadvantages, being tenderly concerned for their Families, built a House for the public Worship of God, & have for about Twenty Years, in the general, supported Preaching upon their own Cost, many of them at the same time paying Rates to the Ministers of the Town that they properly belong'd to, thô it was consider'd as a very great hardship, especially as there was no public Roads laid out for some of Us.

And althô we have been Unsuccessful in our former applications to this Honourable Court, through misrepresentations, we now as the Times are alter'd from what they were, as well as the Sentiments of many, & upon many accounts take Encouragement to renew our Petition; not doubting but our Prayer will be granted, if our particular Circumstances shou'd be consider'd by a Committee appointed, & sent to Us, at our own Charge, to view our Situation, & to hear what we have to offer in support of this our Petition; which Appointment we again earnestly Request. —

As to the Charge formerly brought against Us, That we are a parcel of disaffected People to Ministers, it is without foundation; for we mean to be a regular Society & to have a learned & orthodox Minister settled among Us, & that shall be approved of by all serious & steady Ministers, & People, that hold Calvinistic Principles, or Principles agreeable to the Platform upon which the Churches in general in this State are founded. — And as to our not being able to support a Minister, your Committee will be able to judge of that when they have view'd the Lands Petitioned for, & have enquired particularly into our Circumstances. — And as to the Damage it will be to the Towns we belong to, we are perswaded that this will appear trifling attending to their numbers & wealth, & to what some of them have lately done, when a Copy of this Petition was laid before them, which has been sent to all the Towns we are connected with, & has been acted upon, a Copy of whose Votes we have to offer when call'd for. —

Our distance from Meeting, is, from our Meeting-House to Concord 5 miles & an half; to Chelmsford the same; to Billerica Six Miles, & to Acton the same. — And every one from this distance we think must judge, that unless we have a mind to bring up our Children in a Heathenish Manner (which we dread) that we must be justified in our repeated Efforts to have the Gospel settled among Us. —

The Bounds of our intended Town, District, or Parish, is, as follows. Viz: Beginning at the South West Corner of Samuel Davis's Land in Acton, including sd. Davis's House & Land, & running Westerly to Land of Lieutt. John Heald Junr. including his House & Land; then running Northerly, including the House & Land of John Emmery; still running Northerly, including the House & Land of Jonathan Robins in Chelmsford: then running Northerly including the Houses & Lands of Nathan & Benjamin Crosby, & Samuel Wilson; then running Easterly, including Lieut. Jonathan Spauldings Home-Place; still running Easterly including the House & Land of Asa Spaulding Junr. & John Nicholas in Billerica; then running South Easterly to Concord River; including the House & Land of Lieutt. Issachar Andrews; then running up said River to the South Corner of Stephen Blood Junrs Meadow; then a strait Line to the South West Corner of Captn John Greens Pasture to the new-Road; and then a strait Line to Samuel Davis's South West Corner of Acton, the Bounds first mentioned. —

* Opposite this name is the following memorandum: "the owner of this House does not Live in Town."

Accompanying the foregoing petition, besides the assent of the Baptists, which was appended thereto, and a petition signed by John Barrett (guardian for Jonathan Blood), and forty-two others, including the six persons exempted from the operation of the act, by section seven of this chapter, were extracts, duly certified, from three of the towns, named in the petition, showing that the inhabitants of Concord had voted not to act upon the petition, as it "now stands"; that the inhabitants of Acton were willing the petitioners should "be set off east of Groton Road, so called, taking half the road;" but that they had appointed their selectmen a committee to oppose the setting off of the petitioners' lands west of that road, "in case they obtain a committee from the General Court to view their circumstances"; and that the inhabitants of Billerica had consented that eleven of the petitioners named by them, "and all others included," might be set off as a township, by the following boundaries: —

"Begining at Chelmsford line at the end of the wall between the land of Lt Jonathan Spaulding, & land of Lt Asa Spaulding, runing east forty Degrees South half a mile to the Raing way, then Runing Southeasterly, to the North west Corner of the land of John Nickles Jur then Runing between Sd Nickles land & land of Asa Spaulding to the Southeast Corner of Sd Nickles land then runing South thirty one Degrees west half a mile to a heap of Stones in Capt Daniel Sticknеys land, then Running Southeasterly to the Northeast Corner of the land of Issachar Andrews, then Running between the Said Andrews land, and the land of Mr Joseph Hill to Concord River." — Ibid., p. 163.

To this committee of the House, twenty-one of the inhabitants of the northerly part of Concord, embraced within the bounds proposed for the new township (including among them the six persons named in section seven), addressed a petition, on the 17th of September, praying them not to hear and grant the prayer of the former petitioners, but, instead thereof, to hear their own request not to be set off against their wishes The committee, however, made the following report: —

"In Hous of Representetives Septr 23d 1779

The Committee appointed to Consider the Petition of a numbour of the inhabitants of Chelmsford Concord Acton and Billerice — praying that they may be made a town, District or parish — have attended that Service — and are of opinion that the prayer of the petition be So far Granted that there be a Committee Sent by this Court upon the Cost of the petitioners — and beg leave to Report the following Resolve *

The joint committee thus appointed, received addresses or petitions, as follows: from Josiah Parlin, asking that his name be withdrawn from the above-mentioned petition to the former committee, as having been put there without his consent; from Amos Kidder, who, though a Baptist, expressed his willingness to be set off "considering the difficulties and disadvantages the petitioners labor under," etc.; and from a committee chosen, voluntarily, by the society of which the petitioners were members, warning the committee against certain "indirect methods" of their opponents, chief among which was their making a false show of strength by procuring the signatures of persons "that have no right to sign."

While this committee of the Legislature was proceeding with its labors, the inhabitants of Concord, in a town meeting held Nov. 1, 1779 (and warned at the request of John Hartwell and twelve other inhabitants, including the six persons exempted in section seven of this chapter), chose a committee, consisting of James Barrett, Dr. George Minot and Jonas Heywood, "to use their best influence that the abovesaid petition [i. e., of John Green and others] may no further take place." Stephen Blood, also, and thirteen other inhabitants or freeholders in Bloods' Farms, prepared a petition to the General Court, opposing the petition of John Green and others, in which they declared that the bounds of the proposed new district, included "about seventy freeholders, many of which are very poor, and eight or nine of them of the Baptist persuasion, which will be no help to support a minister if we are set off, * * * and about thirteen, we understand, have signed against being set off." They add that their proportion of the expenses of the war, "is as much as we know how to pay," and allude to the great expense they must incur in building roads, if the petition should be granted; concluding with the prayer that, as they and their fathers had "had the privilege of lying to Concord for upwards of eighty years," they may not be set off therefrom, even if the petitioners should be.

The committee of the society to which the first petitioners belonged, now renewed a proposal or promise to exempt all who should be incorporated with them in the proposed district, from any contribution to the cost, up to that time (Nov. 3, 1779), of building and finishing their meeting-house, in which these associates should, nevertheless, enjoy equal rights with those at whose expense it was erected.

A surveyor (Isaac Foster), and chainmen (Jonathan Minot, Amos Parlin and Samuel Wright), were employed by the petitioners for the new district, in accordance with the advice of the legislative committee, to prepare a plan of the territory to be incorporated, which plan the committee were to submit with their report. The surveyor and his assistants were sworn, respectively, on the 8th and 9th of November, and the adjoining towns were notified to attend the survey of the lines falling within their respective limits.

On the 3d of December, the joint committee made the following report, which, on that day, was read and accepted in Council, and sent down to the House, for concurrence: —

"The Committee of Both Houses on the Petition of John Green and Others praying that part of Concord Acton, Chelmsford, and Billraca May be Sat off, and Made into a seperate Town, District, or Parish

On the 16th of December, the House, at the request of the representative from Chelmsford, and in order, as he represented, that that town "have opportunity to measure," ordered that the consideration of this report, and papers relative thereto, be referred to the next sitting of the General Court, notwithstanding a committee of the town had been present when Isaac Foster made his survey. The further action taken upon this report, before the 10th of April, 1780, has not been fully ascertained on account of the loss of the journals of the House between Dec. 31, 1779, and that date. It is certain, however, that, even before the House passed the above order, the three Bloods — Stephen, Stephen, junior, and Jonathan, junior — signified their satisfaction with the report of the committee, and their objection to being set off in any other manner; and that, on the 14th of December, John Green and others, the committee of the original petitioners, requested, as a favor that the town of Concord might not be granted another hearing — but that the House would concur in the action of the Council as there had already been four hearings before committees of the Legislature, and especially as the town of Chelmsford, at whose motion the second reading of the bill had been deferred, had lately voted to raise large sums of money for prospective outlays in order to place a heavy burden upon the petitioners; in respect to which, also, they prayed relief. These petitioners also begged (in order to correct any misconception of their condition, through misrepresentations made to the Legislature) in case "there should be a necessity for looking into the matter," that the Court would hear what the whole joint committee had "to offer, previous to any other hearing."

The fourth session of the Assembly began on the ninth of March, and further petitions, certificates, declarations and other documents, were prepared, to be used, at that session, for or against the petition of John Green and others. Samuel Davis and John Heald signified to the Assembly their satisfaction with the committee's report and objected to being set off in any other manner than the committee had suggested; and, in a paper dated the 9th of March, Nehemiah Wheeler and two others, did the same, as also did Phinehas Blood and fifteen others, on the 11th. Jonas Spaulding and nine others, in a paper dated March 1, 1780, asked to be considered joint petitioners with Green and others, and expressed their desire that the report of the committee be ratified, and a separation decreed accordingly.

An account of the number of dwelling-houses and families in the "intended town, district or parish," filed with these papers, shows, that of the former, there were ninety, and of the latter, one hundred and two.

The following vote of the inhabitants of Concord, shows a disposition to agree to terms of separation: —

"At a meeting of the Votable Inhabitents of Town of Concord Leagaly warned on Fryday the tenth Day of march Currant

The inhabitants of Chelmsford, at a meeting held March 23d, chose a committee to employ a surveyor to make a plan of the town "relative to the south end of the town's being" set off, etc., which they were ordered to present to the Legislature, together with a petition on the same subject. The following petition was accordingly prepared and presented by them: —

"To the Honourable Council and House of Representitiues of the State of the Massachusets Bay in General Court assembled Chelmsford march 31: 1780." — Mass. Files: Bills, 1780.

To this petition, and the plan referred to, Jonas Spaulding and nineteen others filed an answer, in which they further stated that there was but one family opposed to the petition of John Green and others, in that portion of the proposed district, lying within the limits of Chelmsford, which town they declared contained "19,519 acres, besides that part called the Neck" (which on account of its situation must always remain a part of the town), while what was to be set off to the proposed district amounted to only 1,400 or 1,500 acres, and took in only 17 of the 170 dwelling-houses in the town; that the persons to be set off paid about one-tenth of the taxes assessed in the town; that the meeting-house in Chelmsford was not in the centre of the town, was very old, and could be moved whithersoever the inhabitants chose; and that, to the line proposed by the town of Chelmsford, which was a "strange affair," cutting their farms in pieces, they were utterly opposed.

In the mean time, the committee which represented the first petitioners, presented the following memorial: —

"To the Honble House of Representatives, of the State of Massachusetts Bay, in New England. —

Gentlemen,

The Subscribers being a Committee for the District of Concord, Billerica, Acton, & Chelmsford, not expecting a hearing before the Honourable House, were not present when the hearing came on, saving three of Us, as we imagine that some things of importance to Us were misrepresented, or misconceived of, we beg leave, especially as there has been so long a Delay, which may be a great Damage to some of Us, if not to the Society, to be allow'd to acquaint your Honours with some things that we think material.

As to the distance of the Inhabitants from the Meeting-House in the Town where they belonged, it is from more then Eight Miles to Three, saving a few Families, & all that live in the extreme parts of the District are half a Mile, or more, nearer to our Meeting-House then their own. — The Plan, with the Paper annex'd, and our explanation of it, we think, will satisfy your Honours.

The number of Families in the District, is, One Hundred, & four; & including the six Families that Concord have withheld in their late Votes, thô included in the Report of your Honourable Committee, which has been accepted by both Houses, there is but Eleven Families, in the Opposition in the four Towns, and but one in the Bounds of Chelmsford; as their Committee Man can now inform You being in Town, and who has acted for them from the beginning, thô we understand that it has been represented to the Honourable Court, that no Person has at any time represented them. — And if the Gentleman that represents the Town of Chelmsford is willing, & your Honours also, this Gentleman wou'd be glad to make Answer to what he has, or may offer, having been a Select-Man in Chelmsford for a number of Years. —

As to the Line, & the Plan, the Surveyor, & Chain-Men, were by the Advice of your Honourable Committee, applied to, & sworn, and the Towns concern'd notified, & althô the Member for Chelmsford had the second reading of the Bill put off till now, for this reason among others, 'That they might have oppertunity to measure,' Chelmsford Committee was present when the Line was run on Chelmsford side, & it cou'd not be necessary to measure again.— But we rather think that the pleaded for Delay, was to give the Town of Chelmsford oppertunity (and it gives Other Towns the same Oppertunity) to compleat Taxes that look forward, & to defray Charges that have not arisen; it having been lately Voted, to raise the Sum of Fourteen Thousand Pound for Ministry & Town Charges; part for Debts already contracted, & part for what may arise.— The particulars of which the Committee Man from Chelmsford can acquaint your Honours if call'd in.— We are willing Town Debts already contracted shou'd be paid, but we must intreat your Honours not to consider our Article in the Bill as expressing any other Debts, & from all which we beg to be delivered.

The prick'd Line upon our Plan that is the Line propos'd by the Town of Concord, was not mark'd out to shew our willingness that it shou'd be allow'd, but the unreasonableness of Concord to desire it, as it will take off so large a tract of Land, & a great deal of it belonging to the Petitioners, & to let your Honours see that it will run up within a Mile and a quarter of our Meeting House.— Shou'd this be granted it wou'd ruine the District.— And it wou'd be measurably doing so if the six Families shou'd be set off to Concord that they ask for, as it wou'd make many Others very Uneasy who have Signed the Petition conditionally; viz: 'If the whole shou'd be set off,' And fearing if it was not so that the Burden wou'd be to heavy. — We are uneasy on account of their Uneasiness, but as their Lands & Houses are link'd in with Ours we were obliged to ask for them; & we mean to give them every indulgence, & to do every thing in our power to quiet their Minds, & doubt not but they will soon be easy.—

As to ye Name of the District, Bridges in Concord, the Poor, together with Taxes already made, we are willing to leave these Matters with the Honourable Court, & ask Pardon for proposing a Name before.— But we wou'd inform the honourable Court, That we have no Mill in the District, upon the River, and that we reap no Benefit from any Bridge but the North Bridge in Concord, and that we hope soon to have a Bridge over the same River, which we expect to maintain without the help of Concord.— We dont desire to throw off any Burden upon Concord that we ought to bear Ourselves, & are willing, with those we represent, to Do every thing we ought to do, attending to the largeness of the Number of Families in Concord, & their Wealth, and our own Numbers, & Poverty, being in a new Country inasmuch as we have Roads to purchase, & lay out, being shut up with Fences, & having every thing to do as to Mills, Bridges, &c., and a considerable number of Poor to maintain which we suppose will fall within our Limits.— We want to enjoy religious Priviledges, and we are willing to bear any reasonable Burden that we may do it. We have for above Twenty Years back, more especially in the Affair of Petitioning (for want of Friends) been at an amazing Expence; but this we dont Regard if we can but at last obtain the Favour of this Court to set Us off agreeable to the Report of your Honourable Committee, which both Houses have accepted, & for which we on the behalf of the Society, return our most hearty Thanks.

The Votes of the Town of Concord at a late Meeting, to set off all the Families in Concord but six within our Limits, with the Petition of those that had been in the Opposition in consequence of it, to have the whole set off by this Honourable Court, rather then be governed by the Votes of the Town of Concord, we hope has been, & will be duely consider'd, let what will appear to the contrary since the first reading of the Bill

Our Circumstances will be such if the Bill shou'd pass agreeable to the Report of the Committee, that we shall be likely to be a happy People, but if otherwise we shall be miserable, as we shall not be able to get our Families to any place of public Worship, and shall be likely to despair of any Help in future, the prospect of which puts us upon pleading hard for present Relief. And we are confident that a most every Member of this Court wou'd Vote for it did they know our Circumstances as well as their Honourable Committee who have heard all that the Parties had to offer, & who have view'd our Scituation.—

When Lincoln was sett off from Concord it was in the first place a Precinct, and the Town of Concord was at a great Charge in purchasing Roads for them, and as we expect to purchase our own Roads, we cant think that there is the same reason for our being held to maintain Bridges in Concord that there was for them.—

We wou'd add, That our Meeting-House which was Built, & finished, all but the inside, by a Propriety, we have given to the District clear of all Charge that has arisen, and we for ever Discharge all that may be sett off to Us, & shall consider them as having an equal right with Us, agreeable to their Estates.—

N. B This Week there has been a Town-Meeting at Chelmsford, when the Town Voted to have a Survey, & a Plan of the Town, & to Petition, as thô our Petitioning was a new thing, & they had not had oppertunity before, whereas it is 12 Months since the Copy of our Petition was laid before the Town; & althô it was earnestly desired at the late Meeting, that the Houses universally in the Town might be prick'd out upon the Plan, it was opposed as that wou'd not serve their purpose; and the manifest design of the Town is to bring about another Delay, & to prevent our ever being an incorporated Society, althô they do not need Us. — And similar to this has our treatment always been, and this Honourable Court this way kept from the knowledge of our true State, and the Circumstances of some of the Towns we have belong'd to. Concord in particular having formerly Voted off to Us many more Families then we have now ask'd for, thô they are not willing we shou'd have them."— Ibid.

This memorial was followed by sundry petitions in opposition thereto, from persons whose estates were included in the proposed township. One of these, dated March 29, 1780, was from Acton, and was signed by three persons; another, dated March 30th, was signed by John Hartwell, and all the other signers to the application to the selectmen of Concord, to call the town meeting of Nov. 1, 1779, except the six who are named in the seventh section of this chapter. All but one of these remonstrants had also signed the petition of David Blood and others, the prayer of which was obscure, and, as they claimed, had been misunderstood. The six persons excepted by section seven of the act, now presented the following petition: —

"To the Honourable the Councel and House of Representatives in Genl. Court assembled and now Setting in Boston —

The memorial of a Number of the Inhabitents of the Town of Concord that are Included in the Bounds of the District Petitiond for, from that and the Neighbouring Towns — Humbly Sheweth —

That your Memorialists with their Predicessors ever belonged to the Town of Concord and by So doing enjoyed Great Satisfaction and Contentment, that which every member of Society ought to enjoy; But for many years those who lived more Remote from the Town then your Memorialests, have disturbed that Satisfaction & Contentment, by their Petitions to the Honble General Court to be Set of as a Town, Destrict, or Parrish, and in the year 1754 they obtained what they Seemd So ernestly Seeking after, even to be Sett off as a Destrict Including your Memorialists. and after years Langushing in Discord, (to say no worse of it) your Memorialists with others Petitioned the Honble General Court for their kind assistance and Interposision on our behalf, beging we might have Liberty Granted us to Return to the Town of Concord again, & never more to be Sett off in a Destrict with out our Consent, To which Prayer we Received Greacious answers of Peace, and was again Restored to our Former Priviliges to our no Small Joy and Satisfaction, Expecting that our mountain then Stood fast never more to be moved. but to our Great Greif our peace which we tho,t Should be as a river was again broke by Petitions Prefrd to the Honble Court to be Sett of again but did not obtain their Desire by Reason of opposision amonge themselves not that we meant, or any in the Town of Concord had a Desire to exclude them who lived Rmote from Publick worship from enjoying all the Privilidges that their local Circomstances would admitt — For the Town of Concord in Town meeting assembled, Chearfully and unanimosly Voted to Excuse them who Desired it from paying any thing to the minister in the Town, So long as they Supported preaching among themselves — But now we are more alarmd then ever, we are now again within the Bounds of another Destrict, ordered by this Honble Court, to be Composed out of the Towns of Concord Chelmsford, Billerica, and acton as Petitiond for by a Number of Inhabitents from these Several Towns which on our parts will be attended with very Great Inconveniances, and always will, and with Submision we cannot willingly Submit to, neither can we have the least Idea that the Honble Court will oblige us to it, when they with their usual Candor and Penetration (which we Greatly Rely on) Consider the Reasons we Shall now offer for our still lying to the Town, and against being Set off to the Destrict above mentioned, which we beg Leave here to Insert —

Because your Memorialests Lives in the Remote Southeast Corner of the Proposed Destrict on a Good Road to Concord meeting house where there is constant Traviling on all occations as well as to meeting and as near or nearer to Concord meeting House upon a Strate Line them to the meeting house in Sd Destrict, to which meeting house no Road is Provided, neither is it hardly Possable one can be made, as the Ground over which it must be made is Swampy and Low Land a Great Deal of it, not at all Suteable for ways, and what is worse then all the Road must be made for your memorialests only and to accommidate no Famely but ours, therefore we must always Labour under Great Difficulties to Get to the place of Worship, Especialy in the winter Season — and because we your Memorialests Returned to the Town of Concord from the former Destrict on Conditions (as we apprehended) mentioned above (viz) not to be again Set of without our Consent, and would with humble Submision Say that it is our oppinion a right every american ought to enjoy, and for which LIBERTY they have fought & Bled, and are still in Contest for, not to have their Rights taken from them without their Consent, or Receiving an Equavolent therefor To apply it to our own case to be forced away from a Town which we have had the Greatest Satisfaction of being Members Contrary to our consent or the consent of town to which we belonged, and placed in a Society that will be no ways Satisfactory to us and thereby have all our Liberties, and Priviliges abridged, and Recive no Equavolent for them, we cannot but Judge it Extreemly Hard —

Our Prayer therefore is that your Honours would Take these our Perplxed and unhapy Circomstances under your wise Juditious Consideration and if Consistant with Justice, Grant that we our famelies & Estates might Still Remain to the Town of Concord agreable to their Vote on the tenth of March Last or otherways Releive your Humble Suppliants as you in your Great Wisdom Shall See meet, and we as in Duty bound Shall ever Pray —

In answer to this memorial, the committee of the petitioners for the new district addressed the Council as follows: —

"To the Honourable Council of the State of Massachusetts Bay.

Gentlemen,

As the Report of the Committee sent last Fall to Concord, Chelmsford, Billerica, &

Acton, by the Council, & House of Representatives, to view the Situation of the prayed for Town, District, or Parish, was accepted by the Honourable Board, & sent to the House of Representatives for their Concurrence; upon its return we were not apprehensive of any Difficulty, or of any Petition being offer'd, as all Petitions, & Memorials were directed by Us to the House only, & were not, we suppose, sent up to the Board; the Subscribers beg leave to offer a few words on the behalf of the Society we represent in answer to the Prayer of the Six Petitioners. It is a great grief to Us, when so many that were in the Opposition, have lately joined Us, that these our Brethren have not; but as they are within the Line, & so many have Signed conditionally, 'If all within the Limits shou'd be sett off,' we fear their being sett back to Concord will make a much larger number uneasy, & leave us in a worse State, than we are like to be in with them. — We wou'd also let your Honours know, That if they shou'd be sett back to Concord agreeable to the late Votes of the Town of Concord, that Seven Hundred Acres of Land will be taken off from the District, or near it, besides the Land owned by the Six Petitioners, which will weaken us very greatly, & lay some of our own Society under great Inconveniences, one Person owning One Hundred Acres of it. — Moreover, The propos'd Line runs up within a Mile & a Quarter of our Meeting-House, & makes a very crooked Line. —

We have many Years been labouring to become an incorporated Society, have put up with great inconveniences, & have been at a very great Charge, and as your Honours accepted the Report of the Committee, (which encouraged us to exert Ourselves when the House had it under consideration) & as the further consideration of it was put off till the Honourable Aaron Wood Esq^r, Chair-Man of your Committee came to the Board; as soon as your Honours think proper we shou'd be glad to have the Bill from the House accepted without any alteration; which Favour we hope will be gratefully received by the Society universally. —

On the 8th of April, 1780, the bill of this chapter had been read three times, in the House, and was there passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. In the Council, it was read a first time, on the 20th, when it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with an amendment, by which the seventh section of the act was added. On the 25th, the House concurred in this amendment, and, on the 28th, it was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 43. The bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, April 25, 1780, and passed in the Council, in concurrence, to be engrossed, on the 29th, and was passed to be enacted, May 2d, and signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 44. The bill of this chapter had been read three times, in the House, on the 8th of April, when it was passed to be engrossed, and sent up to the Council, for concurrence, where, on the same day, it was read twice, and passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed. It was passed to be enacted, May 3d, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 45. The resolve of May 1, 1778, printed in the note to 1778–79, chapter 5, p. 983, ante, was reported by a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Crane, Davis of Boston, and Wales, of the House, and Spooner and Palmer, of the Council.

The matters which had been referred to this committee, and upon which they reported, were, a resolve for giving the soldiers of the Massachusetts contingent in the Continental Army £30 each, and another resolve, for setting on foot a lottery. These resolves, which had originated in the House, had been recalled from the Council, by message, on the day on which the joint committee made their report.

The former resolve was first reported, April 29th, by a committee appointed the day previous. The House ordered the report of this committee to be recommitted, and at the same time directed the committee to bring in, besides a resolve granting the gratuity, a resolve for raising, by lottery, the sum of $2,000,000. On the 30th, the House committee last named, reported two resolves, according to instructions, except that, in the latter resolve, the amount to be raised by lottery, was $1,998,000, — from the sale of three classes of tickets (numbering 111,000 each), at four, six and eight dollars each, respectively, according to a scheme laid down in the resolve. These were the resolves which, on the first of May, were recalled by the House, and recommitted, as above stated.

The joint committee above named now reported the two resolves which are given in the note to 1778–79, chapter 5, referred to above.

The resolve for the lottery, as finally amended and adopted, left the details of the scheme, as well as the amount to be raised (within the limit specified in the resolve), to the discretion of the board of managers.

Of the $750,000, which was the limit of the sum to be raised under this resolve, the managers attempted to raise only $143,000, — that being the percentage on $950,000, the total value of the tickets offered for sale. The lottery was arranged in four classes, which were advertised as hereafter shown.

The following resolves were passed, directing the Board of War to furnish the managers with paper, and also directing the managers to deposit in the state treasury certain of the proceeds of the sales of tickets: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives. June 8. 1778 —

The scheme of the first class of this lottery was advertised, as follows: —

"THE General Assembly having passed a Resolve for raising a Sum of Money not exceeding of 750,000 Dollars for the Benefit of those Officers and Soldiers who inlisted into the Fifteen Continental Battalions raised by this State, appointed Oliver Wendell, Esq; Mr. Henry Hill, Thomas Crane, Esq; Caleb Davis, Esq; and Mr Ezekiel Lewis, Directors of a Lottery for that Purpose, who are sworn to the faithful Discharge of the Trust reposed in them.

The following Scheme is accordingly offered to the Public, which it is hoped will meet with their Approbation and Encouragement.

The public may depend on a punctual observance of the directions in the above resolution; and therefore those who intend to become adventurers, must be speedy in purchasing tickets, otherwise they will be disappointed, as many were in the former class.

The prizes only will be drawn in this class, the Managers having found a very great but needless expence to government, attending the drawing of the blanks in the first class, without the least advantage to the adventurers.

Public and seasonable notice will be given of the time and place of drawing; and when finished, a list of the prizes will be published in POWARS and WILLIS's Independent Chronicle, and the benefit tickets will be paid without any deduction (within 20 days after a publication of a list of prizes) in the following manner, viz.

All prizes of fifty dollars and upwards, will be paid in Treasurer's notes for the amount of such prizes, bearing date the last day of drawing said lottery, and payable on the first day of January, 1783, with interest at six per cent. per annum. All prizes of fifteen dollars will be paid in current money.

Prizes not demanded within twelve months after they are drawn, will not be paid, but will be deemed as generously given for the purpose aforesaid, and will be applied accordingly.

TICKETS are now ready for sale, at the houses and stores of the respective Managers, and will be distributed through the several counties in the State." — Independent Chronicle of Feb. 4, 1779.

Before all the tickets in this class were sold, the following resolve † was passed: —

"In the House of Representatives March, 1st 1779

Whereas the Sale of the Tickets of the second Class of the Massachusetts Lottery is nearly compleated — & the Managers are about issuing a Scheme for a third Class —

* Here followed the above resolve of Jan. 26, 1779.
† Printed resolves of the January session, chapter CCLXXI.

The present Class being in many Respects better calculated for the Benefit of the Adventurers, than the two former Classes, the Managers doubt not of a ready Sale of the Tickets, especially as they are permitted, by the General Assembly, to receive the two Emissions of Continental Currency, of May 20, 1777, and April 11, 1778: They therefore propose to commence Drawing said Lottery by the Middle of May; and as many Persons were disappointed of purchasing in the Second Class, they have now an Opportunity of laying out their Money on better Terms, if they apply seasonably.

The Prizes only will be drawn in the third Class; and public Notice will be given of the Time and Place of drawing; and when finished, a List of Prizes will be published in the INDEPENDENT CHRONICLE, and the Benefit Tickets paid within forty Days, in the following Manner, viz. — All Prizes of 50 Dollars, and upwards, will be paid in Treasurer's Notes, bearing Date the last Day of Drawing said Lottery, and the other Prizes will be paid in Money.

Prizes not demanded within twelve Months, will not be paid, but be deemed as generously given to answer the Purposes of Government, and will be applied accordingly.

TICKETS of the Third Class may be had of the Managers, and will be distributed to accommodate Persons in the several Counties of this State." — Independent Chronicle, of March 11, 1779.

On the 15th of April, the managers announced to all who had drawn ten-dollar prizes and fifteen-dollar prizes in the former classes, "and are desirous to adventure in the third," to call for tickets before May first, as it was "not probable, from the eager purchasing up the tickets of this class, that they" could "have any on hand after that time."

The following resolve* was understood, by the managers, to direct them to proceed with the drawing of prizes in the third class, on the 20th of May: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives May 3d 1779

Resolved That the Managers of this State Lottery be & they hereby are Directed to proceed In the Sale of the Tickets In the third Class of Said Lottery, until the twentieth Inst unless the Tickets are Sooner disposed of. and Should Any Tickets Remain Unsold, on said day, In the hands of Such Persons with whom they have been Lodged for Sale Such Persons shall Seal them up In the Presence of Some Justice of the Peace, who is hereby Requiered to Certify on the outside of the Paper Incloseing Said Tickets, the Number of Tickets Inclosed, as allso the number of Each Ticket, and the Persons Possessed of Such Tickets shall return them to some one of the Managers without delay, who are hereby Directed to return them togeather with any they have on hand, Into the Treasurers office of this State Takeing his Receipt for the Same & Proceed to Drawing said third Class without Delay

The managers thereupon gave public notice that the drawing would begin, on the day aforesaid, in the Representatives' chamber, and that after that date no tickets would be sold; which notice also called in unsold tickets. Drawers of small prizes in the first and second classes, who were inclined to purchase tickets in the third class, were urged to do so speedily, or, if not desirous to purchase, they were requested to call for their prizes before June first, as it was "not probable the managers" would "be in cash, to discharge the same," between June first and August first, — "they being obliged, at that time, to deposit the prescribed money (received for tickets) in the loan office."

On the 18th of May, the Council passed an order allowing £5 12*s.* to Oliver Wendell, in his account as manager, for tickets furnished by him to Lieut. Levi Lindsey, who had been subsequently dishonorably discharged from General Glover's brigade, and so had forfeited the gratuity on account of which these tickets were delivered; and on the 21st, they passed the following order recommending the managers to suspend the drawing until the third of June: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In Councill May 21st 1779.

Whereas it is represented to this Board by the Managers of the Massachusetts Lottery that they have commenced drawing the third Class agreable to the Order of the Generall Court, but that they are much embarrass'd by receiving & paying into the Treasury the Moneys arising from the Sale of the Ticketts which being of the dead Emissions will take ye most of their time to deposit in ye Treasury before ye 28th of May Instant and renders it impracticable to continue ye drawing at present as the said Emissions must be transfer'd into ye Loan Office by ye first of June — Therefore Order'd, that it be recommended to ye Managers of said Lottery to suspend the drawing the third Class untill the third Day of June next."— Ibid., vol. 170, p. 130.

To enable the state treasurer to pay the prizes of fifty dollars and upwards, drawn in the second and third classes, the act of 1778–79, chapter 42, was passed.

The fourth class was advertised as follows: —

"The DIRECTORS of the MASSACHUSETTS-STATE LOTTERY, IN Pursuance of their Trust, now offer to the Public, the SCHEME of a FOURTH CLASS, Which consists of 20,000 TICKETS at 15 Dollars each, 5751 of which are Prizes of the following Value, viz.

The time for drawing this class was fixed by the following resolve *: —

"State of Massachusetts-Bay In the House of Representatives Octob^r 5 1779

This resolve was published by the managers, who, at the same time, earnestly requested their agents for the sale of tickets to exert themselves in the sale, and to punctually return unsold tickets. Holders of benefit-tickets in the former classes, were also urged to apply, speedily, for payment.

The drawing of the fourth class was postponed by the following resolve †: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives Nov^r 30^th 1779

This postponement was immediately advertised by the managers, who again urged the drawers of prizes in the former classes to apply for the same, as it would not be "in the power of the managers to pay off any prize in the first class, unless applied for before the 15th day of January next."

The following advertisement appeared in the "Independent Chronicle," of Jan. 13, 1780: —

The bill of this chapter, which made provision to enable the state treasurer to pay the prizes of fifty dollars and upwards, drawn in the fourth and last class of this lottery, had been read three times, in the House, May 2, 1780, when it was passed to be engrossed, and sent up to the Council, for concurrence. On the same day it was passed by the Council, in concurrence, to be engrossed, and, on the next day, it was passed to be enacted, and was consented to, and signed by fifteen councillors.

Chap. 46. John Adams claimed to have first suggested the formation of the distinguished society incorporated by this chapter, in the course of a conversation with the Rev. Dr. Samuel Cooper, at a dinner given in 1779, by the corporation of Harvard College, in honor of the Chevalier de la Luzerne, the French ambassador, and his suite. In the Life and Works of Mr. Adams, edited by his grandson,† may be found his recollections on this subject after the lapse of thirty years. He there describes how he enlisted the services of Dr. Cooper, in propagating "the idea and the plan"; which, he adds, was done so effectually, "that the first Legislature under the new Constitution adopted and established it by law." However just this claim may be, it is clear that Mr Adams was mistaken in his recollection of the date of the passage of the act. What is more interesting, however, is Mr. Adams's assertion that the contemplation of the formation of such a society, inspired him to propose the second section of chapter five of the Constitution of the Commonwealth, — a clause which has been fruitful of consequences most important and most creditable to the state.‡

The bill of this chapter appears to have been brought in on motion, without a petition or previous commitment. It was read a first time, in the House, Dec. 15, 1779, and a second and third time, on the two succeeding days On the 17th, it was passed to be engrossed, and was sent up to the Council, for concurrence, by a committee consisting of Messrs. Parsons, Phillips, Baldwin, Tudor and Dawes.

In the Council, it was immediately read, and the 22d was assigned for the second reading. On the 31st, it was read a second time, in Council, and referred to a joint committee, consisting of Thomas Cushing and Timothy Danielson, of the Council, and Messrs. Wales, Dawes and Walley, of the House, who were ordered to take the bill into consideration, "and report, at the next sitting of the General Court, what is proper to be done thereon."

What further disposition of this bill was made between Dec. 31, 1779 and April 10, 1780, has not been discovered, on account of the loss of the House Journals during that period; but on the day last mentioned, it appears to have been in charge of a committee of the Council, and, on the 21st, to have had its first reading in that branch. On the 22d, the committee of the Council, to which the subject-matter of the bill had been referred, reported the bill in a new draught, which being sent down to the House on the 24th, was then read a first time, and ordered to be read again on the twenty-seventh. On the 25th, a joint committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Parsons, Osgood and Tudor, of the House, and Timothy Danielson and Timothy Edwards of the Council, "to consider and report a list of names proper to be inserted in the bill, * * to be inserted in alphabetical order." On the 27th, this committee reported, in Council, a list of names identical with those of the corporators named in the act, with the addition of the names of John Pitts and Artemas Ward, which, however, were cancelled in the report.

The bill, with the names inserted, had been read three times, in the House, on the second day of May, when it was passed to be engrossed, and was sent up to the Council, for concurrence. On that day, it was read, in the Council, and was passed to be engrossed, in concurrence, on the 3d. On the 4th, it was passed to be enacted, by both branches, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

The first meeting of the Academy was held in the philosophy chamber of Harvard College (as required by the act), May 30, 1780, upon the call of James Bowdoin, which was duly advertised in the public newspapers. James Bowdoin was chosen president, Caleb Gannett, secretary, and Ebenezer Storer, treasurer, "until the next meeting." At this meeting a committee was appointed, "to agree upon the names, number and duties of the several officers," of the Academy; to prepare rules and by-laws; to determine the times, places and manner of convening the fellows, and the number that should constitute a quorum; to devise a common seal; to consider for what causes fines should be imposed, and the amount thereof; and to report their proceedings at the adjournment of the meeting.

* Printed resolves, chapter LXVII. † Vol. IV., p. 259, note.

‡ On the 21st of March, 1776, a resolve was passed in the Continental Congress recommending to the "assemblies, conventions, and councils or committees of safety" of the several colonies to "take the earliest measures for erecting and establishing in each and every colony, a society for the improvement of agriculture, arts, manufactures and commerce, and to maintain a correspondence between such societies, that the rich and numerous natural advantages of this country for supporting its inhabitants may not be neglected."

At the next meeting, by adjournment, the above-named committee made a report, which was referred to the consideration of a committee of three, who were directed "to make report at the next meeting." The officers elected at the first meeting were continued in place until the next meeting. At this meeting, also, the business of the Academy was begun, by contributions to the library and cabinets.

At the next meeting, held, by adjournment, on the 30th of August, a code of statutes was reported, and, with the exception of the second article in the eighth chapter, was accepted and adopted. The following officers were chosen by ballot, at this meeting: James Bowdoin, president; Samuel Cooper, vice president; Caleb Gannett, recording secretary; Joseph Willard, corresponding secretary; Stephen Sewall, vice treasurer; James Winthrop, cabinet keeper. At the same time Thomas Cushing, Henry Gardner, John Hancock, Samuel Langdon, John Lowell, Robert Treat Paine, Phillips Payson, James Warren, Edward Wigglesworth and Samuel Williams, were chosen councillors.

After the appointment of committees to secure rooms in Boston, and to provide for accurate observation of the solar eclipse in October following, Thomas Cushing was authorized to administer to the president, the oath prescribed by the statutes of the Academy, and the meeting was dissolved.

No seal was adopted until 1785, though Samuel Mather had offered a design for one, more than two years before. Mather's device has not been preserved; but from the tenor of his letter* to Bowdoin, dated Jan 14, 1783, in which a sketch of it was enclosed, it may be inferred that it differed widely from the device finally adopted.

The seal adopted by the Academy, but without the circumscription "SIGILLUM ACADEMIÆ ARTIUM ET SCIENTIARUM AMERICANÆ," appears as a vignette, on the title-page of the first volume of the Memoirs of the Academy, and is fully described in the volume.

"The fellows residing in Cambridge," were authorized to perfect the device of this seal, Jan. 26, 1785 — they having previously reported a device, agreeably to instructions, and two other devices, with an explanatory letter, having been received from Dr. Benjamin Waterhouse. The records of the Academy show that on the 24th of August, 1785, a seal had "been executed by Mr. Joseph Callender, appointed for that purpose," and that he was paid therefor, the sum of nine pounds.

Chap. 47. The enumeration of the articles, as originally drawn, of the first treaty of amity and commerce between France and the United States, which was concluded Feb. 6, 1778, was subsequently changed, by the omission of the original eleventh and twelfth articles, upon the application of Congress, which, by a resolve passed the day after it had unconditionally ratified the treaty, instructed the commissioners who represented the United States at the court of France, "to use their best endeavors to procure the abolition of" these articles. The objectionable articles were, accordingly, suppressed, Sept. 1, 1778, by order of the king, who declared it to be his intention, "that they be considered as having never been comprehended in the treaty," etc.

On the fourth of November, Congress ordered three hundred copies of this treaty to be printed, for distribution; and, as tidings of the edict announcing the alteration had not then arrived in the United States, this impression, which appears to have been referred to by the committee that reported the bill of this chapter, contained all the original articles, — the thirteenth of which (as stated in the preamble to this chapter, or the eleventh, in the amended treaty, and as stated in the resolve of Congress, and in the circular letter from President Huntington) is quoted, at length, in the following preamble to the resolve of Congress, also given below: —

"On motion of the committee for foreign affairs, Congress came to the following resolution;

Whereas by the eleventh article of the treaty of amity and commerce between his Most Christian Majesty and the United States of America, it is provided 'that the subjects and inhabitants of the said United States, or any one of them, shall not be reputed aubains in France, and consequently shall be exempted from the Droit d'Aubaine, or other similar duty under what name soever: they may by testament, donation or otherwise, dispose of their goods, moveable and immoveable, in favour of such persons as to them shall seem good, and their heirs subjects of the said United States, residing, whether in France or elsewhere, may succeed them, ab intestat, without being obliged to obtain letters of naturalization, and without having the effect of this concession contested or im-

* The following is an extract from this letter: —

"I find, that every Member of the Academy of the Naturæ Curiosorum has a Gold Ring, in which, in the Room of a Gem, is an open Book, in the Face of which is an Eye illustrated from Rays out of a Cloud: And, on the other Part, is the Academical Motto nunquam otiosus: From both Sides of the Book, there ly Serpents rolled about the Circle and holding their Tail in their Mouth. These Rings worn by the Members, it is said, are not so much for the Ornament of their Order, as for an Excitement seriously and faithfully to perform their Office.

I do not see Cause to recommend such a Custom: But as it seems proper for our Academy to have a proper Seal, and I have understood, that there has been some Discoursing about it; if there has not yet been any Proposal offered as to this Matter, I would beg leave to propose the Form of one, which may possibly be judged not unsuitable: And it is here inclosed for the Notice and Consideration of the Academy."

The subjects of the Most Christian King shall enjoy, on their part, in all the dominions of the said states, an entire and perfect reciprocity relative to the stipulation contained in the present article; but it is at the same time agreed, that its contents shall not affect the laws made or that may be made hereafter in France, against emigrations, which shall remain in all their force and vigor; and the United States, on their part or any of them, shall be at liberty to enact such laws relative to that matter as to them shall seem proper.'

Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislatures of the several United States to make provision, where not already made, for conferring like privileges and immunities on the subjects of his Most Christian Majesty, agreeable to the form and spirit of the above recited article." — Journals of Congress: Jan. 14, 1780.

This resolve was communicated with a letter from which the following is extracted: —

The message of the Council, at the opening of the fourth session, contained the following passage: —

"The Secretary will also lay before you a Letter of the 18 of January last enclosing a Resolution of Congress of the 13 for the Regulation of Prisoners of War; and a Resolution of the 12 of January recommending that Provision be made for Conferring like Priviledges and immunities on the Subjects of his Most Christian Majesty within this State as are granted to the Subjects of the United States of America within the Kingdom of France Agreable to the Eleventh Article of the Treaty of Amity & Commerce

These Resolutions are important, the one as it may respect the more speedy enlargement of Unfortunate men in Captivity, and the other as it will afford us an opportunity of testifying our Regard to the Interest of that Prince with whom the United States have formed so happy a Connection."— Ibid., vol. 158, p. 164.

On the 22d of March a committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Adams and Danielson, of the Council, and Warren, Freeman and Greenleaf, of the House, to take the foregoing resolve of Congress into consideration, "and to bring in a bill for said purpose." On the 25th of April, this committee was changed, by the substitution of Messrs. Parsons and Phillips, for Messrs. Warren and Freeman, who were absent, and, on the 29th, the bill of this chapter was read twice, in Council, and was there passed to be engrossed, and sent down for concurrence. On the 3d of May, the bill, having been read three times, in the House, was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with eight amendments, by which, "or" was substituted for "and," as the fifth word of the title; and, in the preamble, "one" was inserted in the fourth line, "duty," in the sixteenth line, and "and that," at the beginning of a sentence in the eighteenth line; while in the same line, "one" was stricken out between "any" and "of," and "pretence" was changed to "pretext," in the thirteenth line, and "present" changed to "said," in the twenty-first line. By these amendments, also, the words "to the contrary," in the last line of the act, were inserted. The Council promptly concurred in these amendments, and on the 5th of May, the bill was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 48. The following letter from Major Thomas Edwards, the commanding officer at Rutland, was read, in Council, Sept. 21, 1779, and referred to a committee, consisting of Moses Gill, of the Council, and Colonels Hyde and Sparhawk, of the House: —

"Rutland, Sept^{r} 14th 1779

In the note to chapter 29, p. 1281, ante, mention is made of the claim, by some who had enlisted to serve during the war, to a discharge at the expiration of the time of service of the "three-years' men," and of the foundation of this claim. So many of these men had left the army by the end of the winter of 1779-80, as to alarm all patriots in and out of the army, and to cause the following application to the Legislature, for more adequate provision for officers engaged in arresting and returning deserters: —

"Boston March 20th 1780

Sir Inclosed is a list of forty four Deserters from my Regiment, which I have lately recieved from the commanding Officer, now in Camp — and there is the greatest reason to believe, that the Men bourn on this list, are now, or have not long since been in the Towns which are said to be their usual places of Residence — By observing the Dates, so far as they could be ascertained, you will see that some have been long absent from the Regiment, and others have left it since the Returns were made out for the Settlement on Account of the Depreciation of the Currency

It is not unlikely the other Regiments from the State have suffered by Desertion nearly in the same proportion with mine; and tho' it is possible, that in some Instances the People have been imposed on by forged Furloughs and Discharges: yet, so far as I can learn, a general Neglect seems to have taken place with regard to apprehending Deserters; especially in the town of Northampton, where a Number from my Regiment reside, who appear publickly and are known to be Deserters, Notwithstanding which no measures are taken to secure them — I cannot say, whether this Neglect arises from an Opinion which seems to prevail among the People, that no Deserter is liable to Punishment or under any Obligation to compleat his time of Service in the Army; unless he is taken up before the term, for which he inlisted, expires; or whether it is because no provision is made by this State (which I am told is the Case) for the subsistence of Deserters in Prison or to defrey the expences of conducting them to Camp, in case they are apprehended

But perhaps it will be asked why some continental Officers are not directed to apprehend those Deserters — to which I would beg leave to answer, that the provision made by the Public, for the Expences of Officers on such Commands, is no more than three Dollars per day, and by the Articles of War no stoppages from the Soldier can exceed the one half of his continental Pay, by which means an Officer stands no chance of being indemnified for any considerable part of his necessary expences, and must therefore be supposed to undertake such Service very reluctently —

From these considerations I am led to conclude (unless some more effectual Measures are adopted by this State) that very few Deserters will be made to return to their Regiments: Nevertheless, as many of these Men were engaged during the War, and others have a considerable part of the Term for which they inlisted yet to serve, if they could be obliged by any Means to Join their respective Regiments, not only the many Evils, which attend the Neglect of apprehending Deserters, would be removed; But it would be a very great saving to the State, as the Number would make up a considerable part of the Recruits now wanted —

In case the Honorable Court should think proper to take any further Measures to remedy the Evils pointed out; I would beg leave to suggest, whether, if a general Pardon from his Excellency should take place, it would not be a further Inducement to Deserters to return, for this State to make Provision, that all Deserters who return to their Regiments and serve out the term of their Inlistment, shall be entitled to the Benefit of the Resolve of Court for making good the Depreciation of the Currency. Also whether, it would not be a Means of detecting many others, if the County Muster Masters and some faithful Malitia Officers in each town were furnished with descriptive lists in alphabetical Order of the Deserters from each Regiment, as many of those who have recieved the public Money and deserted, will offer themselves to be again mustered as Recruits provided they can recieve a further sum and escape with Impunity — and in case any regular Officers are ordered on the recruiting Service I doubt not, many Deserters would be taken up, if they were also furnished with descriptive Lists from the several Regiments especially in or near the Sea ports —

As I am no less desirous to detect and punish those who desert the public Service, than to reward such as continue faithful in it, I hope my Zeal for the public good will be a sufficient Apology for giving you this Trouble —

I am, Sir, with the highest Respect your and the Publics most obedient humble Servant—

RUFUS PUTMAN."— Mass. Files: Bills, 1780.

This letter, which was directed to Mr. Speaker Hancock, was read, in the House, March 21, 1780, and referred to a joint committee, consisting of Messrs. Page and Nash, of the House, and Danielson, of the Council, who were directed "to consider the same, and report what is proper to be done thereon." On the next day, this committee reported a bill, which was then read, in Council, a first time, and was read again, on the first of April, when it was passed to be engrossed, and was sent down to the House, for concurrence. In the House, the bill was read a third time, on the 20th of April, and was committed to Messrs. Baldwin, Hunt, and Davis of Boston. By the 3d of May, it had emerged from this committee, and had been read three times in the House. On that day, it was passed to be engrossed, "as taken into a new draught," and was sent up to the Council, for concurrence, where, on the 4th, it was read and concurred in, with two amendments; one, substituting the words "major part," for the word "president," before the words, "of the Council," in the first line of the ninth section; and the other, striking out the word "honorable," before "Council," in the fourteenth line of the eleventh section. These amendments having been concurred in by the Council, the bill was passed to be enacted, on the 5th, and was signed by twelve councillors, although the record shows that it was consented to by fifteen.

After the bill had been enacted, the House, by message, proposed to still further amend the bill, by striking out the words "major part," which, by a former amendment, had been substituted for the word "president." This appears to have been agreed to by the Council; for not only these words, but the words "of the," which, in the bill, precede the word "Council," are omitted in the engrossment.

With the exception of the alterations just noticed, the bill, as redrawn, corresponded with the act, and was, substantially, the same as the first draught — the most important differences being the addition of the eleventh, twelfth and sixteenth sections, and the reduction of the limit of the fines, from not more than £5,000, and not less than £3,000, to the more moderate scale fixed in the third, fourth, fifth, seventh and thirteenth sections of the act. The more important of the minor differences, were the insertion of the fifth and sixth words in the title, and the changing the words "ship or vessel," to "deserter or deserters," in the tenth line of the fourth section, and authorizing indictments, for the recovery of fines, instead of limiting the remedy to an action of debt, bill, plaint or information, as in the bill.

While the bill was on its passage to engrossment, the following correspondence took place between President Weare of New Hampshire, and President Powell, by which it appears that the Council entertained no doubt of their authority to incur the expense incident to the arrest and return of deserters from the New Hampshire lines, and to order the payment of charges for the arrest and return of deserters from the Massachusetts quota, who should be found in New Hampshire: —

The Council having complied with the directions of the ninth section of this chapter, received the following acknowledgement from the commander-in-chief: —

"Head Qrs Morris Town May 31 1780

Sir I had the Honor Three days ago to receive your Letter of the Instant, covering a Resolve of your Honourable Assembly, for annexing Colo Jackson's Regiment to the line of the State — and an Act for preventing & punishing Desertion &c. I shall take an early occasion agreable to the desire of the Assembly, to arrange & number this Regiment.

I have the honor to inclose the Draft of a proclamation, founded in the spirit of the Act with respect to Deserters, Copies of which you will be pleased to have printed and dispersed through the State, if you think it proper. This Act in it's design, appears well calculated to answer the Objects of it, and if well executed, will have very salutary consequences. There is nothing more injurious to the public and nothing more practised, than engaging Deserters on board privateers and other Armed Vessels — and our exertions cannot be too great to prevent it.

I have the honor to be with very great regard respect
Sir Yr Most Obed Sert Go. WASHINGTON

This letter was read, in both branches, June 10, 1780, and an order was thereupon passed, that the secretary cause the proclamation enclosed therewith, "to be published in the several newspapers." The proclamation was as follows: —

"BY HIS EXCELLENCY GEORGE WASHINGTON, Esq; General and commander in Chief of all the Forces of the UNITED STATES of AMERICA.

PROCLAMATION.

WHEREAS the honorable the Council and House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay, by an Act passed on the 5th Day of this Month entitled, 'An act to prevent and punish Desertion, and for apprehending and securing Deserters from the Continental Army,' have suggested, among other things, that it appeared many Deserters from the Battalions belonging to the State, sensible of their Folly and Wickedness in violating their Oaths, and in dishonorably abandoning the Cause of their Country, would gladly be restored to the Favour of their Fellow-Citizens, by a speedy Return to their several Companies and Regiments in the Continental Army were it not for the Apprehension of an ignominious Punishment:

And whereas the said honorable Council and House of Rspresentatives, have been pleased to recommend it to the Commander in Chief of the said Army, to proclaim a Pardon to all Deserters described in the said Act, who, being on Land, should return to their several Companies and Regiments within three Months after the publication of the said Act, and if at Sea, within one Month after they return into Port:

IN order, therefore, to remove, on the one Hand, every Appprehension and Fear of Punishment from the Minds of those who have repented of their base and wicked Conduct, and wish to return; and on the other, to prevent all Appearance of Excuse on the Part of those who shall reject the Indulgence herein set forth — I HEREBY MAKE IT KNOWN TO ALL SOLDIERS, of the Descriptions contained in the said Act, who have deserted from the Battalions or Companies of the said State, serving in the Continental Army, or who were intended as Recruits or Levies, inlisted or detached from the Militia for the same, and who deserted before or after they joined the Army, that a FREE AND FULL PARDON is proclaimed and granted to them, on Condition that they join their respective Regiments and Companies, or where they had not been incorporated, surrender themselves to any Officer of their State, present with the Army, within the Times and on the Terms particularly limited and specified in and by the said recited Act.

And being anxious to save wherever it is possible, I further admonish and warn all Deserters in the said State, belonging to any Regiment, Corps or Company whatsoever, in the Army, to avail themselves of the Mercy held forth by this Proclamation, — and if they do not, that they will reject it at the Peril and Hazard of their Lives.

By His Excellency's Command. ROB. H. HARRISON, Secretary." — Independent Chronicle, of June 15, 1780.

The letter of Col. Putnam, which was the inducement of the act, and in which he particularly complained of certain residents of Northampton, who had left the army without leave, excited resentment in that town, at the censure implied in the provisions of this chapter, which the inhabitants, connecting it with Putnam's charges, understood to be intentionally aimed against some of their fellow-townsmen who, even if technically to blame for their conduct, they thought were not to be indiscriminately classed with the bounty-jumpers and wilful deserters who needed to be pardoned before reinstatement. Accordingly, the following memorial was read in the House, June 2, 1780, and referred to a committee, consisting of Messrs. Washburn, Osgood and Hastings: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay

To the Honorable the Council and the Honorable House of Representatives of the State of Massachusetts Bay most humbly Shew

The Inhabitants of the Town of Northampton, in the County of Hampshire, that in the month of April 1777, twelve persons inhabitants of sd Town, Inlested into the Army of the United States of America. These several parsons, as appears by the testimony of many reputable Witnesses, receiv'd the fullest encouragement, that the three Years Service, in which they engag'd, should expire, on the first Day of January 1780, particularly, the several Officers who at that Time Commanded, the Companys of Militia, to which these Soldiers belong'd, have testify'd that Colo Tupper, in a Public harangue to the sd Companys, assur'd them that those, who would engage, for three years in the Continental Service, would without question, be descharg'd by the first of Janry 1780. — This was even urg'd as a motive, to enduce the above mention'd persons to enlist, It was observ'd to them that three months of the three years, had already expir'd, which Time they had employ'd, in their own private affairs. — The same motive, as diverse Credible Witnesses have testify'd, was made use of to the same persons, by Majr. Allen & other Continental Officers, belonging to this neighbourhood. — Indeed the officers of the Companys, of militia, were requested by the recruiting Officers, to use this argument both in public & private, with the Soldiers of their respective Companys, to induce them to enlist. — From these circumstances the persons afores^d, as your petitioners conceive, on the best grounds suppos'd, the public faith pledg'd, for their discharge, on the sd first of Janry 1780, and enlisted the more readily, on that Account. — Your petitioners have no apprehension, that the above mention'd officers, gave this encouragement, with any base or unworthy design, but from full belief that it was well grounded, and that those persons who would then enlist, would actually be discharg'd, on the same first Day of Janry. — The Soldiers above mention'd, in all instances, so far as has come, to the knowledge of your petitioners, have acted the faithfull, brave & gallant part, and have deserv'd much of their Country, for streniously & honorably difending her freedom, and that of mankind, they are also desended from reputable Familys, and have sustain'd fair & unblemished characters. — On the first of Janry 1780, Acting on the above encouragement, they quited the Army, and return'd to their respective homes. — The Circumstances of this Conduct, so far as your petitioners can Judge, were such as Evidenc'd, the innocence of their intentions, and a full persuasion, that they claim'd an incontestable right, ground'd on what they esteem'd, the faith of the public, pledg'd by its well known officers. — They left the Army, as we have been Credibly inform'd, after giving their officers, timely and sufficient notice, of their determination, and the reasons on which it was formed. — Your petitioners need not remark, that such plain dealing, is inconsistant, with a Consciousness of guilt, whose universal attendants are secresy and disguise. — With this view, of the conduct of these men, your petitioners cannot but consider them, as meriting a Character, very distant from that, of common deserters. — Common sense, as your petitioners conceive, enforces on the mind, an important distinction between them; and the Farmer or Mechanic, of the plainest understanding, would esteem himself benefited, by admiting those into his Family, and business, whilst he would reject these, with abhorance, — perhaps a discrimination, so well, so naturally, and so universally made, may Justly apply, in every light, in which these persons, can be view'd, however public, and however Interesting. — But notwithstanding this real, and well grounded distinction, these Soldiers are affected, equally with comon deserters, by an Act of the Legislature, of this State, entitled an Act to prevent & punish Dissertion, and for apprehending and Securing Deserters from the Continental Army

To all the penalties of this Act, they are as much expos'd, as any others, however black, and ill design'd, their desertion may have been, — your petitioners therefore beg leave, to represent to your honors, that if this Act should be suffer'd, to take Effect, and fully to opperate, against the sd Soldiers, it would occasion great uneasiness, and anxiety in our minds. — The difference between their Crime, and the Crimes of deserters in general, will as your petitioners humbly conceive, be evident to all Men. — To involve them, for an Action which cannot be deem'd, worse than an error in Judgement, in the same severe punishment, which others are to suffer, for the blackest offences, will your petitioners apprehend, be tho't by the best subjects, of this State, to confound the agrevations of guilty actions. — your petitioners humbly submit to your honors, whether such effects, may not, probably arise from the opperation of the sd Act, in the Case described, as would be unjustifiable, inexpedient, and dangrous. — If your honors have observ'd, the impressions, made on the minds, of any of the Militia of this State, by the sd Act, who are in the circumstances above described, you will much better imagine, than your petitioners can represent, the great discouragements its opperation will be attended with, to the recruiting service and its tendancy to prevent, those supplys of men, from being furnished, which are now most unhappily, pricarious and distant. —

Your Petitioners therefore humbly hope, that your honors will consider the case, of these Soldiers, with your usual wisdom and tenderness. — They are willing to rejoin their respective Corps, and to serve faithfully, the remainder of the Term, for which they enlisted, in hopes they may be restor'd, to all the advantages, and honors of good Soldiers; Honors which they have not design'd to forfiet. — After the extreem difficultys, under which the sd act must necessaryly labour, in its execution, if allow'd to opperate in all Cases, and the probable inexpediency, of its effects, should be fully consider'd, your petitioners cannot but hope, that your Honors, in your great wisdom, will devise and apply some remidy in the case of the twelve persons above mention'd, And your petitioners as in duty bound shall ever pray. —

At a Legal Meeting of the Inhabitants of the Town of Northampton, quallify'd by Law to Vote in Town affairs, Assembled at the Court House in the s^d^ Town on Monday the 22^d^ Day of May 1780. A Committee was appointed, to make a draft of a petition, to present to the Gen^l^ Court of this State, in behalf of the twelve persons mention'd in the above petition, who left the Army on y^e^ 1^st^ of Jan^r^ last Voted Unanimously that the above petition be accepted, and the Moderator of this Meeting, is requested, to Sign the same in behalf of the s^d^ Town, and forward it to the Gen^l^ Court, as soon as may be EPHRAIM WRIGHT Moderat^r^". — Mass. Archives, vol. 228, p. 211.

On the 7th, the committee above named reported a resolve,* which, together with the action of the Assembly thereon, was as follows: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives June 7. 1780.

Upon the Petition of the Inhabitants of the Town of Northampton setting forth that twelve Persons Inhabitants of Said Town Enlisted into the Continental Army in the month of April 1777, & were Assured by Continental Officers that the three Years Service in which they engaged, would Expire, with Respect to themselves on the first of January 1780 upon which assurance made inconsiderately & without Sufficient Authority the Men Afore Said pretended to Claim it as their Right, to leave the Camp on the afore Said first Day of January & did accordingly Leave it contrary to the Express Orders of their Officers whereby they are now become liable to the Penalties of an Act made to prevent Desertion, and whereas by Said Act all that may be called Deserters are indiscriminately Subjected to the Same Penalties without any Difference as to the Degrees of Criminality — Therefore

Resolved that all Persons that enlisted into the Continental Service after the first Day of January 1777, and have left the Service without a regular Discharge and can give any Sufficient evidence that they Supposed their engagements expired on the first Day of January 1780, may be permitted to return to Camp any time before the Sixth Day of July next and Said Persons so returning shall be held to do Duty after their arrival in Camp so long as to compleat & make up the full term of three Years from the Date of their Several Inlistments, and all Such Persons as are above discribed who shall comply with the lenient Terms of this Resolve Shall be entitled to all the Priviledges & Immunities Promised in an Act of this State, to Such Persons as have deserted and shall return voluntarily to Camp & Serve for the Term of nine months, besides compleating the Deficiency of Time in three years Service any Law of this State to the contrary notwithstanding

Resolved that a Copy of the foregoing Resolution be transmitted to the Commander in Chief of the Army of the United States, and he is hereby Desired to Grant a full Pardon to all Such Soldiers as shall Strictly comply with this Resolve

Chap. 49. The resolves of Congress, of March 18, 1780 (referred to in this chapter), for calling in the depreciated currency, appear in full in the note to chapter 40, ante;† and the resolves of the General Court, of June 9, 1779, establishing the bounties granted, and fines ordered to be paid, in this chapter, are explained in the note to chapter 30, ante.‡ The occasion for calling the militia into service (to defray the expense of which the former tax was, in part, laid), is also explained in the note to the last-named chapter.

In October, 1779, a fresh call for recruits was made on Massachusetts, on receipt of supposed authentic intelligence of the arrival of Count D'Estaing, with his fleet. This call was made by the commander-in-chief, and required not less than 2,000 men, as the Massachusetts contingent, for reënforcing the army under his immediate command.

The Legislature promptly responded to this call by passing a series of resolves on the 9th of October,§ ordering the following detachments from the militia of the several counties named below; viz., Suffolk, 241 men; Essex, 350 men; Middlesex, 359 men; Worcester, 450 men; Hampshire, 400 men; Berkshire, 200 men. The men were to be raised "by lot, draft, or voluntary enlistment," in the same manner as under former calls, and to serve "for the term of three months from the time of their joining the army, unless sooner discharged." If a draft should be necessary, it was to be made from the train-bands and alarm lists.

Stringent measures were adopted for collecting fines of persons drafted who were either physically unable to serve, or who should fail to find substitutes within twenty-four hours after being drawn, and also for sending recruits to the appointed places of rendezvous.

The recruits were to be formed into companies of 68 men each ("as near as may be"), including officers, and to march to Claverack, on the Hudson, as expeditiously as possible. The men from Middlesex and Worcester were to constitute one regiment; the men from Suffolk and Essex, another; the men from Hampshire and Berkshire, another. The brigadiers in the respective counties were to appoint the officers of the companies, and, in conjunction with the brigadiers of other counties furnishing companies in the same regiment, were to appoint field-officers to command the respective regiments. The commanding officer of each of these regiments was authorized to appoint an adjutant, a quartermaster, a surgeon and a surgeon's mate, for his regiment.

To the command of the entire force thus to be raised, the Council were empowered and requested, to appoint a brigadier, who, in turn, was to appoint a chaplain and a brigade-major, "for the service of the brigade," and all these officers were ordered to repair to Claverack, without delay, "there to receive the order of General Washington, or such officer as he shall appoint."

An ample monthly allowance was granted, in addition to the pay of the Continental establishment, to officers of the line, commissioned and non-commissioned, and of the staff, and to the privates and musicians.

The arrest and return of deserters was provided for, and a penalty of £500 ordered to be laid upon the inhabitants of any town, for every deserter, from this or any former detachment, who should escape the punishment prescribed by these resolves, by reason of the negligence of "the militia officers, selectmen and committee, in the same town." The penalty was ordered to be "added to the next state tax of such town or plantation."

No town was to receive credit for any prisoner, or deserter from the enemy, enlisted as part of its quota, "either in their number of men raised, or the money they may pay him."

The penalty of dismission from office (on being reported to the General Court by the superior officer), or of a fine, according to their respective grades, was affixed, by these resolves, to the offence of neglect of duty, by officers.

Each recruit was to be properly armed and equipped,—by himself, if of sufficient ability, otherwise by the selectmen; and a bounty of £30, besides mileage, was directed to be paid out of the town treasury to each non-commissioned officer and private, enlisted under this call, who should appear properly armed and equipped. The sum of the bounties so paid, was to be "deducted from the next state tax levied on such town." For delinquency in complying with these resolves every town was ordered to be fined, for each man needed to complete its quota at the proper time, "such sum as the General Court shall hereafter determine;" which sum was to be "added to the next state tax of such town and plantation."

The following resolve* was passed to enable the General Court to ascertain the amount of the fines incurred by delinquent towns, and the amount paid as bounty, to towns, under the resolves of the ninth of October: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay } In the House of Representatives Novr 27 1779

Whereas the Resolve of this Court pass'd the 9th day of October last for raising two thousand Troops for the purposing of reinforcing the Continental Army does not require any return to be made of the Troops so raised: by reason of which the Towns who raised their Troops cannot receive the Bounty therein promised nor the delinquent Towns fined

Therefore Resolved that the Brigadier Generals in this State who were required by said Resolve to raise Troops for the above purpose; be & they hereby are required on or before the Second Wednesday of the next Sitting of this Court — to make returns into the Secretary's Office of the men so raised in their respective Brigade, & also the apportionment made by the Commanding Officer of each Regiment, in their Brigades on the respective Towns in their said Brigades

Notwithstanding this preparation for fining delinquent towns, it does not appear that any such fines were laid under these resolves. The fines laid in the present chapter were such as were incurred under the resolves of June 8, 1779. The unremitted fines incurred under those resolves by the delinquent towns of Suffolk, Essex, Middlesex, Hampshire and Worcester counties and by two towns in Bristol County, had been assessed by chapter 30, and were either already collected, or in process of collection. In the present chapter, fines were laid on the following of the remaining counties; viz., Plymouth, Barnstable and Berkshire; and also on the remaining towns in Bristol County, and on the town of Oxford in Worcester County,† whose fines had not been ascertained at the date of the passage of the former tax act. In the counties of Dukes and Nantucket no fines had been incurred, since no call for detachments had been made upon the towns in those counties; and although the counties of Cumberland and Lincoln had been called upon by the resolves of June 9, 1779, to furnish their quota of men for this service, they had been excused from doing so by the resolves of the 26th of the same month, which provided for raising, in those counties, a force of 1,200 men, to be under the command of Gen. Solomon Lovell, and to coöperate with the fleet, and a train of artillery under Col. Paul Revere, in the expedition against Penobscot. The county of York had been called upon for three hundred men to join the forces thus raised in Lincoln and Cumberland; and, in the following spring, after the failure of that expedition, all three counties had been again called upon for 700 men, for the defence of Penobscot, under the command of General Peleg Wadsworth, 310‡ of whom were to be raised in York County, 240 in Cumberland County and 150‡ in Lincoln County.

The inhabitants of York County, therefore, felt that they had an equal claim to exemption, with the two other counties in Maine; and when an attempt was made to provide, in the bill of this chapter, for laying fines on delinquent towns in York County, Edward Grow, Joseph Prime and Joshua Bragdon, in behalf of that county, presented to the General Court a petition, representing that they "were cheerfully complying" with the requirement of the resolves of June 9, 1779, for raising nine-months' men (and would have soon raised their full complement), when they were suddenly called to send every man they could hire, or detach from the militia, to aid the forces at Penobscot; that they had supposed that they would be exempt from fines for not completing their quota of nine-months' men, "as the other two counties, in the province of Maine, were," and were greatly surprised at the intention of the General Court to fine them; that they were "not able to pay the tax already laid" on the county; and if the fine should be added, it would greatly distress them, as they were then called upon for 310 men more for the defence of the eastern parts of the state, which call, though it involved expense, they were determined to comply with; wherefore they prayed for relief. This petition was read, in the House, April 1, 1780, and referred to the committee "on the petition of the town of Hingham," and two days later, the following resolve * was passed: —

A petition, dated April 1, 1780, signed by David Thatcher, Solomon Freeman and Barnabas Freeman, representatives of the towns of Yarmouth, Harwich and Eastham, was presented to the General Court, in which the petitioners alleged that the said towns were unable to pay their taxes, much less their fines, on account of the entire cessation of the "whale and cod fishery" — the business upon which they wholly depended for money wherewith to pay taxes; and that their lands would not yield enough to supply them with bread and meat; wherefore they prayed that the distressed circumstances of those towns may be taken into consideration, and they so far relieved as to have the fines suspended for the present. Upon this petition the following resolve † was passed: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay } In the House of Representatives Apl 4th 1780

The inhabitants of the town of Sandwich, in Barnstable County, also (upon the petition of their selectmen and agents, Seth Freeman, Micah Blackwell and Sylvanus Nye), succeeded in getting their town omitted from the list of towns fined in the act. The petitioners represented that their town was among the foremost to engage in the Revolution, and had ever afforded to that cause "their most cheerful, seasonable and ample assistance," etc.; that they had contributed to the three-years' men of the Continental Army their full quota of one-seventh of the serviceable male inhabitants, of which they had "at a very early period," made return as required by law; that, fearing the unfavorable effects of the tardiness of a neighboring town, they had kept on enlisting men until they had furnished, and made proper return of, eleven more men than their quota, for which they had expected to receive credit "in future requisitions;" that, though they had always "afforded" their "full supplies, ever since," until they were called upon for twelve nine-months' men under the resolves of June 9, 1779, their circumstances were such that they were only able, then, to furnish eight of the twelve men called for; that this was about the proportion they had usually sent, and would have been their full proportion in this instance if the General Court had not adopted a new rule of computation, by which the Quakers among them were included in the estimate; that they had furnished, about the time of the above enlistment, one other man, to serve during the war, which they had supposed would be accepted as an equivalent for the four nine-months' men in which they were deficient, since the town of Dartmouth had been similarly favored; and, moreover, that the militia of Sandwich had been "continually on the alert, in defence of our own and the Falmouth shores," in which service they had been obliged to double their enlistments, on account of the failure of other towns to raise their quotas, — and this at an expense for which they had been less than half repaid by the state; that by reason of their great expenses for public charges they were greatly reduced: many of the poorer sort being "compelled to part with their only cow," to pay their taxes; — wherefore they prayed that the town might not be fined for their failure to raise the whole number of twelve men, which they believed must cause them to "sink under the burden of taxes encreased in this way."

This petition was referred, March 31, 1780, to the committee on the petition of the town of Hingham, who made a report which, with the action of the Assembly thereon, is given below: —

A bill for apportioning and assesssing a tax of £2,788,291 13*s.* 6*d.* for defraying the public charges, and also £33,444 10*s.* for the pay of the representatives, was read a second time, in the House, April 11, 1780. The previous proceedings upon this bill have not been ascertained, because of the loss of the journals of the House for the earlier part of the session. At this stage an amendment was offered to the bill, for exempting the unimproved lands of non-residents from county, town and parish taxes; but this was rejected by a vote of thirty-three to twenty-one. An unsuccessful attempt was made at the same time to procure the insertion of a clause similar to if not identical with section 14 of the act. On the 18th, the bill was recommitted, "to be made conformable to the bill which has passed the House, respecting the currency." On the 2d of May, the bill, with the title changed to the form in which it appears at the head of this chapter, was passed to be engrossed, in the House, after three several readings, and was sent up to the Council, for concurrence. In the Council this bill was read a first time on the 2d of May, and again, on the 3d, when it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed. On the 5th, the bill was passed, in concurrence, to be enacted, and, according to the record, was consented to by fifteen of the Council.

The call of Congress for an immediate supply of money, referred to in the resolves * of June 15, 1780, printed below, was the following: —

"On the report of a committee, to whom was referred a memorial from the honourable the minister plenipotentiary of France,

Resolved, That the states of Virginia, Maryland, Delaware, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, New York, Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts Bay and New Hampshire, be most earnestly called on to collect and pay into the continental treasury, immediately, if possible, and at all events within thirty days from this time, ten millions of dollars for the special purpose hereafter mentioned, in the following proportions; the payments to be credited to the said states respectively, on their quotas of money due to the United States to the first day of March last, viz.

Massachusetts Bay, ... 1,794,950

Resolved, That the money to be raised as aforesaid, be appropriated and applied to the bringing the army into the field, and forwarding their supplies, in such manner as the exigencies and nature of the service may require."— Secret Journals of Congress: May 19, 1780.

The letter enclosing these resolves of Congress, and bearing the same date, contained the following urgent appeal: —

"Sir, Congress have recd authentic information that his Most Christian Majesty is preparing to send a powerfnl Naval & Land force to some part of the Continent of North America. This force generously calculated either to produce a diversion in our favour, or to forward the operation of our Arms by being directed to the same object, may either by our exertions be made the means of delivering our Country in the course of the Campaign from the ravages of war, or being rendered ineffectual thrô our supiness serve only to sully the reputation of our Arms, to defeat the benevolent intention of our great Ally & to disgrace our Confederacy in the Eyes of all Europe —

Every State that reflects upon the depreciation of the Currency & their own deficiency in the payment of their taxes must necessarily conclude that the Treasury is exhausted — The Military departments are at a stand for the want of money to put them in motion. Congress have no resources but in your spirit & virtue, upon these they confidently rely — you kuow the value of the prize for which you contend, nor need you be informed how much you are interested in a speedy termination of this distressing & expensive war.

But as the smallest disappointment in the requisitions they make may be attended with the most serious consequences, they have endeavoured so to limit their demands as not to exceed your power to comply with them.

The sum for which you are called upon by the within resolution they flatter themselves you will furnish to the Treasury by the fifteenth of June at furthest without neglecting to discharge the orders that have been drawn upon you for the whole of which, you will receive credit on your account of taxes due on the first of March last —

* * * *

It may not be improper to suggest to you, that if a strict & immediate collection of taxes should be insufficient to procure the necessary sums within the time limited, it may perhaps be more speedily obtained by Loans." — Mass. Archives, vol. 202, p. 184.

* Printed resolves of the May session, chapter LVII.

This letter was laid before the House, by a majority of the Council, at the opening of the General Court, this year, as follows: —

"Our Finances ought to be Closely attended to and every exertion made to have our Quota of Taxes for the Service of the United States seasonably Collected & punctually paid into the Continental Treasury. The public Exigencies demand our punctual Compliance with the requisitions of Congress relative to this Subject; effectual measures should also be immediately adopted & carried into Execution for procuring our proportion of the necessary supplies for the Army. * * * *

Congress in their Circular Letter of the 21th of April last have in a very pressing manner urged your attention to this matter as well as a punctual payment of our Quota of the Taxes, they very justly observe 'that no Period has occurred in this long and Glorious struggle in which Indecision could be so destructive & on the other hand, no Conjuncture has been more favourable to great & deciding Efforts.' The Secretary will lay before you the several Letters referred to as likewise a Letter just received from the President of the Congress dated the 19th May, Inclosing a resolve of the same date earnestly calling upon this State to collect and pay into the Continental Treasury immediately if possible or at all Events within thirty days from that time, One Million seven hundred Ninety six thousand & nine hundred and fifty dollars to be applied solely to the bringing the Army into the Field and forwarding their Supplies in such manner as the Exigency and nature of the service may require

We earnestly recommend it to you to pay an immediate and unremitted attention to these several Matters so that we may be prepared to meet the Enemy and to Co-operate with our Allies as occasions may offer & Circumstances may require with Vigour and Decision through the Ensuing Campaign." — Extracts from message, June 1, 1780: ibid., vol., 158, p. 170.

The following are the resolves of the General Court above referred to. They show, expressly, the purpose for which they were passed, and the order in which the several counties were requested to advance a sum equal to the amount of the taxes laid by this chapter: —

The following measures were taken for the premature collection of the second moiety of this tax: —

To insure the prompt collection of the overdue first moiety of the tax laid by this chapter, the Council appears to have issued an order which, however, has not been discovered. This order was reënforced by the following concurrent resolve,* for hastening the collection of both moieties of the tax, or so much thereof as had not already been paid into the treasury: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives September 13. 1780

Besides the fines remitted before the act was passed, other fines were subsequently remitted by resolve. Most of the towns thus exempted were in Barnstable County; thus, on the petition of the town of Falmouth, by Joseph Dimuck its representative, setting forth "the deplorable situation of the town, and their inability to pay the taxes laid upon them, much more their fines for deficiency in their quota of nine-months'" men: and representing that the town had, at all times, been ready to procure their quota of men, and had succeeded in doing so on all former calls, and had raised five of the eight men called for under the resolves of June 9th, and were proceeding to complete the number, when the enemy's fleet appeared before the town, by which they were "so harassed and distressed" that they could not possibly enlist more men; that the five men actually enlisted constituted their full quota "exclusive of the Quakers," who constituted one third part of the town; that they were exposed to the ravages of refugees, "who did, the last summer, continually infest" their "coast"; wherefore they prayed for a remission of the fine laid upon them for deficiency in their quota, — in answer to which the following resolve† was passed: —

"State of Massachusets Bay In the House of Representatives May 2: 1780

The inhabitants of Barnstable, also, in town meeting assembled, authorized the presentation to the General Court of a petition, representing their zeal in "promoting the common cause" from the beginning of the war, upon all occasions, "even beyond their abilities, in their endeavors to comply with the several resolves" of the Assembly, by raising their quota of men for the land-service, in which respect, considering the peculiar circumstances of their situation, they believed themselves to be not behind other towns in the state; that the town was part of a peninsula, and from about four to six miles in width, from shore to shore; that Hyannis Harbor on the south of the town, was of easy access, and more exposed than any other town in the county (Falmouth excepted) to the ravaging parties of the enemy while they were in possession of Rhode Island, in consequence of which they were obliged to maintain, constantly, a coast-guard through the previous summer, until the evacuation of Rhode Island, while many of their "most active young men were abroad in sea-service, or in the enemy's prisons," they not being able to find employment at home; that fourteen of their militiamen had been detached for service at Falmouth, through the summer, and "the remainder greatly fatigued by marching and countermarching, on all alarms, to and from Falmouth," insomuch that the little husbandry of the town was greatly neglected and behindhand; that their finances were low, and the balance, even for the necessaries of life, greatly against them; that many families had removed or were removing from the town, being unable to support themselves there; notwithstanding which, and much more that might be said of their distressing circumstances, they immediately set about complying with the orders of June last, for recruiting nine-months' men; that "a number of young men were detached, fines were repeatedly paid," and the town called together upon complaint of the "hardness of the duty of this regiment under the aforementioned circumstances," when an almost unanimous vote was passed to raise the required number of men, by a town bounty; that an active committee was thereupon raised, "with Major Micah Hamblen at their head, with an unlimited commission from the town, to raise the men by any reasonable bounty, at the expense of the town"; that six men were accordingly raised and marched to the proper rendezvous, and great pains were taken by the committee to complete the quota: that more men were not procurable either for money or produce; that husbandry was then in danger for want of hands to carry it on; that if made known to the General Court, these circumstances, and others that might be mentioned, including the heavy burden of taxes: local, state and Continental, would, in their belief, have induced the General Court to exempt them from the fine for their unavoidable deficiency of men, since other towns had been excused, or their fines suspended, under circumstances somewhat similar, though not so distressing, as that of Barnstable; wherefore the petitioners prayed that the fine of £6,000 laid upon them might be remitted.

This petition was dated June 14, 1780,—the day on which the town meeting was held. Edward Bacon was moderator of the meeting; and a copy of the petition, attested by Ebenezer Bacon, the town clerk, was ordered to be delivered to "Brigadier Joseph Otis, or Capt. Sturgis Gorham, who were chosen joint or separate agents to present the same to the" Legislature, "and, in the name and behalf of said town, to pray that the same may be speedily granted."

On the 20th of June, this petition, and another from Wellfleet (which has not been discovered in the archives), were referred to a committee consisting of Messrs. Perry, Wales and Sargeant, upon whose report a resolve was prepared granting the prayer of both petitions; but the petition of Barnstable was ordered to be referred to the next session, and upon the petition of Wellfleet the following resolve * was passed: —

"State of the Massachusetts-Bay In the House of Representatives June 22d 1780

Wheras by the Tax Act which pass'd the last Sessions of the General Court a fine of three Thousand Pounds was laid on the Town of Wellfleet for not furnishing their full Quota of Men agreable to a Resolve of the General Court passd June 8th 1780. and it appearing to this Court that the Distress'd Circumstances of that Town occasioned by the War, and not any unwillingness of the Inhabitants to do their Duty, was the occasion of their Deficiency

Therefore Resolved the said Town of Wellfleet be and they are hereby remitted the said fine of Three Thousand pounds and the assessors of said Town are hereby directed not to assess the same on the Polls & Estates of the said Town, and the Treasurer of this State be and hereby is directed not issue his Warrants against the Constable or Constables of said Town for the said fine of Three Thousand pounds but that he discharge the said Town therefrom, any Law Usage or Custom to the contrary notwithstanding

Following Barnstable and Wellfleet, the town of Chatham, on the 8th of June, 1780, presented a petition, by its agent, Richard Sears, who represented that the town, notwithstanding its extreme poverty, exerted itself to comply with the requisition for five nine-months' men under the resolve of June, 1779, and succeeded in raising the whole number called for, four of whom were delivered to the superintendent, and had joined the army; but that the fifth man, though in good health when he started, was taken lame when he had marched as far as Yarmouth (about 17 miles), by which he was confined for about a month, and had continued lame ever since, which was a circumstance entirely unlooked for by the town; and since they had always exerted themselves to their utmost to raise

The fine of £5,400 incurred by the town of Oxford, was omitted from chapter 30, by the order of Nov. 29, 1779, on the petition of Edward Davis, the consideration of which was referred to the next session, as shown in the note to said chapter, pp. 1298 and 1299 ante. On the 6th of March, 1780 (by which time the number of enlistments in which this town was deficient, had dwindled to five men), a second petition for relief was prepared by Ebenezer Learned, John Town, Ezra Bowman and Reuben Lamb, selectmen, in which they declared that they understood, from their representative in the General Court, that they were fined three thousand pounds, for deficiency in their quota of nine-months' men, and asserting that they had enlisted, to serve during the war, one man more than the superintendent had returned, which man had been duly mustered in, by the muster-master for Worcester County, as would appear by his receipt; that there was a "gore of land lying between Oxford and Connecticut, that" was "ordered to do military duty in Oxford," in consequence of which their proportion of Continental recruits was three or four more than it should have been; that the residents on this gore were not taxable in Oxford towards the expense of raising men for the army, notwithstanding which the town had completed every draught except the last; that the failure in the present instance was not for want of good will, but because the exemption of the inhabitants of the gore, and of thirty-seven others, inhabitants of the town, who had "refused to take up arms, by reason of their religious principles," reduced the number to be drawn from, to about two-thirds of the train-band and alarm list in that town; that under these circumstances it would be seen by their returns there were "but very few left to draft out of"; and that if other towns had raised as many men, proportionately, as had Oxford, according to the resolve of Jan 25, 1777, "said town would not have had to draft men" as it had done; wherefore they submitted the matter to the wise consideration of the Assembly, and thereupon the following resolve† was passed:—

The difficulty encountered in securing proper returns upon which to base estimates of fines, from the selectmen of the towns in Lincoln County, may have been inferred from the purport of the resolves of May 3, 1779, given in the note to chapter 30, p. 1298, ante; and the peculiarly heavy burdens resting upon that county and Cumberland County, from that time onward, may be gathered from what has already appeared in this note. Besides the exemption granted to both counties from the draft for the nine-months' men, the county of Cumberland had been granted relief from the enforcement of chapter 30 of this year, by the resolve of May 5, 1780, printed on p. 1307, ante. Another resolve was passed, the same day, abating to the county of Lincoln £15,000 of the taxes assessed on that county by both chapter 30 and the present tax act. The petition upon which this resolve was granted, was prepared by a convention of "agents," or delegates from the several towns in the county, and is deemed sufficiently interesting to be inserted here at length; viz. —

"State of the Massechusetts Bay in New England. } To the Honourable the Council and house of Representatives In General Court Assembled at Boston. A. D. 1779 —

The Petition of the Several Towns in the County of Lincoln, by their Agents mett, in Convention at Wiscasset pint on the Sixteenth Day of November A. D. 1779 — Humbly Shews —

That the first Settlers of this County, as well as those that have Settled here Since, were most of them very poor, and Distitute of almost all the Necessaries of Life, the Land heavyly Loaded with wood and Timber, and very hard to Cultivate, they were obliged to go into the Lumber Trade, for their Immediate Support, by which they had many Thousand Busshells of Grain Annually brought to them, as well as wool & flax and other Articles by which they were Supported, and have ever Cheefully paid their full proportion of the Publick Charges, but Since the Commencement of the unhappy Controversy between Great Britan and these Colonies, our Case and Circumstances are become truly Deplorable, for those few that had some small Interest in their hands, which consisted Chiefly in Coasting Vessels, which they imployd, in carrying of our wood and Lumber, and bringing back Grain, & other Necessaries of Life, until the Risque became so great that it reduced our wood and Lumber to almost nothing, and the prise of Provisions Excessive high, whereby an undue proportion of the Burthen of the War fell upon us, and finally out of Sixty Coasting vessels, which was own'd to the westward of St. Georges Forty nine are taken or Lost, and Still further to compleat our misfortune, we are prohibited by a Law of this State, from Exporting masts spars & yards, many of which are now Leying upon our hands, and will soon be finally Lost, and in the year past, the Little hopes we had from the produce of our Small Farms was almost wholly cutt off by an uncommon Drought, so that in the winter Season many Families were forced to Live (or rather Subsist,) without bread or meat, for weeks and many for months together, as there was but very Little Grain brought to us to be sold, and that at as high a Price as Sixty Dollars ₰ᵖʳ Busshell — and as to the present year the Prospect is still more Gloomy and Desperate, for after haveing Struggled through the Miseries of a hard and pinching winter, the Peoples Countenances Pale, and their Bodies become feeble, through want and hunger, they were in the Spring of the year, from the first appearance of things, in great hopes of a fruitfull Summer, but their Early hopes were soon cutt off, by amazeing Swarms of Grasshoppers, and other insects which in many parts of this County almost covered the face of the Ground, and distroyd great part of the Grain & Grass and almost all vegetables that grew out of the Earth, and still further to compleat our Misery, Early in the Summer our Sea Coasts were infested, and our harbours blockd up by British Ships of war, and Privateers, whereby the people were Alarmd and Almost all Buisness Laid aside for some time, not knowing which way to turn theirselves But in a Short time about one half of the Militia was calld to Arms, and marchd for the protection of our Defenceless Sea Coasts, and then to Join in that Inglorious Expedition to Ponobscott, where they served for two months, this being in the most Buisy Season in the whole year, and thereby many Lost great part of their Grass and Grain which the Devouring Insex had Left — And since that, about one-third more of the Militia has been calld off to Guard the Sea Coast, and our Defenceless neighbours who then were and Still are every hour in Jeopardy of their Lives and fortunes from the Enemy, which Troops are now returnd, and the Eastern parts of the County Left naked and Defenceless, and most of the Provision there Eate up or Destroyed, and the Wretched Inhabitants near the Sea Coasts driven back without any thing to Support themselves, and Lays as a Dead weight on the rest of the people, who are obliged in Charity to Support them, altho they have not half Provision enough to Supply their own Families, through the winter, and notwithstanding our provisions are so Exhausted by Supplying the troops, before the publick Stores came down and Supporting the miserable Inhabitants who have Lost their all, we are not a Little Surpprized to find, that by an Order from the Committee of war, a Large Quantity of Beef which the Inhabitants could very badly spare, but for the publick Good did consent to Turn out for the use of the Troops, but it Seems it was not Used, and is now Orderd to Boston, and should it so happen, that upon any Sudden Emergancy more Troops should be raized, it would be impossible to Supply them even for two Days, this now is the true State of this Poor and Distressd County, and when we Look about us and behold the Distress of the People almost Distitute of most of the Necessaries of Life, no Exports or Imports by Sea as Usual in time past, whereby our wood and Lumber, the Little we got, in our perplexd Circumstances, Lays upon our hands, and no provision brought to us and no money to purchase any with, we Stand amazd at the Prospect, and when we Look forward and behold the Monsterous Taxes that are Laid upon us, and no money to Pay it with, we are Astonishd & know not what to do, but this we are sure of, that if it is possible we can by any means subsist ourselves through the Winter, yet it is impossible for us to pay those heavy Taxes Demanded of us, or Supply those Articles of Clotheing which by a Resolve of the General Court is Enjoind upon us, and altho we have hitherto been neglected, as not to have Precepts Sent to us whereby we could make choice of a person to Represent us in the General Assembly, and have a voice in the Choice of Councillers and Consequently in that part of the Legeslative Body, which procide as Governor, Yet we humbly trust we may Decently petition that Power which has Taxed us unrepresented, as we have a President from these Colonies of Partitioning the Parliment of Great Britan in a Simalar Case —

we do therefore most Earnestly implore the favor of this Honourable Court to take our peculiar distresd Case under your wise Consideration and Release those heavy Taxes that are Demanded of us, and Releave us from our Distresses in such a way and manner as to you in your great wisdom and Goodness shall seem meet otherwise we must be forced to Resign up our all into the hands of that power which shall see fit to take it from us, and your humble petitioners as in Duty Bound shall ever Pray. —

On a petition, dated Sept. 4, 1780, by the selectmen, committee of safety, and commissioned officers, of the town of Greenwich, representing that they had borrowed money of the constables who collected the taxes, wherewith to furnish the equipment of the men raised by them to fill the quota required of the town, which they conceived was excessive, because no credit had been allowed to them for men raised by them for six months' service, in the Continental Army; that thus they had "raised a double quota of men," besides sixteen militiamen for three months, — making a total of forty-eight men, or nearly half their "militia"; and praying (as they hoped the General Court desired "no more than a vigorous exertion of" their "abilities, and not a consumption of them"), to be allowed, in future, their "number of men enlisted during the war, as that part of" their "quota that number does complete, and also to postpone by a resolve * * the executions ordered to be sent upon the constables, for their delaying to pay the tax granted March, 1780."

* Printed resolves of the May session, chapter LIII. † Ibid., September session, chapter VI.

On the 19th of September, this petition was referred to Messrs. Farley, Freeman and Smith, and a resolve was prepared, directing the treasurer to stay his execution, as prayed for, until the 20th of October, following. This resolve does not appear to have been passed; but the resolve * of Jan. 30, 1781, seems to have practically furnished the relief they sought.

On the 7th of June, 1780, an "address and petition" from the town of Hancock, was read in the House, "and ordered to lie." This petition was prepared by Asa Douglass, William Boardman and Samuel Hand, a committee chosen for the purpose, at a legal town meeting held for the purpose of considering the form of a constitution of government, and for choosing a member of the convention for forming the same, and also for choosing a representative to the General Court, which representative was charged with the duty of presenting the petition. The petition was signed by all the members of the committee which draughted it, by three selectmen, and by the town clerk, all of whom certified to the doings at the town meetings, aforesaid. The petitioners declared that they considered themselves "greatly burthened by more than a double proportion of taxes to what many of the neighboring towns are," and referred to the discrimination, in the tax bill, in favor of Williamstown, which they considered "three times the value" of Hancock, yet assessed, in the tax act, "but a few shillings above" the latter; and also between Hancock and Great Barrington, Stockbridge, New Marlborough, Tyringham and Richmont, "with others in the county." They disclaimed any desire to free themselves from their equal proportion of the public charge, but professed only a wish that the matter might "be examined, and the mistake rectified, if any there be"; and asked leave to represent "the general circumstance and situation this town is in, which is peculiarly different, and, in a variety of particulars, more disadvantageous to its inhabitants perhaps than any other town in this state experience." They then proceeded to describe the shape and geographical position of the town, which was about two miles wide and fifteen miles long, — "a mere strip and fragment of lofty, rugged, and uncouth mountains, and only two small scraps of it fit for any profitable improvement," one of which, until the last year, had been assessed to the adjoining town of Richmont, and with no communication between them, possible, except by roads for nearly eight miles within the state of New York; that the northern piece of improvable land lay "in a very narrow hollow, running out of York state, * * admitting of but one tier of small farms, chiefly of about one hundred acres each, and less;" that much of this land was on the mountain side, and only fit for woodland; that all the rest of the land was wild and uncultivable, too stony, dry and gravelly to be fit for grain or grass, and had been thought not worth taking into the adjoining towns, nor fit to make a town by itself, "until certain gentlemen having grants to lay out, ventured to make pitches here for want of land elsewhere;" that the best land had been purchased and settled by the present inhabitants, and "the rough remainder has ever since been the common resort of the poorest sort of people from different states, who could not get a living in the lower towns," and had not been permitted to remain there, and so had fled in great numbers to this mountainous region before the place had been incorporated; that by this means the number of the inhabitants of Hancock, as compared with other towns, had become double in proportion to their wealth, "it being computed that two-thirds of" the inhabitants were "unable to pay their poll-tax without distressing their families, that they have rarely any other houses than huts, made with round logs, covered with bark or splits, without boards, glass or nails"; that the best part of the improvements in the town lay in a gore between "Dwight's and Messenger's lines," which was claimed by New York, to which state the inhabitants there paid taxes; that the settlements in Hancock were only about thirteen years old, or one-third as old as those of the neighboring towns, and consequently the land was loaded with old timber, which the inhabitants had been unable to remove during the war; wherefore, after making several surmises as to the cause of the mistake through which they claimed they had been overrated, and overtaxed, the petitioners prayed that the General Court would take their affairs into consideration, and do that which "shall appear most just and equal."

The petition appears to have been taken up June 14th, and referred to the committee "on the tax on Lanesborough"; and, one week later, the following resolve † was passed: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives June 19 1780

On the Petition of the Inhabitants of the Town of Hancock Setting forth the many Inconveniencies they Labour under by reason of their Lands being new & uncultivated and that Said Town was Set much higher in the last Valuation in proportion to its Value than other Towns in the Vicinity

And Whereas it Appearing to this Court that Said Town of Hancock was Set much too high in the last Valuation — Therefore Resolved that the Town of Hancock be and hereby is Abated to the Amount of one third part of the Taxes Set on Said Town Since the last Valuation took Place, and the Treasurer of this State be and he hereby is Directed to Credit Said Town of Hancock Accordingly for Reasons Set forth in Said Petition the same. The action of the Legislature in this case is shown in the note to chapter 9, of the year 1780, to which, as well as to the present chapter, the resolve there printed, applied.

See, further, as to the taxes of Hancock, the resolves of Sept. 28, 1780, and of Oct. 4, 1780, in the notes to chapters 9 and 16, respectively, of that year, post.

By the resolve of Nov. 7, 1780, printed in the note to chapter 16 of the year 1780, the town of Thomaston was abated "one-half of all the taxes set to said town" since May 1, 1780. This was in addition to the relief granted to the towns in Lincoln County, by the resolve of May 5, 1780, and probably enabled the town to ease the inhabitants of Camden of the burden of which they had complained to the General Court. See note to chapter 30, p. 1310, ante.

In addition to the suspension by the resolve of April 3, 1780,* of the fines on the county of York for deficiency in their quota of men, the tax on the town of Fryeburg, imposed by chapter 30, ante, was suspended, and the town was still further relieved to the extent of the abatement of one-half of its taxes by the resolve of Feb. 16, 1781, printed in the note to 1780, chapter 16, post.

AN ACT FOR SET[T]ING OFF A PART OF ROYALSTON, CALLED ROYALSTON LEG, AND ANNEXING THE SAME TO THE TOWN OF WINCHENDON.

Whereas it appears that the inhabitants living on a strip of land belonging to Royalston, in the county of Worcester, called Royalston Leg, about one mile wide, lying the whole length of the town of Winchendon, would be much accom[m]odated by being set off from Royalston, and annex[t]['d] to the town of Winchendon, in the same county, — Preamble.

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, —

[Sect. 1.] That all that part of Royalston called Royalston Leg, containing, by estimation, about two thousand acres, begin[n]ing at the north-west corner of Winchendon, then run[n]ing northwardly, a parallel line with Winchendon west line, about one mile to the province line, so called; then eastwardly, by the province line, the length of the town of Winchendon, be and hereby is set off from Royalston and annex[t]['d] to Winchendon: and the town of Winchendon is hereby extended so far north as the state line of New Hampshire, and said land, with the inhabitants living thereon, shall forever hereafter be considered as belonging to the town of Winchendon. Boundaries.

Provided, nevertheless, —

[Sect. 2.] That the said inhabitants and non-residents shall pay all taxes which are al[]ready assessed and lev[y][i]ed on the town of Royalston, anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding. Taxes, by whom paid.

Provided, also, —

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 3.] That the amount of the estates contained on and in said tract of land, and the polls thereon, returned, by the assessors of the town of Royalston, in the valuation last taken, as belonging to Royalston, be deducted from the return of said assessors and added to the return made by the assessors of the town of Winchendon. Polls and estates returned by the assessors of the town of Royalston, to be added to the town of Winchendon.

Provided, nevertheless, —

Proviso.

[SECT. 2.] That all articles which have been seized or stop[p]ed, in pursuance of either of said acts or resolve, or any breaches of said acts or resolve, already p[u][e]rp[r]e[r]trated, shall be proceeded with and prosecuted in the same way and manner they would have been if this act had not been made. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or other place, within this state, that are taxed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all the male polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns or other places nearest adjoining to them, belonging to no other town or place, including negroes and molattoes (and such of them as are under the government of a master or mistress, to be taxed to said master or mistress, respectively, in the same manner as minors and apprentices are taxed), at five shillings; and to assess the remainder of the sum set to each town or place (after deducting the amount of the sum assessed to the polls as aforesaid) on the inhabitants of said town or place as aforesaid, according to the just value of the whole real estate by each inhabitant of such town or place, respectively, possessed in his own right, or in the right of others, lying within said town or place, improved or not improved; and on the non-resident proprietors of real estate, lying within said town or place, in their own right, or in the right of others, improved or not improved: sav[e]ing all a[r]gre[e]ments between landlords and tenants, and where no agre[e]ment is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax; and also on the inhabitants of such town or place, according to the proportion of the amount and just value of their whole personal estate, including money at interest more than they pay interest for, debts due to them, not on interest, more than they are indebted, monies of all kinds on hand, and also the amount of the just value of all goods, wares and merchandize, stock in trade, vessels of all sorts, with their stores, appurtenances and appendages, plate, horses, oxen, and cattle of all sorts and ages, sheep, swine, and grain of all sorts, and all kinds of produce of the land, and all other property whatever (excepting hous[e]hold furniture, wearing apparel, farming utensils and the tools of mechanicks), on the twentieth day of May last; and the current price of the real and personal estate on the said twentieth day of May before mentioned, in the currency of these United States, shall be considered the just value of the same; and on the amount of their income from any profession, faculty, handicraft, trade or employment; and also on the amount of all incomes and profits gained by tra[i]ding by sea and on shore, and by means of advantages arising from the war, and the necessities of the community, — and in considering the incomes and profits last mentioned, the assessors are to have special regard to the way and manner in which the same have been made, as well as the quantum thereof, and to assess them at such rate, as they on their oaths, shall judge to be just and reasonable: provided, they do not in any case assess such incomes and profits at more than ten times the sum of the same amount in other kind of estate.

Provided, also, —

[SECT. 3.] That if, in any case, the assessors shall apprehend there has been any material alteration in the property of any individual, after the said twentieth of May above mentioned, before the time of making the assessment, they shall then call upon such individuals to give in upon oath (which oath said assessors are impowered to administer), a true list of their polls, and all the property by them possessed at the time they are so called upon; and if any person so called upon shall refuse or neglect to give in such list, or shall give in a false list, and be thereof convicted before the said assessors, they shall then proceed to assess such person, to the best judg[e]ment and estimation they can form, of the several kinds of property by him possessed, according to the foregoing d[i][e]scription.

[Sect. 4.] And the treasurer in his said warrant, shall likewise require the assessors to make a fair list of said assessments, set[t]ing forth, in distinct columns, against such person's name, how much he or she is assess[e]'d at for polls, and how much for real estate, and how much for personal estate, as aforesaid; and if as a guardian, or for any estate in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and shall also insert upon their rate-bills the number of acres of unimproved land which they have taxed to each of the non-resident proprietors of land within their respective town[s] or places, and also the value at which they have estimated the same; and the list or lists so perfected, and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collector or collectors, constable or constables, of any such town or place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of such collector or collectors, constable or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the twentieth day of September next; and on failure thereof each assessor so refusing or neglecting his duty herein, shall be subject to pay a fine of five hundred pounds, to be recovered, by execution, from the state treasurer, for the time being, which fine shall be paid into the state treasury for defraying the public charges; and in case of neglect by the assessors, in making return as aforementioned, the treasurer of this state is hereby impowered and directed to send his executions accordingly, unless such assessors shall make it appear that their rate-bills were compleated, and delivered to the collectors before the said twentieth [day] of September next.

[Sect. 5.] And the treasurer for the time being, on the receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector or collectors, constable or constables, of such town or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of the respective sums assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collections before the first day of November next.

[Sect. 6.] That the following persons; viz[t]., the president, fellows, professors, tutors, librarian and students of Harvard College, who have their usual residence there, and settled ministers of the gospel, and grammar-school masters, are not to be assessed for their polls or their estates, unless their real estate be not under their actual management and improvement, or not in the parishes where they are settled; and also all persons who have the management and improvement of the estate of Harvard College, are not to be assessed for the same; and if there are any other persons who, through infirmity or poverty, are unable to pay as others towards the public charges, or any widows or orphans, who, depending on the interest of their money for subsistence, are, by the state of the currency, so reduced as that in the judgment of the assessors they ought to be relieved in their taxes; in any such case the assessors may exempt their polls or estates, or abate any part of what they are set at, as they on their oath shall think just and equitable. And where no person appears to discharge the taxes on non-resident proprietors of unimproved lands, to the collectors, he shall publish, in Gill's "Continental Journal," and that only, three weeks successively, the names of all such proprietors, where they are known, with the sum of the taxes assessed on their lands, respectively, and also the time and place of sale; and where they are not known, he shall, in the same manner, publish the sum of the taxes on the several rights and divisions, together with the time and place of sale, and in each case shall post the same in some public place in the town where the said land lays, for the term of one month; and if no person shall appear thereupon to discharge said taxes, then the constable or collector shall proceed to sell at public sale, to the highest bidder, so much only of said unimproved lands as will be sufficient to discharge said taxes and necessary intervening charges, and shall have power to adjourn, from day to day, if necessary, to compleat the sale, not to exceed three days, and shall give and execute a deed to the purchaser, expressing therein the cause of such sale, and saving to the aforesaid proprietor or proprietors, the right of redemption of any lands so sold, at any time within three years from the time of sale; and the same shall be conveyed to him or them on paying, within three years, as aforesaid, the sum such land sold for, and twelve per cent annual interest on said sum, together with all necessary intervening charges thereon.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That no purchaser of such land shall cut down any trees or timber, or commit strip or waste thereon, until[l] the three years, the time of redemption as aforesaid, shall expire.

Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 8.] That the several officers and soldiers that may be in the army on the twentieth day of May, aforesaid, shall be considered as resident in the several towns and places to which they belonged at the time of their engaging in the army, their absence notwithstanding; and the assessors of the several towns and other places in this state, shall consider such officers and soldiers as resident in such town or place, and shall tax them accordingly: provided, that such as are engaged in the Continental Army for the term of three years, or during the war, be, and they hereby are, exempted from their poll tax.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 9.] That the assessors of each town or other place, respectively, in convenient time before the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in any town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some public place or places in such town or other place, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to make and bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and of all their real and personal estate[s] they are possessed of on the said twentieth day of May; viz[t]., houses, lands, and all real estate whether improved or not improved,—to the assessors of the town or place where such houses and lands and other real estates lay; distinguishing those in the management and possession of some other person, as also a list of all other personal estate, including money at interest more than they pay interest for, debts due, not on interest, more than they are indebted, and of monies of all kinds, in hand, distinguishing hard money from paper money; and also the amount of the just value of all goods, wares and merchandize, stock in trade, plate, horses, oxen, cattle of all sorts and ages, sheep, swine, grain of all sorts, and all kinds of produce of the land, and of all other property whatsoever (excepting hous[e]hold furniture, wearing apparel, farming utensils and tools of mechanicks), on the said twentieth day of May, according to the current price of such real and personal estate in the currency of the United States, on the said twentieth day of May; and also of the amount of their income from any profession, faculty, handicraft, trade or employment, and of the amount of all incomes and profits gained by trading by sea and on shore, and by means of advantages arising from the war, and the necessities of the community; all which they are to render to the assessors, on oath, if required; which oath the said assessors are hereby [i][e]mpowered to administer. And if any person or persons shall, upon such notice given, neglect or refuse to give in to the assessors the list of their polls and rateable estate, according to the description thereof before given, which they were possessed of on the said twentieth day of May, or shall bring in a list which the assessors are, in their judgment, convinced is a false one, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors, and they are hereby directed, to assess such person or persons, according to the best judgment and estimation they can form of the real and personal estate of the said person, according to the d[i][e]scription before given: saving to such person the privilege of applying to the court of general sessions of the peace for relief. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estates as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting or refusing shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment layed on him or them.

[Sect. 10.] And if the assessors are not, in their judgment, convinced of any falsehood in the list, to them presented, of their polls and real and personal estate, such lists shall be a rule of that person's proportion to the tax who presented the same, which the assessors may not exceed.

[Sect. 11.] That nothing in this act shall be construed to extend so as to require any assessors to assess any person for any estate, real or personal, in his possession (absentees' estates excepted), that is the property of the United States, or any of them.

Whereas there are, within this state, several tracts of unimproved land belonging to persons who have left the same and gone over to the enemy, and no provision has been made by the government of the same for the payment of the taxes, otherwise than by the sale of such lands, which may be attended with great loss to the state; for the preventing of which, —

Be it enacted,

[Sect. 12.] That all constables and collectors of taxes be, and they hereby are, directed to stay the sale of all such lands until[l] a further order of this court be taken thereon.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 13.] That the treasurer of this state be, and he hereby is, [i][e]mpowered and directed to allow or pay to such constables or collectors, the amount, in their respective lists, of the taxes on such unimproved lands on certificate from the major part of the assessors who made such tax, being produced, set[t]ing forth the sum taxed in any list exhibited, on said unimproved lands, and to keep an account of all monies by him so allowed or paid.

Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 14.] That all male persons from sixteen years old and upwards, residing or usually doing business in any town or place within this state, shall be considered within the true intent and meaning of this act, and the assessors are directed to proceed to assess them for their trade and faculties, exercised there, and also for their polls, if not taxed for their polls elsewhere.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 15.] That the said tax shall be paid only in the several species of gold and silver coins current in this state before the war, and at the rates they then passed, or in uncoined silver of sterling alloy at six shillings and eightpence an ounce, or in uncoined gold of like alloy at five pounds one shilling and fourpence an ounce, or in good, merchantable codfish at twenty-four shillings per quintal, Indian corn at four shillings per bushel, rye at six shillings per bushel, wheat at eight shillings per bushel, wheat flour at twenty-four shillings per hundred weight, gross, beeswax at one shilling and eightpence per pound, pork at four pounds per barrel, beef at two pounds eight shillings per barrel, potash at forty pounds per ton, pearlash, of the best quality, sixty pounds per ton, hemp at three pounds per hundred weight, refined bar-iron at forty shillings per hundred weight, bloomery iron at thirty shillings per hundred weight, flax, well dressed, tenpence per pound: provided, that all the aforesaid articles be good and merchantable, and of the produce and manufacture of this state, and that the rates and prices herein affixed shall be the rates and prices at which they shall be received in payment of this tax; and the persons paying their taxes in either of the articles aforesaid, shall run the risk and pay the charges of transporting the same to such store in the town of Boston, or elsewhere, as may be ordered by the general court, or by the treasurer, for the time being.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 16.] That each town within this state which shall appear, upon the settlement of the next valuation, to have paid more than their proportion since the settlement of the last valuation, shall be allowed what they have so overpaid, in the next tax for specie, after the said next valuation is set[t]led.

And whereas several places have been incorporated, or annexed to other towns, since the last valuation, and which were given in by some other town in their last valuation, —

Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 17.] That those towns from which such places were taken, shall proceed to tax the same as though they had not been seperated from them. [Passed June 19.

ACTS

Passed at the Session begun and held at Boston, on the Seventh day of September, A. D. 1780.

CHAPTER 10.

AN ACT FOR ANNEXING JOSIAH BLOOD, WITH THE WHOLE OF HIS LAND LYING IN THE DISTRICT OF CARLI[S]LE, TO THE TOWN OF CONCORD.

Whereas, in the act for incorporating part of Concord, part of Billerica, part of Chelmsford and part of Acton, into a district by the name of Carli[s]le, part of the farm belonging to Josiah Blood was taken into said district, which was never intended, — Preamble. 1779-80, chap. 42.

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same,

That the said Josiah Blood, and his land, be set[t] off from the said district of Carli[s]le, and annexed to the town of Concord, there to do duty and receive priviledges; anything in the aforesaid incorporating act to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed September 12. Josiah Blood, and land, set off to the town of Concord.

CHAPTER 11.

AN ACT TO SET OFF A PART OF THE TOWN OF STOUGHTON, AND ANNEXING IT TO THE TOWN OF STOUGHTONHAM.

Whereas it appears that John Tolman of Stoughton, in the county of Suffolk, with his estate, and a quantity of meadow land belonging to inhabitants of said Stoughtonham, Walpole and Dedham, would be much accommodated by being set off from said town of Stoughton, and annexed to the town of Stoughtonham, — Preamble.

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, [Sect. 1.] That all that part of the said town of Stoughton that lies adjoining to, and upon the north-easterly line of, the said town of Stoughtonham, containing, by estimation, about three hundred and seventy acres, beginning at the south-westerly corner of John Billings's lot, and running in the line of said Billings['s], and the said John Tolman's land[s], northerly and westerly, to a stake and heap of Boundaries.

stones in the corner of Nathaniel Cummings's lot; and then, in the lines of said Billings and Cummings, until it comes to the line of Joseph Hartwell's land; then westerly, in the line of said Hartwell, John Billings and Samuel Cummings, to Stoughtonham old line; and, in the said old line, to the head line of Pidgeon['s]-Swamp lot; then easterly, to the easterly line of John Tolman's swamp lot; and then, in said Tolman's easterly line, northerly, to the bounds of Dedham, or Neponset River,—be and hereby is set off from said town of Stoughton, and annexed to the town of Stoughtonham; and said line, so far as it extends, to be the line between the aforesaid towns; and said lands, with the inhabitants thereon, shall forever hereafter be considered as belonging to the town of Stoughtonham.

Provided, nevertheless, —

Proviso. [SECT. 2.] That the said inhabitants shall pay their proportionable part of all taxes which are already assessed and levied on said town of Stoughton; anything in this act to the contrary notwithstanding.

Provided, also, —

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 3.] That the amount of the estate contained on and in said tract of land, and the polls thereon return[e]'d by the assessors of the town of Stoughton, in the valuation last taken, as belonging to the said town of Stoughton, be deducted from the return made by said assessors, and added to the return made by the assessors of the town of Stoughtonham. [Passed September 19.

AN ACT FOR CARRYING INTO EXECUTION A RESOLVE OF CONGRESS, OF THE [TWENTIE] [20]TH OF MARCH LAST; AND FOR REPEALING CERTAIN CLAUSES OF AN ACT MADE IN THE YEAR OF OUR LORD ONE THOUSAND SEVEN HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-SIX, [E][I]NTITLED "AN ACT TO PREVENT* FORGING AND ALTERING BILLS OF PUBLIC CREDIT, AND FOR PREVENTING THE DEPRECIATION THEREOF, AND FOR MAKING THE BILLS OF CREDIT OF THE UNITED COLONIES, AND THE BILLS OF THIS GOVERNMENT, A TENDER IN ALL PAYMENTS;" AND FOR ESTABLISHING A RULE OF DEPRECIATION.

Preamble. WHEREAS, by a resolve of Congress of the twentieth day of March last, it is recommended to the states to revise their laws enacted pursuant to a former resolution of Congress making the Continental bills of credit a tender in discharge of debts and contracts, and to amend the same in such manner as they shall judge most conducive to justice in the present state of the paper currency; and whereas, by an act of the great and general court passed in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred seventy-six, entitled as aforesaid, among other things, it is therein enacted in the following words: "That if any person shall, directly or indirectly, receive or pay any of the bills aforesaid for a less sum than is in them expressed, such person shall be incapable ever after of holding any civil or military office in this colony, and for every such offence pay a fine of forty pounds, to be recovered before any court of record, by bill, plaint, or indictment; one moiety whereof shall be to the use of the person who shall sue or inform for the same, and the other moiety to the use of this colony;" and it is also therein f[a][u]rther enacted in the following words: "That if any * persons shall set, or offer, his, her or their goods, wares or merchandize at a smaller or less price, in gold or silver, than what they are, by him, her or them, set at in the paper currency of the United Colonies, or either of them, he, she or they shall pay a fine of twenty pounds; one moiety thereof to the use of the person who shall sue for and recover the same, and the other moiety to the use of the town where the offence is committed;" and it is also therein f[a][u]rther enacted as follows: "That the bills of credit of the United Colonies, established by the American Congress, and the bills of this government, shall be received in all payments within this colony, and a tender of the same may be pleaded in bar to any action brought for the recovery of any money, or species of money, due by deed or simple contract, or in any way or manner whatever. And all justices, sheriffs, grand jurors and tythingmen, are hereby strictly enjoined and commanded to bring to justice all persons offending against this act, or any part of it," —

Be it therefore enacted by the Council and House of Representatives in General Court assembled, and by the authority of the same, Repealing certain clauses.

[Sect. 1.] That all and every part of the clauses before recited be and hereby are repealed and made null and void.

And whereas it has happened that the paper bills of credit of the United States, and of this state, have been, from time to time, since the first day of January, in the year of our Lord one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven, depreciating, so that it is become necessary, in order that justice may be done to debtors and creditors in this state, that a scale of such depreciation may be formed, as nearly as possible, to the real depreciation, from time to time, —

Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Scale of depreciation for the payment of moneys.

[Sect. 2.] That the following scale shall be the rule, in all courts of law within this state, for settling the rate of depreciation on all contracts, public or private, for the payment of monies, made on or since the said first day of January; and that all contracts, public or private, made before the said first day of January, shall be considered alike, and as having been made before any depreciation had taken place: —

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

In all cases where executors, etc., have received bills be discharged.

[SECT. 3.] That, in all cases where executors, administrators, guardians, agents, attornies, or those who have received monies for others, in trust, have received the bills of credit aforesaid in their aforesaid capacities, for others, that,* upon payment of the same monies, or on the assignment of such securities as they have taken for the same (or such other bills of credit as they may, for the benefit of those for whom they have acted, have exchanged for the bills they received as aforesaid), be discharged from any demands of those for whom they have so acted; and the judges of probate are hereby directed to settle the accounts of executors, administrators and guardians, accordingly, on their oath, without allowing any depreciation on the bills of credit aforesaid: and on such bills of credit or securities being produced in any court of law (by any agent or attorney, or person who has received money for others, in trust, on any actions brought by their principals against them), and ready to be delivered or assigned over, as aforesaid, such agent or attorney, being † to be examined on oath, in such court, touching the same, shall be discharged of so much as they shall deliver in, or assign over, without any depreciation allowed against them in such cases.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

The calculation to have reference to the first day of each month, respectively.

[Sect. 4.] That the calculation in the foregoing scale shall be considered as having refer[r]ence to the first day of each month, respectively, and the bills of credit aforesaid shall be considered as having depreciated in regular and equal degrees from the first day of each month.

Provided, nevertheless, —

Proviso.

[Sect. 5.] That the bills of credit heretofore emitted by the United States shall remain a legal tender, at the nominal value, to answer all debts due from the inhabitants of this state to their creditors in other states, until[l] such time as the state or states in which such creditors belong shall make sim[u][i]lar laws to promote equal justice.

Whereas sundry persons disaffected to the United States, and some others who have been lost to virtue and the general good of said states, have utterly refused taking the bills of credit of the United States, for their debts, notwithstanding legal tenders have been made for discharging the same, whereby debtors in many cases may be subjected to great injustice if no provision is made for their relief, —

Be it therefore enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Persons who have tendered the bills of the United States, judgment to be given for the nominal sum of the present current money.

[Sect. 6.] That where any person has made a tender, in bills of credit of this or the United States, for the discharge of any debt, and the creditor has refused to receive the same, and shall hereafter bring his action for said debt, in all such cases the justices of the superio[u]r court of judicature, &c., and the justices of the several inferio[u]r courts, be, and they hereby are, [i][e]mpowered and directed, respectively, in all and every such case that shall come before them, to give judgment thereon for the nominal sum, of the present current money of the United States (or a sum equal thereto, in the bills of credit emitted by this government agreeably to an act of Congress of the eighteenth March last), in case the tender was made previous to the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven; but in case the tender was made at any time since the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven, or, at any time, to executors, administrators, agents, attornies, or to any other persons acting in trust, the justices of the court before whom such cause may be, shall direct the same to be heard, and finally determined, by refer[r]ence thereof to indifferent persons mutually chosen by the contending parties; and in case they, or their attornies, shall neglect or refuse to appoint such referrees, the said justices are authorised to appoint three indifferent persons, freeholders within the county where such cause shall be tried, which said referrees, so chosen or appointed, shall hear and finally determine such cause as to them shall appear just and equitable, taking into consideration all the circumstances thereof.

In case.

And whereas contentions and disputes may arise between creditors and debtors, relative to any payments that may have been made towards the discharge of any contract made for the payment of money; to prevent the same, —

Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

Payments towards the discharge of any debt, etc.,

[Sect. 7.] That all payments which have been made towards the discharge of any debt or contract, public or private, and which have been, by the creditor, acknowledged, either by indors[e]ment, receipt, how to be reckoned.

or discharge, in writing, on account, the sum so paid shall be reckoned to the credit of the debtor, as so much paid in discharge of the same (where there has been, between creditor and debtor, no agreement to the contrary), without any deduction from the sum so paid in consideration of the depreciation of money.

And whereas, in some instances, since the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven, accounts and book-debts may have been charged at the rate of the real value in gold or silver, without taking into consideration any depreciation, —

Be it further enacted,

When disputes shall arise, to be determined by referees.

[SECT. 8.] That where any dispute shall arise between debtor and creditor, with respect to any such accounts or book-debts, all suits arising on such disputes and contentions shall be determined by referrees, chosen and appointed as before directed with regard to tenders of money as aforesaid; but in all suits brought for the recovery of accounts or book-debts contracted since the said first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-seven, where it is not alledged that such accounts or book-debts were charged at the rate of the real value in gold or silver, all such accounts and book-debts shall be discharged agreeable to the scale of depreciation in this act established.

Be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

No execution to be issued where judgments have been made up, until the expiration of six months. Proviso.

[SECT. 9.] That in all cases where judg[e]ment shall be made up agreeable to the scale of depreciation herein contained, no execution shall be issued until the expiration of six months after the passing this act: provided, that all attachments made shall be held good and valid, to answer the execution on judgment, at any time within seven months after the passing this act; any law to the contrary notwithstanding. [Passed September 29.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 2.] That the treasurer do forthwith send his warrants, directed to the selectmen or assessors of each town or other place, within this state, that are taxed, requiring them, respectively, to assess the sum hereby set upon such town or other place, in manner following; that is to say, to assess all the male polls above the age of sixteen years, within their respective towns or other place next adjoining to them, belonging to no other town or place, including negroes and mul[l]attoes (and such of them as are under the government of a master or a mistress, to be taxed to the said master or mistress, respectively, in the same manner as minors and apprentices are taxed), twenty pounds; and to assess the remainder of the sum set to each town (after deducting the amount of the sum assessed on the polls as aforesaid) on the inhabitants of said town or place as aforesaid, according to the just value of the whole real estate by each inhabitant of such town or place, respectively, possessed in his own right, or in the right of others, lying within said town or place, improved or not improved; and on the non-residents possessors of real estate lying within said town or place, in their own right, or the right of others, improved or not improved: saving all agreements between landlords and tenants, and where no agreement is, the landlord to reimburse one-half of the tax; and also on the inhabitants of such town or place, according to the proportion of the amount and just value of their whole personal estate, including money at interest more than they pay interest for, debts due to them, not on interest, more than they are indebted, monies of all kind on hand, and also the amount of the just value of all goods, wares and merchandize, stock in trade, vessels of all sorts, with their stores, appurtenances and appendages, plate, horses, oxen, and cattle of all sorts and ages, sheep, goats, swine, and grain of all sorts, and all produce of the land, and all other property whatsoever excepting household furniture, wearing apparel, farming utensils (and the tools of mechanicks), on the fifteenth day of October, one thousand seven hundred and eighty; and the current price of the real and personal estate on the said fifteenth day of October, before mentioned, in the currency of the United States, shall be considered as the just value of the same; and on the amount of their income from any profession, faculty, handicraft, trade or employment: and also on the amount of all incomes and profits gain[e]'d by trading by sea and on shore, and by means of advantages arising from the war, and the necessities of the community, — and in considering the incomes and profits last mentioned, the assessors are to have special regard to the way and manner in which the same have been made, as well as the quantum thereof, and to assess them at such rate, as they on their oaths, shall judge to be just and reasonable: provided, they do not in any case assess such incomes and profits at more than ten times the sums of the same amount in other kind of estates: and the treasurer in his [said] warrant, shall likewise require the assessors to make a fair list of said assessments, setting forth, in distinct columns, against each person's name, how much he or she is assessed at for polls, and how much for real estate, and how much for personal estate, as aforesaid; and if as a guardian, or for any estate in his or her improvement, in trust, to be distinctly expressed; and shall also insert upon their rate-bills the number of acres of unimproved land[s] which they have taxed to each of the non-residents proprietors of land within the respective towns, and also the value at which they have estimated the same; and the list or lists so perfected, and signed by them, or the major part of them, to commit to the collector or collectors, constable or constables, of any such town[s] or place, and to return a certificate of the name or names of collector or collectors, constable or constables, with the sum total to each of them committed, unto himself, some time before the fifteenth day of November next; and the collectors or constables shall specify in the receipt which shall be by them given, for any tax, on any such unimproved land, belonging to non-resident proprietors, the number of acres on which the tax is laid, and what proportion thereof is for state, what proportion for town, and what proportion for county, tax.

[SECT. 3.] And the treasurer for the time being, on the receipt of such certificate, is hereby impowered and ordered to issue forth his warrants to the collector or collectors, constable or constables, of such town or place, requiring him or them, respectively, to collect the whole of the respective sums assessed on each particular person, and to pay in their collections to the treasurer, aforesaid, in manner following; that is to say, one moiety thereof on or before the fifteenth day of December next, and the remaining moiety thereof on or before the fifteenth day of March next.

[Sect. 4.] That the following persons, viz[t]., the president, fellows, professors, tutors, librarian and students of Harvard College, who have their usual residence there, and settled ministers of the gospel, and grammar-school masters, are not to be assessed for their polls or their estate, unless their real estate be not under their actual management and improvement, or not in the towns where they are settled; and also all persons who have the management and improvement of estate of Harvard College, are not to be assessed for the same; and if there be any other persons who, through age, infirmity or poverty, are unable to pay as others towards the public[k] charges, or any widow or orphans, who, depending on the interest of their money for subsistence, are, by the state of the currency, so reduced as that in the judg[e]ment of the assessors they ought to be relieved in their taxes; in such case the assessors may exempt their polls or estate, or abate any part of what they are l[s]et at, as they on their oaths shall think just and equitable.

[Sect. 5.] And the justices in their sessions, in their respective counties assembled, in granting a county tax or assessment, are hereby ordered and directed to apportion the same on the several towns, and other places in such county, in proportion to this tax; and the assessors in each town in this state are also directed, in making a town or county tax or assessment, to govern themselves by the same rule. And where no person appears to discharge the tax on non-resident proprietors' unimproved land, to the collector, he shall publish, in Gill's "Continental Journal and Weekly Adverti[z][s]er", and that only, three weeks successively, the names of all such proprietors, where they are known, with the sum of the tax assessed on their land, respectively, and also the time and place of sale; and where they are not known, he shall, in the same manner, publish the sum of the taxes on the several rights and divisions, together with the time and place of sale, and in each case shall post the same in some public[k] place in the town where the said land lays, for the term of one month; and if no person shall appear thereupon to discharge said tax, then the constable or collector shall proceed to sell at public sale, to the highest bidder, so much only of said unimproved land as will be sufficient to discharge said taxes with the necessary intervening charges, and shall have power to adjourn, from day to day, if necessary, to compleat the sale, not to exceed three days, and shall give and execute a good deed to the purchaser, expressing thereon the cause of such sale, and saving to the aforesaid proprietor or proprietors, the right of redemption of any lands so sold, at any time within three years from the time of sale; and the same shall be conveyed to him or them on paying, within three years, as aforesaid, the sum such land sold for, and twelve per cent annual interest on said sum, together with all necessary intervening charges thereon.

And be it further enacted,

[Sect. 6.] That no purchaser of such land shall cut down any trees or timbers, or commit strip or waste thereon, until the three years, the time of redemption as aforesaid, shall expire.

Be it further enacted,

[SECT. 7.] That the several officers and soldiers that may be in the army on the fifteenth day of October next, shall be considered as resident in the several towns and places to which they belonged at the time of their engaging in the army, their absence notwithstanding; and the assessors of the several towns and other places in this state, shall consider such officers and soldiers as resident in such town or place, and shall tax them accordingly: provided, that such as are engaged in the Continental Army for the term of three years, or during the war, be, and they hereby are, exempted from their poll tax.

And be it further enacted,

[SECT. 8.] That the assessors of each town or other place, respectively, in convenient time before making the assessment, shall give seasonable warning to the inhabitants, in any town meeting, or by posting up notifications in some public[k] place or places in such town or other place, or notify the inhabitants some other way, to make and bring in to the assessors true and perfect lists of their polls, and of all their real and personal estates, lands and all real estate whether improved or not improved, — to the assessors of the town and place where such houses and lands and other real estates lay; distinguishing those in the management and possession of some other person, as also a list of all their personal estate, including money at interest more than they pay interest for, debts due, not on interest, more than they are indebted, and monies of all kinds, in hand; and also the amount of the just value of all goods, wares, merchandize, stock in trade, plate, horses, oxen, cattle of all sorts and ages, sheep, goats, swine, grain of all sorts, and all kind of produce of the lands, and of all other property whatsoever (excepting household furniture, wearing apparel, farming utensils and the tools of mechanicks), on the said fifteenth day of October; according to the current price of such real and personal estate in the currency of the United States, on the said fifteenth day of October; and also the amount of their incomes from any profession, faculty, handicraft, trade or employment, and of the amount of all incomes and profits gained by trading by sea [or][and] on shore, and by means of advantages arising from the war, and the necessities of the community; all which they are to render to the assessors, on oath, if required; which oath the said assessors are hereby impowered to administer. And if any person or persons shall, upon such notice given, neglect or refuse to give in to the assessors the list of their polls and rateable estates according to the description thereof before given, which they w[h]ere possessed of on the fifteenth day of October, [or] shall bring a list which the assessors are, in their judgment convinced is a false one, it shall be lawful to and for the assessors, and they are hereby directed, to assess such person or persons, according to the best judg[e]ment and estimation they can form of the real and personal estate of the said person, according to the description before given. And if any person or persons shall not bring in a list of their estates as aforesaid to the assessors, he or they so neglecting or refusing shall not be admitted to make application to the court of general sessions, for any abatement of the assessment laid on him or them.

[SECT. 9.] And if the assessors are not, in their judg[e]ment, convinced of any falsehood in the list, to them presented of the[ir] polls and real and personal estate, such list, shall be a rule of that person's proportion to the tax who presented the same, which the assessors may not exceed.

Provided nevertheless, —

[Sect. 10.] That nothing in this act shall be construed to extend so as to require any assessors to assess any person for any estate, real or personal, in his possession (absentees' estates excepted), that is the property of the United States, or any of them.

Provided also, —

[Sect. 11.] That nothing in this act contained shall be construed to prevent any non-resident proprietors of unimproved lands within any town or plantation in this state from making application to the court of general sessions of the peace, for any abatement of the assessment laid on his or their lands in the same manner they might have done if they had given in a list of their rateable estate to the assessors of such town or plantation, any law of this state to the contrary, notwithstanding.

Whereas there are, within this state, several tracts of unimproved land belonging to persons who have left the same and gone over to the enemy, and no provison has been made by the government of the same for the payment of the taxes, otherwise than by the sale of such land, which may be attended with great loss to the state; for the prevent[ing][ion] of which, —

Be it enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 12.] That all constables and collectors of taxes be, and they hereby are, directed to stay the sale of all such lands until a further order of the general court be taken thereon.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 13.] That the treasurer of this state be, and he hereby is, impowered and directed to allow or pay to such constables or collectors, the amount, in their respective lists, of the taxes on such unimproved lands, on a certificate from the major part of the assessors who made such tax, being produced, setting forth the sum taxed in any list exhibited, on said unimproved lands, and to keep an account of all monies by him so allowed or paid.

And whereas doubts have arisen respecting the true intent and meaning of the word "inhabitant" in some former tax acts, —

Be it [therefore] [further] enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 14.] That all male persons sixteen years old and upwards, residing and usually doing business in any town within this state, shall be considered within the true intent and meaning of this act, and the assessors are directed to proceed to assess them for their trade and faculties, exercised there, and also for their polls, if not taxed for their polls elsewhere.

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 15.] That each town in this state, which shall appear, upon the settlement of the next valuation, to have paid more than their proportion since the settlement of the last valuation, shall be allowed what they have so overpaid, in the next tax, after the said next valuation is settled.

Provided nevertheless, —

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[Sect. 16.] That the collectors or constables be and hereby are authori[z][s]ed and impowered to receive one dollar in specie, or one dollar of the bills emitted by this state by an act passed the fifth day of May, A. D. one thousand seven hundred and eighty, for carrying into execution the resolve of Congress of the eighteenth of March, 1780, in lieu of forty dollars of the Continental bills now in circulation; 1779-80, chap. 40 and the treasurer of this state shall receive of the said constables or collectors, the specie or the new bills at the rate aforesaid.

Provided nevertheless, —

And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

[SECT. 17.] That where any town, district, persons or lands, have been set off since the taking of the last valuation and are not particularly mentioned and assessed in this act,* shall be taxed by the towns from which said towns, districts, persons and lands have been set off, their equal proportion, any law of this state to the contrary, notwithstanding. [Passed September 30.

NOTES. — The two sessions of the Assembly in which the foregoing acts were passed, and both of which were held in Boston, constituted the last General Court that was convened before the adoption of the Constitution of the Commonwealth. The former session began May 31st, and continued until June 24th, when the Court was prorogued to August 2d, and, by subsequent proclamations, to September 7th, which was the first day of the second session. The second session was likewise ended by a prorogation, from the fourth to the eighteenth of October. On the thirteenth of October, the Assembly was again prorogued, by proclamation, to the twenty-fourth; and it was dissolved, by proclamation, on the twenty-third of October, — two days before the assembling of the "General Court of Massachusetts," under the Constitution.

All the acts of this year were printed, — the tax acts, chapters 9 and 16, being printed separately. The engrossments, upon paper, of all these acts, are preserved, except of chapter 14; and all bear the signatures of fifteen, or more, of the Council, except chapters 3 and 9 (each of which was signed by fourteen, only,) and chapter 15, which was signed by twelve councillors.

Chap. 1. The necessity of repairing the highways through the "Green Woods," in western Massachusetts, in order to facilitate the transportation of military supplies, seems to have been first brought to the attention of the Legislature by General Heath, in the following letter to the Council: —

"Head Quarters Boston Sept^r 4, 1777 —

Gentlemen I am informed by General Fellows that the Roads through the Green Woods in the Western parts of this State, through the almost constant passing & repassing of carriages to & from the northern Army with provisions and Military Stores is rendered almost impasable, and unless repaired before the wet Season sets in, will become entirely so, with loaded Teams, I would beg leave to recommend to your Honors consideration the repairing thereof in such way as to you in your wisdom may appear most eligable

I have the honor to be very respectfully Your Obt Servt

Thereupon, the following resolves were passed: —

"State of Massachusetts of Bay In the House of Representatives Sept^r 17th 1777

Early in the ensuing spring, further provision was made for continuing the work of repairing these roads, by the following resolve §: —

"In the House of Representatives March 2^d 1778

Two years later, the public thoroughfare from Tyringham to Blandford being still in bad condition, the following memorial was prepared in the interest of those upon whom devolved, by law, the onerous duty of keeping it in repair: —

"To the Honorable the Council and House of Representatives of the State of the Massachusetts Bay in general Court assembled:

Humbly shew the Subscribers, Inhabitants of the County of Berkshire and others, that the publick Road, leading from Westfield, through that rough and but little cultivated Tract of Land, well known by the same of the Green Woods, to Great Barrington is almost impassable for want of Reparation; That the Exigencies of the War, the Situation of our Continental Army on Hudson's River and the present State of our foreign Trade render it necessary that a very great Part of the Supplies of Provision and other public Stores for the use of the Army and much private Property of the Inhabitants of the State of New York and Part of this State consisting of foreign Commodities as well as Provisions of flour and other Necessaries remitted to Boston and other Sea Ports within this State should be transported there, — whereby a prodigious additional Expence is incured as well to the Continent as to Individuals, in Teams and Carriages; great and heavy Losses are sustained by the oversetting of Carts and other Carriages, dashing in Pieces of Casks and other Vessels, occasioning the great Damage or total Destruction of their valuable Contents; and as the Expence of repairing said Road so as to make the same feasible would greatly exceed the Abilities of those People who live near, & who alone are by Law obliged to repair the same, your Petitioners are of Opinion that should your Honors grant a Lottery for the Purpose of raising a sufficient Sum of Money for repairing said Road, a sufficient Number of People, from a true Spirit of Patriotism, conscious of the Utility of the Measure would speedily and cheerfully contribute a Sum adequate to this important Purpose

Wherefore your Petitioners pray your Honors to grant a Lottery for raising the Sum of Forty Thousand Pounds, or such other Sum as may be Judged necessary and that Managers may be appointed to conduct the same, and also a suitable Committee, whose Business it shall be, faithfully to dispose of the Money so raised, in repairing the public Road, from the Town of Tyringham in said County of Berkshire, to the Crotch of the Roads near Blandford Meeting House in the County of Hampshire, or that your Honors would adopt some more eligible Method of repairing said Road as in your Wisdom may seem best — and as they ought will ever pray.

This memorial was read, in the House, June 1, 1780, and committed to Messrs. Dench, Kollock and Sears, who, on the next day, reported a resolve * which was passed, as follows: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representitives June 2d 1780

on the Petition of William Whiting and others Praying for a grant of a Lottery for Mending & Repairing of the High way through the Green woods so called in the Countys of Hampshire & Berksheir —

Accordingly, a bill for raising, by lottery, for the purpose indicated in the resolve, a sum not exceeding £100,000, "with a deduction of twenty per cent upon the amount of the tickets when sold," was read a first time, in the House, on the 3d of June, and, on the 5th, was committed to Messrs. Orne, Goodman and Bonney, who reported it back, apparently with an amendment adding to the description of the roads to be repaired, all the roads mentioned in the act, after the road from Brewer's, to the crotch near Blandford meeting-house. By this amendment, also, the sum to be expended was appropriated as follows: £40,000 upon the south road, £25,000 upon the middle road, and £35,000 upon the north road. This amended bill was read a first time, in the House, and recommitted, on the 5th. On the 7th, it was read a second time, apparently in a new draught corresponding with the act, and on the 8th, it was read a third time, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. In the Council, it was read a first time, on the 8th; and was passed, on the 9th, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with four amendments, by which it was proposed to expend the whole of the $200,000 to be raised by the lottery, in repairing the south and north roads,— $140,000 upon the former, and the remainder upon the latter. The House, on the 9th, having refused to concur in these amendments, a committee of conference was appointed, the next day, consisting of Messrs. Easton and Hunt, of the House, and Thomas Cushing and Timothy Danielson, of the Council. On the 12th, the House still refusing to concur in the proposed amendments, and having voted to adhere to their own vote, the Council ceased to press the amendments, and voted to concur in the bill; and, on the 14th, it was passed to be enacted.

* Printed resolves of the May session, chapter I.

Soon after this chapter was enacted, an effort was made to procure its repeal, as shown by the following petition, in which the reasons for this proceeding are given: —

"To The Honble the Council & House of Representatives of Massachusetts Bay.

The subscribers, humbly shew — that By an Act of the great & Genl Court passed the last session thereof, provision was made, for the purpose of raising by Lottery, 200,000 Dollars, to be expended in repairing three several Roards therein mentioned, leading thro' the greenwoods so called. your Petitioners fully convinced of the utility and wisdom of rendering those woods more safely & easily passable (large & valuable Quantities of public property being necessarily transported thro' the same,) are at the same time convinced that the act aforesaid carried into Execution in the manner provided, will be dilatory and inefficatious in its operation; your Petitioners humbly conceive, One Road effectually cleared, will answer every purpose of Advantage to the Community; this will reduce the matter to a single Object, it will prevent all Disputes naturally arising from diferent Views, Interests & Judgments in the Managers, the Inconveniences resulting from which Causes, must otherwise be obviously apparent. your Petitioners therefore humbly pray that the Act aforesaid may be repealed, and that such Provision may be made for repairing the Road leading from Westfield in the County of Hampshire, thro' Blanford in the same County, to Great Barrington in the County of Berkshire, as to your Honors in your great Wisdom shall seem meet.— And as in Duty bound shall pray.

Simultaneously with this movement, a majority of the persons named in the act as managers of the lottery, declined to accept the trust, in the following memorial, in which they give their reasons for so doing: —

"To The Honble the Council and House of Representatives of Massachusetts-Bay.

Theodore Sedgwick, Jahleel Woodbridge and John Sibley humbly shew,

That by an Act of the great and General Court (passed in the last session thereof) they together with Colo James Easton & Captn Asa Barns, were appointed Managers of a Lottery for the purpose of raising 200,000 Dollars, for the Reperation of the Roads leading thro' the green woods: They feel themselves necessitated to decline the Execution of the Trust reposed in them for the following Reasons, viz: —

Because they think, nothing, but the most urgent necessity, to effect a purpose, of public Utility, can justify, the raising money by Lottery: with respect to one of the Roads, mentioned in said Act, viz: that leading from Westfield to Great Barrington, they conceive, this to be the Case; but they are not sufficiently acquainted, with the other roads in said Act mentioned; to enable them, to form such a Judgment as will justify to their own feelings their actively carrying into Effect, all the purposes of the act aforesaid.

Because, they are humbly of Opinion, that it is of great Importance to the public, that the Reparation, of the Road first aforesaid, should be effected, as soon as possible, and that unavoidable Delays, will result, from a Division, of the Objects of the Lottery.

Because, they think, that should one Road, leading thro that Country, be cleared, every necessary public Intention would thereby be answered: Lotteries are a Burden on the Community — at a time when the Demands of the Country require, that every expensive Exertion, should be pointed to one grand object, they think, that a Diversion from this, to an Object in Comparison thereof, of little consequence cannot be justified: And finally,

Because, that the aforesaid Colonel Easton and Captn Barns living in a part of the Country, which would receive Benifit, from the Reparation of the north Road, in said act mentioned, (which in the Opinion of the Legislature was not of the first Importance,) the Bias of self Interest, so prevalent in the human Heart, will probably, induce them, to give that road an undesserved Preference; indeed should your Honors be of Opinion, that, that road ought to be repaired in the way provided, the subscribers humbly conceive, that the managers ought to be appointed in such manner that no Division of Interest will result from their local Situation.

These Reasons the subscribers thought themselves in duty bound to suggest to your Honor's Consideration, to which they have nothing to add but an Assurance of the respect & Subjection, with which they, have the Honor to be, Your Honor's, most Obedient & respectful Servants

The above memorial and petition were read, in the House, Sept. 14, 1780, and committed to Messrs. Kollock, Foster and Perry of Easton,— Kollock having been appointed in place of Capt. On the 23d, this committee reported, "that no alteration be made in the act for granting said lottery"; which report having been accepted, a day was assigned for the choice of three managers to take the place of the three who had declined to act. Chap. 2. From time to time, before the Revolution, sundry inhabitants of the north part of Stoughton, with their estates, were annexed to one of the precincts of Dedham, and some of them were originally incorporated in the second precinct of the latter town, on account of the comparative nearness of the meeting-house and public schools of Dedham.

For a similar reason Nathaniel Sumner, Esq., as early as 1770, presented a petition to the town of Stoughton, to be set off to Dedham, with his lands; and at a town meeting, held on the 19th of March, that year, this application was referred to a committee of three persons, "to view and to enquire into the circumstances of" this "petition, and make report at the next meeting." In the mean time, the inhabitants of the district of Stoughtonham met and chose a committee "to consult and advise" with the committee of Stoughton with reference to Sumner's petition, and to report at an adjourned meeting on the 16th of April. At a town meeting, held on the 24th of May, following, a majority of the committee of Stoughton reported that, "upon y^e^ whole we think not benefishal to y^e^ Town of Stoughton to Sett of to Dedham y^e^ Lands Petitioned for by s^d^ Sumner Looking upon y^e^ Request to be vastly Deteramental to s^d^ Town of Stoughton if we should so do therefore we are of y^e^ opinion not to set of s^d^ Lands"* The inhabitants at the same meeting voted, first, to accept the report, and then, to reconsider this vote, and to continue, to the next meeting, the consideration of the article in the warrant, respecting the above report.

No further action by the town, on the above-mentioned petition, has been discovered, and Mr. Sumner seems to have made no further effort to be set off to Dedham until ten years later, when, upon his application to the town, another committee of three, was appointed, at the town meeting held on the 6th of March, to take his request into conideration. This committee made the following report, at a town meeting held May 24, 1780: —

"The committe on y^e^ Request of Nath^l^ Sumner Esq^r^ Having attended that Service Report as followeth (viz) your committe are of Opinion that his upland Lott in Stoughton be Set off to Dedham, but it is with grate Reluctance for us to Report to have his meadow and meadow Bottom Sett to s^d^ Dedham but by Reason of its Joining on his upland Lott & being on the westerly end of Pigeon Swomp & being allmost Surounded by his up land, Except on one Side, therefore your committe are of y^e^ mind that the s^d^ Meadow & meadow Bottom in s^d^ Pigeon Swomp togather with his up land, and the Inhabitants thereon in Stoughton on the westerly side of the Line hereafter Mentioned be Sett or annexed to the Town of Dedham There to Do Duty & Receive Priveledge (viz) Begining at the Easterly cornor of his upland Lott & Runing Northwesterly Between his Pigeon Swomp Lott & the Rest of s^d^ Swomp a Straight Line till it comes to traphole Brook or Dedham Line all which is Submitted by your committe —

Stoughton-may y^e^ 8^th^ 1780 PETER TALBOT
BENJAMIN GILL." — Mass. Files: House, no. 628.

At the same meeting, the inhabitants accepted this report. The inhabitants of Dedham, also, signified, by a vote, of which the following certified copy is preserved, their consent that the persons and land so set off, be annexed to their town: —

"Dedham May 30^th^ 1780. At a Meeting of the Town of Dedham legally Assembled s^d^ Town Voted — To accept of the Lands of Nath^ll^ Sumner Esqr as set off by a Vote of the Town of Stoughton with the Inhabit^s^ thereon and the places of their habitations as described in s^d^ Vote —

The following petition was thereupon presented to the General Court, for confirmation of these proceedings: —

"State of y^e^ Massachusetts Bay } To the Honorable the Councel, & to y^e^ Honorable House of Representatives of the State of the Massachusetts in General Court Assembled on the 31^st^ Day of May *A*D: 1780 at Boston —

The Petition of Nath^ll^ Summer of Dedham, & George Sumner & Ebenezer Sumner of Stoughton humbly sheweth That the Town of Stoughton at a Meeting of the Freholders and other Inhabitants of s^d^ Town legally assembled on Wednesday y^e^ 24^th^ Day of May *A*D 1780 did pass a Vote to sett off from s^d^ Town to y^e^ Town of Dedham s^d^ George & Ebenezer with such Part of the Homstead Lands of your Petitioners, that lies within the Line of s^d^ Stoughton Viz part of the fifteenth Lot in the 12 Divisions of Land, (so called) and the 40^th^ Lot in Pigeon Swamp adjoining thereto. And whereas the Town of Dedham at a Meeting of the Freeholders & other Inhabit^s^ of s^d^ Town on the 30^th^ day of s^d^ May, Voted to accept s^d^ Lands with s^d^ Persons & Families dwelling thereon, Attested Coppies of s^d^ Votes being herewith transmitted. And as your Petitioners, by reason of their distant Scituation from y^e^ Place of publick Worship & Schools in s^d^ Stoughton, it being five Miles from the nearest Meeting House and two Miles & half from the nearest Inhabitant of s^d^ Town, are cut off from enjoying the Priveleges of s^d^ Town in common with others: but may much more advantagiously, do Duty and enjoy Privelege in the Town of Dedham as s^d^ Persons & Lands lie in the Neighbourhood of Dedham and but two Miles from a Meeting House in s^d^ Town — Therefore the Prayer of this Petition is that the honorable Court would Please to set off s^d^ Lands with the Families thereon from the Town of Stoughton and Annex them to y^e^ Town of Dedham, agreable to the Vote of s^d^ Town of Stoughton — there to do Duty & recieve Privelege —

This petition was read in the House, June 2d, and a vote was thereupon passed, that the prayer thereof be granted, and "that the petitioners have leave to bring in a bill, accordingly."

The bill of this chapter had its three readings, in the House, on the 10th, 12th, and 15th, of June, respectively, when it was passed to be engrossed, and was sent up to the Council, for concurrence, and was there passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, on the day last named. On the 17th, it was passed to be enacted, in both branches, and was signed by sixteen councillors.

Thereupon, the following petition to the Legislature was read in the House, Jan. 29, 1779, and forthwith committed to Messrs. Knowlton, Pynchon and Whitney: —

"State of the To The Honorable Council & House of Representatives

The above committee reported, on the same day, a resolve that the prayer of the petition be granted, and that the petitioners, "with their lands, as far west as the west line of the said town of Winchendon, be annexed thereto; they paying their proportionable part of the taxes set upon the town of Royalston before the date of this resolve." Upon reading this resolve, an order was passed, "that the petitioners have leave to bring in a bill for that purpose."

No further legislative proceedings upon the subject-matter of the above petition have been discovered, until Nov. 29, 1779, when the petition was again read, in the House, and committed to Messrs. Parks, Whitney and Fessenden, who, on the 7th of December, reported a resolve granting the prayer of the petitioners, and giving them leave to bring in a bill, as before. The General Court was adjourned on the day this report was made, and no action appears to have been had thereon, in the Council, until April 25, 1780, when a vote of concurrence was passed by the Board. Owing to the loss of the journal of the House, after this date, the further action of the House during this session, has not been ascertained, but a memorandum on the bill, apparently in the handwriting of the clerk, indicates that it was then referred to the next sitting."

On the 3d of June, 1780, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, and, on the 9th and 10th, respectively, it was read a second and a third time, when it was passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. On the 13th, it was passed to be engrossed, in concurrence, by the Council, and, on the 17th, it was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fourteen of the Council, though fifteen is the number stated in the record.

Chap. 4. In the notes to the acts of 1779-80, chapters 7, 13 and 15, some account is given of the expedients resorted to by the Legislature of Massachusetts to prevent the effects of the depreciation of the currency. A disposition to comply with the recommendation of Congress, of Aug. 25, 1779,* to remove all restrictions on inter-state trade, was manifested in the report of the joint committee appointed Sept. 9, 1779,† in which the plan proposed by the convention at Concord, was recommended, as more effectual than embargoes, to prevent the inflation of prices. Notwithstanding the concurrent recommendations of the convention at Concord, of Congress, and of the above committee, chapter 13 was passed in less than two weeks after this committee had reported, and was followed, on the 6th of October, by the enactment of chapter fifteen.

The recommendation of the convention at Hartford,‡ Oct. 28, 1779, reënforced by the approval of Congress in the resolves of November 19th,§ seems to have encouraged the opponents of this restrictive policy, in the Massachusetts Legislature, to propose the total abrogation of the embargo acts. The resolves of Congress last referred to, which had been received and read in Council, on the 7th of December, were read in the House, on the 16th, and then referred to a joint committee, as has been already narrated.‖ On the same day, a bill to repeal both chapters 13 and 15, of the previous year, was introduced in the House.

The preamble of this bill, which was read a first time, in the House, December 16th, declared that the reason for passing the embargo acts had ceased, "by the failing of the measures which have been lately taken for regulating the prices of the necessaries of life, within this State." This was followed by a section repealing both the chapters above named, "so far as they affect any state which has not any act in force to prevent the exportation of the necessaries of life therefrom into this state." By another section it was provided that when any state, having in force any act to prevent the exportation, to this state, of the necessaries of life, should repeal the same, the two chapters aforesaid should "cease to operate with respect to such state."

On the 18th of December, 1779, this bill was read a second time, and ordered to be "recommitted." Endorsed on the original bill, still on file, are the names of Messrs. Pickering, Tudor and Walley (evidently in the handwriting of the clerk of the House); and these persons, probably, constituted the committee to whom the bill was thus referred. By the record, this bill seems to have been read a third time, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence, on the 21st, though the date given in a memorandum minuted on the bill, by the clerk, is the 22d, on which day it was read, a first time, in the Council, and nonconcurred; whereupon, a committee of conference was appointed, consisting of Artemas Ward, Thomas Cushing and Samuel Adams, of the Council, and Messrs. Pickering, Warren and Choate, of the House. On the 23d, Mr. Pickering went up with a message from the House, requesting that the act, if the Council had not passed upon it, might be sent down; which was accordingly done.

Further proceedings upon this bill appear to have been suspended in order to allow further efforts to be made to induce Connecticut to concur with Massachusetts in the repeal of their respective embargo acts. Accordingly, Jan. 6, 1780, Samuel Adams and Timothy Danielson, of the Council, and Messrs. Paine, Baldwin, and Davis of Boston, of the House, were appointed a committee, "to take into consideration the expediency of writing a letter," for that purpose, to the state of Connecticut. The letter which was prepared and sent in accordance with this vote, elicited the reply from Governor Trumbull, dated March 10th, which is printed in the note to 1779-80, chapter 13.¶

On the 17th of March, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Dawes and Ammidown, of the House, and Danielson of the Council, appointed to consider a letter, dated March 2d, received from Governor Greene of Rhode Island, reported "that the embargo act, as far as it respects Rhode Island, be repealed." The committee also reported a letter to Governor Greene. None of the papers relating to this correspondence have been found in the archives, but there remains on file a petition of Ellis Gray, not dated, in which he represented that he had in his custody a quantity of merchandise (a schedule of which was endorsed on the petition), belonging to Robert Champlin and Samuel Wickham, "of the island of Rhode Island, which they imported into this state while said island was in possession of the British troops"; that he had received orders since the evacuation of said island, by the owners, who were "known friends to the American cause," to ship the said merchandise to them, — they having returned thither; and that Wickham had "met with heavy loss, by the destruction of his real property in the town of Newport while under the domination of a cruel enemy"; wherefore, finding himself unable to comply with this order, "on account of the embargo act," he prayed that leave might be granted to "Ebenezer Shearman, master of the schooner , to take on board, and clear out, said goods," etc.

"State of Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives March. 13th 1780

Resolved, that the prayer of Said Petition be granted, and the Naval officer for the port of Boston be & he is hereby directed to Clear out for the Island of Rhod Island, on Board the Schooner Luke, Ebenr Shearman Master Ninteen Casks of Nails Two Casks of Mollasses Eighteen barrils & one hogshead Sugar Seven barrils Coffee Eight Teirces Taffier, and one Cask of Rum, on said Gray's Makeing oath that the said articles were Imported Into this State, by Robert Champlin and Samll Wickham of the State of Rhod Island and are there property as Sett forth in his Petition

The passage of the resolves of April 10, 1780,* was the last attempt to lay an embargo on inland traffic; and this was done, professedly, in an emergency which seemed to justify, if not demand, extreme measures.

The bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, on the 7th of June, 1780. It was read a second time on the 8th, and, after debate, the next morning session was assigned, by a vote of seventy-nine to thirty-two, for a third reading of the bill; at which time it was read, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. It was read in the Council, on the 9th and 14th, respectively, when it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, "as taken into a new draught." In the title of this new draught, exactly agreeing with the present chapter, the specific reference to the two acts to be repealed, which the title of the original bill contained, was omitted, and was inserted in the body of the bill. Both the title and the body of the bill, in the new draught, included a reference to the resolve of April 10th, which was wholly omitted in the former draught. On the 15th, the House concurred in the above vote of the Council, and, on the 17th, the bill was passed to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

In the convention which was held in Boston, August 3, 1780, an account of which is given in the note to chapter 16, post, the following resolve was adopted: —

"5th Resolved, That it be recommended to the several States that have Acts laying an Embargo on the Transportation of Articles by Land from one State to another — to Repeal them — as being unnecessary & tending rather to injure, than serve the Common Cause we are engaged to Support and maintain — to Continue Embargo's on Provision by Water, and that particular Care be taken to prevent all illicit Trade with the Enemy." — Ibid., vol. 144, p. 143.

Chap. 5. The bill of this chapter, having passed to be engrossed, in the Council, June 15th, was sent down to the House, for concurrence, and on that day was read a first time. On the next day, it had its second and third readings in the House, and was passed to be engrossed, in concurrence, and on the 19th, was passed to be enacted, by both branches, and signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 6. This chapter was enacted to fulfil the engagement of the Legislature † to appoint six commissioners, on the part of this state, any two of whom were to act in conjunction with such commissioners as had been or should be appointed by Congress to sign and number the bills of credit emitted by virtue of that act.

The following are the resolves of the Continental Congress appointing commissioners on the part of the United States: —

"On motion of Mr. Adams seconded by Mr. Lovell, Resolved, That Nathaniel Appleton and Joseph Henderson, esquires, be appointed commissioners on the part of the United States, either of them to endorse the bills that shall be emitted by the state of Massachusetts-Bay, pursuant to the resolution of Congress of the 18th day of March last." — Journals of Congress: June 29, 1780.

"Resolved, That Thomas Walley and Peter Boyer be appointed, in addition to Nathaniel Appleton and Joseph Henderson, commissioners on the part of the United States, any one of them to endorse the bills that shall be emitted by the state of Massachusetts-Bay, pursuant to the resolution of Congress of the 18th day of March last." ‡ — Ibid: Aug. 29, 1780.

These resolves were communicated by Samuel Huntington, president of Congress, to James Bowdoin, president of the Council, in letters dated, respectively, July 6th, and Aug. 31, 1780.

The bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, June 14th, and was there passed to be engrossed, on the 16th, when it was sent up to the Council, for concurrence. The Council concurred in the vote for engrossment, on the 17th, and the bill was passed to be enacted, on the 19th, and was signed by fifteen councillors.

Chap. 7. The bill of this chapter originated in the Council, where it was read a first time, on the 9th of June, and passed to engrossment and was sent down for concurrence, on the 14th, on which day it was read a first time, in the House. The bill was read, in the House, a second and third time, on the 15th and 16th, respectively, and was thereupon committed to Messrs. Partridge, Lowell and Sedgwick. On the 19th, this committee, having been changed by the substitution of Messrs. Sargeant, and Brown of Watertown, for Messrs. Lowell and Partridge, who were absent, reported the bill back with a proposed amendment striking out, from the preamble, the title of 1779-80, chapter 7, which was one of the acts embraced in the bill as originally drawn. The above report was accepted, and the bill as thus amended was returned to the Council, where it was concurred in. It was passed to be enacted, on the 22d, and was signed by eighteen of the Council.

Two other acts which had been included in the original draught; namely, 1779-80, chapter 15 (which was repealed by chapter 4 of the present year), and 1779-80, chapter 19 (which was continued by chapter 5 of the present year), had been stricken out before the bill came down from the Council.

Chap. 8. In chapter 36 of the acts of 1776-77, and chapter 9 of the acts of 1779-80, and the notes to each, may be found the provisions made by the Legislature to prevent desertion from our own forces. No such measures, however, having been adopted to prevent desertion from the ranks of the allies who were coöperating, or who might coöperate, with the Continental forces, Congress made the following recommendation to the several states, to pass laws to that end: —

‡ See note to 1779-80, chapter 40, pp. 1339 and 1340, ante.

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislatures of these United States to pass laws for the punishment of such persons as shall encourage desertions from the fleets or armies of any foreign power who shall prosecute the war in America in conjunction with these United States, and for recovering such deserters as shall endeavour to conceal themselves among the inhabitants." — Journals of Congress: May 27, 1780.

Accordingly, the bill of this chapter was read twice and passed to be engrossed, in Council, June 22d, and sent down to the House, for concurrence, where, on the same day, it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, and on the next day was passed to be enacted, and was signed by sixteen of the Council, though fifteen is the number of consenting councillors shown by the record.

Chap. 9. This chapter enjoys the distinction of being the first act, since the beginning of the Revolution, laying a tax payable exclusively in silver and gold, or in equivalent merchandise of the kinds designated in the act. It was the first in the series of taxes provided, in sections 10, 12 and 13, of chapter 40 of the previous year, to be levied, annually, for seven years, to secure the punctual redemption of the bills of credit emitted by virtue of that chapter, and for the payment of the interest thereon.

The bill of this chapter was "brought in" to the House, June 12, 1780, by a committee appointed nine days before, consisting of Messrs. Henshaw, Woodbridge and Mattoon,— the first two having been put upon the committee, on the 7th, in place of Messrs. Freeman and Lowell, who were excused from serving. It was read a first time that day, and a second time on the day following, when, after debate, a committee, consisting of Messrs. Orne, Smith, Davis, Osgood and Barnes, was appointed, "to consider what is proper to be done respecting the delivery of such articles as may be received in lieu of hard money, towards the tax of £72,000."

On the day last named, another committee, consisting of Messrs Hastings, Mattoon and Drew, was appointed "to enquire into the tax set on the town of Lanesborough, and report what is proper to be done respecting the same," and also, "to bring in a clause to be inserted in the tax bill, empowering assessors to take advantage of the change of property which may take place between the 18th of May and the time they make their assessments" The loss of the original bill leaves it doubtful what changes were made or proposed by these committees. On the 19th, the bill was passed to be engrossed, and was sent up for concurrence, by a committee of five members, and on the same day it was passed to be enacted, in both branches, and was signed by fourteen (though the record says fifteen) of the Council.

The town of Hancock, in addition to the burden of fines from which, for sufficient cause, it had successfully sought relief, as shown in the note to 1779-80, chapter 30 (p. 1306, ante), and the excessive taxation to which it had been subjected by reason of over-valuation, as shown in the notes to 1779-80, chapter 49 (p. 1388, ante), and chapter 16 of the present year (p. 1462, post), was so unfortunate this year as to fail to receive the necessary warrant from the treasurer, for the collection of its state taxes. Before the requirements of the law in this respect had been complied with, the collector of taxes, chosen at the previous annual town meeting, had adopted religious sentiments which constrained him to decline to serve longer in that capacity. What these views were, does not certainly appear; but it is not unlikely that he had become a follower of Ann Lee, who about that time, had made many converts in that region. The story of this misadventure of the town is told in the following petition: —

"To the Honnourable Council and House of Representatives, for the State of the Massechusetts Bay, to be Conveigned at Boston on the 7th Day of September Instant; —

The Petetion of the Select Men of the Town of Hancock humbly Sheweth; that whereas the Inhabitants of Said Town, at their Annual Meeting in the Month of March last past, did agree with: chuse and appoint, Hezekiah Orsborn of Said Town, to Serve as the only Constable and Collector: of Taxes in the Town for the present Year; as he had Served in that Capacity the Year past, and had not done Collecting; he perceiuing the Inhabitants Extreamly loth to serve in that place; did offer his Service the present Year; for a Certain Stipulated price; as a reward for the Same; the Rate Streaks being delivered him; the Assesors Transmited an account of the Same to the States Treasurer, Desireing him to Send his Warrant to our Sd Constable for the Same; but as the Sum Inserted to the Treasurer, did not agree with the Order he had Sent to the Assesors; he did not See fit to Send his Warrant to the Constable to Collect the Same; the reason the returns from our Assesors did not agree with the Treasurers Order; was the figgures in which the Sum was inserted; was in hast misplaced; and therefore the Constable Still remains without any Warrant, and the Town are now of opinion it is not best he should have any; as he has of late fell into So gross a delusion: in Religeous matters with a number of others in this; and in York State: that they Seem Totally to Deny all Civil Authority; and Rule: and Intirely refuse to giue their Assistance in any Publick way whatever, we have had two Town Meetings on the Acount: one to consult what was best to do in the Case: at which it was Concluded if the States Treasurer, persued the Constable in the legal way, it might terminate to the Dammage of the Town, as the Constable is a man of but Very Small intrest; and has no Bondsman; and for the Town to proceed to appoint another Constable, in his room; when he was nither Dead, nor removed; they thought unwarranable, without a Special Order of Assembly for the purpose; whereupon the Town appointed a Committe to Treat with Sd Orsborn; and See if they could make a Saveing Settlement with him, as he had Collected Some thousands of the State Tax, before he fell into this Distracted way; which remained in his hands, Sd Committe to make returns to the Adjourned meeting for the purpose; and to perswade Orsborn to attend Sd Meeting if in their power; who on the Day appointed did attend, Declareing he could not in Concience proceed any further; to do the Duty of a Constable; even if it cost him what little he had: and his Life with it, but was ready and willing to give up the Monney he had Collected: with the Rate Bills &c: which the Town did not care to take, untill Your Honnours Pleasure might be known respecting the Matter; whereupon the Town passd A Vote, that your Petetioners in Behalf of the Town, by a humble Petetion. Should represent the whole affair to Your Honnours: and beg leave to Suggest to Your Honnours: that it is the Opinion of the Town; that it might be better; (if it be agreable to your Honnours known Wisdom;) that we might have a Special order to Chuse another Constable: and releale Orsborn; than to persue him farther; as we have no Apprehention that his Conduct Originates from any bad Design; Sence from the very beginning of the present war, he has been Esteamed: a faithfull Steady Friend to the Cause of the Country; it is indeed Verry painfull to us, to Consider these unhapy Surcomstances have prevented our earlyer Contribution to publick Use; Especially when our Country Calls So loud; but beseech your Honnours to believe it is more our Misfortune: than our fault: — beging that we may not be Subjected to Penalties; for any Delays; which we could nither foresee, nor prevent; Intreating your Honnours: to take the affair into your Wise Consideration: and do that which in your Great Wisdom Shall Seem Meet, and your Petetioners as in Duty bound will ever Pray.—

The difficulty that was encountered by the assessors of Mendon, in apportioning the tax laid by chapter 49, of the last year (see the note on p. 1386, ante), was not guarded against in the present chapter, by which the tax of Milford was again included in the sum set upon Mendon. The assessors of both towns now united in a petition to the General Court, to apportion the tax. This petition and the resolve passed thereon are given below: —

"To the Honble Genl Assembly of the State of Massachusetts. we yr honrs humble petitioners in behalf of the Towns of Mendon & Milford beg leave to inform yc honble Court that there appears to us such Difficulties for the Town of Mendon To Tax the Town of Milford, as the Tax is not Seperate in the Last Tax Bill passd yc 24th Day of April 1780 † to be paid in Silver & Gold. & we yr humble Petirs have agreed that Milford Should take upon them the Sum of one hundred & sixty six pounds three shilling as their proportion of Said Tax and that the remainder be Set to yc Town of Mendon, and that with Submission to the honble Court, that proportion may be observd untill there Shall be a valuation Settled thro' the whole State —

The following is the resolve referred to in the note to 1779-80, chapter 49, for abating the state tax on the town of Lanesborough. Just when and in what manner this subject was first brought to the attention of the Legislature, has not been discovered. It was first referred to the committee above named, June 13, 1780; and the committee last appointed probably reported the resolve: —

"Common Wealth of Massachusetts In the House of Representatives November 7th 1780

* Whereas it Appears to this Court that the Town of Lanesborough in the County of Berkshire through Mistake Was Taxed more than their proportion by Reason of the Plantations of New Providence and New Ashford being Return'd by Sd Lanesborough in their last valuation And it Appears that Sd Plantations have Ever Since by Sd Valuation been taxed by themselves —

Therefore Resolved that the Town of Lanesboroug be Abated the Sum of Fifteen Thousand Seven Hundred and Ninety Six pounds of the Old Continental Currency and Also the Sum of Seventy five pounds in the Silver money Tax laid on Sd Town and the Treasuror of this Common Wealth be and he is hereby Directed to Discount with the Constable or Constables of the Sd Town of Lanesborough The Aforesaid Sums

Accompanying the foregoing resolve, in the state archives, are certificates of the assessors of Lanesborough for the years 1777 and 1778, showing that in both those years the polls and estates of the towns of New Ashford and New Providence had been included in the assessment of Lanesborough, and that in the former year, there were eighty ratable polls in New Providence, and thirty-seven, in New Ashford, while the combined valuation of those towns then amounted to £21,437 17*s.* As the taxes assessed on Lanesborough, in the present and the preceding tax acts, after Adams (which included the former plantation of New Providence), had been made a separate town, were, relatively, larger than in former years, it is clear that the existing valuation was not a just basis for future assessments; and, since the act for incorporating Adams had provided that the inhabitants should pay their proportionable part of such taxes, only, as had been actually assessed and levied previous to the 10th of April, 1780 (the date of the incorporation), it is equally clear that Lanesborough was entitled to a proportionate abatement of the amount assessed to it, both in this chapter and in 1779-80, chapter 49, no part of which taxes was assessable upon the town of Adams.

For other abatements of taxes imposed by this chapter, see, in the note to 1779-80, chapter 49, the resolve of June 14, 1780,† and in chapter 16, post, the resolve of Nov. 23, 1780, respecting the taxes of the town of Washington; also, in the note last referred to, see the resolves of Oct. 4, 1780, relating to the tax laid on the town of Hancock, and Nov, 7, 1780, relative to the tax laid on the town of Thomaston.

Chap. 10. On comparing the boundary line of the proposed district of Carlisle, as reported by the joint committee of the General Court, appointed upon the petition of John Green and others, with the boundary established by the act incorporating the district,‡ it will be seen that by the former, the farm of Josiah Blood was wholly excluded from the new district, and that by the act (in which the lines on the surveyor's plan were followed), part of this farm fell within the bounds of Carlisle and part remained in Concord. This was evidently an inadvertence on the part of the framers of the bill; and for the correcting this mistake the following petition was presented to the General Court: —

"To the Honble the Councel and House of Representitives of the Massachusetts Bay in General Court Assembled the Petition of Josiah Blood Humbly Sheweth that a Number of the Inhabitants of Concord Chelmsford Bellerica & Acton Prefered a Petition to the Late General Court Praying that they Might be Set off into a Seperate Town Destrict or Parish Agreeable to Bounds Mentioned in Said Petition in Consequence of Said Petition a Committe was appointed to Repair to the Towns Aforesaid and Veiw the Same and Report — and as the Proposed Bounds of the Said Destrict Did Take in a Part of the Farm of your Petitioner Grately to his Damage in the Opinion of the Honble Committe who Did Report that the Bounds Should be So Far Altered as to Leave the Whole of your Petitioner farm to the Town of Concord which Report was Accepted, But was Neglected in the Bill for Incorporation your Petitioner Therefore Humbly Request your Honrs that a Bill May be Brought in Annexing the Whole of his Farm to the Town of Concord and as in Duty Bound shall Ever Pray JOSIAH BLOOD

Concord August ye 12 1780." — Mass. Files: Bills, 1780.

This petition was read, first, in Council, on the first day of the second session (Sept. 7, 1780), and thereupon both branches concurred in a resolve granting leave to the petitioner "to bring in a bill for the purpose mentioned in this petition."

The bill of this chapter was accordingly read, in Council, September 9th, passed to be engrossed, and sent down for concurrence. In the House, it was read a first time, on the 11th, and a second time, on the 12th, when an amendment was proposed by which the words, "in General Court assembled, and by authority of the same," were added to the enacting clause. On the same day, this amendment being concurred in by the Council, the bill was passed through all the subsequent stages, to be enacted, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 11. The district of Stoughtonham, which was made a town by the operation of the general act of 1775-76, chapter 3, was incorporated as a district by the act of 1765-66, chapter 6. It had previously been the second precinct of Stoughton, and was so established by the order of the General Court, of July 2, 1740, accepting the report of a committee, in which the boundaries of the precinct were defined, as shown in the note to the act last above mentioned.

The first attempt by the inhabitants of this territory to be set off from the parent town, that has been discovered, was on the 8th of December, 1738, when Joseph Hewins, Samuel Estey, Daniel Richards, Samuel Bird, and others, presented to the General Court a petition for that purpose, "shewing that they are very inconveniently situated to attend the public worship of God," in the first parish. On this petition, which has not been found in the state archives or elsewhere, notice was ordered to be served on the town of Stoughton. After some disagreement between the two branches, the first Thursday of the next (April) session was fixed as the time for hearing the petitioners. Upon receiving this notice the inhabitants assembled, in town meeting, March 12, 1738-39, and chose a committee, * consisting of Elkanah Billings, Silas Crane and William Crane, to answer the petitioners. It appears from an entry in the town records of Stoughton, under date of May 17, 1739, showing that an account of the expenses of this committee was then allowed and ordered to be paid, that this committee attended the Court, and opposed the petition. On the 19th of April 1739, an order was passed in Council, "that the petition be dismissed," and, on the following day, the House concurred in this order.

On the 14th of June, 1739, the following petition was read in the House, and the petitioners were ordered to serve notice thereof upon the town of Stoughton, returnable on the first Thursday of the next session: —

"To His Excellency Jonathan Belcher Esqr Captain General and Govenour In Chief In & over His Majestes Prouance of ye Massachusets Bay In New England and to the Honourabele His Majesties Counsel and House of Representatives In General Court assembled at Boston on the Eight day of June 1739

On the day appointed for the hearing upon the foregoing petition, it was again read, together with the answer of the town of Stoughton, and on the following day a joint committee was appointed, consisting of Messrs. Bourn, Stoddard and Lynde, of the Council, and Greaves, Buckminster and Jones, of the House, "to take the same under consideration, hear the parties, and make report of what they judge proper for this Court to do thereon." The answer of the town of Stoughton, which was presented by Elkanah Billings, Preserved Lyon and William Sherman, a committee chosen for that purpose at a town meeting on the 10th of September, has not been discovered; but the report of the joint committee of the General Court was made, in Council, Sept. 27, 1739, as follows: —

"The Comitte to whom was refferred the Petition of Jn^o^ Hixon & Benj^a^ Jonson having hear'd the Party's & taken under consideration their Papers Pleas & Allegations, Report that in their Opinion, it may be proper for a Comitte from the Court to veiw the Lands Petitioned for a Precinct together with the State & circumstances of the Town of Stoughton, hear the Party's, & Report what may be further proper for the Court to do thereon,— The Charge of the Comitte to be born by the Petitioners.

In y^e^ Name & by order of y^e^ Com^tt^

M BOURN."— Ibid., p. 444.

On the 28th, this report was accepted, and a committee, consisting of William Dudley and Anthony Stoddard, of the Council, and Messrs. Buckminster, Read and Little, of the House, was appointed "for the purposes above mentioned," — the petitioners to pay the charges attending the performance of this duty.

For some reason which has not been discovered, this committee seems not to have acted. By the records of the town of Stoughton, however, it appears that at the town meeting held March 10, 1739-40, a vote was passed by the inhabitants, for dividing the town into two precincts, and that a committee was appointed, consisting of Elkanah Billings, William Crane, George Talbot, John Shepard, Joseph Hewins, jun., Samuel Bird, Jeremiah Fuller, Ralph Pope, Silas Crane, Benjamin Savell, Samuel Billings and Charles Wentworth, to make this division, "by such a line as the town shall agree to," and "to make report at the next town meeting." On the 19th of May this committee reported, in town meeting, as follows: —

"It is the Opinion of us y^e^ Subscribers that if the Town See Cause to Divide into two precincts that it be Done as followeth, (Viz) By a Line paralel with Braintrey Line, at y^e^ Distance of five miles & a half from s^d^ Braintrey Line: and whereas there is a small Tract of Land in the Southeast Corner of this Town, Set off to y^e^ North precinct in Bridgwater that there be half so much Land as is Set off to Bridgwater as aboves^d^, taken off to the Southwest of y^e^ above mentioned Line at y^e^ South East End thereof, to Ly to the North or Northeast part —

This report was unsatisfactory to the inhabitants, who were desirous to be set off into a separate precinct, less on account of the attempt to forestall legislative action, than on account of the nature of the division it proposed. Accordingly, another effort was made by petition, to procure from the General Court a vote or resolve establishing a new precinct, by suitable bounds, as follows: —

"To his Exellency Jonathan Belcher Esqr Captain General and Comander in Cheif in and ouer His Magesties Prouenc of the Massachusets Bay in New England and to the Honerble His Magesties Council & House of Representetius In General Court assembled att Boston on the 5th of June 1740

This petition was read in the House, June 6, 1740, and notice thereof was ordered to be served on the town of Stoughton, returnable on the 25th of the same month. On the day appointed, a committee chosen by the town of Stoughton appeared and presented the following answer: —

"To His Excellency Jonathan Belcher Esqr Captain General and Governour in Chief in and over His Majesties Province of the Massachusetts Bay in New England, To the Honourable the Council and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled. — June 25. 1740. —

The Answer of William Royall, Elkanah Billing, Simon Stearns, George Talbott and Silas Crane a Committee Chosen by the Town of Stoughton to make Answer to the Petition of Jeremiah Fuller Joseph Hewins Junr and William Richards, presented to the General Court, Praying to be set off a Separate Township or Precinct. —

Humbly Sheweth, That Whereas the Petitioners for the Precinct, have in Order to gain their purpose, Used a great deal of Craft to Perswade Your Excellency and this Honble Court into an Opinion that the Town of Stoughton is well able to Spare what they desire by their Petition, but are not so just as to inform Your Excellency and this Honble Court, that altho' the Taxes for the Support of the ministry, hath been small, that there is Arrearages due to the minister, of above Eighty Four Pounds, which the Town hath Voted him, as may Appear by a Report of a Committee, Appointed by the said Town for that purpose, herewith Exhibited, and which the Inhabitants must be Taxed for, Neither were they so just as to let Your Excellency and Honours know that there is not so much rateable Estate in Said Stoughton, as there was when it was first Erected into a Township, by reason of a great part of the best rateable Estate, being set off to Dedham and other Towns, And Also Endeavour to Amuse Your Excellency and Honours with a number of Polls that there is in the Town, Your respondents beg leave to Inform Your Excellency and Honours, that great part of the Polls that are rated in Stoughton, are such as have no Estate in the Town, but depend upon their labour for their Subsistence and are daily removing out of the Town, So that there is repeated requests made by the Constables to the Selectmen, for remitting their Rates. We Would further beg leave to Inform Your Excellency and Honours that about Six Years past, great part of the Petitioners applyed themselves to the Selectmen for to have a Way laid out to Mr. Dunbars Meeting, which the Selectmen did, and to make them easy the Town Confirmed; which Way Cost the Town nigh One Hundred Pounds, but the Petitioners were not long satisfied with that, but a few of them Erected a meeting house near their own Doors and are Endeaving to perswade Your Excellency and Honours to Set them off into a Precinct, leaving their present minister, to have his Rates Collected of Persons that live around them, And also to Compel above One half that are included within the Precinct, they Petition for, to be set off Contrary to their minds, as by their Petitions accompanying this Answer, may Appear, For which Reasons, Your Respondents Pray that their said Petition may be Dismiss'd, And the Town Allowed Exemplary Costs. —

— whereupon, an order was passed appointing William Dudley and Joseph Wilder, of the Council, and Messrs. Paine, Watts and Pynchon, of the House, a committee to consider the papers, "hear the parties thereon, and make report what they judge proper for this Court to do thereon."

This committee made the report which, together with the order of the General Court thereon, is printed in the note to 1765-66, chapter 6, referred to above.

The third precinct in Stoughton was set off from the first precinct, Nov. 9, 1743, by order of the General Court. It embraced the territory of the present town of Stoughton, and by this separation the first precinct was reduced to the territory lying north, and which has since become the town of Canton.

On the 14th of March, 1757, sundry inhabitants of the second precinct applied, in their precinct meeting, for permission to be annexed to the third precinct, but their application was dismissed, "by Reason they Did not Bring their Petition."*

On the 7th of December, following, John Noyes, William Deverix, Ephraim Payson, jun., and William Smith of the second precinct, presented their petition to the General Court, to be annexed to the third precinct, representing that they had previously applied to the town, and had been refused. Notice upon this petition, returnable on the 21st of December, was ordered to be served on the second precinct, but service thereof seems not to have been made, and like notice was again ordered Jan 12, 1758, returnable on the second Tuesday of the next session. Upon this notice the inhabitants of the precinct, at a meeting held March 7th, chose Mr. Clifford [Belcher ?] and Mr Job Swift, a committee to answer the petition; and on the 14th, the parties were heard, and a joint committee, consisting of James Minot and Benjamin Pickman, of the Council, and Nathaniel Smith, Col. Lawrence and Capt. Williams, of the House, was appointed "to take the petition and answer under consideration, hear the parties, and report what they think proper to be done thereon." This committee reported, on the 17th, "as their opinion, after having heard the parties, that the said petition be dismissed." This report was accepted, and the petition was dismissed, accordingly.

The next move towards the annexation to the third precinct, of some of the inhabitants of the second precinct, appears to have been the appointment of a committee by each of the precincts, to mutually advise whether any portion of the lands or inhabitants of the second precinct should be set off to the third precinct, or whether the bounds between the said precincts should remain unchanged.

The first committee on the part of the second precinct, was chosen at a precinct meeting, held March 10, 1760, and consisted of Joseph Hewins, Elkanah Billings and Daniel Richards. At a meeting held Oct. 13, 1760, the inhabitants of the second precinct chose a new committee for the same purpose, consisting of William Bacon, Daniel Richards and Clifford Belcher,— the precinct at the same time refusing to vote that any of their lands or inhabitants should be annexed to the third precinct.

A majority of the committee of conference, as finally constituted, prepared and signed a report, which was accepted by the second precinct, at a precinct meeting, held, by adjournment, June 3, 1761. This report, together with the resolve of the General Court thereon, is printed in the note to 1765-66, chapter 6, referred to above.

On the 20th of May, 1765, a little more than three years after the annexation of the above-named petitioners, to the third precinct, a petition of the inhabitants of the second precinct, praying to be set off as a distinct township or district, was considered at a meeting of the inhabitants of the town of Stoughton. This petition, which is given below, the town voted to accept, "and alow them to Go of agreable to their prayer": —†

"To ye Town of Stoughton: In Town meeting Assembled this 20th Day of May A D 1765

The town having thus signified its assent, the petitioners found no difficulty in securing the passage of the act, 1765-66, chapter 6, by which the second precinct was erected into a district. Their petition was read in the House, June 7, 1765, and committed to Messrs. Thayer, Hersey and Wood, "to consider and report." On the 18th, the bill of that chapter was read three times, in the House, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence; and on the 20th, in the Council, it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed; and was then passed to be enacted by both branches, and on the 21st, was signed by the governor.

The tax, for the current year, which had been laid wholly on the town of Stoughton, was apportioned between that town and the newly erected district of Stoughtonham, by the resolve of Oct. 30, 1765, printed in the note to the tax act, vol. IV., pp. 865 and 866.

An ineffectual attempt to change the boundaries of Stoughtonham was subsequently made, on the petition of sundry inhabitants of Wrentham, Stoughton, Stoughtonham, Walpole and the north parish of Norton, praying to be erected into a distinct township. This petition was presented to the Legislature, Jan. 30, 1766; and at a meeting of the inhabitants of the district of Stoughtonham held, by adjournment, March 17, 1766, it was voted, apparently in reference to this petition, to choose a committee to meet with certain of the petitioners, "in order to agree upon some more proper line," and if no such agreement should be made, the committee were to appear at the General Court, to oppose the petition. This appears to be all the change that was attempted to be made in the district and town of Stoughtonham * until March 9, 1778, when, at a meeting of the inhabitants of the town, Daniel Richards, Elijah Hewins and Royall Kollock were appointed a committee to prefer a petition to the town of Stoughton, to straighten the boundary line between those towns, "so that John Tolman and his lands, and some part of Fowl Meadow, may be annexed to Stoughtonham."

The committee thus appointed, reported at a meeting of the inhabitants, held March 8, 1779, by presenting a copy of a report (and of the vote thereon) made to the inhabitants of Stoughton, at a town meeting held one week before, by a committee chosen by the latter town for the same purpose. This report and vote were as follows: —

"The Committee on the Petition of John Tolman and others Reported as follows

We the Subscribers Being a Committee Chosen by the Town of Stoughton, at their Meeting on May y^e^ 18. Last, to Take under Consideration the Petition of the Committee of Stoughtonham & John Tolman and View the Premisses, and Having Attended that Service, Beg Leave to Report that whereas Said Committee Set forth in their Petition that the Line where it Crosses the Road is within a Mile & a half of Stoughtonham Meeting House and Runing in a Crooked and at this day almost undistingushed Manner, there doth not appear to your Committee So much weight, as at Prese.t to have it altered for we are of opinion that it may be Considerable well Distingushed and the Line Petitioned for not So Straight as it might be, and as the Gratest Part of what is Petitioned for is Meadow, and Meadow Bottom, & not Petitioned for by its Proprietors (which if it were) your Committee Can See no Reason why it Should be Sett off to Stoughtonham, and as Nath^ll^ Sumner Esq^r^ Signified to your Committee that he Should oppose that his Land in Stoughton, which is Included in Said Petition Should be Sett to Stoughtonham, your Committee think it would be a Hardship for this Town, to vote it off, — and as to the Said Committee & John Tolman Sett forth in their Petition, his Being So Much Nearer to Said Stoughtonham Meeting House, and as to his fathers Being a Petitioner when the 2^d^ Precinct was Sett off, & being Most Cruely Disappointed, what Cruelty, there was in his Disappointment we are not able to Determine, But we have Reason to think that for Some Reasons he altered his Mind, and Chose to Continue to the first Precinct

This Reason in Said Petition we think have but Little weight, as to the Town Being So Much Nearer to attend all Publick Meetings, that we Know of, then a Grate Part of the Inhabitants of Said Stoughton, Except Publick worship, which more Especially Relates to y^e^ first Precinct, which if they Should be Petitioned and Should Sett him the Said Tolman off the Town May then act as they think Proper, But till then your Committee are of oppinion that Said Petition ought to be Dismissed all which is Submitted to by us —

The inhabitants of Stoughtonham thereupon appointed Joseph Hewins, Royall Kollock and Elijah Hewins, a committee, to present to the General Court a petition of the same purport as that which they had unsuccessfully presented to Stoughton. Accordingly, the following petition, signed by a majority of the committee above named, and by John Tolman, who may have signed on his own account, or as a substitute, on the committee, for Joseph Hewins: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay,

To the Honourable Council and House of Representatives in General Court Assembled

The Petition of us the Subscribers, appointed a Committee by the Town of Stoughtonham for the following Purpose: Viz^t^ to Petition y^e^ said Court for a more agreeable Line betwen them and Stoughton than at Present subsists; and John Tolman of Stoughton in behalf of himself and Property Humbly shews

That in the Year (1740) the Land that now makes the Town of Stoughtonham was set off from s^d^ Stoughton by the General Court to be a seperate Precinct; at which time the Town of Stoughton made violent opposition; But the Court by a view of a Plan of the whole Town, were convinced of the necessity of the Petitioners going of by themselves mad them a Seperate Precinct with this view, not to divide Mens perticular Properties, but that each Person should hold his whole Estate in the Precinct where his dwelling-house stood and it so happened that the Plan that the Committee had to direct them, had not the Subdivision lines of a large Lot drawn upon it, and the opposit Party after the Publick hearing was over took the opportunity to misinforme the Courts Committee by representing said large Lot as being whole & not subdivided by which means your Petitioner John Tolman and his Father before him, who was a Petitioner at the first and expected to Join with his Neighbours has unjustly been held to the first Precinct at the distance of Three Miles and an half from the Meetinghouse in Stoughton and but one Mile & an half from the Meetinghouse in Stoughtonham ever since, & not only so; but his Land lies in both Towns contrary to the design of the Courts Committee; for if it had not been to keep Mens Estates whole; the Court would not have made such a crooked Line betwen us and them. —

We Crave leave to inform the Honorable Court that upon the 18th of May 1778 the Town of Stoughtonham and the said John Tolman Petitioned Stoughton to settle a Line more Regular Including the Estate of John Tolman & running in the Lines of perticular Persons Lots until it comes to Dedham Line and takes off from Stoughton a Strip of Swamp, and Meadow that lies betwen Stoughtonham and Dedham; the Proprietors of a great Part of which live in Stoughtonham and but little of it owned by Stoughton People and lies more convenient to us than them; and not capable of making any Settlements Except a Part of the home Lot of Nathaniel Sumner Esq; that lies in Stoughton; which if he desires it should Remain there we have no desire to contend with him about it: although it lies vastly more convenient to Stoughtonham: than to Stoughton After about ten Months delay the Town of Stoughton Rejected the Petitions of Stoughtonham & said Tolman; and dismised both without any Releaf to either; which appears to us very disingenious and in no wise doing to others as they would (and have) been done by for some Years ago they stood in need of a triangular Peice of Land with four or five Families settled upon it to accomodate their new Precinct which belonged to Stoughtonham which we alowed to be set to their new Precinct for the sake of accomodation to the amount of about thirteen hundred Acres of valuable Land that your Petitioners can by no means obtain any Releaf either by having a better Line betwixt the Towns; or the Petitioner John Tolman be better accomodated without the Interpoition of this Honorable Court. The Line that Stoughtonham Petitioned for to be the Bounds betwen said Towns begins at the South-westerly Corner of John Billing Junr: his Lot and Running in the Line of said Billing and John Tolmans Land northerly and westerly to a Stake and heap of Stones in the corner of Nathaniel Comings Lot and then in the Lines of said Billing and Comings until it comes to the Line of Joseph Hartwells Land: then westerly in the line of said Hartwell John Billing and Samuel Coming to Stoughtonham old Line and in Stoughtonham Line to the Head Line of Pigeon Swamp Lots then easterly to the easterly Line of John Tolmans Swamp Lot and then in Said Tolmans line northerly to the Bounds of Dedham or Neponset River —

Your Petitioners therefore humbly Pray that: this Honorle Court would take the Premises into their wise and Judicious consideration: and we doubt not but that we shall be able to make it appear that the above described Line is Just and Reasonable and that you will confirm the above described Bounds to be the Dividing Line betwen the Towns of Stoughton and Stoughtonham and Annex John Tolman and his Estate to the Town of Stoughtonham for the future: And your Petitioners as in Duty Bound shall ever Pray

The above petition was read in the House, Sept. 20, 1779, and committed to Messrs. Perry of Medfield, Curtis and Miller, who reported the following resolve thereon: —

"State Massachusetts Bay In the House of Representatives Novr 12 1779

On the 16th of March, 1780, the petition was read again, and Samuel Niles, of the Council, and Messrs. Perry of Medfield, and Choate, of the House, were appointed a committee to take this petition into consideration, "hear the parties, and report what may be proper to be done thereon."

The petitioners filed, in aid of their petition, the following letter or certificate: —

"We the Subscribers Inhabitants of Dedham being informed that The Town of Stoughtonham have Petitioned the Great and General Court of this State for an alteration in the Line of Jurisdiction betwen sd Stoughtonham and Stoughton, which line if obtained agreeable to sd Petition will include a small Parcel of Meadow Bottom of which we are the Proprietors. On the day of the hearing, the following petition for further time in which to answer, was presented to the General Court, in behalf of the town of Stoughton, and was referred to the committee appointed to hear the parties: —

"To the Honorable Council & to ye Honb. House of Representatives

The Petition of Elijah Dunbar humbly shews that whereas ye Town of Stoughtonham, did in ye last Session of ye Genl Court prefer a Petition, praying that certain Lands be-

And as in Duty bound shall ever pray

The committee above named made a report * on the next day, which, with the resolve of the General Court thereon, was as follows: —

"State of Massachusetts Bay, March 17^th^ 1780.

On the 20th of March the inhabitants of Stoughton appointed their selectmen; viz., James Endicott, Thomas Crane and Benjamin Gill, together with Elijah Dunbar and Nathaniel Fisher, a committee to make answer to the above petition from Stoughtonham. On the 25th of April, the committee of the Legislature chosen to repair to the town of Stoughtonham, view the premises, etc., had prepared their report. This report and the doings of the Assembly thereon, are given below: —

In the first session of the next General Court, the petition from Stoughtonham was read again, in Council, June 13th, and referred to a joint committee, consisting of Samuel Niles, of the Council, and Messrs. Coffin and Farley, of the House, who were ordered to take it into consideration, "with the papers accompanying the same, to hear the parties who are present, and report what may be proper to be done thereon." Among the "papers" thus referred to the committee, was the following petition, upon which the House, on the second of June, had passed a vote fixing the day for the hearing aforesaid. They had, at the same time, ordered the member from Stoughton to notify the town of Stoughtonham of this assignment: —

"To the Hon^ble^ the Council & House of Representatives of y^e^ Massachusetts Bay, in General Court Assembled — The Address and Petition of James Endicott Thomas Crane, Benjamin Gill, Elijah Dunbar & Nathaniel Fisher (A Committee chosen by y^e^ Town of Stoughton, to shew Cause why y^e^ Prayer of y^e^ Petition, presented by the Town of Stoughtonham, and one John Tolman the last Year; praying that s^d^ John Tolman with his Farm might be sett off & annexed to s^d^ Town of Stoughtonham; & also that a new Line between the said Towns, might be established as is described in said Petition:) humbly Shews: that y^e^ Committee chosen by y^e^ Gen^l^ Court to repair to the Premisses, & view them (at y^e^ sole Expence of s^d^ Town of Stoughtonham) & Report; gave the Select men of Stoughton Notice (by a Line under y^e^ Signature of y^e^ Hon. At the hearing on the 13th of June, the town of Stoughton presented a survey of the land in controversy, which is on file in the office of the secretary of the Commonwealth,* and filed the following protest, or statement of reasons, against the annexation to Stoughtonham, of the territory in question: —

"To the Honorable y^e^ Council and House of Representatives of y^e^ State of Massachusetts Bay in General Court Assembled —

The Committee (chosen by y^e^ Town of Stoughton to take an accurate Survey of a certain Tract of Land, Lying in S^d^ Stoughton, which Land y^e^ Town of Stoughtonham has petitioned y^e^ General Court might be annexed to s^d^ Stoughtonham; & also make a further Defence, or offer some Reasons why y^e^ Prayer of y^e^ Petition of s^d^ Stoughtonham should not be granted) Having on y^e^ second Day of June Instant, prayed this Hon^b^^le^ Court, that they might have an Opportunity of performing the Intentions of y^e^ Town, before y^e^ Petition of s^d^ Stoughtonham was pass'd upon by y^e^ Hon^b^^le^ House: And this Hon^b^^le^ House having been pleased to comply so far with y^e^ prayer of s^d^ Petition that they then Assigned Tuesday y^e^ 13^th^ of June Instant, to take up y^e^ Papers of said Stoughtonham & Stoughton, & ordered Thomas Crane Esq. to notify y^e^ Town of Stoughtonham of s^d^ Assignment —

Upon which The Com^tt^ of Stoughton immediately took Measures to obtain an Accurate & an impartial Survey, of s^d^ Land — Their Surveyor, was a Man of Character belonging to Braintree, & their Chainmen Inhabitants of Dedham — The Com^tt^ of Stoughtonham was notified of y^e^ intended Survey to be present if they pleased, and John Tolman who joined with y^e^ Commtt of Stoughtonham was notified & present — The Result of s^d^ Survey is herewith inclosed which will give an Idea of y^e^ situation of y^e^ Land which y^e^ Town of Stoughton is exceeding unwilling to part with for y^e^ following Reasons —

1^st^ Because y^e^ Land is meadow Land, consequently uninhabitable, and therefore may & actually does accommodate y^e^ Town of Stoughton equally as well as it would Stoughtonham — And what Reason can be given why said Land should be taken from Stoughton (utterly against their wills) & annexed to Stoughtonham y^e^ Town cannot conceive —

2^d^ Because this Land is, and will be, advantagious to the Town to which it is annexed; And y^e^ Town can see no Reason why a Profit or advantage belonging to and enjoy'd by said Town, should be taken from them (against their wills) and given to Stoughtonham

3^d^ Because y^e^ Town cannot conceive how y^e^ Jurisdiction of this Land, can (compatible with y^e^ Principles of Liberty for which America is so nobly contending) be alienated from y^e^ Town of Stoughton, & given to Stoughtonham, unless y^e^ Town had forfeited its Right of Jurisdiction — JAMES ENDICOTT pr Order

Stoughton — June 13^th^ 1780."— Ibid.

Two days later, the committee reported as follows: —

"The Committee of both Houses on the petition of Stoughtonham and John Tolman with the papers accompanying the same, have Attended that Service heard the Committee from Stoughton and Stoughtonham and report the following resolve — Reso'ved that the prayer of the petition be granted and that the petitioners be, and they hereby are Allowed to bring in a bill for annexing the land petitioned for to the Town of Stoughtonham, agreeable to the line proposed in the petition."— Ibid.

This report was immediately accepted by both branches, and on Saturday, the 17th, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, in the House, and the next Tuesday was appointed for the second reading. At this stage, proceedings upon the bill were stayed, though for what reason does not appear. In the next session the bill was read again, on the 13th of September, and again on the 15th and 16th, respectively, when it was passed to be engrossed, and was sent to the Council, for concurrence. The Council concurred with the House on the same day, and, on the 19th, it was passed to be enacted by both branches, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 12. The act of 1779-80, chapter 7, by the second section of which it was made a penal offence to refuse to take the bills of credit of this state or of the United States, in pay for merchandize, etc., expired by limitation June 24, 1780; but the act of 1775-76, chapter 18, which prescribed severer penalties for the paying or receiving of such bills for less than their expressed value, or the selling or offering of goods at a less price for coin, than for paper, remained upon the statute-book until repealed by this chapter, although it had been generally evaded or disregarded. Even Congress and the state Legislature, by approving, or actively participating in schemes to adapt prices to the diminishing value of the bills of credit, had evaded this statute, in its spirit, by a subterfuge too palpable to be misunderstood. It was, moreover, beginning to be evident that the uncertain, yet ever increasing rate of depreciation, could not be counteracted by any of the devices already adopted in the popular conventions, or promulgated by the Legislature, and that unless the latter should open some new way of escape, breaches of the law would be unavoidable, even by those who were most zealous to comply with the statute forbidding any discrimination in favor of hard money as against the depreciated paper currency, which, by the same law, they were required to receive at its nominal value, on pain of a heavy fine and perpetual incapacity to hold any office, civil or military.

The purpose which the tender-act was designed to effect, was patriotic. The act was in harmony with the resolve* passed by Congress three months earlier, against such as should refuse to take the Continental bills of credit, and its penal provisions were aimed at those who were either hostile to the Revolutionary party or indifferent to its success, and who would not scruple to insist upon their right to exercise every privilege not explicitly denied them by law, however disastrous the consequences might be to the cause of independence; but the act proved an instrument of oppression to friends as well as foes.

The courageous stand taken by some individuals against the extreme measures proposed in the Boston resolves of June, 1779, and the beginning of a reaction, or rather an abatement of the zeal of the promoters of those measures, have been mentioned in the note to 1779-80, chapter 13.† But besides the ill-feeling and distress directly resulting from the operation of the impracticable law which thus provoked defiance, the daily depreciation of the bills of credit, which had driven all hard money out of circulation, was the source of grievous hardship to those especially who depended upon wages and salaries, and of gross injustice to the holders of notes and obligations given for debts incurred before the currency had depreciated. In the notes to previous acts, some account of the evils of this depreciation, as a motive for legislation, could not well be omitted. The distress of the soldiers in the army, and of their families, and the measures taken to relieve them, are dwelt upon in the note to chapter 29 of the previous year; while some idea of the extremity to which the people at large were reduced, may be gathered from the notes to the tax acts of the same year.‡ And it may be added that the frequent inadequacy of the emoluments of those public officers who were paid by fees, is to be inferred (although sufficient direct evidence exists) from the successive acts, by which, in the course of ten months, by no gradual process, fees had been augmented to thirty-two fold the hard-money rates.

By the autumn of 1779 there was, evidently, a wide-spread conviction that it was no longer inconsistent with patriotism to seriously consider whether the promoters of the financial schemes which had been thus attended with disaster, were worthy to continue in the management of public affairs. The efforts of the delegates of the people, in successive conventions, at Concord, Hartford and Philadelphia, to secure general coöperation in measures designed, ostensibly, to keep down prices, but in reality to bolster the declining currency, and the approval which those efforts received from Congress and the state legislatures, have been particularly described in the note to 1779-80, chapter 13, referred to above; and it was, probably, only the illusory hope of a successful issue from the last of these experiments that retarded the complete overthrow of the irredeemable paper currency, with its oppressive adjuncts of terrorism, and its brood of injustice and misery.

On the 18th of November, 1779, nearly three months before Congress recommended to the states to revise their laws making the Continental bills of credit a tender, a joint committee was appointed by the General Court of Massachusetts, "to consider the propriety of adopting a depreciation bill." The committee originally consisted of John Pickering, Caleb Davis, Nathaniel Gorham, Thomas Dawes and Israel Hutchinson, of the House, and Walter Spooner, Thomas Cushing, Moses Gill and Noah Goodman, of the Council, but in the course of two weeks Messrs. William Brown of Framingham, Amos Singletary of Sutton, Joseph Page of Salisbury (and, later, in his place, Moses Little of Newbury) and Edward Rawson of Mendon, were, respectively, substituted for Messrs. Pickering, Davis, Gorham and Hutchinson. On the 24th, both branches enjoined their respective members on this committee, to sit immediately; but on the first of December, Samuel Adams brought down a message from the Council "to propose an amendment to" the order of the House under which the above-named committee was appointed, by substituting for the words indicating the business of the committee, the following: "to consider the practicability of framing a bill for the relief of sufferers by means of the depreciation of public bills of credit, passing within this state." The message concluded with the statement that, "if the House should adopt said amendment, it was the desire of the Board that the journals of the House may be made conformable to said amendment." This amendment was adopted, and the entry in the minutes of the legislative proceedings of the Council was altered, accordingly, by cancellation and interlineation. The amended order, only, appears in the printed journals of the House.

All attempts to discover the purview of the bill or bills which the movers of the above proceedings had in mind, have thus far proved unavailing; and though the loss of the journal of the House, after Dec. 31, 1779, renders it unsafe to affirm positively that the committee were not further instructed, and made no report, there is no evidence that any subsequent proceedings were had upon either proposition. The last entry prior to the fourth session, bearing upon the subject of depreciation, that has been discovered, is under date of December 16th, when a motion was made in the House, for the appointment of a committee, "to consider and report a bill whereby persons who suffer by means of the depreciation of the currency may be relieved," which was defeated by a vote of thirty-one to twenty-eight. This vote, "after further debate," the House refused to reconsider, by a vote of thirty-seven to twenty-nine.

The conjecture is a probable one, at least, that either the resolves of Congress of November 19th, approving of the recommendations of the Hartford Convention, and which were read in Council, December 7th (the day the Court adjourned to the 14th), were the foundation of an argument, which prevailed, for postponing action until the proposed convention at Philadelphia should have had opportunity to suggest a remedy, or it was deemed best to await the results of negotiations for a loan in Europe, which the Legislature was then contemplating.*

On the 14th of February, 1780, Congress passed the following resolve: —

"Resolved, That it be recommended to the legislatures of the several states to revise their laws, making the continental bills of credit a tender in payment of debts and contracts, and frame them so as to prevent injustice to creditors or debtors." — Journals of Congress.

The only difference between the foregoing resolve and the resolve of March 20th, which is printed in the note to 1779-80, chapter 40, † is, that the latter, besides containing an additional cautionary recommendation in the second paragraph, had reference only to such acts as were passed "pursuant to a former resolution of Congress," while the former recommends the revision of all acts passed by the several states, for the purpose mentioned.

Chapter 40 of the acts of 1779–80, which provided for a new emission of bills of credit, payable, principal and interest, in coin, was passed during the fourth session, in pursuance of the recommendation of the resolves of Congress of the 18th of March (which were forwarded with the resolve of the 20th, referred to above, as shown in the note to that chapter), and while the bill of that act was pending, a bill with the title of this chapter, but which has not been discovered in the state archives, was reported in the Council, read, and sent down to the House. On the 24th of April, 1780, this bill was read a first time in the House, and ordered to be read again on the next day.

The paper currency had now sunk to one-fortieth of its nominal value. Connecticut had already repealed her tender-acts,‡ and New Hampshire was intently watching the proceedings of the Massachusetts Legislature upon the "important affair" of the establishment of a new currency convertible into coin, to replace the depreciated bills of credit, with the purpose of imitating her example, in the first session of the General Court about to be convened in that state.§ The session passed, however, without further action on the bill.

In the afternoon of the day on which the next Assembly convened, the House "voted that all papers which were before the House the last year, and not passed upon, be revived, and have day in the present session"; and, two days later (June 2, 1780), "the House assigned three o'clock in the afternoon, to take into consideration the bill respecting depreciation," which was accordingly "read a second time, and considered." "The first enacting clause" providing for the repeal of section 6 of 1775–6, chapter 18, by which bills of credit had been made a legal tender in all cases, was adopted and passed, by a vote of ninety-eight to thirty-seven. On a second reading of the bill, four days later, the same clause was again adopted, by a vote of eighty-one to twenty-nine; and at the same time, another clause, for making the old bills a tender according to a certain rule of depreciation expressed in the bill, was put to vote, after debate, and rejected by a vote of ninety-seven to fourteen. A committee was then appointed, consisting of John Lowell, John Pickering and Elijah Hunt, "to bring in a clause making the present bills a tender for the discharge of judgments recovered in courts of law;" and to this committee, enlarged by the accession of Samuel Osgood and John Rowe, was specially referred the third paragraph of the bill, "containing the scale of depreciation" (and, generally, all the other paragraphs of the bill), and the committee were ordered to "consider what provision is proper to be made to prevent injuries arising to executors, administrators, guardians, agents, etc."

Debate on the bill was renewed on the 9th, when, upon reconsideration of a former adverse vote of fifty-four to sixty-one, it was voted, "by a majority of sixty-four members out of one hundred and twenty, that the scale [of depreciation] begin at the 1st October 1776¶;" and, on the same day, by another vote, of sixty-nine to fifty-two, "the whole paragraph determining the depreciation to begin at that time," was adopted; as, likewise, was the scale itself ("as far as April, 1780, when it was fixed at forty for one"), by still another vote, of sixty-eight to fifty, — only three members voting for exceeding this rate.

The consideration of the bill was resumed in the afternoon of the same day, when, by a vote, of fifty-six to fifty-three, a clause was ordered to "be brought in, to suspend for six months the execution of judgments that may be given on any actions brought in consequence of this bill;" and the bill was recommitted for that purpose.

On the 10th, the bill was read a third time, and passed to be engrossed by a majority of one, in a vote of one hundred and one members. A second vote taken "at the request of some members," stood fifty-four to fifty-one, in favor of engrossing. The bill was then sent to the Council, for concurrence, where, on the same day, it was read a first time.

Between the 10th and 13th, the bill seems to have gone back to the House, either in a new draught, or with amendments; for, on the day last named, as appears by the "General Court minute book," it was again read a first time. Twice, on the 16th, it appears to have been brought down from the Council; each time with a message proposing several amendments thereto.

On referring to the "General Court minute book" for the 16th, it appears that on that day a message from the House was sent up, inquiring whether the Board had passed upon the bill; to which the Council replied, by message, that they had assigned several times for considering it, "but so many members of the Board were called off to attend the convention,* that the remaining few did not think proper to proceed upon it," and that on that day it was read a second time, and passed, in concurrence, with twelve amendments † and sent down for concurrence; whereupon it was returned, with a vote of concurrence by the House, but with additional amendments, in which the Council voted to concur, and again sent it down for concurrence, with still further amendments.

The House assigned the twentieth for the consideration of the amendments proposed by the Council. After a motion to postpone the further consideration of these amendments to the next session, had been rejected, by a vote of seventy-one to sixteen, the debate which ensued thereon was continued in the afternoon and on the next morning, when the bill was sent up to the Council, for concurrence, with a vote on the amendments, concurring in four of them, nonconcurring in six, and proposing five more.‡

The Board thereupon proposed a conference in the Representatives' chamber, at four o'clock in the afternoon, to which the House agreed, and the conference was held accordingly, James Bowdoin in the chair. After debate, the branches separated, and, soon after, the Council sent down a message proposing to refer the bill to a joint committee, "to take it into consideration and report what is proper to be done thereon."

The proposal was accepted, and the committee, consisting of Thomas Cushing, Robert Treat Paine and Timothy Danielson, of the Council, and Jacob Gerrish, Theodore Sedgwick, Samuel Osgood and Thomas Dawes, of the House, was appointed.

On the 24th, the Council sent the bill down to the House, with a vote of concurrence in some of the amendments proposed by that branch, and proposing others, upon which the House voted "that the consideration thereof be referred to the next sitting of the General Assembly." This vote, upon a message of inquiry from the Council, was communicated to the Board, whereupon the Council sent down the following message: —

"State of Massachusetts Council Chamber Boston June 24th 1780

Gentlemen of the House of Representatives

the Council, have been informed by your Messuage of this Day, that you have put over the further Consideration of a Bill, to repeal the Several Clauses of Acts made by the Legislature of this State making the continental Bills now in circulation a Tender in all Payment, and for Settling a Scale of Depreciation with respect to said Currency, to the next sitting of the General Court, which Measure we are constrained to say is likely to be attended with very Disagreeable Consequences. The Law enacted in the last session of the General Court expressly points you to the settling such Rule of Depreciation the fluctuating State of the said Currency which renders it, at a Time when Money is the most needed to fill up your Continental Batallions of uncertain Value, and the universal Expectation of the Good People of this State point you to the same great Object For wch wighty Reasons and many others that might be mentioned the Major Part of the Council conceive it their Duty not to give a Recess to the General Assembly till they have earnestly calld upon you to reconsider your Vote and resume the Consideration of the said Bill, and we Doubt not the Council will aid you and Concurr in a Measure so necessary to Doing Justice and the future Peace and Happiness of this State 1779-80, chap. 40, § 16.

This message having been read to the House, a motion was made to reconsider their last vote, but the motion was lost, by a vote of thirty-seven to twenty-one, whereupon a committee was appointed, "to report an answer to the message." On the same day, this committee reported the following message: —

"In the House of Representatives June 24th 1780

To the Honble the Major part of the Council

May it please your Honors

‡ These amendments appear to have been, chiefly, in the table, or "scale," of depreciation. As reported, the bill contemplated a scale beginning with October, 1776; and, from a memorandum on a blank leaf of the minutes of the House Journal for the session, it seems that the House concurred in four of the amendments proposed by the Council, including one by which all the months before January 1777, were expunged from this table. The House nonconcurred in four other of these proposed amendments, by majorities ranging from four to sixteen in a total vote not exceeding eighty-two.

their Constituents, have induced them not to reconsider their vote of postponing the further Consideration of the Bill aforesaid to the next session of the General Court — And therefore request your Honors to give a Recess to the Court as requested by the Message of the House of this Day." — Ibid., p. 175.

The report was accepted, and a committee appointed "to deliver the same to the Honorable the major part of the Council, who reported that they had attended the service assigned them."

On the second day of the next session, upon an order originating in the House, a joint committee, consisting of John Pickering, Thomas Dawes and John Lowell, of the House, and Thomas Cushing and Timothy Danielson, of the Council, was appointed, "to prepare and report a depreciation bill." On the 13th, Theodore Sedgwick was appointed in place of Lowell, who was absent, and on the 15th, the committee reported, in the Council, the bill of this chapter, which was read, and sent down to the House.

In the House, on the 16th, the bill was read a first time. It was read again, by assignment, on the 19th, when the further consideration thereof was postponed to the next day. On the 20th, the consideration of the bill was resumed, according to appointment, and the following passage was ordered to be stricken out of section two, by a vote of fifty-five to forty-nine: "and shall be discharged in the present current bills, at the rate of forty dollars for every six shillings lawful money; and all judgments hereafter to be made up on any contract for the payment of money, excepting contracts made since the 20th of May, 1775, where gold and silver was expressly contracted to be paid, shall be discharged in bills of credit of the United States now in circulation, or in bills to be emitted by Congress on the credit of this state or in gold or silver, at the rate of one dollar for forty of the present currency."

The House then postponed the further consideration of the bill until the next morning, when it was again postponed to the afternoon, and then to the next day. On the 25th, the bill was further considered, and a motion to strike out from the sixth section, the clause beginning with "the justices," in the fourth line, and ending with the words "in trust," in the sixteenth line, was defeated, by a vote of fifty to twenty-five.

On the 26th, the section above named, and the preamble thereto, were adopted, by a vote of thirty-nine to twenty-nine. The last three paragraphs of the bill (covered by sections 7, 8, 9 and 10 of this chapter), were thereupon committed to Nathaniel Freeman, Loammi Baldwin and James Warren, who reported the draught of those sections as they stand in the act. Before this amendment, these paragraphs were as follows: —

In section 7, between the word "payments," in the first line, and "the sum," in the fourth line, the section read, "that have been made previous to the first day of January, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-eight, towards the discharge of any debt or contract, public or private."

The following paragraphs stood in place of section eight, and its preamble and enacting clause: —

"And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid,

That where any dispute shall arise between debtors and creditors with respect to any payments that have been made in discharge of any debt or contract since the first day January, one thousand seven hundred and seventy-eight, all suits arising on such disputes and contentions, shall be determined by referrees, chosen and appointed as before directed with regard to tenders of money, as aforesaid."

Section ten was omitted; and in place of section nine, was the following, with the same enacting clause: —

"That the several courts of law within this state shall not, until the expiration of six months after the passing of this act, make up judgment agreeable to the scale of depreciation herein contained."

On the 28th, the bill as thus amended, was read a third time, and passed to be engrossed by a vote of sixty-three to forty-eight; and it was thereupon sent up to the Council, for concurrence. In the Council, it was read twice, and passed to be engrossed, in concurrence; and, on the next day, in both branches, the bill was passed to be enacted, — the vote in the House, standing fifty-two to thirty-six. On the same day, it was consented to and signed by fifteen of the Council.

At some time after the date of its reference to this last-named committee, the words in the tenth and eleventh lines of the sixth section, beginning with "by this government," and ending with "March last," were substituted for the following passage: "to be emitted on the credit of the United States;" but whether this was made upon motion in the House, or included in the amendments reported by that committee, does not appear.

The following resolve* was reported by a committee of the House, consisting of Samuel Austin, John Bacon and Loammi Baldwin, appointed on the day of its passage, "to consider what directions are proper to be given to the treasurer, on account of depreciation, relative to any sums of money due to government:" — cers, which had been enormously increased in nominal amount, became necessary, and hence a committee of the House, consisting of Messrs. Gorham, Osgood, Baldwin, Leonard and Wales, was appointed, on the 19th of September, "to revise the fee-bill, and report what alterations are proper to be made therein." On the 26th, this committee reported a bill entitled "An act for further augmenting certain fees, allowances and penalties established by the laws of this state, and for enlarging the jurisdiction of justices of the peace." This bill was read a first and second time on the 28th, when it was committted to Messrs. Freeman, Henshaw and Chadbourn. On the next day the bill of this chapter was reported, and read a first time. On the 30th, it was read a second time, and on the 2d of October it was read a third time, passed to be engrossed, and sent up for concurrence. In the Council it was read a first time on the 2d of October, and a second time on the third, when it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, and, on the same day, was passed to be enacted and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Andrew Henshaw and Oliver Peabody, joint clerks of the Superior Court of Judicature, finding the fees of their office insufficient, had applied for further compensation, which had been allowed to them by the resolves of Dec. 17, 1779,* and March 30, 1780.† This year they again applied to the General Court, for relief, in separate memorials, whereupon each was again granted an allowance by the resolves of Sept. 12, 1780,‡ but no change in their favor was made in the fee-bill.

Chap. 14. On the 22d of September, 1780, an order was passed in the House, appointing Messrs. Rowe, Lowell and Cranch a committee "to revise the laws respecting gunpowder, and report what further provision is necessary to be made to prevent the storing it in improper places." Eight days later the bill of this chapter was read a first time in the House. It was read again, passed to be engrossed, and sent up to the Council, for concurrence, on the second of October. In the Council, after a second reading, on the same day, it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed, with three amendments, by two of which "rato" was changed to "ratâ", and by the third, the second section was added. These amendments were concurred in by the House, and the bill was passed to be enacted on the fourth of October, and, according to the record, was signed by fifteen of the Council.

Chap. 15. The conveyance to trustees, mentioned in the preamble of this chapter, was dated April 21, 1778, instead of April 1st, as stated in the act, and the property conveyed, consisted of seven parcels of land in Andover, containing an aggregate of one hundred and forty-one acres, and two hundred acres more, in Jaffrey, New Hampshire, besides £1,614 in money. The trustees named in the act were the same persons that had been appointed by the deed of trust; and they had met and organized, as required by that instrument, on the last Tuesday (the 28th) of April, 1778, — all being present but Josiah Stearns. It appearing that, in the conveyance as originally executed, the legal words of limitation denoting a gift to the trustees in fee-simple had been omitted, these words were inserted, and on the 29th, the instrument was again signed, sealed and delivered.

The purpose of the founders of the trust, as expressed in their conveyance, was the perpetual support of a public free school or academy in the south parish of Andover (subject to the same provisions respecting removal, as in section ten of this chapter, — the reasons therefor, however, to be given in writing and to be recorded with the vote), for the education of youth in the branches of knowledge mentioned in the first section of this chapter, "but more especially, to learn them the great end and business of living."

To the master, who was to be a professor of the Christian religion, and a trustee, was confided the duty of receiving and deciding upon applications for admission, "agreeably to the rules" which were to be established by the board; and he was authorized to make "rules and orders, as he shall find necessary, for the internal management and regulation of the seminary," subject to revisal and disallowance by the trustees, to whose regulations, and those established by the founders, he was required to conform in his own conduct.

It was made the "first and principal duty of the master, to regulate the tempers, to enlarge the minds, and form the morals," of his pupils, and while he was required to give special attention to their health, and to urge upon them "the importance of a habit of industry," his "attention to the disposition of the minds and morals of the youth under his charge" was to "exceed every other care." To this end, besides attending to their personal behavior, he was required to "frequently delineate" the beauty of virtue and the odiousness of vice," and to "spare no pains" to elevate the moral characters of his pupils, and "early and diligently to inculcate upon them" those doctrines of religion usually denominated Calvinistic, the better to qualify such as might devote themselves "to the sacred work of the gospel ministry."

These objects were reiterated, in different forms of expression, as the design of the founders, in the instrument of trust, and were finally recapitulated therein, in the order of their importance, — the promotion of piety and virtue being placed first; instruction in the English, Latin, and Greek languages, together with writing, arithmetic, music, and the art of speaking, second; geometry, logic and geography, third; and "other of the liberal arts and sciences, or languages," last.

None but Protestants were ever to "be concerned in the trust or instruction of this seminary", which was to be open, equally, to all youth who could read English, well, "excepting such particular numbers as the trustees may hereafter license."

After the first meeting, at which a name was to be given to the seminary, and a title to its principal instructor, the trustees, whose qualifications with regard to residence and social standing were to be the same as is provided in section six of this chapter, were to appoint and hold annual meetings, in Andover, at the house then occupied by Samuel Phillips, junior. These meetings were to be held for the purpose of visiting the school, for adjusting accounts, for making rules and orders, and for the choice (by ballot) of officers, consisting of a president, a clerk and a treasurer. Special meetings were to be called by the president upon the motion of three trustees; or at his pleasure, with the concurrence of any two of the trustees. At all meetings of the board "decent, not extravagant, entertainment" was to be made for them, and economy was enjoined both upon trustees and instructors. A majority of the board was to constitute a quorum, and the major part of the quorum was authorized to transact business. Upon a tie vote, the side on which the presiuent, or president pro tempore, voted was to prevail. Vacancies in the board were to be filled in the same manner as is provided in this chapter, except that the founders reserved the right, jointly, to appoint one person to a vacancy caused by their decease or resignation, who (and his successors) were to have like power of appointment, in perpetuity.

The trustees were invested with authority to sell and purchase real and personal estate for the trust, and were required to let the lands, and put out the trust money at interest upon good security, and to apply the rents, profits, issues and interest of all the trust property, to the support of the school, to which, after the death, resignation, or removal, of the master appointed by the founders, they were, from time to time, to appoint a master, and also to appoint all assistants. No trustee was to vote in the choice of any candidate for the office of principal instructor, who should be as near to him, in kinship, as cousin or nephew. The master was not to vote in the settling of his salary and perquisites, nor was a trustee (who was at the same time a minister, belonging to the town) to be permitted to vote on any question in which the town or parish in which the seminary was situated, should be a party, or interested.

No pupil was to board in any family which was "not licensed by the trustees;" and the latter were authorized to "determine for what reasons a scholar shall be expelled, and the manner in which the sentence shall be administered."

The trustees were to contract with each master and assistant, before his "entrance upon office, as to salary," which was not to be changed except in favor of the teacher; and power was given the trustees to remove the master, or any assistant, for misconduct, neglect of duty, or incapacity.

The trustees were empowered to make repairs, and to erect such buildings as they should judge necessary; and they were directed, when of sufficient ability, to "erect a large, decent building, sufficient to accommodate at least fifty scholars with boarding, besides the master and his family," unless the trustees should determine that the design of the institution "may be better promoted by the scholars' boarding in private families, and by some other improvement of the interest of the seminary."

The founders reserved to themselves during their lives the authority, jointly, "to make any special rules for the perpetual government of this institution," which were to be equally binding with the rules and conditions above described, provided they should not be subversive of the design expressed in the instrument of trust.

The duties of the clerk and treasurer were defined. The records were to be open for public inspection, and the treasurer was required to give bond, in the obligatory part of which, as well as in the condition, the purposes of the trust were to be expressed; and he was required to give duplicate receipts, countersigned by one of the trustees, for all moneys received by him; one of which receipts was to be lodged with such member of the board as the trustees should direct.

The instrument of trust was acknowledged by John Phillips, Oct. 13, 1791; but Samuel Phillips, dying without having acknowledged the same, his heir and administrator, Samuel Phillips, junior, on the 13th of July, 1793, released to the trustees his interest in the trust estate, and this release, and the original deed of trust, were recorded together.*

At the first meeting of the trustees under the deed, Rev. Jonathan French was chosen clerk, Hon. Samuel Phillips was chosen president and Mr. Nehemiah Abbott was chosen treasurer; the name of "Phillips School" was chosen for the seminary; and the founders appointed Mr. Eliphalet Pearson the first instructor, under the title of "preceptor," who continued in office until 1786, when he was succeeded by Ebenezer Pemberton.

At this meeting, also, the number of scholars was limited to thirty, on account of "the present state of the preceptor's health" (which number was not to be exceeded until enlarged by permission of a committee chosen for the purpose); and two annual vacations, each of three weeks duration, were appointed, to commence, respectively, on the third Wednesday of April and October. On the day following (to which this meeting was adjourned), the preceptor's compensation was fixed at eighty pounds a year, salary, and "the improvement of the two places belonging to the school, situate in Andover:" Mr. Joseph Mottey was chosen assistant preceptor, with an allowance of "twenty dollars per month, for two months"; and votes were passed regulating the admission of pupils, by which preference was to be given to "those who are to be instructed in the learned languages," and if after one month the prescribed number of admissions was not completed, pupils in "reading, writing and arithmetic, etc., only," were to be admitted. In case admitted candidates should neglect to attend for one month, without sufficient cause, in the judgment of the preceptor, their places were to be deemed vacant and to be filled according to the foregoing rules. In all cases the applicants were to be admitted according to the date of their respective applications. Incorrigibly vicious pupils, whose continuance at the school "may be dangerous to the morals of the other scholars, or inconsistent with the good government of the seminary," were to be expelled and never readmitted. The necessity of expulsion was to be determined by a standing committee of the trustees, of which two, at least, were to be present with the preceptor, at the expulsion, which was to be made by the preceptor, "in the schoolhouse, in the presence of the scholars."

It was also voted that no public house should be licensed to keep boarders belonging to the school, and a list of persons was prepared, to whom the trustees granted such licenses, to be in force until the next meeting, and a committee was appointed to license other houses, and to revoke licenses, in the mean time.

The penalty of the treasurer's bond was fixed at £1,000,* and he was empowered to dispose, at his discretion, of the rents accruing from the school lands not in Andover.

A committee was appointed "to make application to the General Court for a number of books belonging to the estates of the absentees, for the use of the school."

On the 24th of June, the committee for enlarging the school, voted to allow the preceptor to increase the number of scholars to thirty-five, forty, or forty-five, at his discretion, and, five months later, the number was increased to sixty.

On the 7th of October, an assessment was laid equally upon all the scholars, for the past and future support of the assistant, "purchasing firewood, and other incidental occasions", and a committee was appointed to apportion the same.

The first visitation of the school was on the 8th of October, 1778. The proceedings of the visitors are thus summed up in the record " * * * heard them [the pupils] construe &c., & examined their writing. — The Revd Mr. Stearnes addressed the School in the name of the Trustees, and closed with prayer."

On that day, also, Mr. Mottey having declined to continue in the office of assistant, longer than until the ensuing vacation, a committee was appointed to engage another assistant, and to agree with him upon the terms of his service until the next general meeting.

At the same meeting a committee was appointed to procure the conveyance of the trust lands the titles to which were defective. The erection of out-buildings was ordered, and a committee was chosen to provide firewood for the school. The following votes were then passed: —

"Voted, — the Hon. William Phillips, Oliver Wendell Esqr. John Lowell Esqr. of Boston, & Mr. Samuel Phillips of Andover, be a committee in the name of the Trustees of Phillips School in said Andover, to make application to the Genl. Court for an act of Incorporation. — Voted, that the time for making application for said act be left to the discretion of the committee." — Academy Records, vol. 1.

The trustees then voted to prepare a list of books proper for the use of the school, to take action with regard to the planting of locust trees and fruit trees, and preparing a place for a garden, and repairing the buildings, and to ascertain more particularly the state of the school funds, and the current yearly income.

Committees were also appointed to purchase and sell lands, and "to procure a bell for the use of the school."

Annual meetings were held April 20, 1779, and April 18, 1780, each of which was continued by adjournment to the day following; and the latter continued through three successive days.

At the first of these meetings the committee appointed to apply to the General Court for an act of incorporation, not having "completed that business," was continued; and it was "voted that the same committee be empowered to change the name of the seminary from Phillips School to that of Phillips Academy; and the title of the principal instructor from Preceptor to Rector; provided it may be done without giving offence." It was also "voted, that, if an act of incorporation should be obtained, and there may be liberty for it, that it may be inserted that the number of the trustees shall not exceed thirteen, nor be less than eleven." †

The committee appointed to procure a bell, then reported that they had borrowed one of Mr. Hooper, of Newburyport, to be used until "he should call for it." ‡ The clerk presented the board with a book in which to record the votes and proceedings of the trustees; and a committee was appointed to furnish the clerk, treasurer and school, with proper books for recording accounts, donations, expenditures, etc.

The other business of importance transacted at this meeting was as follows: the treasurer's duplicate receipts were ordered to be lodged with the clerk of the trustees, for the time being; the second visitation was had, at which the trustees examined the writing of the pupils, "heard them construe and parse, and speak several pieces in English, and perform an excellent piece of music;" thanks were voted "to Capt. Wyer for the use of his globes," and a vote for soliciting the loan of books was passed; the salary of Mr. Pearson for the ensuing year was fixed at one-half the expense of his board, and Mr. Foot was "allowed twenty-four pounds per month (lunar months), and his board, when boarding was ten dollars per week §, and either more or less, in proportion to the rise or fall of the price of boarding."

At the next annual meeting, April 17, 1780, the school was again visited, and an assessment was voted to be laid on the pupils for part of the support of the preceptor and assistant, in consequence of the "state of the currency and the enlarged plan of the institution." From this assessment, which it was believed would not exceed the sum of "two dollars and an-half, hard money," for each scholar, per quarter, such scholars were to be exempted as a committee chosen for that purpose, should determine; and notice of the assessment was voted to be given the parents of the scholars, who were to be requested to give speedy notice in case "they do not design their children shall return, that their places may be supplied." It was also voted to require of the parents security for the payment of assessments.

* This was changed April 19, 1780, to £600, sterling.
‡ This bell was subsequently presented to the school, by Mr. Hooper.

A committee to take measures to enlarge the funds and increase the income of the school, was appointed, and it was voted to have two weeks vacation "to commence on the second Wednesday in July."

The minimum age of admission was fixed at eight years, to which some special exceptions were allowed.

The committees on curing defects of title, and procuring an act of incorporation, reported that they had not completed the business assigned them.

A fine of one shilling, sterling, for every day's absence was to be paid by every scholar absent, without leave, with his parents' knowledge, and who should return without a satisfactory excuse for his absence. In such case no deduction was to be made from the regular school dues. Six weeks' previous notice to the preceptor was required of every scholar intending to leave the school. No scholar boarding in town was to change his boarding-place without first informing the preceptor.

At this meeting, also, it was, "voted that the gentlemen of the trustees living in town, be a committee to act in cases of exigency, in the recess of the trust;" and "that the school shall be visited, by those gentlemen of the trustees who can conveniently attend upon it, on the first Wednesday in July, and second Wednesday in October, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon." The following memorandum was made: "The trustees excuse the clerk from the trouble of notifying the members of their annual meetings."

This was the last recorded meeting of the trustees before the academy was incorporated.

The petition for an act of incorporation has not been found in the state archives. It appears, from the journal of the House, that it was read in that branch, Sept. 29, 1780, and a vote thereon passed, granting the prayer thereof and giving the petitioners leave to bring in a bill for that purpose. Accordingly, the bill of this chapter was read a first time, the next day, and, on the 3d of October, it was read a second and a third time, passed to be engrossed, and sent up, for concurrence, to the Council, where it was read a first time, on the same day, and a conference appointed thereon, consisting of John Pitts and Joseph Dorr, of that board, and Messrs. Lowell and Phillips, of the House, who, on the 4th, reported, in the House, an amendment of the 8th section of the bill, by which the limit of the annual income of the real and personal estate of the trust, respectively, was reduced to the amounts fixed by the act, being one-half the amounts originally reported in the bill. This report was immediately accepted by both branches, and the bill was amended accordingly, and, on the same day, was passed to be enacted, and was signed by twelve of the Council, although the consent of fifteen councillors is recorded.

Several unimportant interlineations and alterations were made in the original draught of the bill, which, however, passed without any substantial change, except as above stated and the further changes made by striking out the words "and visitors," from the name of the corporation, substituting "seven," for "eleven," as the minimum number of trustees, and adding the first clause of the sixth section, respecting a quorum and the votes.

The first meeting of the corporation was held at the house of Samuel Phillips, junior, in Andover, Aug. 16, 1781. Rev. Jonathan French was chosen clerk, Hon. Samuel Phillips president, and Mr Nehemiah Abbot, treasurer. At this meeting the first visitation of the school, under the charter, was had, and Mr. Stearns, one of the trustees, resigned his office.

On the next day, the trustees appointed Messrs. Lowell, Wendell and Pearson, a committee, "to devise and procure a seal for the Academy."

In the mean time a temporary seal was adopted by the following vote: —

"Voted, that a cornelian seal, being a man's head, which is in the possession of the treasurer, be considered, & used, as the seal of the Academy untill another be adopted in it's stead." — Ibid., p. 45.

At a later date, the seal still used by the Academy was adopted, as appears by the following vote: —

"Voted, that the thanks of the Trustees be given to the Honble Oliver Wendell, & John Lowell, Esqr. for the Donation of a seal for the Academy." — Ibid., p. 50.

The device of this seal was a beehive and flowers, about which hovered bees, beneath a beaming sun inscribed, "NON SIBI:" under this device, a scroll, bearing the motto, FINIS ORIGINE PENDET. The whole circumscribed with the legend, SIGIL. PHILLIP. ACAD. ANDOV. MDCCLXXVIII.

Chap. 16. During the recess of the General Court after the first prorogation, the president of the Council received a letter from William Greene, governor of Rhode Island, conveying the information that a letter from Governor Trumbull of Connecticut, proposing a convention of committees from the several New-England states, to be held at Boston, "to confer on very important measures therein proposed," had been laid by him before the general assembly of Rhode Island, "who unanimously concurred with the proposal," and requested him to write to President Powell recommending the concurrence of Massachusetts and to ask Powell "to write to the president and council of New Hampshire, on this necessary measure." The date of Trumbull's letter was July 14th, that of Greene, July 20th, and the time suggested for the convention was July 26th.

Col. Eliphalet Dyer of Connecticut reached Boston, and was admitted to the council chamber, on Saturday, the 22d, when, after a conference and the production of his credentials as a delegate to the proposed convention, he was informed that the Board would take the matter "into consideration, and appoint a committee for the purpose."

On Monday, the 24th, Thomas Cushing, Nathaniel Gorham and John Lowell were appointed a committee to meet and confer with Col. Dyer, "upon the subject-matter of coöperating with the New-England states in order to settle a uniform plan respecting supplies for the army; and Thomas Cushing was directed to draught an order for this purpose, and report."

Accordingly, the following order was forthwith reported, read and accepted: —

"Council Chamber July 24 1780

Ordered that Ths Cushing Nathl Gorham & J. Lowell be & hereby are appointed to meet & Confer with such Commissioners as the States of Connecticut Rhode Island & Providence Plantations & New Hampshire or either of them have or may appoint to Consult & advise on all such Business and affairs as shall be brought under Consideration relative to the war & to promote & forward the most Vigorous Exertions of the present Campaign and to Cultivate a good understanding & procure a generous treatment of the officers and men of our great & generous Ally & make report thereof accordingly." — Mass. Archives, vol. 176, p. 557.

At the same time, the draught of a letter, to be sent "to the states of Rhode Island and New Hampshire, inviting them to adopt the measures" proposed by the state of Connecticut, was reported by Cushing, in accordance with an order of the Board, and was read and accepted, as follows: —

"Council Chamber July 24th 1780

Sir

Col Dyer of Connecticut arrived here last Week appointed by that State to meet in this Town & confer with such Commissioners as might be appointed by the State of Rhode Island your State & this to consult & advise in all such Business & affairs as shall be brought under Consideration relative to the War & to promote & forward the most vigorous Exertions of the present Campaign & to cultivate a good Understanding & procure a generous Treatment of the Officers & Men of our great & generous Ally & make report thereof accordingly — Col Dyer informs us that in Consequence of this Appointment a Letter was forwarded by the Governor of Connecticut to the Governor of Rhode Island inclosing Letters to your State & to this giving them Information of this Business & inviting us to join in the Measure as the Letter to us is not received he concludes that by some Accident the Dispatches must have failed reaching Rhode Island — the Council of this State have appointed Commissioners for the Purposes aforesaid deeming the Subject to be of great & pressing Necessity & they with Col Dyer have agreed to meet again on Wednesday the Second of August next at four oClock in the afternoon, we earnestly wish your Council of safety or supreme Executive (if your Legislative Body are not convened) would appoint Commissioners to meet at that Time for the same End & that they would endeavour punctually to attend as the Business ought not to be delayed —

In the name & behalf of the Council

To meet the delegates from Massachusetts and Connecticut the committee of safety of New Hampshire appointed John Langdon; and the general assembly of Rhode Island, appointed William Bradford, who, however, failed to appear. Before the convention met Governor Trumbull appointed Jesse Root,* in the place of Col. Dyer. The commissions of all the delegates agreed, as to the purpose of the convention, substantially, with the order appointing the Massachusetts delegates.

The convention met on the third of August, and after choosing Thomas Cushing president, and Henry Alline, clerk, it sat from day to day until the 9th, when fourteen resolves were agreed upon, the fifth of which appears in the note to chapter 4, ante. Of the rest of these resolves, three were as follows: —

"6. It is Considered to be of great importance that the Old Continental Bills should be Sunk agreable to the Resolution of Congress in order to Support the Public Credit; and that all the States should adopt effectual measures for that purpose —

Therefore Resolved to Recommend to our respective States to Sink the Quota of said Bills Assigned them, by Taxation as far as possible; and in case the whole cannot be Sunk within the time limited, by that means, that the States employ such other effectual measures for the purpose as shall be most agreable to them. —

That each State immediately inform Congress of the measures they have taken: which were adopted in full Confidence and Expectation of the other States complying with the Resolution of Congress which will be rendered extensively beneficial, only by the Cooperation of all, and may be totally defeated by the Failure of any.

7th Resolved, to Recommend to each of these States as a necessary means to Support the credit of the new Bills; immediately to Establish Funds for Sinking annually at least, One Sixth part of the Bills they shall emit pursuant to the Resolution of Congress and that the Tax for raising a Fund for the first year be paid in Silver and Gold or the produce of the Country — The other five years to be paid in Silver & Gold or the Specific Bills, not to be reissued — that the Credit of the paper Bills may rest upon the Funds provided for their redemption, As in our opinion, Every Attempt to Support their credit by forcing them into circulation tends to defeat the purpose, and to depreciate them. —

8th Resolved, to Recommend to the States aforesaid, not to Emit any more Bills on their own particular credit — and in no case to have in circulation, at any one time, of both State & new Continental Bills more than the Quantity Assigned them by the Resolution of Congress." — Ibid., vol. 144, p. 143.

In accordance with the final resolve, "the proceedings of this convention" were sent to the states of Rhode Island and New York,* with a letter from the president, desiring their concurrence in the measures agreed upon, "if they approve thereof."

The Assembly convened in a second session, on the 7th of September, and the Council, in their opening message, submitted to the House the report of the convention, earnestly recommending the subject-matter thereof to their consideration, and expressing the hope that no time would be lost in adopting the measures therein proposed, if approved by the House.

On the 12th, some of the resolutions of the convention relating to Massachusetts soldiers belonging to the army, and to the articles of confederation then pending in Congress, were referred to committees. The matter of the currency, however, had already been taken up on the second day of the session, when a committee, consisting of John Pickering, junior, George Partridge and John Greenough, was appointed, "to consider the necessity and expediency of assessing the remainder of this state's quota of the Continental money." The report of this committee was probably not written, since no trace of such a report has been discovered; but on the same day, presumably in accordance with the recommendation of this committee, another committee, consisting of Ezra Sargeant, Thomas Crane, and Jonathan Brown of Watertown, was appointed, "to bring in a tax act for assessing the remainder of this state's quota of the Continental money."

Before this committee had reported, the following resolves of Congress, passed sixteen days after the date of the report of the delegates to the Boston convention, were transmitted to the president of the Council, together with a circular letter, dated, at Philadelphia, Sept. 2, 1780, by Samuel Huntington, president of Congress: —

"Resolved, That it be earnestly recommended to the several states, to take the most speedy and effectual measures in their power for drawing in their respective quotas of the continental bills of credit, to be destroyed, either by a tax to be collected immediately or by exchanging for them new bills to be emitted pursuant to the act of the 18th of March last, at a rate not less than forty of the former for one of the latter, so that the whole of the said new bills may be issued:

That it be recommended to the several states, to raise by taxes, payable in the bills emitted pursuant to the act aforeaid, or in specie, their respective quotas of three millions of dollars, agreeable to the apportionment of October 7th, 1779, and pay the same into the treasury of the United States as soon as possible, the payment to be fully compleated by the last day of December next, each state to be allowed interest for the same, from the time it is paid, to be hereafter adjusted, according to a resolution of October 6th, 1779:

That major general Greene, late quartermaster general, and Jeremiah Wadsworth, late commissary general of purchases, and the present commissary general of purchases, respectively, render an account to the board of treasury, of the amount of the monies due from them, on certificates or otherwise, on public account, specifying the sum due in each state, in order that warrants may issue in their favour on the treasurers of such states, for payment of the same, out of the monies to be collected for the United States as aforesaid, which warrants being paid, shall be accepted by the treasurer, toward such state's quota of the monies to be raised as aforesaid; and it is further recommended to such states, to provide, that the certificates of the said quartermaster and commissaries, and those who purchased under them, be received in payment of the said taxes, to the amount of such warrants, under proper regulations, for preventing fraud.

And to prevent the possibility of any depreciation in the bills to be emitted agreeably to the act of the 18th of March aforesaid, that it be most earnestly recommended to the several states, not to issue bills of credit for a currency on any consideration whatever, to a greater amount than their respective quotas of the new bills stated in the act aforesaid; and that the bills of credit emitted by any of the states since the first day of January last, and redeemable in specie at par, be considered as part of the proportion of the money reserved by the said act of the 18th of March, to the use of the state." — Journals of Congress: Aug. 26, 1780.

The letter was, mainly, a recapitulation of the substance of the accompanying resolves; and both the letter and resolves, with other letters and papers from the same source, were promptly sent down to the House, Sept. 13, 1780.

A joint committee consisting of George Partridge, Moses Little and Samuel Ward, of the House, and Nathan Cushing and Stephen Choate, of the Council, was appointed, to take these papers "into consideration, and report what is proper to be done thereon." On the 16th, this committee reported in Council: —

"That agreeable to a Recommendation of Congress of the 26th August last, a Tax of £138,000 be levied on the Poles & Estates within this State to be paid into the Treasury of this State, on or before the last Day of December next, in the New Bills of the United States emitted pursuant to an Act of Congress of the 18th of March last, or in Specie — And that the Certificates of the Quarter Master General & Commissary General or those who purchase under them be received in payment of said Tax — And that a Bill be brought in for the purposes aforesaid."†

On the 21st, the bill of this chapter was read a first time in the House, and on the 25th it was read a second time, and committed to Dwight Foster, Azor Orne and Jonathan Glover, who, on the next day, reported an amendment, which was agreed to, and the 27th was assigned for the third reading of the bill. The bill was read a third time, on the day appointed, and passed to be engrossed, and was sent up to the Council, for concurrence. In the Council it was read a first time, on the 27th, and a second time, on the 29th, when it was passed, in concurrence, to be engrossed. On the 30th, it was passed to be enacted, by both branches, and was signed by fifteen of the Council.

* The copy sent to George Clinton, governor of New York, was printed in 1867, with an introduction and notes by Franklin B. Hough. The copy reported to the Council of Massachusetts, is in Mass. Archives, vol. 144, pp. 137 to 147, inclusive. † House Journal.

The loss of the original bill, leaves no known record by which it is possible to determine the nature of the amendments above mentioned, or to discover the interlocutory details such as usually attend the passage of all bills, but which, though frequently important, were, according to practice, minuted only upon the bill.

Abatements of the tax laid by this chapter were made in sundry instances, the chief of which are given below.

A particular account of the "address and petition" from the town of Hancock, upon which the resolve of June 21, 1780 was passed abating one-third of the taxes set on that town to that date, since the last valuation, is given in the note to 1779-80, chapter 49, p. 1388, ante. Another petition was presented in the second session, by Samuel Hand, in behalf of the inhabitants of that town, expressing their disappointment that the resolve of the previous session did not extend to all taxes laid or to be laid according to the last valuation, and praying the General Assembly "further to explain the design of said resolve, and extend the abatement to all taxes that shall be made upon the town by that valuation." On the day upon which this petition was read in the House, the following resolve * was passed: —

"State of Massa Bay In the House of Representatives Octr 4th 1780

On the petition of Samuel Hand in Behalf of the Inhabitants of the Town of Hancock

Resolved That one third part of all the Taxes that have been or may be levied on said Town according to the last Valuation be abated for Reasons set forth in said Petition and the Treasurer of this State is hereby directed to credit said Town of Hancock accordingly —

The towns in the county of Lincoln had been empowered, by the resolve of May 5, 1780, to abate £15,000 of the sum set upon that county in the tax acts since Sept. 1, 1779, and to apportion this abatement among the towns in such manner as they, by their agents, in convention, should deem equitable. This is shown in the note to 1779-80, chapter 49, p. 1386, ante, where also is given the resolve of Sept. 12, 1780, for abating the tax on the plantation of Lewiston, in that county.

In the note to chapter 30 of the same year, p. 1311, ante, reference is made to the note to the present chapter, as showing the relief incidentally granted to the inhabitants of Camden, who had contributed to the taxes laid upon the adjoining town of Thomaston. The resolve given below, which was passed in answer to the following petition, made sufficient allowance to the inhabitants of the town of Thomaston, to enable them to satisfactorily ease the burden of their impoverished neighbors: —

"To the Honble the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Massachusetts October 1780

The Petition of the Subscribers Inhabitants of the Town of Thomaston in the County of Lincoln, Humbly sheweth

That your Petitioners loth to complain, loth to ask Relief, have endeavoured with Patience to bear the Burden (and as we apprehend much more than our Proportion all Circumstances considered) of the common Calamity of the War, in hope that through the good Hand of Providence in Time we might obtain Relief; but pressing Necessity now urgeth, and our Duty to your Honors, and ourselves urgeth that we make known the true State of our Circumstances and our Wants: Being one of the most eastern incorporated Towns in the Commonwealth

Our Circumstances are these, to wit, Our Settlements in general new, much younger than those in Camden (who have already had Supplies from the General Court) or the Settlements further east; there being but three Farms in the whole Town that have been settled above eighteen years, and but six others that have been settled above seven years; consequently our Improvements and Cultivations on the Land are but small

We have paid large Sums of Money in hiring men to compleat the Draughts that have been made from us for the Army (which has drain'd us of Money) and these together with those that have voluntarily inlisted themselves, has so drained us of men that we have now not more than one to a Family left (a few Boys excepted)

We are also constantly harrased by the Garrison & Squadron of the Enemy posted at Majorbagaduce, we are obliged to be ever on the watch, often under Arms, and run on every Alarm, which takes up great part of our Time; and our Sea Coasts without any material Protection, are constantly exposed to their Cruisers, who capture many of our small Craft sent out a fishing, and oblige others to fly to the Land for Safety, cuts very short our Supplies from that Quarter. And lastly, to add no more,

We are taxed by the Honble the General Court much more than we are able to pay, and as we humbly apprehend (through the Honble Members not being acquainted with our Circumstances) much higher (if not altogether more) than our Proportion compared with the other Towns in the State, all Circumstances considered.

Our Wants are the Necessaries of Life, and the means of procuring them: Our Dependance for Supplies having been on our Lumber, Wood, Lime &c. which we shipped off, and procured Necessaries from Boston and the other Maritime Towns; the Scarsity and high Price of those Necessaries now being so great, and the Navigation so dangerous, that the Returns we procure, together with all we can possibly raise upon the Land, are scarse sufficient to support our indigent and growing Families; add to this the Losses already sustained in our fishing Craft, and in other Vessels loaded with Lumber &c. having been taken by the Enemy.

And now our Case being thus, we see no Way that we can pay the heavy Taxes laid upon us; and fear, unless we can obtain some Relief, many of us will be obliged to leave our Habitations (as some have already done) and seek Relief some where else, and this now growing Town, which with a little Indulgance may in time become a considerable Addition to the Commonwealth, will become dissolate, & our Improvements waste.

* Printed resolves of the September session, chapter CXLII.

We also understand that there has been a considerable Sum abated of the Taxes laid on the other Towns in this County, but we had no Advantage therefrom.

Wherefore your Petitioners humbly pray your Honours to take our Case under your wise, just and indulgent Consideration, & grant us an Abatement of the whole or such Part of the Taxes laid upon us as your Honours in your know Wisdom and Justice shall find proper and reasonable. And as in duty bound shall ever pray &c.

The foregoing petition was read in the House, Nov. 2d, 1780, and referred to a committee, upon whose report, five days later, the following resolve * was passed: —

The town of Washington, which had been allowed an abatement of one-third of the taxes laid upon it to June 14, 1780, by the resolve of that date†, again applied to the Legislature, for further abatement; whereupon the subject was committed to Jahleel Woodbridge, of the Senate, and Benjamin Bonney and John‡ Bacon, of the House, to take this overtax into consideration, "and to report what may be proper to be done thereon." The following proceeding ensued: —

"The Committee of Both Houses appointed to Consider the over Tax of the Town of Washington have attended that Service and beg leave to Report the following Resolve —

Commonwealth of Massachusetts In Senate November 23rd 1780

§ Whereas it appears by a Resolve of the General Court of this State of June 14th 1780 That the Town of Washington in the Last Valuation was Doomed a much Larger Sum than was their Just proportion of Said Valuation. and whereas it further appears that by said Resolve the Treasurer of this Commonwealth was Directed to Cridit the said Town of Washington a sum Equal to one Third part of the Taxes Set upon sd Town from the Last Valuation to the said 14th Day of June, and whereas it appears that the same Disproportion Still Continues to opperate

Therefore Resolved that the Treasurer of this Commonwealth be and he is hereby Directed to Cridit the Town of Washington a Sum Equal to the Amount of one Third part of all the Taxes Set upon the said Town of Washington Since the 14th Day of June Last —
